When the price of cheese advances past a certain figure a large part of the public ceases to buy it. The public might say to us, just as sensibly, if you will agree not to charge more than eleven and a half cents a pound for cheese we will buy all that you make. Just as we are unable to control the condition of our pastures or the milk production of our cows and, therefore, the cost of producing milk, so the pork packers are unable to control the consumption of bacon or the prices that they can pay for hogs.

In the discussion of this subject, while we must protect our own interests, we must at least be fair to the packers. Apparently all we can do is to take the prices paid for hogs over a period of years and then decide whether or not hogs can be raised most years at a profit. If we find that they cannot, then we had better get out of the hog business and let the Danes have the field. If we decide that hog raising is profitable we are not going to advance ourselves by finding fault with the packers for not doing what the conditions of business prevent their doing. One thing seems certain. The Danes are satisfied that they can raise hogs at a profit if we

THE VALUE OF THE POTATO CROP IN ONTARIO

From Farm and Dairy.

Few realize the value of the potato crop in Ontario. According to Prof. C. A. Zavits, of the Ontario Agricultural College, the estimated value of the potato crop for Ontario the past year is $12,000,000. From what we hear of the indifferent quality of Ontario potatoes and the praise which is always handed out to this crop as grown in the Maritime provinces, we would conclude that Ontario potatoes count for little in our markets.

Why is it that Ontario potatoes have been side-tracked, so to speak, while those of the Maritime provinces are so widely advertised as being more desirable? A census by counties, taken by Professor Zavits, through the experimenters connected with the Experimental Union, of the leading varieties grown in different parts of Ontario, brought out the startling fact that 90 different varieties were considered the best and, therefore, were grown extensively in their respective districts.

This fact gives us the key to the potato situation in Ontario. If 90 different varieties are grown extensively over Ontario, we cannot hope to put potatoes of a uniform grade on the market in train-loads or even in car-lots. Farmers down by the sea have recognised the importance of all growing the same varieties. In this way, they are enabled to fill large orders and have them uniform throughout. The lesson for Ontario farmers is obvious. We must focus our attention on a few of the best and grow them only.

NEW STRENGTH FOR WEAK GIRLS

Can be Had Through the Rich, Red Blood Made by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

There comes a time in the life of almost every girl when sickness attacks her. The strain upon her blood supply is too great, and there comes headaches and backaches, loss of appetite, attacks of dizziness and heart palpitation, and a general tendency to a decline. The only thing that can promptly and speedily cure these troubles is Dr. Williams Pink Pills. This is the only medicine that actually makes new, rich red blood, and a plentiful supply of rich blood is the one thing needed to maintain the health of growing girls and women of mature years. The truth of this statement is proved in the case of Miss Esther E. Sproule, Trueman-ville, N.S., who says: "At the age of sixteen years I left my country home to attend high school. The close confinement and long hours of study nearly broke me down. My blood supply seemed to be deficient and I grew pale and depressed. I was dizzy nearly all the time and pimples broke out on my face. I was altogether in a miserable condition and it seemed impossible for me to continue my studies unless I found a speedy cure. I tried several tonics prescribed by the doctor, but they proved useless. My mother urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I finally consented to do so. I had hardly finished the second box before a change for the better took place and the use of a few more boxes fully restored my health, and I have since been well and strong. I feel that I cannot say too much in favour of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I strongly recommend them to other ailing girls."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HOW ST. PETER'S T.A.S. HAS PROSPERED SINCE INCEPTION

A Brief Reference to the Great Work it Has Accomplished—Many Happier Homes as a Result of the Disappearance of Drink Habit—Splendid Club Rooms, Strong Bank Account and Success Stamped on Every Department.

REV. DR. O'BRIEN HAS BEEN MOST UNTIRING IN HIS GUIDANCE

Nine years ago last night the seed of total abstinence from intoxicating liquors was implanted among one section of the people of Peterborough. After three times three years existence the society founded upon this principle finds itself pleased with its strength and unfettered grow h, and points proudly not only to the material and moral good it engendered and fostered in itself, but to another seed which has found lodgement in good soil in Ennismore, and is enjoying splendid showing. It is also known that the seed has been cast in several other communities where before many seasons have flitted by, it should sprout and begin to grow, nourished by the Divine Grace in the excellent work that is being done.

St. Peter's T. A. S. was founded on January 8th, 1900. Prior to that the Catholic Literary Society had been endeavouring to advance the educational interests of the young people of St. Peter's. Rev. Father Frank O Sullivan was anxious to have the Catholic Literary Association take up the cause of temperance. Sermons were delivered and the agitation was maintained until the time for action was almost ripe.

A beautiful address on temperance by Rev. Father Murphy, a former Peterborough young man, is still remembered by the large congregation who heard it one Sunday night at St. Peter's Cathedral. This was the final effort made before the organization of the society which followed on the eighth of January, a few nights after Father Murphy's impressive address.

It is scarcely necessary to go into detail regarding the life of the St. Peter's T. A. S. The city of Peterborough is well acquainted with the progress it has made. Between four and fifty men pledged themselves to total abstinence at the inaugural meeting. Last Sunday there were nearly 700 members in a body at the Cathedral to receive Holy Communion, and this is by no means the complete membership.

Rev. Father Frank O'Sullivan was the first spiritual adviser and was succeeded after a year or more by Rev. Dr. O'Brien. There is not a member of the T.A.S. who, if asked whom or what the society's success depended upon but would not immediately point to Dr. O'Brien. To-day with an excellent staff of officers and trustees to assist him the society's bark is running along cheerily through calm waters. There was a time when the little vessel was storm tossed, weakened from within and without. It was Dr. O'Brien's realization of the greatness of the work he had undertaken his trust in God's grace, his own prayers and labours assisted by a few staunch members which kept the sails before the wind and held the rudder firm until the danger zone was safely passed.

He is intimately acquainted with every member. He knows individual trials and struggles and it is his fatherly advice and guidance which has endeared him to every member and has indirectly strengthened the society.

The good done by St. Peter's T. A. S. is realized by everyone. Better and happier homes, sober fathers and sons, in fact, the material benefits are unlimited. The spiritual life of the members is also well looked after. There are no narrow boundaries to the society's efforts. Every provision has been made for the intellectual, physical, social, musical and dramatic abilities of the members.

The rooms are now in excellent condition, are homelike, cheery and appealing. Everything points to continued success and growth. The old feeling that it "would soon fall through" has been laughed to scorn and not a man is now found to utter that sentiment. The society enjoys the good will of every temperance worker in the city and the universal prayer is that St. Peter's T. A. S. will prosper and increase the potentialities it now enjoys.

GUN DRAWN IN FIGHT WAS BUT A CAP SHOOTER

Last Monday at the Burleigh Falls Hotel, during a heated altercation which might have come to blows, Thomas Windsor drew a revolver, and, it is alleged, threatened to shoot John McFarlane. As the result of an information that was laid, High Constable Cochrane, accompanied by Constable Moore, went out to Burleigh yesterday and arrested Mr. Windsor.

When Mr. Cochrane took possession of the gun which, it is claimed, was drawn, to his surprise he found it a toy pistol which shoots caps. While it was utterly useless to hurt anyone it was successful in preventing serious trouble. The case will be heard in the county court.

REV. MR. MANNING A REPRESENTATIVE AT THE FUNERAL

Rev. H. M. Manning, formerly member of the Official Board of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, and chairman of the Peterborough district, was appointed to represent Charlotte Street Church at the funeral of Rev. D. O. Crossley, of Whitby. A resolution of condolence was sent from the Board to Mrs. Crossley and the bereaved family, and a handsome wreath has also been sent. The memorial service will be held on Sunday and the funeral on Monday. Rev. Mr. Crossley was at one time pastor of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church.

"CHARLIE" HAS TWO WIVES AND LAW CANNOT ADD TO HIS PUNISHMENT

His Endeavours to Even Up With Alexander Dowie Have So Far Been a Success—He Was Discharged This Morning on Two Charges—Must Stay Away From Second Wife.

MAGISTRATE DUMBLE'S JUDGMENT EXPLAINS THE CASE FULLY

Charles Ratchford was charged with having two wives a few days ago, and the law undertook to punish him for his breach of the criminal code, but Charles escaped "Scot" free. He may have foreseen such a predicament and if such were the case the provision he made could scarcely have been improved upon.

Charles was married twice. There is no doubt about that. But he seems to have got the "worst" part of each match. When he accepted the two women for "better or for worse," he probably thought he would be one of the few lucky men who got the "better." His second fall is inexcusable, for he should have profitted by the first experience.

DISCHARGED

When Charles faced Magistrate Dumble this morning, there were two charges against him, viz: one of having assaulted his second wife, and the other of being a bigamist. He evaded the law on the latter charge through a technicality, and was discharged on the former. However he was warned not to return to his second wife, and now although Charles started to build two homes, he can call neither of them his at least the aspect from his standpoint is not a bright one.

THE JUDGMENT

The judgment given by Magistrate Dumble in the bigamy charge was as follows:—

The prisoner being charged with having committed bigamy, elected summary trial and pleaded guilty. The first marriage took place in Canada, the second in England.

Sec. 307 of the Criminal Code, sub-sec. 4 says:—

"No person shall be convicted of bigamy in respect of having gone through a form of marriage in a place not in Canada, unless such person, being a British subject resident in Canada, leaves Canada with intent to go through such form of marriage."

The information herein does not allege that the prisoner is a British subject resident in Canada, nor that he left Canada with intent to go through a form of marriage.

The prisoner pleaded guilty to the charge as it is laid and it discloses no offence.

If the information was amended it would be of no avail, for the offence was committed in England, and the case Regina vs. Plowman, 250 R 68 following McLeod vs. Attorney-General for New South Wales (1891) A. C. 455, holds that Sec. 307, Sub-Sec. 4 of the Criminal Code is ultra vires of the Dominion Parliament.

The prisoner is discharged.

(Sgd.) D. W. DUMBLE
Police Magistrate.

RED TAPE IS BLAMED FOR MANY DEATHS

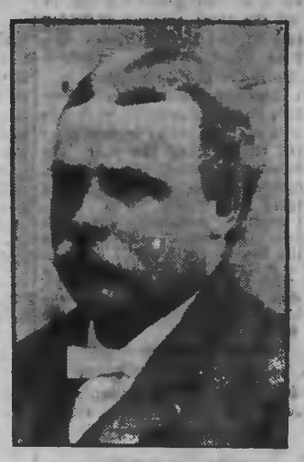
The Charges Are To Be Officially Made In a Very Short Time.

IT HAS CAUSED MUCH DELAY

Examiner Special.

Rome, Jan. 9.—The Red Tape of the Italian bureaucracy was responsible for thousands of deaths in the quake devastated towns according to the charges now being made against the Government. It developed to-day that these charges would have been officially made at the opening session of Parliament yesterday, but the leaders were persuaded to postpone the attack until the public temper becomes slightly calmer. The delay in getting government aid to the stricken towns was due, the opponents of the government say, to the cumbersome Red Tape which the Premier has wound around the different departments.

PETERBOROUGH CASES BEFORE COMMISSIONERS



MR. NICHOLAS BISBY,

Two Applications Will Come Up Before the Railway Board On Tuesday Next.

A NEW G. T. R. SPUR LINE

Examiner Special

Ottawa, Jan. 9—Of 47 cases to come up here before the Board of Railway Commissioners on Tuesday, at least two concern Peterborough.

One is an application of the G. T. R. for permission to operate a branch line or spur from a point on the applicant company's railway on Bethune street, Peterborough. The streets they are to cross, Dalhousie, Bethune Wolfe streets, etc., are mentioned.

The other is regarding a previously dealt with case. To consider the revision of order number 5132 and has been referred to. Important application touch on better protection at wooden treacle, and others are asking for improvements regarding carrying grain and coal.

FIRST MEETING OF 1909 COUNCIL MONDAY NIGHT

The inaugural meeting of the City Council will be held on Monday morning, when the members will be sworn in. It is likely that there will be the customary meeting on Monday night. The principal business that will come up on Monday is the selection of the chairmen and the personnel of the different standing committees. There is much speculation over the chairmanships of the committees, especially over that of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

GRATEFUL TO THE PUBLIC FOR THEIR SUPPORT

The directors of the Peterborough Poultry Show wish to thank the public generally for the patronage and the encouragement they gave the most successful show held. The attendance was most encouraging to the directors and was a material factor in the success of the event.

Any persons who have accounts against the association are asked to send them in as soon as possible to the secretary, Mr. C. J. Hicks, Romaine street.

The complete list of prize winners will be published on Monday, lack of space preventing its publication in to-day's issue.

A Sermon On "Slang" Given By Evangelist Billy Lundy

The following sermon in slang dialect, unfortunately too familiar to many of our people to require translation, was delivered with appropriate gestures by Billy Sunday, the evangelist, at his revival meeting in Spokane—of course, in the United States!

"And so David's pa comes up to him where he was working in the field and says: 'Dave, better go up to the house, your ma's anxious about the other boys fighting in the army, hasn't heard from them by 'phone or anything, and she'd like you should go look them up. So Dave hops on a trolley and hikes to the front and stays there with his brothers over night.

"In the morning old Goliah comes out in front of the Philistines and dares the Israelites to fight him. 'Who's that big stiff making all the big talk out there?' asks Dave.

"'Why, that's the headcheese, the big noise,' said his brothers.

"'Why don't someone soak him one?' asks Dave.

"'We've all got cold feet,' says the Israelite.

"'You fellows make me tired,' says Dave, and he pikes out to the brook, gets four pebbles in his shepherd's sack, slams one at Goliah and soaks him in the coco between the lamps. Goliah goes to the mat, takes the count, and Dave pokes him in the slats, chops off his block and the whole Philistine gang skidooed."

Week Of Prayer Services Was Brought To A Close Last Night

The closing meeting of the Week of Prayer series was held last night in St. Paul's church, and was a great success in point of numbers and interest. The auditorium was well filled, the singing was most hearty, and the prayers were fervent and helpful. The Rev. Dr. E. A. Langfeldt, M.A., presided, and conducted devotional exercises. Miss Helen Davies rendered very effectively, "I'm a Pilgrim."

The address of the Rev. Mr. Henderson, pastor of Charlotte street Methodist church, was eloquent and inspiring. The subject of the evening was "The Supremacy of Christ—its results."

The speaker based his remarks on Phil. 25, "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." The work of Christ was referred to in various ways. He was regarded as Teacher, Saviour, Lord, King, Judge, but here He is spoken of as our Pattern.

We can scarcely appreciate the full meaning of this. Christ was Divine. His name was Immanuel—God with us; yet His was also an intensely human life. In our sphere we are to imitate Him. Spiritualizing the old legend regarding His resurrection wherever He has gone flowers have sprung up.

We are Christ's representatives, and what He was so are we to be. He seems to say to us "Remove the obstacles. He is the light—open the shutters—draw back the curtains, that darkness and sin may be dispelled. He is like the ocean. If you remove the barriers it will overflow, so let the barriers of the heart be removed—the body made clean and Christ shall fill your life.

Jesus Christ was the peer of Jehovah, yet He made use of His equality with God for the work of man. He thought it not robbery to be equal with God, yet made Himself of no reputation, and took upon Him the form of a servant.

He was sovereign, yet became servant of all.

He was born in poverty, yet had been equal with God. "The word was with God, and the word was God." He divested Himself of all His glory that He might share the care and burden of humanity. It was "for our sakes" He became poor. We must behold the great unselfish life of Christ.

Do we imitate Him? Do we not find selfishness substituted for love, and gratification instead of helping a brother man. The Christian life means first of all Dethronement of self and then entering upon the service of Christ for man.

The first form of the descent of Christ was His incarnation, the second was His obedience unto death with all its ignominy and disgrace. To us the cross is the badge of what is Christian. In Christ's day it was the sign of shame. "Cursed is everyone that hangeth on a tree."

The Christian must in like manner prove his discipleship by self-sacrifice. Mr. Henderson referred to three or four most suitable instances of heroic Christian service. In one case two Moravian missionaries selling themselves into slavery that they might save the slaves.

In another the missionary and his wife giving themselves to the work among the lepers and there spending their lives in order that these lepers might be saved.

But exaltation is the result—the sequence of humiliation. "Wherefore God also hath highly exalted Him and given Him a name which is above every name." The cross first and then the crown is as universal as the law of gravitation. He that humbleth himself shall be exalted, and the life of Jesus Christ repeats itself in those who follow Him.

Does Not Know That One Son Is Dead And The Other His Murderer

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, Jan. 9.—It is said that on her way to Montreal, unaware that one of her sons, Joseph, is dead and buried, and that the other, Salem, who shot and killed him, is in a Montreal hospital, is Mrs. Assaly, of Syria. Some time ago her son Joseph at Hawkesbury asked his old mother from Syria, to come to this country to visit him and share the wealth that he had. A letter from Hawkesbury tells the pathetic story. The mother, without an inkling of the tragedy, is on her way to Montreal and will probably land there from an ocean liner within the week. She will find Salem in one hospital and his cousin, Mrs. J. Buteras, who was shot in the head and badly hurt, in another.

Toronto Police Unearth What They Believe To Be Another Swindle

Toronto Jan. 8.—In the arrest of Roy W Dunham, of 19 Hepburn street, at one o'clock this afternoon on a general charge of vagrancy, the police are of the opinion that they have nipped in the bud what looks very much like a scheme to defraud girls out of sums of money.

Complaints reached the detective department this morning from several young ladies, concerning an advertisement that appeared in one of the local newspapers yesterday evening. The advertisement was as follows:

"WANTED—Stenographers, three, experienced, for large manufacturing concern just opening up in Toronto, about February 1st. salaries $8 to $16, must be well recommended, and must make a deposit of $5, which will be returned with first week's wages."

The part that the letters received by the detective department complained of was the part referring to the deposit of five dollars.

At one o'clock to-day Detective Twigg arrested Dunham as he was getting his replies from the newspaper office. They were thirty-five in number, and were unopened owing to the timely arrival of the detective. Dunham was taken to police headquarters.

Although the prospective head of a large manufacturing concern, Dunham seemed to be in a very precarious condition financially, having only a few cents in his pockets and a watch chain which was pinned to his vest in such a way as to make it appear as if he was the possessor of a watch.

The mail was all addressed to the General Delivery.

Leader Of Opposition States Position On Women's Suffrage

Ottawa, Jan. 9.—Mr. R. L. Borden, leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons, has sent a reply to the members of the Ottawa Women's Suffrage Association, who asked him how he stood on the question of allowing women to vote. Like others who have replied, he intimates that the ladies are doubtless aware this matter rests with the Provincial Government. He says he desires information on several matters, and asks six questions. One is as to what the results have been in the countries where women's suffrage has been tried; the second, as to what extent it has been tried in political activity; and the others pertain to enquiries as to how it has affected moral and political conditions.

The letter will be read and probably discussed at the next meeting of the Executive of the Association.

Mr. J. J. Kelso Advocates Free Slides And Large Skating Rinks

"The Parks' Department of every northern city ought to provide numerous free skating rinks and toboggan slides for youthful citizens," writes J. J. Kelso, of Toronto. "The cost is not great, and untold health and pleasure can be given to thousands of young people. Everything in the form of outdoor exercise should be encouraged and there should be no charge made. Poor children are often denied the opportunity for rational enjoyment because they cannot pay the ten cents admission fee to the ordinary rinks. Then there should be some effort made to counteract the unnatural excitement of the five cent show, to which young people throng because they have no better amusement. Nature provides all the facilities for good sport of the right sort. A corner of a public park set apart with a man to flood it and sweep off the snow, and there you have a fully equipped rink for hundreds of children. A toboggan slide can be constructed by a carpenter in half a day if there is no hill to turn into a runway for the sleds. Winter sports have been neglected in the past by the great majority of the children, and yet there is no time of the year when the body so much needs and appreciates vigorous outdoor exercise. Therefore a wise municipal government should recognize its responsibility for the happiness and well being of its children.

"In Toronto we now have twelve free skating rinks provided and operated by the Parks Department. This is in addition to several slides that have been established on the hills. Several thousand young people enjoy these good things, and the move has been so popular with all classes that the Parks' Commissioner is now planning to establish twelve more of these rinks. To place a man in charge and defray other expenses costs $5 a day for each rink, and so far this cost has been cheerfully met by the City Government.

"Let all other municipalities do likewise, and they will take the chill off the winter and save medical bills in many poor homes."

REV FATHER F. O'SULLIVAN,
At Present of Port Hope, one of the Founders of St. Peter's T.A.S.

RUNAWAY ON WATER ST. WAS QUITE EXCITING

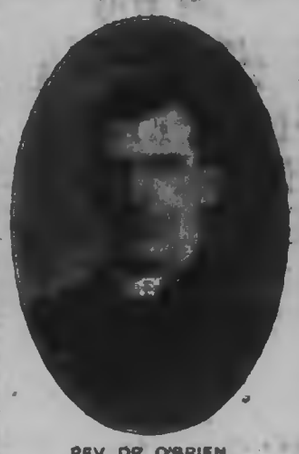
Mr. Michael Crowley of Cronabee, had a rather unpleasant experience this morning while unloading hay at Mr. Gibbs' livery stable. Mr. Crowley drove to the back of the barn and in preparing to unload, threw the lines onto the horses back, they immediately started off, upsetting the load of hay, leaving Mr. Crowley underneath. It was at first thought that Mr. Crowley had left the city, but about 15 minutes later his head appeared from under the load, and the expression on his face was anything but lovely when he found that the horses had had no regard for his feelings, having taken the waggon to the Munro House where Mr. Crowley is in the habit of staying when in town. After he had been extricated from his perilous position, the horses were brought back and the hay had to be pitched onto the waggon and then into the mow. No damage was done to the waggon or the horses.

SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENT OF ST. JOHN'S SUNDAY SCHOOL

The annual Christmas Entertainment in connection with St. Johns Sunday School was perhaps the best of all. The behaviour of the children was very favourably commented upon and the programme was of an original and especially entertaining character. The platform had been provided with scenery seasonably decorated, and every number of the programme was given in costume.

Every effort had been made to render the occasion a success and no small share of credit for the smoothness of this and the excellence of the programme is due to the personal energy and activity of Mr. R. J. Devey, superintendent of the school. The parents and friends of the pupils had largely accepted an invitation to be present and were very greatly pleased with the success of the occasion and the really excellent entertainment provided. At its conclusion refreshments were tastefully and plentifully served. The theatrical effects were provided by Mr. Cotton, and Coleman Bros. were the caterers.

The rector and church wardens were among those present and the former in a few remarks gave great credit for the entertainment and the success the Sunday school is now enjoying to Mr. Devey, the superintendent.



REV. DR. O'BRIEN,
Whose Ambition as Spiritual Adviser of St. Peter's T.A.S. to make it a success is being realized.

THE GROWING WEST.

The growth of Western Canada is evidenced by the activity of railway building, to serve the wants created by conditions. The Canadian Pacific Railway proposes to expend $30,000,000 upon extensions and improvements in the Canadian West this year. The Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk Pacific will spend correspondingly large amounts. These extensions and new lines would not be built if there were not a demand and traffic for them. And yet we have simple souls in Peterborough who oppose the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific. The wheat crop of the west last year was worth one hundred and twenty-five million dollars. Those of us who live till 1919 will easily see this value doubled, and the railway mileage also multiplied by two. The promise should be gratifying to us of the east. The west cannot grow without correspondingly benefitting the eastern part of Canada. Let us be as big as our country in our ideas of its development.

The number of immigrants coming into Canada in the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1908, was 262,469.

POSTAL ADMINISTRATION.

Since 1896 Canada has been fortunate in having for Postmasters-General, men of sound administrative ideas, men of courage and of progressive spirit, the present incumbent of the office being, now and of late, under especially conspicuous favourable attention. It is no wonder that, under such heads the administration of the Dominion Postal Department has been a brilliant success, and a perusal of the report of the Postmaster-General, for the year ended March 31, 1908, sustains the traditions of efficient administration.

This report shows that, for the year under review, the total revenue to have been $9,483,166, and the total expenditure, $8,381,340, leaving a surplus of $1,101,826. This splendid financial result has not been attained at the expense of the service. There has been expansion in every direction. During the year the number of postoffices was increased by 446, of postal note offices by 546, of money order offices by 129, and of savings bank offices by 41, while 656 miles were added to the train mileage.

Within the past eight years the expenditures of the department, due to extension of services, increase of salaries, etc., have practically doubled. In the same period the number of letters carried has also doubled, are at present in Canada 11,823 post offices, and during the year mail matter passed through them as follows:

During the past eight years the revenue and expenditure of the department have practically doubled, as has also the work performed as represented by the number of letters carried. There are now 11,823 post offices in the country, and during the year mail matter was dispatched from these as follows:

Letters	396,011,000
Postcards	40,664,000
Registered letters	9,078,000
Free letters	13,207,000
Third class matter, pieces	76,496,000
Fourth class packages	6,178,000
Closed parcels for abroad	82,345

The increase in the number of letters carried was 31,916,000, which though large, was less than in any year since 1905—due doubtless to the financial stringency which set in at a usually busy season in the department.

Ontario, as usual, leads in the amount of postal business, as will be seen from the following statement of the number of letters posted:

Ontario	182,838,000
Quebec	77,857,000
Manitoba	33,923,000
British Columbia	29,524,000
Nova Scotia	24,075,000
New Brunswick	15,806,000
Saskatchewan	14,848,000
Alberta	13,540,000
Prince Edward Island	2,907,000
Yukon	693,000

Notable increases are shown in the number of money orders and postal notes issued. There are constant additions to the number of foreign countries with which exchanges are made. Direct or indirect exchange was established during the year with Argentina, Honduras and Costa Rica, besides some parts of Morocco, and it is expected that Russia and Roumania will shortly be brought in. The report shows that during the year 2,990,891 orders were issued for $49,974,007, payable in 37 countries besides Canada. In the same period, with the addition of the postal note issues, generally for fractional amounts, the postoffices remitted $55,284,000, or double the amount in 1902. Of the total amount $6,285,013 was sent to the United States, $5,293,743 to Great Britain, $2,460,270 to Italy, and $739,522 to Japan.

That the chartered banks are coming more into competition with the postoffice savings banks is shown by the fact that during the year the withdrawals exceeded the deposits, the figures being $13,610,865, and $12,293,544 respectively. The number of accounts remaining open was 165,691—a decrease of 1,594. These accounts had to their credit $47,564,284—an increase of $111,326 as compared with the amount on March 31, 1907—due to the addition to the amounts of interest accruing at the close of the year.

The production of all kinds of grain in Canada in 1908 amounted to about eight hundred million bushels.

STRAINING AT A GNAT.

The Toronto News with the zeal of perverts, political and other, enrages itself against all things Liberal, with or without warrant. It has for some time been hounding Mr. Charles Marcil, member elect for Bonaventure, who was Deputy Speaker of the last Parliament, and mentioned as Speaker prospective of the present Parliament. It denounces this gentleman as unfit for the position—his political purity is not up to the lofty standard of the News since it became the organ intrusive of the Conservative party—the party of stainless record. It accuses him of the high crime of claiming in an ante-election address, that he had in his representative capacity been instrumental in procuring public improvements for his riding. The News cannot look upon even the appearance of evil with the least degree of allowance. It's condemnation is retroactive—includes the claim of credit for past representative services, in the category of political corruption and makes the sense of favours past as illicit a form of gratitude as a sense of favours to come. The News even does not make it clear that, as was the case, the offending and criminal election address of Mr. Marcil was issued in the general election of 1904 and not that of 1908. The political statute of limitation has no place in its code of moral law. Political corruption, by a Grit though retroactively defined is an unpardonable sin. Looking at matters in this light the News could much more consistently condemn instead of ignoring as it does, the sins of its new-found ally, the Conservative party. If it has to go back four or five years to fix a constructive political sin upon Mr Marcil, in order to disqualify him as speaker, it would have to go back only slightly further to find real corruption practised by the Conservative party worthy of condemnation by an honest judge. If the object of the News is to purify politics by exposing and denouncing corruption, there are men in its own party and high in the journal's favour, who were intimately mixed with the Conservative corruption of past days. If Mr. Marcil's recital of past services to his constituency disqualifies him for the Speakership, should not Mr. Borden's promise to British Columbia — a bribe to buy a province in bulk—to increase the Dominion subsidy to that province, if given power, be enough to disqualify him as leader of the party of purity? According to the frivolous reasoning of the News, no public man seeking place at the hands of the electors can urge his ability and his will to serve his constituents, without committing a corrupt act. Speaking in Peterborough, Mr. Borden conceded the necessity of buildbuilding the Transcontinental Railway, and promised it returned to power to complete it. Wasn't that as much a corrupt inducement for support as Mr. Marcil's recital of the fact that he had successfully used his influence to procure a wharf or a public building for his county? Verily the News is fatiguing.

"Consistency" is a word sometimes not found in the lexicon of political newspaper writers. Irrelevant "slang-wanging" takes its place.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Toronto News regards the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway as a bribe. The News would evidently regard the leading of a decent life by a politician as a bribe, since it would tend to advance him in the favour of the electors.

At the municipal elections in Guelph the electors defeated by a majority of 680 a by-law to substitute voting by wards, from the system of a general vote in electing aldermen. The people of that city evidently have found that the general vote plan works satisfactorily. In Peterborough there are many who advocate a return to the ward system. Perhaps this action of Guelph will have some weight with them.

Canadian journalism or the moral taste of the public is improving, or, possibly, both, Canadian newspapers have righteously declined to make a sensation of the Hains murder trial in the United States. Some journals which converted their columns into sewers of sensational filth over the the Thaw trial, now dismiss the hardly less lurid details of the reigning newspaper sensation of mingled murder and immorality in the United States, with paragraphs of contemptuous brevity. They deserve credit for so much deference to the demands of journalistic decency and respectable public opinion.

MR. EARLE WRITES ON SPELLING REFORM

The prospective publication of a new series of school readers has brought into prominence the question of the spelling of certain words, and all sincere lovers of our noble language must be interested in preserving this great heritage from the vandalism of would-be reformers, who, partly from a mistaken sense of their own importance, partly for the sake of a little cheap notoriety, and, let us hope, in some degree, from a sincere desire for improvement, arrogate to themselves the position of orthoepical authorities. It ought not to be necessary to call the attention of Canadians to the facts that the English language is the language of the English people; that, before the United States had an existence, it had reached its present condition; that this country is, and is likely to remain, an important part of the great British Empire, and not of the United States; that, whatever may be said of Canadians, it is a misnomer to speak of the people of the United States as an Anglo-Saxon people; that the chief claim of the people to the south of us to be considered as Anglo-Saxon is that, perhaps, a majority of them speak a more or less, chiefly more, corrupted form of the English language; that Canadians have followed with remarkable fidelity, the form of government, laws, institutions and social customs of the English, and look upon themselves as subjects of the British Empire, while the people of the United States have separated themselves from their past history; that the English language and literature, while, in a general way, they belong to the world, particularly, belong to us; that, from the Mother Country, we have always received the kindest consideration, while, from the brutal treatment of the United Empire Loyalists down to the Boundary Award, the conduct of the United States towards this country has, to say the least, been unfair and ungenerous.

In the face of these facts, it is amazing that any Canadians should look to the United States for models of linguistic excellence.

I need not say that I am in entire sympathy with what I understand to be the intention of our educational authorities of following, in the matter of spelling, as in other matters, English, rather than American methods. My chief interest in the subject arises from a desire to be rid of the annoyance to which I am subjected when these languange-mongerers persist, as in the case of the Toronto "World," in putting their theories into practice. So long as they confine their improved methods to their own effusions, I do not seriously complain, since I can refrain from reading them without loss; but when they introduce their deformities into articles that I do wish to read, I think I can justly claim that I have a grievance. For years I enjoyed reading the "World"; but, now, were it not for Sam Hunter's cartoons, I would scarcely take it up, solely on account of its word-monstrosities. I am an old man, and perhaps, ultra-conservative in my tastes and habits; but I believe that many of my readers will sympathize with me in this.

Language is the result of man's organization and necessities, and has developed as the man developed. It has been, and will be, as long as it is spoken, subject to constant changes; but these changes have been, and will be, governed by well understood laws, have extended over immense tracts of time, and cannot be seriously affected by conventional arrangements. To make any radical changes is as feasible as to change the course of the Gulf Stream and freeze out the people of the British Isles.

All living languages will gradually approximate a phonetic system of spelling; but conventional and revolutionary changes are, impracticable and undesirable. It is not so much the actual changes in the spelling of certain words that I object to, but the way in which the changes are proposed to be brought about. A degree of permanence in language, as in almost every thing else worth having, is more desirable than present perfection; and, if a convention of teachers could change the English language to-day, they might change it again to-morrow. Besides, though the changes asked for now, may, by some, be considered trifling, these changes, if they should prove effective, which they would not, would lead to constant tinkering.

Depend upon it, changes in language take place in accordance with natural laws, and scholars, archbishops, presidents, kings and popes, are as powerless in effecting these changes as peasants, and less powerful than little children.

This running after every new fashion, whether it be in words or dress, is a sure indication of a vulgar mind, and I commend to my readers the following lines from Pope:—

"In words as fashions, the same rule will hold;
Alike fantastic, if too new or old;
Be not the first by whom the new are tried,
Nor yet the last to lay the old aside."

BARTON EARLE.

"Lingua Pura" Also Thrusts His Oar Into the Sea of Spelling Controversy.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir—I was much interested a few days ago in reading your article on spelling "reform". Although impressed with the sincerity of your motive and your strong veneration for antiquities, I cannot say that I see eye to eye with you in your arguments.

I am quite willing to allow that there are certain lengths to which modern spelling should not go, as for instance, the use of the term "thru" for "through" and others of that ilk, foisted onto Canadian journalism by the organ which was mainly responsible for the introduction of that other atrocity in Toronto the Sunday Street Car. But on what basis do you ground your objections to the abbreviations in certain words in order to conform more closely to their sound? Whence did our language spring? Undoubtedly not from any one source. Greece, Rome and even the far distant Eastern lands were drawn upon to assist in its formation. Your arguments seem to point to the belief that all words borrowed from the French, such as, "rigueur," "honneur", etc. should be spelt in English "rigour", "honour" and so on. But where did the French get these words from? Of course from the Latin words "rigor", "honor." What reason do you adduce then for following the French form rather than the Latin? I am really surprised at you, Mr. Editor, with your love for and appreciation of all things pure, advocating a continuance of such a corrupt form of spelling as the English form undoubtedly is. I should like to hear from you on this subject, and doubtless many others would also, and if I am not slain outright at the first prod from your redoubtable pen, will gladly return to the encounter with fresh arguments in another article.

Yours,
LINGUA PURA.

AN AUTHORITY SPEAKS.

The Examiner has received an approving letter from one of the highest educational authorities in Toronto. Though the letter is personal, yet the brief note is so valuable as an authoritative contribution to the discussion on spelling reform, that it is here reproduced, suppressing, of course, the identity of the writer.

"Thanks for the copy of the Examiner with the admirable article on spelling. While I am not extreme in my views on such subjects, I think we should follow the best models. The indifference which our newspaper friends feel about the mode of spelling is natural enough for them, because the press cannot easily make itself the fountain of academic learning. But schoolmasters must be precise and scholarly. Three of our newspaper friends are a trifle "faddy" on the question, namely Mr.——Mr. John ——, and Mr. Wm. ——. Hence the discussion. While nothing official has, as far as I can learn, yet been decided upon, I hope Dr. Pyne will stick to his guns and authorize the British forms until the British literary authorities abandon them for others."

OVERCOMES DYSPEPSIA

More Digestive Juices and No Fermentation in Your Stomach.

Does it ever occur to you how busy that little stomach of yours is? It actually holds three pints, though in one year you force it to take in 2,500 pounds of material, digest it and prepare it for assimilation to the blood. Do you wonder at the number of cases of indigestion and stomach trouble? You crowd it with steaks and pastry, irritate its juices with spices and acids and expect this little four-ounce mill to do its work.

Is there any wonder that your food passes undigested, or lays like a lump of lead in the stomach? That everything you eat turns to acid, stomach gas and stomach poison, putrefying the intestines and digestive canals, causing Biliousness, Headaches, Dizziness and Indigestion, Heartburn, Nauseous Breath, constipation and other more dangerous symptoms?

Call your disease what you will—Indigestion, Gastritis, Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Catarrh of the Stomach, etc.—you know the real name, the real disease is fermentation of the food you eat—a sour Stomach, which belches gas and refuses undigested food or causes a feeling of nausea or miserableness.

All these miseries vanish promptly when you stop this food fermentation. Take fifty cents to your Pharmacist for a case of Pape's Diapepsin. Eat a triangle and five minutes later your Stomach will do what a healthy Stomach should—turn every bite you take into bodily nourishment and without you realizing that you have a Stomach. One triangle will digest all the food you eat without the aid of the stomach, because it contains just the elements found in a good, strong healthy stomach. 18

KATCHEWANOONKA HERALD—THE OLDEST PAPER IN DOURO

Interesting Manuscripts Dealing With Life in the Backwoods—Farm Pupils as Editors.

THE LAKEFIELD OF YORE.

Below we publish the first instalment of extracts from the "Katchewanoonka Herald" of which mention was made in Thursday's issue. Apparently there were preceding issues. This is the first, however, in point of date, in our possession, and although not as interesting as some that are to follow, it will doubtless entertain many old residents of Peterborough and of Smith and Douro townships:

Katchewanoonka Herald, Published Every Monday Morning.

Monday, June 11, 1856

Notice

All contributors to this paper are requested to add a signature or motto to their contributions, otherwise they will not be received.

Articles to be sent on or before Friday evening and directed to Messrs. Allen & Beatty.

Katchewanoonka Herald

We have received by telegraphic despatch the news of the opening of the Parisian Exhibition. This noble work has at last been finished, and adds much lustre to the crown of Louis Napoleon, for the noble manner, in which he carried it out, whilst Europe is shaken by a great and destructive war, and the nations of France and England are battering down the walls of Sebastopool. It is now open for visitors, who are enabled to see the produce of the north, south, east and west, and the riches of the Eastern and Western Hemisphere, under one roof, where the Italian and Turk, Indian and white man can meet together in kindly competition, vying with each other in the costliness and variety of their goods. To have completed this scheme must have been a work of trouble and anxiety. The dividing to every nation in the world per fellowmans of room to exhibit her treasures and manufactures, and the satisfying of the wants and demands of the commissioners, sent by each of the nations to see after their several departments. Therefore, great credit ought to be given to the Emperor for his perseverance in this great work, by which the commerce of Europe will be enhanced and her arts and sciences brought to greater perfection.

Mr. Editor.

All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, is a saying, I expect, we have all heard in our younger days, when wanting to ask for a release from our studies for a day. Perhaps oftener than when arrived at a maturer age, but I think it is not in the least to be less attended to in the former than in the latter. For there is no doubt that that man that works day after day, year after year, from daylight till dark, is not happier or better off than the man who will now and then give himself a holiday, by doing which he returns to his work with more spirit and pluck in him. The former is always a miserable man, for at times he cannot avoid losing a day or so, and then he will whine and complain over it as a miser would at losing his gold, for he is, in fact, a miser, and what more miserable being can you have. Let not any person suppose that I am advocating idleness. Far from it. And now, young men of Douro, right glad am I to see that you have got up the game of cricket for the ensuing summer; you may depend, if you join one another in the evenings in a good natured, quiet game, you will be the happier and merrier for it. But still, young men, I you are doing at present, do not you think you are something like juvenile misers? Could not even one-half day or even a whole day be spared it. Working from six in the morning till six in the evening, and then going out to make a ground, is making toil of what should be a pleasure, and those useful but hard-used animals the oxen, who, after having worked hard all day, naturally expect to be let go when the day is done, are intensely disgusted to find that they have to go and make a cricket ground, which they feel no interest in, not being players. Although myself, the same as the oxen, no player, I am aware that a ground is necessary, and you may depend you would do more in one day than twenty evenings, for in the evening, after you have done your day's work, a man will, let him be ever so eager for it, feel that he is as I said, before just making a toil of pleasure. I will conclude with that very excellent motto from Virgil, which just fits the subject.

Illic ut perhibent aut intempesta silet nox.

Mr. Editor,

I cannot help writing to you, although I am aware it is not considered correct for one of my sex to appear in print, poor weak creatures as we are, but how one of the lords of creation, and him an Englishman, as he signed himself in your last very able paper, can write as if there was no other man in the world, much more in England, than the present Emperor of the French. I am ashamed of him. He can be no true Englishman. Rather than see such a man at the head of English men and women I would, myself put on breeches, and, I believe, from what experience I have have had in managing my better half, as they like to call themselves, I would get on just as well as he would. Of course, as becomes my sex, I should have been sorry to see him with a bullet through his head, but as long as there are Englishwomen in the world, although, last not least, Englishmen, never let me hear of their being no other man than Napoleon.

Yours truly, Mr. Editor,

An English woman disgusted with an Englishman.

We have received the following letter, and being unable to throw any light on the subject, we insert it, hoping to receive some elucidation of the term next week.

Mr. Editor,—May I trouble you, through the medium of your widely circulated and ably conducted journal, to enlighten me on the derivation of the word "turn pike."

ROBERTSON'S
Temperance Emporium.

Mr. Robertson begs to announce to the nobility and gentry of Douro and its neighbourhood that he has received a large and extensive assortment of temperance drinks comprising the following: essences, lemon, ginger, peppermint, etc., etc. He has also soda water, lemon kali and lime juice, which last is considered, by the most eminent of the faculty, especially beneficial in purifying the blood and preserving the health during the hot summer.

Mr. Robertson has fitted up his saloon with every luxury, regardless of expense, considering the comfort of his customers of most consequence, and hopes by close attention to business to retain that support with which he has been so long favoured.

Douro, June 9th, 1855.

But to beg, to borrow, or to get

It is the worst world that ever was known.

MOTHER BELIEVES IN PERUNA.

Mrs. K. Kane, of Chicago, Uses Pe-ru-na in her family of five children, Grace, Myrtle, Edward, Reeves and George.

A HEALTHY FAMILY

Pe-ru-na in the Home.

After all, experience is the best teacher. Some doctors may write in favor of Peruna. Other doctors may write against it. But it is the testimony of the mothers and fathers who are rearing families, who love their children, who must economize as to doctor bills, who are raising little boys and girls into men and women of the future, it is the testimony of such people that really counts.

There is no way to positively ascertain how many families in the United States rely upon Peruna for the many climatic ailments to which the family is subject. The number must be a great one. Several millions perhaps. They have learned how to use Peruna for ordinary ailments, and in that way are guarding their homes against more serious diseases.

Such ailments as coughs and colds, sore throat and catarrh, croup and colic, indigestion and loss of appetite, anemia and nervousness, all these ailments are promptly relieved by a few doses of Peruna at the right time.

Millions of provident mothers and fathers are guarding the interests of the home by using Dr. Hartman's great remedy, and profiting by his medical booklets and personal advice.

Catarrhal Croup.

Few people realize how frequently croup is caused by catarrhal congestion of the throat. Probably nine cases out of ten of croup is of the catarrhal variety.

The medical profession recognizes three forms of croup. The spasmodic variety, membranous croup and catarrhal croup.

Nearly every case is of the catarrhal variety, and a few doses of Peruna taken at the first appearance of the catarrhal symptoms is generally sufficient to avert the attack of croup altogether.

Croup is a frightful disease. No disease of children so alarms the household. It is impossible to estimate how many homes have been protected against croup by the proper use of Peruna.

Household Remedies.

There is no remedy in the world which has proven so popular for catarrh as Peruna. It has been used for more than thirty years and cured thousands of cases, as proven by our testimonials.

In the early history of this country every family had its home-made medicines. Herb teas, bitters, laxatives and tonics were to be found in almost every house, compounded by the housewife, sometimes assisted by the apothecary or the family doctor.

Furnishing medical compounds direct to the people, through the druggists, is simply the extension of the practice begun by the people themselves.

Nervous System a Wreck.

John G. Hirdler, Garfield, Kas., writes: "On December 2, 1899, I was injured by a fall on the Santa Fe R. R., and my entire nervous system was impaired by the same. The help of a physician was useless. I believe I tried every one in the vicinity, but all were alike and I remained without strength.

"I then tried Peruna, and after using it for three months was totally well. I am seventy-one years old, and my work on the railroad is hard and tedious, but I can work like a young man in all kinds of weather, heat, cold, rain, snow or storm alike.

"Peruna is the purest and best medicine, and if used according to directions, it will help any person and cure any disease for which it is recommended. I recommend this medicine by my own experience to any one suffering from an ailment on the order of mine."

For Herself and Children.

Mrs. Aline DePasse, 776 E. 165th St., New York, N. Y., writes:

"It gives me pleasure to testify to the curative qualities of Peruna and Manalin. I was afflicted for over seven years with catarrh of the head, throat and digestive organs. I consulted many physicians, but they did me no good.

"One day I happened to read some testimonials in your Peruna almanac. I decided to try Peruna and Manalin. I bought a bottle of each and after taking them for a week, I noticed a change for the better. So I kept it up and after using twelve bottles I was perfectly cured.

"I also gave the medicine to my children and they had the same beneficial result. I would never be without these remedies in the house.

"I highly recommend Peruna and Manalin to all my friends, and, in fact, to everybody."

Thousands of families have learned to trust and believe in Dr. Hartman's judgment, and to rely on his remedy, Peruna.

Catarrh of Stomach.

Mr. John M. Stansberry, Amarillo, Tex., writes:

"For several years I had catarrh of the stomach. I was hardly able to do anything, and could not eat with any satisfaction.

"When I commenced using Peruna, I weighed only 110 pounds. I took six bottles, commencing in the spring, and by the following winter I had gained 63 pounds.

"I owe it all to Peruna. It cannot be praised too highly.

"I am forty-five years old, and my occupation is that of architect and builder."

A woman who was sent with her three children to Canada recently at a cost of £30 surprised the Lambeth Guardians the other day by reappearing and asking for relief. She explained that the climate of Canada did not suit her, so she applied to the Canadian authorities, and was sent back at the cost of another £40. She is to be admitted to the work house.

A well-equipped, up-to-date woollen factory has been opened at Lisdonset, Pallyscawley County Tyrone, by Mr. W. Coote, J.P. No expense has been spared in fitting up the factory with all modern requirements, and the most up-to-date machinery. SCOTLAND

After an adventurous voyage, lasting over 139 days, the French barque Francoise Dambeise bound from Noumea to Glasgow with nickel arrived at her destination, recently. The Francoise Dambeise had been reinsured at eight guineas per cent. of the overdue market. Early in the voyage a seaman named Francis Gourion fell from aloft and was drowned during a violent gale, and a succession of monstrous icebergs delayed the vessel in the later part of the passage.

At Glasgow the other day a young man named William Read pleaded guilty to cutting down and stealing seven miles of telegraph wires, and he was sentenced to six months' imprisonment. The result of his conduct was that the block system of the railway was dislocated and the lives of passengers and railway servants were jeopardised.

Messages From Over Seas Read At Anniversay Concert Of St. Peter's T.A.S. Last Night

Ninth Anniversary Commemorated in a Fitting Manner---Dr. O'Brien's Most Enjoyable Address Upon Rome and Italy Generally---Greetings From the Old Lands.

The ninth anniversary of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society was fittingly and enjoyably celebrated last night by a concert and lecture in the spacious hall of the St. Peter's school, a large audience gathering to commemorate the noteworthy event. The evening was one of thorough enjoyment and those present will not soon forget the events of the evening. The piece deresistance of the programme was a lecture by Rev. Dr. O'Brien, the spiritual advisor of the society who gave a most comprehensive and interesting address upon Italy and Rome, his remarks being illustrated by over 100 lime-light views, some of which had not been seen in Peterborough previously. Rev. Father McColl acted as chairman in his usual happy and efficient manner. The lecture was preceded by a musical programme of more than usual merit and the delight of the audience was made manifest by the fact that encores were demanded in every case.

The Mandolin Club composed of the Misses. McCarthy and Dorris, violins, Messrs. Brightman, McNicholl, Cranfield and MacPherson, mandolins and Miss Brightman, pianist, opened the programme with a splendidly rendered and most enjoyable selection, and their playing earned them the hearty applause of the audience. Masters Allen were heard to great advantage in a duet, "Just Drop a Line to Mother," their fresh young voices blending splendidly and the applause with which their effort was greeted was merited. As an encore they sang with much success the tuneful little ballad, "In the Days That Are Past and Gone."

Miss Derocher delighted the audience with a recitation that was delivered with dramatic feeling and fine voice, her articulation being especially good.

Mr. F. C. Freeland displayed the resonant qualities of his fine bass voice in a solo that was much appreciated, and he was forced to respond to an enthusiastic encore.

Miss Lavina Hallihan, always a favourite, excelled herself last night in her rendition of the delightful solo, "Roses," in which her fresh strong sweet soprano and clearness of articulation were displayed to fullest advantage. As an encore she gave that grand old favourite, "Annie Laurie," her rendering of the classic leaving nothing to be desired.

Mr. Geo. Lynch responded to the storm of applause with which he was greeted with a clever rendition of "The Old Stove-pipe-hole," the late Dr. Drummond's humorous habitant poem losing none of its fun at his hands. As an encore he gave an equally successful rendition of "The Englishman's Soliloquy."

A recitation by Miss Derocher, this time of a humorous nature was as successful as her first effort, and she was warmly applauded at its conclusion.

Another selection by the Mandolin Club, after which they had to respond to an encore, brought the first part of the programme to a close.

Dr. O'Brien's Lecture.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien's lecture, which followed was decidedly in the nature of a treat. His intimate knowledge of his subject, coupled with his powers of description and his eloquence tended to make his remarks most instructive, interesting and enjoyable, and the audience enjoyed every moment of his splendid address which gave his hearers a very comprehensive idea of the appearance and characteristic features of the architecture of the principal cities in Italy.

In commencing Rev. Dr. O'Brien pointed out to his audience on a map of Italy the location of the Island of Sicily and of Messina, and other towns that have been destroyed in the recent terrible earthquake.

Then starting at Loretto, on the east coast of Italy, the speaker took his interested audience on a tour through that city, Venice with its waterways for streets, its Bridge of Sighs, Grand Canal and Palace of St. Mark's, Padua with its splendid buildings, Milan with its magnificent cathedral, Pisa and its far-famed leaning tower, and finally Rome and St. Peter's Cathedral, the Vatican, Tower of the Holy Angel, the Canadian College, the Coliseum, the ruins of the Forum, the Appian Way, the Sacred Way, and the many other interesting things in connection with the historic city. Beautiful views of all these places and buildings were thrown upon the canvas and lucidly explained by Rev. Dr. O'Brien, who showed that he was thoroughly at home in his subject. Pictures were shown of the catacombs, the famous paintings of Rome and many other interesting things to be seen there.

Between the first and second part of Rev. Dr. O'Brien's lecture a novelty was introduced in the shape of a bagpipe selection by Mr. H. Mackay that "made a hit" and he had to respond to an encore.

Mr. Jas. M. Bennett made an eloquent and witty address in which he spoke in words of highest praise of the work that St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society is doing in Peterborough, and in this connection read three letters which indicated that the society's achievements are recognized not only in Canada, but in the older world as well.

Greeting from Ireland.

The first letter which was read was from Cardinal Logue, head of the Catholic Church in Ireland, which was as follows:

I am very glad to learn that you have such a very flourishing Catholic Temperance Society at Peterborough. As there is nothing which causes greater evils, temporal or spiritual, than the vice of intemperance. A society whose chief object is to counteract this evil is an inestimable blessing. I wish your society every blessing. I trust that it will continue to be worked with zeal and perseverance, that its membership will daily increase and that it will achieve one of the greatest benefits which can be conferred upon any people, the creating of a sound, healthy public opinion against the vice of drunkenness and the eradication of all the evils which drunkenness brings in its train.

Wishing you and your associates every blessing, especially all the blessings and consolation of the approaching Holy season, I am, Dear sir,

Yours faithfully,
Michael Cardinal Logue,
Armagh, Ireland.

The Bishop of Salford.

The second letter which was from the Bishop of Salford, was as follows:

On my return from abroad I find your kind invitation dated Nov. 24, awaiting me. Need I say how pleased I am to hear of the good work that your society is doing, and how gratified I am to learn that you are shortly to hold the ninth anniversary of your foundation? You have a great work to do, and I pray that Almighty God may bless all your efforts with abundant fruit.

I trust that these few lines may be in time for your celebration. With most cordial greeting and good wishes I am,

Yours devotedly in Christ,
Louis Charles, Bishop of Salford,
St. Bede's College, Manchester, S.W.

Message from Scotland.

The Bishop of Aberdeen sent the following message of greeting:

I am so glad to hear of your large and flourishing Temperance Society.

I hold that the evils of the liquor traffic openly defies the laws of God and assails the peace and well being of the society. It mars the soul, the graces and the power of religion in all its victims and endangers their temporal and eternal safety. The good influences of so powerful an organization as yours must be productive of great happiness to your city and our church, and its founder.

I pray that the blessing of God be unto you all in your noble work and help you to still greater results, for the future, I am,

Yours faithfully, in Christ,
J. L. Chisholm, Bishop of Aberdeen, Scotland.

The evening was a great success and the committee in charge are deserving of the greatest credit for the excellence of the programme. Miss Roberts played the accompaniments in her usual efficient manner.

LARGE MARKET WAS HELD THIS MORNING

Farmers Coming From a Distance to Attend.

The market this morning was rather larger than they have been since Christmas, owing, no doubt, to the fact that good roads prevailed in the country, giving the farmers from a distance a chance to get in. Dressed pork was a great deal lower than it was last week, it being only 8c a pound, beef staying the same, 5 and 6 cents a pound.

A good price was paid for butter and eggs, butter being 24 and 28 cents a pound; eggs, 30 and 35 cents a dozen. Turkeys were about the same as they have been for the last two or three weeks, 15 and 20 cents a pound. Chickens took a rise to 65 cents and $1.00 a pair.

Training vs. Long Service

In every business we see the long service man asking the trained one for advice.

Although the optician may claim he has had from fifteen to twenty-five years experience in the optical business, that is no proof that he is a trained man.

In the past seven months we have not had one dissatisfied patient. This is a pretty good record considering the large number we have fitted with glasses and the many who could not get relief elsewhere.

If you have trouble with your eyes and are discouraged, consult the Tate-Taylor Optical Company's Trained Optician.

DON'T DIET FOR FAT

You have no appetite for gruel, have you? By the same token, if you scale in excess of 150 pounds, I know you have no great liking for gymnasium stunts. As a rule fat folks are neither athletic nor ascetic, except under compulsion, and nowadays they are not under compulsion to be either, no matter how necessary it is for them to reduce. There is a third, better, and surer way of getting rid of superfluous flesh.

The trouble with both dieting and exercise is, first, the trouble; second, the danger (fatty heart); third, wrinkles; and, fourth, stomach disgust. You are liable to all four if you exercise or diet. On the other hand, you can sidestep all four, and still reduce as much or little as you please, even up to losing a pound a day if you see fit by taking a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime of the following simple home receipt: One-half ounce Marmola, 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 13-4 ounces Peppermint Water.

Any druggist will fill this prescription for you cheaply, and you may take it with perfect confidence that it will do no manner of harm. Instead almost invariably improves the health and, likewise, the complexion.

OBITUARY.

MR. CORNELIUS HALPIN

This morning at eight o'clock the death occurred of Mr. Cornelius Halpin, after a long illness, at the age of about seventy years. Mr. Halpin was born in Limerick County, Ireland, and moved to this country when quite a young boy, being one of the old settlers in this county. He is survived by three sons, John, Michael and Thomas, and one daughter, Beatrice, who resided with him.

The funeral will leave the residence, 158 Lake street, at nine o'clock Monday morning, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and from there will proceed to St. Peter's Cemetery for interment.

Friends are requested to omit sending flowers.

The deceased gentleman has been a highly respected resident of Peterborough for about 50 years and has always creditably performed the duties of a good citizen in every respect. He was for about thirty years employed with the late George Hilliard, but for several years past has lived in retirement in the enjoyment of the competence his industry and prosperity accumulated.

EMPEROR SEEMS TO BE YEARNING FOR WAR

Kaiser Seems Bound to Have Hostilities in Near East.

LISTENING TO HIS STAFF

Emperor of Germany Has Lost Patience With Great Britain and Is In Close Conference With Military Party—Newspaper Reports Tell of Preparations In Europe For Trouble In the Spring.

Berlin, Jan. 9.—Not since the beginning of the complications in the Near East has so much war talk been heard as to-day. The military party is waxing wondrous strong, and officers and staff say that war is inevitable, that everything is prepared and that hostilities will surely break out in March. The Kaiser has lost all patience with England, is turning a deaf ear to the peaceful counsels of the Imperial Chancellor, Prince Von Buelow, and is listening with attention to the warlike utterings of his military staff.

The Kaiser's sudden departure from Hubertusstock and his abandonment of the Corfu trip are all put in as arguments that a coup is being prepared, owing to information received from Kaiser Franz Josef of Austria, who having got 45,000 men into Bosnia and Herzegovina, has made preparations to double that number within three days.

An Austrian agent well known to the court here some weeks ago was charged with the mission of buying with all possible discretion all the stocks of rifle and ammunition he could get hold of. A report on the Boerse also says that Servia has bought 25,000,000 cartridges in Belgium.

These announcements, together with the publication of a quotation from the Servian newspaper, The Politika, to the effect that, although her enemies could not prevent Servia from celebrating a peaceful Christmas, bloodshed was being prepared for Easter, has tended to make people nervous.

One paper publishes a special despatch from Constantinople, which states that a high personage has just seen Kiamfi Pasha and says that the Grand Vizier no longer believes in the possibility of maintenance of the peace of Europe. This personage asserted that he had possession of proof that Austria was preparing for the outbreak of war in a few months and that Turkey was preparing for a campaign against Bulgaria.

Count Richard von Pleil, writing in The Dundschau, says:

"The outlook is war, which would open out a way for Austria to the much-coveted Salonica, and for Bulgaria to the much-desired Macedonia."

Asks Canada to Be Patient.

London, Jan. 9.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Daily Mail in an editorial headed, "America's bid for Canada," refers to the vote of the New York Chamber of Commerce in favor of reciprocity and says: "If such a treaty is concluded it will mean nothing less than the absorption of Canada by her neighbor. This will be a disaster to the British race and end all the noble dreams and aspirations in which the largest minds of our race have indulged."

The Mail appeals strongly to Canadian patriotism to show patience, for though the states of the empire have waited long and been rebuffed often, the period of suspense is fast drawing to a close.

New Commission Called For.

London, Jan. 9.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Reasonable expectation exists that the Anglo-United States treaty will be signed in a few days, though certain points are still under negotiation.

The waterways draft agreement is very technical, but its chief point is the establishment of a commission to deal with the water division between Canada and the United States.

The treaty only lays down general principles and provides machinery for putting these into execution.

The conclusion of the fisheries question will probably be delayed a little. The question of pecuniary claims is still the subject of negotiations.

Federal Appointments.

Ottawa, Jan. 9.—The following appointments have been made: W. J. Cook of Belleville, to be deputy collector of inland revenue; William F. Toner of Collingwood, to be harbor master for the Port of Collingwood; Henry Foreman of Collingwood, to be measuring surveyor of shipping.

Hunter Will Lose Both Feet.

Port Arthur, Ont., Jan. 9.—Archie Cullan aged 19, was brought up from Nipigon with both feet frozen so badly that he will lose them. He was out hunting, and while crossing a creek fell through, getting his feet wet, and they froze before he could reach home.

Collingwood Company Gets Drydock.

Kingston, Jan. 9.—Surveyor Chapleau and men of the Public Works Department are here taking measurements of the Kingston Drydock property, which, it is understood, the Dominion Government has leased to the Collingwood Shipbuilding Co.

CLERQUE NOT IN CONTROL.

C. D. Warren Says He Cannot Get Hold of Soo Corporation.

New York, Jan. 9.—C. D. Warren of Toronto was interviewed yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria relative to the report in circulation, that Mr. Clergue had secured control of the Soo plant.

The report, when repeated to Mr. Warren, caused him to smile blandly.

"You may deny that report from me. There is absolutely nothing in it," said Mr. Warren. "If Mr. Clergue is even a stockholder in the company I do not know it, and I think I world. He has not, and cannot, secure control of the Soo."

"Are you here to attend a meeting of the directorate of the Soo to-day?"

"There is no meeting of the board to-day. It takes place next week. I will be present. After the directors meet I may have something that will be of interest to the people of the Soo territory. Until then, however, I have nothing to give out on the matter."

"Does it concern the absorption of the Soo, or will the Soo enlarge its plant?"

"I do not care to say what it is, I say, but I think it will be of universal importance to that section of the country when it takes place," declared Mr. Warren.

He conveyed the impression that the important event would have to do with the extension of the plant, but he absolutely refused to say just what it would be, or in what way it would affect the Soo and the people.

DENTIST IS POISONED.

Brantford Man Said He Took a Seidlitz Powder.

Brantford, Jan. 9.—Dr. W. F. Templar, prominent dentist and real estate holder, is dead here under peculiar circumstances.

He walked from his office across the street to his residence on Dalhousie street yesterday afternoon, staggered to his room and went into convulsions. Four doctors were summoned, but the doctor was beyond human aid.

Before he expired he made the statement that he had taken a seidlitz powder. Coroner Ashton, who was called, stated that the symptoms pointed to strychnine poisoning. A search of the dentist's office revealed the papers of the powder.

It is stated that he was in financial difficulties.

Barred From Reserve.

Montreal, Jan. 9.—Judge Basin, in the Police Court, was called upon yesterday to decide if a white man named Hormidas Perras who had married an Indian woman, had the right to live with her and their children on the Gaughnawaga reserve as he has been doing for some time past.

The law seems quite clear in the matter and strictly forbids a white to domicile with the Indians, and in fact Perras was condemned to pay a nominal fine for the same offences in 1907. His honor took the case en delibre.

Forgeries Nearly a Million.

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 9.—Details of the forgery of James J. Murray's name to notes and documents aggregating $860,000, which led Thursday night to the arrest of F. B. Signor, promoter and mining broker of this city, have come to light.

Signor gave four forged notes to a bank in financing a cement plant, totaling $400,000. In addition the figures include drafts for $400,000, $5,000 and $10,000. Signor has not profited a cent from the forgeries.

Borden and Women Suffrage.

Ottawa, Jan. 9.—R. L. Borden has replied to the request of the Ottawa Woman's Suffrage Association for a statement of his views on the question of woman suffrage. While pointing out that this is a question for the Provincial Legislature, Mr. Borden asks some questions: What have been the results where woman's suffrage has been tried. To what extent has it been tried in political activity? How has it affected moral and political conditions?

Coasting Trade.

Ottawa, Jan. 9.—By an order-in-council the time has been extended during which vessels which are at present engaged in the coasting trade may continue to do so till July 1, 1909.

The Cobalt Range Railway Co. is applying for power to extend its line westerly from Haileybury to Gowganda Lake and northerly from Ville Marie via Opasitca Lake to a junction with the National Transcontinental Railway.

DEAD MAN IS SAID TO BE BROWNING

Identity of Murdered Man is Definitely Decided.

REWARD OUT FOR MINISTER

Examination of False Teeth Found in Stove Goes to Prove That Rev. John H. Carmichael, Who is Missing From Columbus, Mich., Is Slayer—He Has an Insane Sister—Appeared to Be Agitated.

Port Huron, Mich., Jan. 9.—By means of two false teeth it was definitely established yesterday afternoon that Gideon Browning, a carpenter of Adair Village, was the man who was butchered last Tuesday evening in the little Rattle Run Methodist Church in Columbus Township.

With part of the mystery which has enshrouded the brutal crime thus cleared, the supervisors of St. Clair County immediately offered a reward of $500 for the arrest of Rev. John H. Carmichael of Adair, pastor of the little church, and the man who was at first supposed to have been killed, dismembered and then burned in the church stoves, thus becomes the alleged murderer. He is a man over 6 feet tall, weighing more than 200 pounds and the description says:

Both legs have been broken, and he walks with a decided limp. Both his feet turn out noticeably, one at an angle of 45 degrees. He has a scar on the upper lip and another on the side of his nose. His eyes are light blue, or grey. There is another scar on one of his legs below the knee. When he disappeared he wore his brownish beard closed cropped at the sides. The beard and his hair, also brown, showing a little grey, has been recently trimmed.

Strenuous efforts to discover some motive for the destruction of the carpenter by the minister was fruitless yesterday. Rumors that Carmichael had been seen crossing the St. Clair river into Canada could not be corroborated. An officer sent to St. Thomas, Ont., reported no trace of him there.

The wife and daughter of the minister were examined yesterday by the prosecuting attorney here, and he stated afterward that he was convinced that they knew nothing of the murderer nor the man's disappearance. A statement yesterday by Mrs. Carmichael that her husband's sister is an inmate of an insane asylum in West Virginia, may explain some of the horrible features of the crime, if the authorities suspicions about Rev. Mr. Carmichael are borne out. Mrs. Carmichael also said that her husband was moody and restless the night before he disappeared, and apparently brooding over something.

It was also learned yesterday that on Monday, the day before the murder, Rev. Mr. Carmichael came to the postoffice in Adair, apparently much agitated and purturbed, and received a letter which he took away without opening.

Magistrate Removed.

New York, Jan. 9.—City Magistrate Otto H. Droege yesterday was found guilty of the charge of unlawfully freeing women committed by him to the workhouse, and therefore was ordered moved from his position.

It was charged against Droege that he signed orders for the release of only such prisoners as had paid fees to two lawyers who formerly had been associated with him in the practice of law. In addition he was alleged to have offered to bribe reporters to suppress publication of the discovery of the practice.

Suicides After Prayer Meeting.

Woodstock, Jan. 9.—After attending a prayer meeting at the Methodist Church at Hickson Thursday evening, George Brickwood, the 19-year-old son of a railway section boss, swallowed a big dose of strychnine from a bottle that he had in his pocket, and died several hours after.

The young man recently underwent an operation for an abscess on the brain. At the prayer meeting he asked a number of questions. On his way home he took the poison. Then he went on home, and told what he had done.

Murdered by Boys.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 9.—Five boys, ranging in age from 8 to 13 years, were arrested in their class-rooms in the Shaw school yesterday, and charged with the murder of William Wachter, a peddler, who was found with his skull crushed on Thursday.

The boys told the police that they had stoned Wachter "just for fun."

Engineer's Eagle Eye.

London, Jan. 9.—Passengers on No. 23 Grand Trunk passenger train, running between here and Detroit, flocked around Frank Galbraith, the youngest engineer on the division, at Bothwell, thanking him effusively for his watchfulness, which detected a flaw in the tire that might have resulted in a wreck.

Assaulted In His Home.

Chatham, Jan. 9.—Harry Church, a repair man, living on Fifth street, was attacked late Thursday night in his rooms by an unknown man who dealt him a severe blow on the head, rendering him unconscious. Church was reputed to have kept a lot of money in his house.

Doctor Is Acquitted.

Kingston, Jan. 9.—Dr. Geddes was tried recently at Arden on the charge of selling liquor without a license, but was honorably acquitted by Justices of the Peace Andrew and Osborne. Provincial Inspector Ayearst of Toronto appeared for the prosecution.

Windsor Not Interested.

TEDDY BUMPED BY REPRESENTATIVES

President Gets Warm Rebuke From Representatives.

MESSAGE NOT RESPECTFUL

Entire Day Is Given Up at Washington to Discussion of Chief Executive's Suggestion Regarding Espionage on Members and Teddy Hears Some Very Plain Language About Himself.

Washington, Jan. 9.—After having made him the target all day for criticism, with here and there words of commendation, the House of Representatives last night, by a vote of 212 to 35, rebuked President Roosevelt by tabling so much of his message as reflected on members of Congress in connection with his recommendations regarding the secret service detectives, and also declaring that it be the sense of the House that they shall decline to consider any communications from any source which is not in its own judgment respectful.

With feelings of outraged dignity and pride on the part of many of its members, the House yesterday gave itself up entirely to a discussion of one of the most momentous questions that ever came before it—its functions as a legislative body—in contradistinction to those of the executive branch of the Government.

"The President denies that the paragraph of the annual message casts reflections on the integrity of the House; attributes to the House 'an entire failure to understand my message.' This House must insist on its own capacity to understand the import of the President's language.

"Be it resolved, that the House in the exercise of its constitutional prerogatives declines to consider any communication from any source which is not in its own judgment respectful; and, be it further

"Resolved, that the special committee and the committee of the whole House on the state of the union be discharged from any consideration of so much of the President's annual message as relates to the secret service, and that the said portion of the message be laid on the table."

By a viva voce vote, the Senate yesterday passed Senator Culbertson's resolution, instructing the committee on the judiciary to report to the Senate whether the President was authorized to permit the absorption of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Co. by the United States Steel Corporation.

Will Cancel Rates.

Montreal, Jan. 9.—"Your tariff and your rules are undoubtedly opposed to the business interests of the country and they have discouraged shippers all over the Dominion. They have been put into force without due notice having been given. In fact, if I had been properly informed as to the real purpose of the new tariff, I would never have given my approval of it," were the comments made yesterday by Judge Mabee in the Railway Commission, which closed its sessions yesterday afternoon.

It was quite evident that the board looked with unanimous favor upon the position taken by the Toronto and Montreal Boards of Trade, and it is probable that the new rates will be cancelled.

Prayer For Pentecost.

New York, Jan. 9.—William Hall, president of the evangelical commission of the New York East Conference, left for Toronto yesterday.

While in Toronto Rev. Mr. Hall will deliver his appeal verbally, calling for a world-wide prayer for a present-day Pentecost. This appeal has already been sent broadcast and is meeting with universal approval by the clergy throughout the country. Such men as Bishop Jos. F. Berry of Indianapolis, W. T. Mallalieu of Boston and Rev. Edward Reed, president of [illegible] College, Carlisle, Pa., have written their endorsement of the plan and believe it will result in much good.

Attempt to Unseat Two Members.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 9.—In an attempt to break the deadlock in the Newfoundland Legislature, which will re-assemble on Feb. 4, friends of Sir Robert Bond's Government Thursday filed petitions in the Supreme Court asking that Woodford and Murphy, members-elect for Harbor Main be unseated because of illegal acts committed by their agent during the campaign. Woodford and Murphy are supporters of Morris, leader of the Opposition.

William Sloan For Senate?

Ottawa, Jan. 9.—It is asserted here that William Sloan, M.P. for Comox-Atlin, B.C., will be appointed to the Senate, and that Hon. Wm. Templeman, Minister of Inland Revenue, who was defeated in Victoria, will contest the constituency by a bye-election.

ABOUT THE HAINES BROS. PIANO

IT IS NOW nearly 60 years since the creation of the first Haines Bros. Piano in New York by Napoleon J. Haines. Though leaving no great wealth to his sons, at his death, Mr. Haines, Senior, left the more valuable heritage of a good reputation, made so by the artistic merit of the Piano which bears his name.

The Haines Bros. Piano is famous wherever music is cultivated as an art—the most celebrated artists of modern times adorn with their names the honour roll of those who have written of and spoken of the beauty of the Haines Bros. Piano. Patti, Nilsson, Kellog, Campanini, Strakosch, Abbott, Galassi, Brignoli—are a few only of those whose autograph letters are among the cherished possessions of the present Haines Bros. family.

For over 40 years the Nordheimer Co. sold the Haines Bros. Pianos to the best clientelle in Canada. Lately, however, the customs duty has been so high as to render their importation almost prohibitive. To meet this condition the Haines Bros. Co., have now a factory of their own in Canada where the Pianos are made from original scales, patterns, etc., and offered to the people at strictly New York prices.

The Haines Bros. Pianos are now for sale by The City Music Co., 326 George Street, Peterborough, who will be pleased to quote prices and terms to customers seeking the very finest instruments on the Canadian market.

MONTREAL PEOPLE IN SICILY?

Prof. Haywood and Wife Last Heard of In Italy.

Montreal, Jan. 9.—Did Prof. and Mrs. John Hayward of Montreal perish in the recent disaster in Southern Italy? is the question that is being asked to-day by a number of the professor's friends.

Last August Prof. Hayward, who up till recently was a professor in the engineering department of the applied science faculty of McGill University, left with his wife for a tour of the world, and word was received recently that they were in Sicily.

On Dec. 24 they wrote from Messina to friends in Montreal, stating that they were leaving there that day. On the 25th, according to a postcard received in the city yesterday morning, they were at Smath, a small town on the Campanian coast about 23 miles southwest of Naples.

In Debris Seven Days.

Reggio, Jan. 9.—Among others who escaped uninjured when the shock came were three children, who, after having been buried in the debris of their home for seven days, got out unaided, burrowing like mice.

A man and his wife also have been found uninjured beneath ruins, where they had lain for eight days subsisting on a pint of olive oil.

Will Need 40,000 Men.

Messina, Italy, Jan. 9.—It is believed that 40,000 men will be required to isolate the city, as the peasants from the interior are crowding in much faster than the others are leaving.

Queen Helena's Grief.

Rome, Jan. 9.—Following the desires expressed by Queen Helena the anniversary of her birth, which was observed here yesterday, was not attended by any unusual festivities.

Her Majesty is reported to have said that she wished to celebrate the day by working hard for the earthquake survivors, whose sufferings she cannot drive from her mind.

35 NEARLY ASPHYXIATED.

Pupils and Teacher In Pennsylvania Have a Close Call.

Pottsville Pa., Jan. 9.—Thirty-five pupils of Mount Carbon school and their teacher, Miss Laura Deisher were overcome by coal gas yesterday, caused by a leaky stove pipe, and it was only through the prompt action of the young woman that the lives of her charges were saved.

Noticing several of the children falling asleep and herself becoming stupified, Miss Deisher quickly comprehended the cause. She picked up four of the children and carried them outside, and in returning for a fifth child she was herself overcome and fell over unconscious.

Several women living in the neighborhood saw the four little ones lying on the schoolhouse porch and upon investigation found the entire school of 35 children in a comatose state.

Physicians were summoned from Pottsville and succeeded in resuscitating all of them after considerable trouble.

Walks Half a Mile In Nightdress.

London, Jan. 9.—Mary Cuthbertson, an aged woman, escaped from the Victoria Hospital Thursday night during the absence of a nurse, and clothed only in her nightdress and a pair of open work stockings made her way to a friend's house, nearly a mile distant. The thermometer registered seven degrees above zero, and a bitterly cold wind was blowing, but despite this yesterday morning she appeared quite well. She had been wandering from place to place in Ontario for several weeks and had been placed in the hospital in the hope of curing nervous troubles.

To Search For Explorer.

FRED SIMPSON MAKES HIS DEBUT AS A PRO. IN NEW YORK TO-NIGHT

If Fred Simpson isn't one of the lions of Hiawatha when he quits the running game for good and settles down in the little Rice Lake hamlet, it will be a funny proposition. Fred has performed before thousands of people in Toronto, Montreal, Hamilton, and London (Eng.), and to-night he makes his debut in another country when he will form one of a relay of three men who are to run a twelve mile race against Alfie Shrubb the English wonder, in a twelve mile canter in Madison Square Garden, New York. Fred left on Thursday, for the American Metropolis and is expected to make a good showing against the world famous Alfie. Williams, of Somerset, Mass., will be the second member of the relay team, and the third has not yet been announced. Four miles is a pretty short distance for Simpson to attempt to negotiate fast enough to keep in sight of Shrubb who burns up the ground at that distance, and some of the local people who know the Indian's characteristics state that he would do better if he were to run the whole twelve miles against the Englishman. Still Simpson is in good shape and may spring a surprise upon the New York public when he gets going. One thing is certain that he will have none of the weak heart stunts that Dorando has been handing out in his recent races.

WHITBY JUNIOR O.H.A. TEAM TO PLAY LOCAL JUNIORS ON TUESDAY

The next O.H.A. game to be played in Peterborough will be on Tuesday night next, when the fast Whitby team will play the local juniors here in what should prove one of the fastest exhibitions of the year. Whitby managed to put the Indian sign on the locals on New Year's Day on their own little rink by 7-1, but the Petes are 50 per cent. stronger than they were then and expect to trim the Lakeshore aggregation here. Peterborough must win to keep in the running and the locals' good little team are going to take no chances and will go at the visitors from the drop of the hat. They should notch up another victory and be ready for their games from home in good shape. The Petes have a royal chance in the district despite their defeat the other night and expect to improve their position as a result of next Tuesday's game. There will doubtless be a big crowd on hand as the juniors have made many friends for themselves in their two games this week.

PROTEST FROM THE "GREYS" HAS BEEN RECEIVED RE CONTROVERSY

The Greys of the Peterborough Bowling League have sent the following communication to Mr. J. B. Hay. It is understood that the controversy between the two teams is at intense heat:

Peterborough, Jan. 7, 1909.

Mr. J. B. Hay,
Bowling Academy, City:

Dear Sir,—This is to inform you that we have been in communication with Mr. Crowe, secretary of the C. A. A. U., He has advised us that Mr. Gene Hurtubise is a professional. Therefore we feel that he should not be allowed to play with the Hams on the night they meet the Greys.

We do not want you to think that we are afraid of the aforesaid gentleman's bowling ability, because we are confident that we can wipe the floor with the Hams any day in the week, barring Sunday. The fact of the matter is we are afraid of injuring our amateur standing.

We trust that you will see the wisdom of barring all professionals from the bowling competition, and thereby do all that is possible to keep the ancient game of bowls in the place it has occupied since the days of Drake and Hawkins, viz., that of the greatest of indoor amateur sports.

It is just possible that it may enter your head that we are after that oyster supper and intend getting it by fair means or foul. Should such an unworthy thought be fathered by such a noble brain as we know you to possess, we trust that you will cast it from you, because Mr. Hay, we consider our honour above such a trifling thing as an oyster supper, especially if we have to put up the coin for it. We trust that we will not have to urge this matter any further. With all due respect to Mr. Hurtubise, we say that he has no right to mingle with amateurs with the highest standing, such as enjoyed by the Greys.

We might also say that it would be wise to have a competent referee on the foul line. We would recommend either Tom Flanagan or Tom O'Rourke. Should you not know these gentlemen send a wire to "Alfie" Shrubb.

The team committee and executive met in silent conclave and after due deliberation refused to play under any other conditions. We would like to say that the chief reason for taking such a course as this, is because we intend playing golf and lawn tennis in the near future and our position could never be the same in athletic circles should we play with Mr. Hurtubise.

ST. JOHN'S WON THE FIRST JUNIOR GAME

They were ahead 2—1 at half time and had all the better of the play during the second half. All the winners played good hockey and the match was an excellent exhibition. Ernie Reid refereed to the satisfaction of both teams. The line-up was as follows:

BOWLING

The Bankers did a few things to the pins in their league game with the Midgets last night, and not only won the three games but also boosted the league record for three games by 100 pins, setting the mark at 1598, which will likely stand for some time. The Bankers also established the best three-man record for a single game, putting on 581 in their last game. The Midgets with the exception of C. Giroux were off colour and, although they managed to tie the score in the second game, they lost in the roll-off. Ferguson was high man with the excellent total of 558, while Ford was a close second. REMEDY FOR DOING AWAY WITH WEEDS

From Farm and Dairy.

The weed nuisance may be perpetuated with the plow. If care be taken, however, it need not be the case very often. Some weed seeds like those of wild mustard have great vitality and may lie, like a sleeping dog, in the soil for years. When the plow again brings them to the surface and they receive a warm May shower they suddenly waken up and show what they are made of.

If all soils were of the proper texture for drainage and for holding plant food, it would not be necessary to plow deeper than four or five inches at any time. In that case, where fields are weedy and many seeds have formed before the plowing is done, these weed seeds would not be turned under in most cases beyond the point of germination. Most of them would be encouraged to grow and then be killed while they were young and tender. This is the reason why, in most seasons, a shallow plowing with a gang immediately after the crop is removed is so beneficial. It covers the weed seeds with sufficient soil that with accompanying moisture to cause them to grow, they may be killed with after cultivation or by a late plowing.

Very often a mistake is made in plowing the field after the hoe crop has been harvested. More especially is this the case if the field has been well cultivated. Through the frequent and thorough cultivation that the hoe crop receives to conserve moisture as well as to kill weeds, nearly all the foul seeds in the three inches of soil at least, have germinated. Below that line there may be a great many different kinds of weed seeds awaiting their opportunity to grow when brought to the surface. The practice of bringing them to the surface with a plow, is altogether too common.

If plowing is necessary at all on the heavier soils, after a hoe crop is harvested, it should be just a light skimming of the surface. In some cases, however, as with the land this year, when it was hard and dry, it could not be plowed at all, except it were plowed to a great depth. In many cases the preparation for a seed bed has been made with cultivators, in the fall for fall wheat and rye, or in the spring for spring crops, and as good and often better crops have been the result. For a catch of grass and clover seed the firm under soil with the fine tilth on top is almost ideal.

For all light soils shallow plowing and working is preferable. With heavier soils, however, the question of drainage and the mechanical texture of the soil have something to do with the depth to which plowing should be done. For keeping weed seeds near the surface the shallow plowing of the soil is preferable.

STANDARD RATION FOR STABLED COWS

From Farm and Dairy.

Will you give for the benefit of your readers a standard ration for dairy cows in the stable.

Take as forming same the following: Timothy hay, red clover, lucern, straw (wheat and oats) mangels, silage, and for grains barley, oats, peas and bran.

Give different combinations and state also which single grain along with bran is best for milk production, along with other coarse feeds.—Dairyman, Halton Co., Ont.

The feeds, both coarse and concentrated, being for the most part such as are to be found on every farm in Canada, your question is worthy of most careful consideration.

To begin with, however, you do not say whether you mean cows in full milk all winter, or spring calving cows as kept by the vast majority of dairymen in Canada. I shall take it that you mean for both classes, however, and begin by suggesting rations for cows in milk.

As the feeds most commonly found on our farms are mixed hay, clover hay, oat straw, mangels and silage, we shall begin by suggesting rations prepared therefrom:

Ration No. 1.

While spring calving cows are still in milk, or for newly calved cows:

Clover hay	5 lbs.
Ensilage	30 lbs.
Mangels	15 lbs.
Straw	5 lbs.

Meal, according to milk being produced, say 1 lb. of meal for 4 or 5 lbs. of milk produced.

Ration No. 2.

As an alternative:

Mixed hay	3 lbs.
Clover hay	5 lbs.
Silage	30 lbs.
Straw	5 lbs.

Meal according to requirements, say 1 lb. meal for 4 lbs. of milk.

Ration No. 3.

Where silage is lacking:

Hay	12 to 15 lbs.
Roots, mangels	40 lbs.
Straw	5 lbs.

Meal as needed, say, 1 lb. meal for 4 or 5 lbs. of milk.

DRY COWS

For dry cows the above rations would be quite satisfactory without any meal added. Where large cows were being fed, the amounts would need to be increased proportionately Where the dry cow was in low flesh a pound or so of meal a day might be found profitable.

For calving cows, supposing all the feeds mentioned to be available, then the following ration might be suggested.

Ration No. 4.

For cows in full flow of milk per 1000 lb. cows:

Clover hay	5 lbs.
Oat straw	5 lbs.
Corn silage	30 lbs.
Mangels	15 lbs.
Lucern	5 lbs.

Meal, 1 lb. for each 5 or 6 lbs. of milk produced.

For dry cows, cut off lucern and clover hay and substitute 5 lbs. of a mixture of timothy and clover. Slightly increase straw. No meal required save under exceptional circumstances. In my opinion timothy hay should be fed in but very small quantities to dairy cows either dry or in milk.

THE MEAL MIXTURE

The grains mentioned are capable of being mixed in a very great variety of ways. As a meal mixture suitable to be fed along with ration No. 1, I would suggest: Bran, 300 lbs., oats, 100 lbs.; peas, 100 lbs.

To be fed with ration No. 2: Bran, 200 lbs.; oats, 100 lbs.; peas, 200 lbs.

To be fed with ration No. 4: Bran 100 lbs.; barley, 100 lbs.; oats, 100 lbs.; peas, 100 lbs. Or equal parts bran, barley and oats; or bran, 100 lbs.; oats, 300 lbs.; barley, 200 lbs.

Where milk is being sold the addition of barley to the meal ration seems to be particularly advisable as having a beneficial effect upon appearance and flavor. Where milk is being made into butter, and mangels are being fed at all extensively then the meal should consist very largely of bran, say, bran 500 lbs.; oats, 100 lbs.; barley, 100 lbs. Where mangels are fed heavily and no bran or oil cake meal accompanies the same, as a sort of check, there is likely to be trouble at churning time.—J. H. Grisdale, Agriculturist, C. E. F., Ottawa.

Three Big New Year's Fires.

New York, Jan. 9.—Three big fires in the mercantile district Thursday night did damage estimated at $1,250,000. The high pressure system undoubtedly prevented a far greater loss.

While fire was raging in the six-storey double building, 98-100 Hudson street wholesale grocers' warehouses, where the loss was $500,000, an alarm was turned in for a fire in a manufacturers' building at 113 Bowery, where the loss was $150,000. With both these fires in progress a third broke out at 134 Crosby street, six storeys, occupied by strawgoods dealers, where $600,000 damage was done.

Montreal May Go Dark.

Montreal, Jan. 9.—W. McLea Walbank, general manager of the Light, Heat & Power Co., is writing the City of Montreal warning them that if a settlement of the lightning question is not arrived at by the afternoon of the 14th the street light throughout the whole of Montreal will go out at midnight on that date, not to be lighted again until some arrangement is arrived at. The company demand $75 per arc per year, whereas the city is only willing to pay $60.

Montreal Defaulter Surrenders.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 9.—Frederick Corby Pole, 34 years old, wanted in Montreal on a charge of grand larceny in the sum of $25,000, has surrendered himself here. The money, according to Pole, was taken by him while he was employed by the brokerage firm of McCuaig Bros. & Co. in Montreal in 1906.

Liquor Detectives Busy.

Belleville, Jan. 9.—Provincial liquor detectives have laid information against four liquor dealers at Marmora for selling liquor to minors: Thomas Reed of Springbrook, for selling liquor without a license and Duncan Narrie of the same place for selling cigarettes on Sunday to a minor.

Six Thousand more.

Toronto, Jan. 9.—A great increase in the contributions was reported by Rev. Dr. Tucker to the executive of the Anglican Missionary Society yesterday. Archbishop Sweatman presided. The contributions last year totalled $102,000. Partial returns showed an increase from all districts. The Toronto donations were $6,000 more than last year.

Red Light Clean Up.

Montreal, Jan. 9.—As a result of the campaign carried on by Rev. Arthur French, the police made wholesale raids last night on disorderly houses, arresting 35 women and 17 men. The places visited are in the heart of the "red light" district. It was a general clean up.

ABOUT THE HAINES BROS. PIANO

IT IS NOW nearly 60 years since the creation of the first Haines Bros. Piano in New York by Napoleon J. Haines. Though leaving no great wealth to his sons, at his death, Mr. Haines, Senior, left the more valuable heritage of a good reputation, made so by the artistic merit of the Piano which bears his name.

The Haines Bros. Piano is famous wherever music is cultivated as an art—the most celebrated artists of modern times adorn with their names the honour roll of those who have written of and spoken of the beauty of the Haines Bros. Piano. Patti, Nilsson, Kellog, Campanini, Strakosch, Abbott, Galassi, Brignoli—are a few only of those whose autograph letters are among the cherished possessions of the present Haines Bros. family.

For over 40 years the Nordheimer Co. sold the Haines Bros. Pianos to the best clientelle in Canada. Lately, however, the customs duty has been so high as to render their importation almost prohibitive. To meet this condition the Haines Bros. Co., have now a factory of their own in Canada where the Pianos are made from original scales, patterns, etc., and offered to the people at strictly New York prices.

The Haines Bros. Pianos are now for sale by The City Music Co., 326 George Street, Peterborough, who will be pleased to quote prices and terms to customers seeking the very finest instrumenrs on the Canadian market.

Obviate EYE Trouble

The Greatest Evil in connection with Eye Trouble is due to the fact that the faulty organ does not generally betray itself until the damage has made serious headway. You can prevent this risk by simply paying a visit to Fowler's Optical Department with the Nugent Drug Co., and allowing our Specialist in Eyesight to make thorough examination. If there is no trouble with your eyes, the examination will cost you nothing, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that your Eyes are right. If, however, there be any defect which needs correcting we guarantee to fit you with glasses that will surely correct it.

AFFAIRS AT THE HOUSE OF REFUGE

Are Running Along in a Satisfactory Manner—Cost of Maintenance Reduced.

There are at present in the House of Refuge 35 inmates, 20 males and 15 females, and although the aggregate number of days of the inmates maintained this year as compared with 1907, is nearly doubled, yet the cost of maintenance with it is estimated be reduced from $2.55 to considerably below $2.00, but of course, last year being the initial year, had its drawbacks by way of supplies not being raised on the farm for the first 7 or 8 months.

The House of Refuge has earned a reputation with regard to the stock raised. A pair of Durham calves born last March were weighed recently and tipped the scales at 1075 lbs. Mr Beavis considers this hard to beat in view of the fact that the animals only received ordinary care. — Lakefield News.

HON. SIDNEY FISHER'S SEAT IS PROTESTED

Montreal, Jan. 9.—Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, was yesterday served with papers protesting his election in Brome County.

The legal time limit for protests has passed, but owing to the absence of the minister in Europe attending an international agricultural conference the time limit in his case was extended by the courts.

Mr. Fisher only returned from Rome a few days ago and the bailiff who was entrusted with the serving of the papers has been seeking an opportunity since then to meet Mr. Fisher.

This was obtained yesterday at Farnham, when Mr. Fisher was passing through that place on a train.

WENT IN TO ASK FOR WORK AND CAME OUT WITH $22.00

W. J. Montgomery did not long enjoy liberty after P. C. Meharry started on his trail for the theft of $21.00 belonging to Walter Mackie. In Police Court on Saturday he pleaded guilty, and was remanded for a week.

Friday afternoon, according to the report, Montgomery, who is a young man 18 years old, residing at 137 Romaine street, went into the rear of Stenson's store to the cobbling shop, where Mr. Walter Mackie was working. He enquired about getting some work, and after awaiting around a short time, left the place. Mr. Mackie had a sum of money in a pair of trousers hanging on the wall. Shortly after the money was found missing.

The police were communicated with, and in the evening P.C. Meharry had rounded up his man in a local hotel. Twenty dollars and ninety-one cents were recovered.

WAS HURT BY BEING STRUCK BY CUTTER

Mrs. John Hart Injured While on Her Way to Church Yesterday Morning.

Mrs. John Hart, Bethune street, wife of the well known caretaker of the Collegiate Institute, had a narrow escape from possible serious injury while on her way to church yesterday and she will feel the effects of the accident for some time. She was on London street and was crossing at George street, when a horse and cutter swung around the corner the vehicle striking Mrs. Hart and knocking her down. She was taken by some friends into the residence of Mr. F. Richardson, on London street and later on was driven home, suffering from the shock but otherwise uninjured.

Minister Wanted For Michigan Murder Cuts His Throat And Will Probably Die

Examiner Special.

Toronto, Jan. 11.—Rev. John H. Carmichael, wanted for Michigan murder, cut his throat at the home of his sister, Mrs. Hughes, at Carthage, Ill., to-day and which is probably fatal. The man, thought to be Carmichael, at Myrtle, was released by rural constable.

DISASTROUS FIRES AT APSLEY CAUSE HAVOC IN TWO HOMES

Apsley, Jan. 11.—Special.—Two fires on the evening of Thursday of last week resulted in heavy loss to the owners, both being caused by overheated pipes, the result of the cold snap.

Late in the afternoon Mr. Robert Mace, who resides about 10 miles north of the village was the first sufferer. Mrs. Mace who was at work in the kitchen, happened to go into the main part of the house and discovered it a mass of flames. She had only time to secure a pocket book containing some $20.00 everything else in the house being consumed, all the men were away in the woods, so she was helpless.

The second fire occurred early in the evening when the home of Mr. Joseph McCauley on the east road, about 6 miles from the village, with a large portion of the contents was destroyed. It could not be learned if there was any insurance in either case.

Ennismore Man Cured Of Cancer When Hope Had Been Given Up

Examiner Special.

Ennismore, Jan. 11.—Mr. Owen O'Connor has just returned from his trip to Brown Hill, Ont., where he went three weeks ago for treatment of a cancer, which two doctors had pronounced incurable. There is no trace of a cancer to-day on Mr. O'Connor's face. The cure is simply wonderful, not even his best friends holding out any hope of its removal. Mrs. Sawder, of that village, is deserving of more than a passing notice. Whatever her remedy for dealing with cancer may be, the results of her treatment are so satisfactory and permanent as to entitle her to an honourable place among the benefactors of mankind.

Mr. O'Connor speaks in the highest terms of the kindness he received at her home, the attention bestowed on his particular case, and the trifling fee charged for her fruitful services. Her home, he says, is patronized by sufferers from this dread disease, from all parts of the continent, and in almost every case she was successful. The public should know more of this wonderful woman, and her still more wonderful remedy for treating cancer.

First Meeting Of Canadian Club To Be Held On Jan. 18

PETERBORO' YOUNG MAN SUING PORT HOPE RINK CO. FOR INJURIES RECEIVED

Mr. James Holland, through his solicitor, Mr. D. H. Chisholm, is claiming damages from the Skating and Curling Rink Company for injuries received while attending the hockey match between Cobourg and Port Hope on New Year's night.

Mr. Holland was standing on the west side of the rink, near one of the windows, and some young lads were endeavouring to gain an entrance to the rink through this window. Charles Floody, an employee of the rink, in an attempt to catch the boys, threw the window up and it struck Mr. Holland in the face with terrific force. It caused a large gash from the upper part of the cheek around to the forehead and both eyes were discoloured and swollen. It required several stitches to close the wound, and Dr. Forrest, who attended Mr. Holland, states that it will leave a lasting scar. Mr. Holland claims that the accident was due to gross negligence on the part of Charles Floody, an employee of the rink.

The claim for damages is $500, but it is probable that a settlement will be arranged. If not a writ will be issued by Mr. Chisholm, and the case will come up at the Assizes in Cobourg.—Port Hope Guide.

Mr. Holland is a Peterborough young man now residing in Port Hope. His parents reside on Chambers street.

Two Burglars Surprised In London St. House---Both Escape

Mr. Hamilton Godfrey, London street, was awakened from sleep on Thursday night last by a noise in the hall below. A few minutes later the continued sounds assured him that someone had gained entrance to the house and was moving around. Mr. Godfrey crept slowly down stairs and surprised the two men. One of them he was able to catch, but the other made good his escape. The former while being held gave his name and Mr. Godfrey was preparing to inform the police, when the second man returned and by combined efforts both got away.

They had entered the house by opening the front door. Nothing has been since seen of the men.

Husband And Wife Affected By Fumes From Coal Stove

Another narrow escape from asphyxiation from gas fumes was reported this time from the south end of the city. On Saturday morning Mr. and Mrs. R. Fell were almost overcome by the fumes which had in some manner escaped from a coal stove. Mrs. Fell was affected to a greater extent than her husband, but both have now thrown off the bad effects resulting from their experience.

SISTER OF LOCAL LADY IS DEAD AT TORONTO

Miss McBirnie Receives the Sad Intelligence of the Death of Her Sister.

Miss Mary McBirnie, who resides with Mr. John Nugent, 206 Brock street, received a telephone message this morning telling her of the sudden death of her sister Sabina, wife of Mr. H. G. Lockhart, of Fernie, B.C. During the forest fires of last summer, Mr. McBirnie, who is a merchant in Fernie, had his premises destroyed. During their reconstruction, Mrs. Lockhart came to Toronto to stay with her family. She was a daughter of the late Mr. McBirnie, a former resident of Peterborough. The remains will be interred in the Little Lake Cemetery. The funeral will be from the Canadian Pacific Railway Station on the arrival of the express from Toronto at 11.35 a.m., on Wednesday next.

TRANSFORMER ON FIRE YESTERDAY MORNING

Fire Brigade Were Called Out to an Early Blaze at Corner of Water and Simcoe Streets.

The fire brigade were called out early yesterday morning to extinguish a blazing transformer on Water street. Shortly before six o'clock, P. C. Meharry saw the bright reflection and turned in an alarm from box 42. The brigade made a quick run to the scene of trouble and discovered that a transformer on a pole at the corner of Water and Simcoe streets near the Bank of Montreal was on fire. A small stream was turned on and the blaze was quickly extinguished with little damage. There was a high wind blowing towards the bank at the time and it is fortunate that the blaze was discovered when it was, as considerable damage might have resulted.

THE MAKING OF GOOD CITIZENS.

Those who have not paid strict attention to the matter will be surprised to learn that information gathered before the last election showed that there were 5,000 of the Barnardo Home children in Canada entitled to exercise the franchise. That means in all the years of this beneficent work children of the slums of London and other British cities have come to Canada at a tender age, have secured happy homes, have grown to man's estate and became creditible members of the citizenship of the country. When it is reflected that all of these were males and that there was a corresponding, if not greater, number of girls, who have similarly prospered, one can form some idea of the beneficent character of the rescue of these children from lives of vice, lives of shame and lives of suffering, to become creditible citizens of one of the most advanced civilizations of the world. Such results as those indicated above serve to give emphasis to the work of the Children's Aid Society in Ontario, a splendid organization with similar aims and similar results. A wise public will never see the work of the Children's Aid Society hampered for lack of funds.

The making of good citizens begins at the cradle—a concise statement of the value of wholesome home training.

LABOUR CONFERENCE.

The labour interests of Canada, through the Executive of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, will wait upon the Government to-morrow to submit resolutions adopted, at the Halifax sitting, to the Dominion Cabinet. The result of the coming conference, will not fail to be satisfactory to labour interests, if the demands made are reasonable and practicable. The Liberals of Canada have, from the very nature of the principles of their political faith, always been friendly to fair play for all classes, especially those which represent most fully the people at large; and the Government by its plentiful legislation has striven to the utmost, to provide protection of the interests of labour and guarantees of its rights without derogation of those of any other class. The concession of equal rights in principle and practice is what constitutes the only satisfactory basic principle of logical government and satisfying administration.

The Germans are complaining of the Canadian surtax upon importations from the Fatherland. They have only themselves to blame. The surtax was was imposed in self-defence against German tariff legislation or regulation hostile to this country.

THE SENATE VACANCY.

The Senate vacancy created by the death of Hon Samuel Merner, of Berlin, suggests the idea that in filling it, the claims of the Peterborough district should not be ignored as has been done since Confederation. If the representative character of the Senate is to be held in consistent regard in making appointments, the rights of this district in this respect should not be over-looked. Almost every part of Ontario from Ottawa to Windsor, has been or is represented by a Senator, except Peterborough. In the matter of distribuiton some districts have been doubly and trebly favoured. The Toronto district has had three Senators, Ottawa two, London two and even Lindsay two. In the West Sarnia, Windsor, Hanover, Mount Forest and Beamsville (in the Hamilton district) have been honoured. In the Midlands, Belleville, Cobourg and Lindsay. In the northwest, Barrie and Berlin have not been neglected. In the east, Kingston, Perth, Brockville, Alexandria and Ottawa have not been ignored. In view of these things it is not unreasonable to demand that the west and other parts of the province which have been plentifully provided with Senators, should not stand in the way of having a member appointed for the Peterborough district. In all fairness we have a good claim. Because this claim is urged by the Examiner is not to say that Hon. Mr. Stratton is a candidate. He has no such ambition. He has and will have for the next five years—if it is not less majestic to say as much—more important representative duties to fulfil. The post office address of the next Senator appointed should be Peterborough.

At Confederation Senators Miller and Wark were appointed by Royal proclamation. Sir John Macdonald appointed 21; Hon. Alex. Mackenzie 4; Sir John Abbot 3; Sir John Thompson 3; Sir Mackenzie Bowell 8; Sir Sir Charles Tupper 1, and, old age beginning to decimate the Senate, Sir Wilfrid Laurier 36.

HOME MISSIONS.

Rev. Dr. Neil, of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, in addressing the Evangelical Alliance of Toronto, sounded an alarm which should rouse the churches and Christian citizenship of Canada to action. Speaking of the "strange conceptions many of our foreign population have of Canadian law and order, of home life and national life," he said:

"If we Christian churches in Toronto don't soon do something to educate them as Christian Canadian citizens they will become a great menace to us. In all our activities for what we believe to be the good of our State our opponents use many of the strangers against us. Many of these people are very clever, and there are, I think, no keener-minded children in this city than theirs. We should be at work among them. It would be, I think, a good idea if each church denomination would take one district and do its best to evangelize it."

There we have the whole case for Home Missions. The conditions mentioned as existing and constituting a menace in Toronto, apply (with similar force to the Canadian North-west. This part of Canada is filling up rapidly with a population of complex character. While the vast majority of them are nominally Christians—come from Christian countries—a very large proportion of them have been and have grown up under political and civil conditions which have never yielded a knowledge, or inspired conceptions of what constitutes the high form of Christian civilization, which obtains in Canada. (Without timely and wise guidance they will be or become deteriorating and mischevious elements in our population, and a dangerous and disintegrations factor in influencing our national life. Even those of our new population in the west, who come from the older parts of Canada, from Great Britain and the United States, who were born to the enjoyment of the privileges of, and the practice of the duties of, the highest form of civilization, will show moral lapse and deterioration of character, if they are deprived of the influences of Christian teaching and religious worship, which had made them what they were when they left Christian communities endowed with all the privileges, facilities and environments which go to form the highest development of citizenship.

In view of such facts, the duty of Christian churches and all good citizens is plain. The conditions, which, as shown by the quoted remarks of Dr. Neil, exist in Toronto, suggest the necessity of home mission work. If home mission work is indicated in Toronto, it is also more urgently indicated in the Northwest of Canada, where population is pouring in, where the distances are great and opportunities for Christian worship and Christian teaching are few or altogether wanting. There must be supplied or results that imperil the integrity of the national character will follow. Here is a wide field for church activity, with the harvest ripe and at hand. Not only are the churches and their ministers and members called upon to take action, but, if it is possible to thus differentiate, all good citizens are called to co-operation. The dangen of neglect of our Northwest in regard to the provision of religious and moral prevention and reformatory methods is natural. The big end of the Dominion will, in not many years, be the West. Its influence in national affairs, whether wholesome or unwholesome, will depend upon the measure and effectiveness of the activity of Eastern Canada, in providing the conditions that will insure a high character of western population.

The revived interest of the laymen of our churches in missionary movement is logical, especially in regard to home missions. It is to these that we must look for the prevention of the debasement of the standard of Canadian citizenship. No one will for one moment disparage the merits of foreign missions; but as we in Canada are situated, the demands of home missions are paramount. The spirit of Christ's commission to His apostles was the Home Mission spirit—"repentance and remission of sins shall be preached in His name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem," . . . and ye shall be witness for me, both in Jerusalem, and in Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth." Our "Jerusalem" is the Canadian Northwest. A man must first provide for his own household before he is free to spend his means upon the most commendable outside objects of liberality. No woman is called to any work that will involve neglect of her home duties. Does it not follow that the Christian zeal and liberality are misplaced, that take practical cognizance of the demands of foreign missions when the Home Mission field is suffering from lack of harvesters. Home Missions have the first call from the Biblical point of view, and the secular point of view discloses a similar priority of claim.

There is more truth than cynicism in the saying that charity begins at home.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

One of the most important co-incidents of the recent trade depression was the falling off of customs revenue receipts, due less activity of importation. Therefore a resumption of normal revenue condition is, pro tanto, an indication that the wave of hard times has largely spent its force. The Customs revenue of Canada for the month of December, 1908, has been the largest in the history of the Dominion for that month. The receipts were $7,183,356, an excess of $89,825 over the collection of the same month in the buoyant year, 1907. It looks as if the tide of trade has turned.

THE BLUE MOSQUE.

If Ever Color Calls, It Calls in the Mosque of Ibrahim Aga.

As every one who visits Rome goes to St. Peter's, so every one who visits Cairo goes to the mosque of Mohammed Ali in the citadel, a gorgeous building in a magnificent situation, the interior of which always makes me think of court functions and of the pomp of life rather than of prayer and self denial. More attractive to me is the "blue mosque," to which I returned again and again, enticed almost as by the fascination of the living blue of a summer sky.

This mosque, which is the mosque of Ibrahim Aga, but which is familiarly known to its lovers as the "blue mosque," lies to the left of a ramshackle street and from the outside does not look specially inviting. Even when I passed through its door and stood in the court beyond at first I felt not its charm. All looked old and rough, unkempt and in confusion. The red and white stripes of the walls and the arches of the arcade, the mean little place for ablution—a pipe and a row of brass taps—led the mind from a Neapolitan ice to a second rate school, and for a moment I thought of abruptly retiring and seeking more splendid precincts. And then I looked across the court to the arcade that lay beyond, and I saw the exquisite "love color" of the marvelous tiles that give this mosque its name.

The huge pillars of this arcade are striped and ugly, but between them shone with an ineffable luster a wall of purple and blue, of purple and blue so strong and yet so delicate that it held the eyes and drew the body forward. If ever color calls, it calls in the "blue mosque" of Ibrahim Aga. And when I had crossed the court, when I stood beside the pulpit, with its delicious wooden folding doors, and studied the tiles of which this wonderful wall is composed, I found them as lovely near as they are lovely far off. From a distance they resemble a nature effect, are almost like a bit of southern sea or of sky, a fragment of gleaming Mediterranean seen through the pillars of a loggia or of Sicilian blue watching over Etna in the long summer days.

When one is close to them they are a miracle of art. The background of them is a milky white upon which is an elaborate pattern of purple and blue, generally conventional and representative of no known object, but occasionally showing tall trees somewhat resembling cypresses. But it is impossible in words adequately to describe the effect of these tiles and of the tiles that line to the very roof the tomb house on the right of the court. They are like a cry of ecstasy going up in this otherwise not very beautiful mosque. They make it unforgettable; they draw you back to it again and yet again. On the darkest day of winter they set something of summer there. In the saddest moment they proclaim the fact that there is joy in the world; that there was joy in the hearts of creative artists years upon years ago. If you are ever in Cairo and sink into depression, go to the "blue mosque" and see if it does not have upon you an uplifting moral effect. And then, if you like, go on from it to the Gamia el Mouayad sometimes called El Ahmar (the red) where you will find greater glories though no greater fascination, for the tiles hold their own among all the wonders of Cairo.—Robert Hichens in Century.

To Suffer From Headaches Makes Life Miserable.

It takes a person that has had or is subject to headaches to describe the suffering which attends them.

The majority of cases are caused by constipation and dyspepsia. The dull throbbings, the intense pain, sometimes in one part, sometimes in another, and then over the whole head, varying in its severity by the cause which brings it on, purely indicates that there is something the matter with the stomach or bowels. To the fact that Burdock Blood Bitters reaches every part of the system is due its success in relieving and permanently curing headache. It has proven a specific for the malady in all its forms.

CONSTIPATION AND HEADACHES.

Mrs. Allison E. Brown, Summerfield, N.B., writes:—"I have been troubled with Constipation and Headaches for a long time. After trying different doctors to no effect, a friend asked me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I find I am completely cured after taking three bottles. I can safely recommend it to all."

A CASE OF CONSCIENCE.

The Powerful Motive That Moved the Commercial Traveler.

"No, I'm not whistling—and singing because business is good," replied the hardware drummer. "What ails me is because I have a clear conscience for the first time in three years."

"Have you confessed to murder?" was asked.

"Gentlemen, don't try to be funny. This is a sacred thing. I was in Boston three years ago, and I picked up a package on the street. On opening it I found seventy-five $1,000 bills. The name of the loser was there, but I took that money and got out of town by the first train. My conscience told me that I was as bad as a thief, but I tried to stifle it."

"A drummer with a conscience!" sneered three of the listeners in chorus.

"I went to Chicago with the money," continued the drummer, "and invested it in real estate. I knew it was wrong, but I did it. Six months ago I found myself worth $200,000. Conscience would not down. It got so bad that I couldn't look even a confidence man in the face. At length I started for Boston and hunted up the loser of the wealth. I found him in his office and told my story. When it was finished I laid my all before him and asked his forgiveness."

"And what did he do?"

"I will tell you what he did, and I shall never forget it. He looked at me and saw how I was suffering, and he took me by the hand and said in a fatherly way:

"'My friend, suffer no more. I was going to a poker game when I lost that money, and it would have gone anyhow.'

"But what in thunder are you doing on the road if you are worth $200,000?" shouted a voice.

"Conscience again, gentlemen—conscience. It won't let me retire and leave you fellows to do all the lying!"

The Earth's Changes.

The surface of the earth is undergoing steady transformation, largely through the agency of man, but perhaps nowhere is the plant and animal life of the region being more rapidly superseded than in New Zealand. The native Polynesian race, crowded by Europeans, is becoming extinct. Many of the imported animals run wild and multiply rapidly at the expense of the native species, even the streams being filled with European and American trout, which grow to great size.

GIVE THE CHILDREN PLENTY OF FRUIT

It Helps to Keep Them Well.

In a growing, active child the cells of which the body is composed are being worn out—and replaced — very quickly. This dead tissue must be gotten rid of somehow, and the danger is that the eliminating organs—the Bowels, Kidneys and Skin—may not do their work well enough. Then the blood becomes poisoned and the child does not thrive.

Nothing has such an invigorating effect on these organs as ripe fruit juices. Apple juice increases the action of the kidneys; other fruit juices stimulate the liver to secrete more bile, and bile produces easy and regular movements of the bowels; others stir up the glands of the skin to throw off used waste matter.

The difficulty is that to get these effects a great deal of fruit must be eaten, and the excess of pulp and seedy matter may upset the digestion. The better way is to give the children "Fruit-a-tives", which are tablets made of concentrated fruit juices with valuable tonics added.

"Fruit-a-tives" have the combined effect of the different fruit juices, helping all the eliminating organs to work properly, curing Constipation, toning up the system, and keeping the children plump and rosy. 25c. for a trial box, 50c. for regular size—5 boxes for $1.00. How Indians Catch Monkeys.

In South America the Indians take a cocoanut and cut a hole in each end just large enough for the monkey's paws. Then they fill the middle of the nut with sugar. When a monkey comes across the shell he thrusts in one paw and, finding sugar, he pushes in the other. He closes both paws on the sugar and then will not remove either for fear he shall lose the sugar. Then, while he cannot use either paw, he is easily caught.

ALL IS DESOLATION.

London Correspondent Describes the Ruins at Messina.

London, Jan. 11.—Of all the recent despatches from the ruined cities of southern Italy, that which gives the most complete picture of the conditions there is one from the special correspondent of The London Times, who witnessed the result of the San Francisco earthquake. In describing his arrival on the scene this correspondent telegraphs:

"When we had passed Scylla and rounded Capo del Faro there opened upon us the panorama of destruction. Pare, Paradina, and all the villages along the coast were in ruins. Then Messina came into sight. The sun was setting, and a lovely frame of violet hills, a tranquil dark sea, and a sky of emerald and gold surrounded the scene of the world's greatest tragedy.

"At first the extent of the disaster was not apparent, for the white walls showed prettily against the dark background, and it was hard to believe that the city was destroyed. But soon we saw that nothing remained but tottering shells. All along the magnificent curved sea front was ruin. Nothing broke the desolate line. Nothing had been spared.

"And then we entered the harbor and the most dreadful things of all became apparent to us. Messina was dead. Throughout the length of the Corso Vittorio Emanuele, which a few days ago had been an esplanade busy with traffic and gay with life and color, was silence—the silence of the grave. Sometimes a few soldiers passed, and at one point there was a small crowd waiting for the distribution of food. The rest was death. That was the first impression.

"Night fell, and the only illumination was from lamps and the searchlights of many ships in the harbor. I was rowed ashore. The searchlight on an Italian warship played on a single spot, and to it the boatmen took me. It was where the troops had organized some sort of headquarters, and a little band of soldiers were sitting around a camp fire. They talked softly, as men do in the presence of death, and, in the brilliant light from the ship, it seemed that this was the only place alive in what had been a town of 100,000 inhabitants. This was my second impression.

"I walked the length of the Corso, and then I realized the full horror of what had befallen Messina. The largest city in Sicily had been smashed as a glass dish would be smashed if it were thrown upon a stone floor. That any of the inhabitants survived seems a miracle. That the most appalling estimates of the loss of life have not been exaggerations appears evident. To go into details is useless. It is ruin everywhere."

Fire at Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, Jan. 11.—Fire did damage estimated at $1,500 at the Parkdale Inn on Saturday morning destroying the top floor of the building. Fire supposed to have originated through a defective chimney. The flames were discovered by the night watchman at the Clifton Hotel, who roused the inmates of the burning building and called the fire brigade. The guests and hotel staff formed a bucket brigade until the fire-fighters came, but the entire upper store was destroyed. Loss partially covered by insurance.

Keir Hardie In America Again.

New York, Jan. 11.—Keir Hardie arrived on the Campania Saturday. Mr. Hardie comes over particularly to deliver an address in Carnegie Hall on Tuesday evening for the Civic Forum, although he will speak also in Boston and in Brooklyn before making his hasty return in order to be on hand for the important labor conference in Portsmouth on Jan. 26.

His subject on Tuesday evening is to be "A Revolution in British Politics and Its Lessons for America."

Frozen to Death.

Bradford, Jan. 11.—At noon Saturday, D. Sutherland forced his way into James Newburn's residence, the latter not having been seen around since Thursday afternoon, and found the body of Newburn frozen stiff. Newburn was a man of about 80 years of age and was living alone. He has four sons and two daughters. Two sons live in the United States, one in Manitoba and the other in this neighborhood.

Electricity For Michigan Central.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 11.—The Journal says that important changes in the operation of the Michigan Central Railway have been decided upon, involving the electrification of all the road's terminals here, and of the main line as far west as Ypsilanti, which is 30 miles from Detroit.

Electric power will be generated by waterpower of the Huron River at Chelsea, Mich.

Almost Gas Victims.

Woodstock, Jan. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Thompson, residing just south of the city, narrowly escaped asphyxiation by coal gas on Saturday night, when Mrs. Thompson rose she fell over in a faint, and Mr. Thompson was very ill. Gas had escaped from the coal stove nearby, the top having been left open. It took two doctors to bring the unfortunate lady around yesterday morning.

Water $1 Per Barrel.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 11.—Prince Rupert has been without water for a week on account of the freezing up of pipes in the cold snap, in which the mercury stands about zero. The only available water is from a small creek, which is peddled around town at a dollar per barrel. The freezing of the water mains has resulted in the suspension of railway construction within the town limits.

Sued For Libel.

Quebec, Jan. 11.—An action for $500 has been taken out by Hon. L. A. Taschereau against La Compagnie Generale de Publication of Montreal for an alleged libellous article published by that concern about a week ago.

Red Cross Fund.

REST COMPULSORY FOR DR. LANGFELDT

Pastor of St. Luke's Has Been Advised by His Physician That He Must Cease His Labours for a Time.

It will be learned with general regret that Rev. Dr. Langfeldt's condition has not shown any improvement and in fact the weakness and fainting spells have been more pronounced and frequent, so much so that he has been advised by his physician that a complete rest is necessary. It is understood that arrangements are being made to allow Dr. Langfeldt to follow this counsel in order that he may fully recuperate his strength to continue his charge with the congregation at St. Luke's.

Annual Driving Party Of The Choir Of St. Martin's Church

Provided by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick to Bobcaygeon, Where a Sumptuous Supper Had Been Prepared at the Rockland House--Enjoyed by Choristers.

GRATEFUL TO THE PASTOR

Rev. Father Fitzpatrick annually entertains the choir of St. Martin's church, Ennismore, to a sleigh drive and supper, an event which is always looked forward to with pleasure and delight. On Wednesday night last the 1909 affair took place, Rev. Father Fitzpatrick taking the choir to Bobcaygeon, where they had supper, specially prepared, at the Rockland House.

They reached the northern burg about 5 o'clock, after a most pleasant and refreshing drive of some fourteen miles.

After a thorough warming up, the supper bell rang forth a welcome call, and thirty hungry singers betook themselves to the spacious dining hall, when a sumptuous banquet was spread under the supervision of Mrs. Lawless. Needless to say, the kind hostess, received ample proof of the superiority of her cooking. After full justice was done to the good things, the parlour was invaded and for three hours, music, song and story enlivened the flying moments. After thanking Mrs. Lawless for her great kindness and tendering a hearty vote of thanks to Father Fitzpatrick, the homeward drive, beneath a bright, silvery moon, closed the annual outing of St. Martin's famous choir.

TEMPERANCE AND MORAL REFORM LEAGUE MAKE PREPARATIONS

Following the Week of Prayer, the City Temperance and Moral Reform League will begin its programme of campaign with the vote for the banishment of the bar next January.

The work of the League will be educative throughout the year. The spirit that permeates the executive is that of good-will to the citizenship of this progressive city. In the language of Rev. Dr. Henderson, the League clearly recognizes the fact that the true spirit of Christianity to-day must be translated in the liberty and loving service for the uplift of men around us.

The object of the League will be to bring before the attention of the citizens of Peterborough, facts bearing upon the importance of removing the saloon from the hotel business. It will appeal to those who have been drawn under the power of strong drink, and will seek to work along the lines of the T.A.S., in securing the total abstinence pledge from the men of the city. It will appeal also to the higher ideals in the men who indulge moderately, in the hope that, for the sake of others, they will forego that which after all is a most dangerous and questionable delight. The League will appeal to the man engaged in the traffic themselves in the hope that they may get a clear clear view of the awful havoc that their daily efforts are producing, and the high esteem in which they would otherwise be held if they would cut out the bar and do all that they are capable of doing in helping to build up a strong and genuine citizenship where every British subject would be free to enjoy the blessings of his home and family circle. It will be the object of the League also to furnish facts relative to the large gains to the commercial interests of the city, and from time to time, will have the testimony of prominent business men in the towns and cities, where the enormous sums of money (worse than wasted in strong drink, have been converted into groceries, boots and shoes, clothing and bank accounts.

The league will appeal to all the citizens for their assistance in procuring helpful hints and information that will add to the interest of the educational work.

The League has opened an office in the new block, 173 Simcoe street, where all communications, clippings, short, pointed letters may be sent.

Considerable space has been purchased in the city press for the Saturday editions, which will be under the able management of an intelligent, wise and judicial editorial committee, and the executive invites all who are interested in this work to meet with them any Thursday night at their rooms at 178, Simcoe street.

REV. J. G. POTTER.

ANNUAL MEETING

Of The Peterborough Young Men's Christian Association.

The Annual Meeting of the above Association will be held in the Parlours of the Association Building on Tuesday, January 12th, 1909, at 8 o'clock p.m., for the purpose of receiving the annual reports and of electing six directors for the term ending December 31st, 1911.

All members and subscribers are invited to attend.

FIRST SERMON OF SERIES ON "THE LAST THINGS" BY DR. LANGFELDT

Last night at St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, Dr. Langfeldt gave the first sermon of a series, which he intends to deliver to his congregation, entitled "The Last Things." The text was taken from St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, chap.8, v. 19, "For the earnest expectation of the creature waiteth for the manifestation of the sons of God.

The Rev. Dr. Langfeldt pointed out that there is no point in the Christian faith on which such vague conceptions have been formed as about the hope that is set before us, and there are few things laid down more distinctly in both the Old and New Testament than in what that hope should consist.

The ordinary idea that Christian people form as to what is in store for them is something to this effect. That after death their souls pass into heaven, and that at the end of all things, they are turned out of heaven to go back to earth and dress themselves up in the old cast off clothing of their bodies and then stand up for judgment and receive their sentence. And then after this parade the good souls henceforth return to be forever in heaven. But this scheme does not hang together happily, and is without Scriptural guarantee.

In the second chapter of Revelations we have seven exhortations made by Christ Himself to seven churches in Asia that were in trouble, and seven descriptions are given of the rewards laid up for those individual churches, which should resist the wicked one, and persevere to the end. In not one of them is a promise that they should go to heaven, which to the modern minds is everything. What is assured to them is ruling over the nations, eating of the tree of life in Paradise, sitting near the Throne of God, and being clothed in white raiment.

St. Paul teaches that there will be a new creation, and that this depends on the restoration of man, and that the classification of the souls does not take place immediately after death, but in the future.

That there will be happiness in the world is very true, and it will be the same until the end. Dr. Langfeldt also gave many incidents of how the earth is befouled by man by reason of the hideous crimes which are committed in it,

He says that this is not forever, as it will pass completely away and all creation looks forward to this, the hope not of men only but of every sensitive being. In the text St. Paul points out that, the great hope set before the faithful is the restoration of all things, when all that offends will be cast out, and this earth will pass through the re-creating hands of God, to fit it to be [illegible] of His sons in their risen and glorified bodies.

The sufferings of the present time are not worth being compared with the glory that shall be revealed in us at that time.

The hour is coming when all that are in their graves shall hear His voice and shall come forth. They that have done good unto the resurrection of life, and they that have done evil unto the resurrection of damnation. Christ in his declaration of the last judgment expressly says "That it is only after the resurrection that He will say to the righteous, 'Enter thou into the joy of the Lord.'"

As to the stage between death and the resurrection very little is revealed to us. We only know that the souls of the righteous are in the hands of God, and that no torment shall touch them. It has been supposed that the soul passes through a progression of holiness, towards perfection, till it reaches the great end of the journey, which is when soul and body are united at the day of resurrection and judgment. But we know nothing for certain. Scripture is singularly silent upon this. It is more likely that this advance towards perfection takes place after the resurrection in the new world, and the further we look in the Epistles we see that in them the hope set before us is not the going to heaven, but the resurrection at the last day.

How say some, there will be no resurrection. But if this be true Christ is not risen from the dead, and if Christ is not risen then is our faith vain. St. Paul says not one word about going to heaven. He says that were it not for the hope of resurrection set before us we, should of all men be the most miserable. St. Paul understood it that we should be rewarded at the last day, and in the Creed the only hope set before us is the rising from the dead. Then surely our risen bodies will have to live on a risen, renovated earth, that earth being in heaven, in that God is in and around and above it, and that we have very sure testimony in the Scriptures that this risen and glorified creation will be the place of our residence hereafter.

He ends by saying that this world goes through various phases and transformations at the end, but does not cease to exist. It will be purged with fire and will be the home of risen men sanctified and glorified.

Inaugural Meeting Of Council; The Chairmen Are Appointed

Newly Elected Civic Board Meets This Morning for the First Time —Four New Chairmen Selected by Council.

MAYOR RUSH'S ADDRESS.

THE CHAIRMEN

Board of Works—Ald. Phelan.
Fire, Water and Light— Ald. Buller. (New).
Manufactures — Railways and Franchises—Ald. Gillespie. (new)
Finance—Printing and Licenses —Ald. Morrow.
Property—Market, Building and Health—Ald. Bradburn.
Legal —Reception, Legislation and joint with County—Ald. Turner. (New) Special PowerCommittee— Ald. McIntyre. (New).

The inaugural meeting of the newly elected city council was held this morning at 11 o'clock with all the council present as follows —Mayor H. Rush, Ald. Hicks, Duffus Duncan, Morgan, Buller, Bradburn, Turner, Gillespie, Metheral, McIntyre, Morrow and Phelan. The chief features of the meeting were the Mayor's address and the appointing of the chairmen of the standing committees for the year, which resulted in the re election of three of the old chairmen and the appointing of four new ones.

When the council met City Clerk Armstrong announced the result of the municipal election and reported that all the newly elected council had taken declarations as to their qualifications of offices.

Mayor's Address

Mayor Rush then read the following address to the council--

I am pleased to welcome you to the Council of the City of Peterborough for this year as the choice of the electors to look after the interests of the municipality. I feel honoured myself in being placed in this position for another term, and I know we all feel the responsibility of the trust reposed in us.

It will be our duty to carry on the policy of building up the city For this purpose no opportunity should be overlooked. Advantage should be taken of every opening to add to our industries whenever it can be done on terms advantageous to the city and anything that can be done to attract industries should be carried out.

The matter of experditures will require our careful attention. The additional schools that have been erected and the enlarged accommodation for school purposes has added considerably to the expenditure for educational purposes, and the requirements of the Board of Education, as shown by the demand which has been forwarded to the council will be materially more than last year. This sum must be raised, and will increase the tax rate for that purpose, and that we may keep the total rate as low as possible, consistent with proper service we will have to lay our plans for the year's work with the utmost care. Careful estimates of cost of every projected work should be made before it is undertaken, and the expenditures guarded to produce the best results.

The question of increased sewer accommodation was taken up last year and will require to be dealt with this year, so that the congestion at the outlet will be relieved, either by the construction of a new outlet or by such other means as may be found expedient.

I am sure that we can look forward to a year of harmonious effort to advance the interests of the city.

On motion of Ald. Phelan and Ald. Morrow, it was decided that the standing committees should be struck by the committee of the whole council, and accordingly the council was adjourned to meet immediately afterwards in committee of the whole in the committee room downstairs.

When the question of appointing the chairman of the standing committee came up it was moved by Ald. Morrow seconded by Ald. Bradburn that the chairmen be appointed by ballot without nomination. Ald. Morgan expressed himself as being in favour of having them selected openly but the other motion carried.

Ald. Hicks moved that Ald. Phelan be chairman of the Board of Works, and the motion carried unanimously.

Ald. Phelan in thanking the council for the appointment referred to the fact that he had been blamed for decreasing the wages of the corporation employees which charge he denied emphatically.

Ald. Morgan moved seconded by Ald Bradburn that Ald. Buller be made chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee and the motion was carried unanimously.

Ald. Morrow was appointed chairman of the Finance Committee unanimously on motion of Ald Bradburn and Phelan.

The chairmanship of the Manufacturer's Committee which includes Railways and Franchises, was given to Ald. Gillespie without opposition on motion of Ald. Morrow and Phelan

Ald. McIntyre was nominated for the chairmanship of the Property Committee by Ald. Morgan and Metheral and Ald. Bradburn was moved in amendment by Ald. Morrow and Gillespie.

On a ballot being taken Ald. Bradburn was elected by a vote of 6-5 Ald. Hicks not voting— as he afterwards stated.

On motion of Ald Bradburn and Buller, Ald. Turner was unanimously elected to the chairmanship of the Legal and Reception Committee

Ald Bradburn moved seconded by Ald. Duncan that the Power Committee be combined with the Manufacturer's Committee and the motion carried but was withdrawn later.

Ald. Morrow offered to resign from the chairmanship of the Finance Committee in favour of Ald. McIntyre but the latter did not want the position. He stated that he felt that he should have been given the chairmanship of the Property Committee He had had it two years ago and thought that he was not fairly treated last year when it was taken from him. He thought that he would have made a good chairman of that Committee and felt that it should have been given to him.

Ald. Bradburn moved that Ald. McIntyre be made chairman of the Special Power Committee and the motion was carried although Ald. McIntyre made the proposition that Ald. Bradburn should take that committee and give him the Property.

The action of the Mayor in notifying the Peterborough Canal Company that in case that company was not given a deed of their land on the waterfront the money paid by them as their share of the settlement of the Rogers claim should be refunded to them, was endorsed by the council.

The chairmen of the different committees were empowered to draft the personnel of the standing committees and they will report at the regular meeting of the council to-night.

Training vs. Long Service

In every business we see the long service man asking the trained one for advice.

Although the optician may claim he has had from fifteen to twenty-five years experience in the optical business, that is no proof that he is a trained man.

In the past seven months we have not had one dissatisfied patient. This is a pretty good record considering the large number we have fitted with glasses and the many who could not get relief elsewhere.

If you have trouble with your eyes and are discouraged, consult the Tate-Taylor Optical Company's Trained Optician.

Presentations Were Made By Members Of Ennismore Class

Ennismore, Jan. 10.—During the Christmas holidays the pupils of the continuation class waited on their teachers, Mr. J. A. O'Donohue and Rev. M. F. Fitzpatrick, and presented each with a very appropriate Christmas gift, accompanied by an address.

The gift to Mr. O'Donohue consisted of ten volumes of the principal poets, elegantly bound in rich Morocco, while that to the Rev. Father Fitzpatrick was a genuine eider-down comforter, richly worked and embroidered.

In thanking the pupils for their valuable and highly-appreciated gifts, Father Fitzpatrick laid particular stress on the excellent character of the work done by Mr. O'Donohue for the past three years, and for the kindly spirit which he noticed always existed between teachers and pupils. He congratulated the pupils on their earnestness and devotion to duty, and pointed with pride to the success of last year, when eight candidates wrote on examinations, five of whom obtained Normal entrance and three third class certificates. This should serve as a spur to faithful, honest work on the part of the present class. Mr. O'Donohue paid a well-deserved compliment to Father Fitzpatrick on the zeal and energy required to establish such a school, where the children of the township were educated in their own homes, and on his devotion to the cause of education, not here alone, but in the public schools of the township.

The closing of the six different schools of the parish was held in the T. A. S. hall, and, afforded the parents an opportunity of judging for themselves, the thoroughness of the work done by the teachers. The concert was by far the best ever given by the children, and the parents went home perfectly delighted.

The council for the coming year is composed of good, level-headed men, and the ratepayers will look for some much needed improvements on the road. A stone crusher is an absolute necessity, as no permanent roads can be made without one.

Miss Duffus, of Peterborough, is at present visiting at the home of M. C. Sullivan, and apparently having an excellent outing.

The Conway Bros. have just closed a most successful season of threshing. Besides a thresher they also operate a sawing machine, with which they do some extraordinary work. For example, last week they cut out of cordwood fifteen cords of stove wood in the short space of two hours. This is a record-breaker for Ennismore. The Conway Bros. are deserving of the high esteem in which they are held by the community at large.

The Inspector Makes Favourable Report On St. Joseph's Hospital

The following are the notes of inspection of St. Joseph's Hospital under the management of the trustees of St. Joseph's made by R. W. Bruce Smith; inspection on Dec 28th, 1908.

Buildings

The building is brick, three storeys with basement, well constructed.

The furnishings are excellent. Wards, beds bedding and furnishings were all inspected and found neat, clean and in perfect order.

There is a splendid new operating room.

The heating, lighting, ventilation, water supply and sewage disposal are all very satisfactory. The new plumbing is a great improvement.

Fire Protection

Six interior stairways.
Three fire escapes.
A stand pipe with hose in good condition attached thereto.
Night watch regularly employed.
Satisfactory protection of gas jets, lighting and heating fixtures.

Dietary

The dietary is suitable, properly prepared, and nicely served.

The records are neatly and correctly kept.

A careful record of the disposition of all supplies is kept

An inventory is kept of every article purchased and its use is carefully accounted for each month. This is very satisfactory.

Special features observed at inspection—

Special note must be made of the new addition completed during the year and which greatly improved the accommodation at this hospital. The work of construction has been well done. Other improvements, particularly the installation of new closets, baths etc., add greatly to the comfort and sanitary equipment of the institution. The expenditures have evidently been well and wisely made, and this hospital will now compare favourable with any in the Province

Needs and recommendations for improvements—

Ninety-seven patients averaging a stay of twenty-three days each in the hospital, were treated entirely free during the past year. The large majority of these patients were from the city of Peterborough and strange to say the city council makes no grant to the hospital. Brockville council votes to the two hospitals there each year $800. Chatham votes to its hospital each year $4,000 Guelph's municipal grant to its two hospitals annually amounts to $3,000 Why does the city council of Peterborough become an exception to all other hospital centres in Ontario?

CAPT. H. R. POUSSETTE MADE COMMISSIONER

Becomes Canadian Trade Commissioner at Durban, South Africa.

The appointment of Capt. H. R. Poussette, son of Mr. H. M. Poussette, of Sarnia, and a nephew of Mr. A. P. Poussette, K.C., city, as Canadian Trade Commissioner in Durban, South Africa, is a substantial recognition of his ability and knowledge of the country to which he is sent. Capt. Poussette was educated at Upper Canada College, Toronto, and also took a course at the Royal Military College, Kingston, and at the London depot of the Royal Military College. In 1895 he was gazetted to a lieutenancy in the 26th Middlesex Regiment, and four years later he was placed in command of his company. To South Africa Capt. Poussette went with Baden Powell's police, and after the war had command of various districts in Cape Colony and the Orange River Colony. When the Imperial Government recently handed the administration of the force over to the colonial Government the Canadians and others were gradually replaced by men of Dutch descent. Capt. Poussette was also relieved of his command and his appointment by the Dominion Government will enable him to remain in South Africa.

CHURCH COLLAPSES KILLING WORSHIPPERS

Congregation Is Buried In Disaster in Sion, Switzerland

FORTY BODIES TAKEN OUT

Almost All the Worshippers Are Killed or Injured by Terrible Accident —Bodies of Dead Removed Now Number Forty and More Are Believed to Be Immured In the Ruins — Pillars Give Way.

Berne, Switzerland, Jan. 11.—During Divine service yesterday an ancient church near Sion suddenly collapsed, burying the worshippers in the ruins. Practically all the members of the congregation were killed or injured. The wildest panic prevailed, those who escaped rushing through the field, shouting that an earthquake had overtaken the village.

Other villagers joined in the outcry and were with difficulty calmed. After an hour's exertion the fire company of the place extricated forty corpses, but it is believed that there is still a number under the timbers. Sixty persons were badly injured. The collapse of the church was caused by the time-worn pillars in the underground crypt giving away.

Charged With Forgery.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 11—Charged with forgery Alexander Anslow, an Englishman, aged 25, is under arrest here.

On Saturday morning Anslow went to the Imperial Bank and tried to borrow $50 on his own note. The bank told him he could have the money if he got two other signatures. Anslow went out returning in about 30 minutes later with the note signed by Robert Albertson, Grand Trunk ticket agent, and H. J. Jackson, agent for Michigan Central Railway at Niagara Falls Centre, and got the money.

The bank, on enquiry, found both signatures were forgeries, and Anslow was arrested by Chief Mains on Saturday afternoon.

Evil Days In Japan.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—According to Prof. W. D. McClintock of the University of Chicago there were more suicides in Japan last year than in any twelve months in the nation's history.

The professor attributes the increase in self-destruction among the Mikado's subjects to hard times, the pessimistic spirit of the people and the breaking down of the old religion among the upper and lower classes.

"The cost of living in Japan," said Prof. McClintock in a talk before the George Howland Club, "is very high and the people are complaining of the huge war debt. Japan, like many other countries, is face to face with the labor problem."

Buoy May Lead to Pole.

Christiania, Jan. 11.—The Meteorological Institute has received a letter from Soeroe, Finmark, stating that a buoy which was driven ashore Nov. 3 last contained a notice to the effect that the buoy was set adrift on July 24, 1900, near Cape Bathurst and about 284 miles northeast of the Mackenzie River.

It is believed that the buoy was carried through the Polar Seas between Greenland and Spitzbergen. It would seem to support the conclusions on which Capt. Ronald Amundsen bases his expedition on the Fram, which will start from San Francisco early in 1910.

Attacked by Burglar.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 11.—At one o'clock yesterday morning Officer Farrell of the city police found the back door of A. E. Dell's grocery store, Niagara Falls south, open. Stepping inside he was immediately attacked by the burglar, but after a severe fight Farrell overpowered his assailant, who is a man named Hopkinson of this city. The burglar had secured entrance by breaking the back window and unfastening the catch. Evidently he had opened the back door to make a quick exit in case of discovery. The stock was not in disorder nor was the safe disturbed.

King to Visit Kaiser.

London, Jan. 11.—King Edward has relented, so it is said in court circles, and, after all, he and Queen Alexandra are going to Berlin to visit the Kaiser. In official quarters the general view is that the visit to Berlin had better be deferred.

ARRESTED FOR MURDER.

Former Owen Sound Man Is In Serious Trouble In Nebraska.

Agallala, Neb., Jan. 11.—Lafayette Dales, alias John H. Dales, has been arrested here, charged with the murder of Vally Mann on the prairies east of here last October. A woman traveling with him as his wife is also in custody on a charge of complicity.

After his arrest Dales made a confession and said that he formerly lived at Owen Sound, Ontario, having left there eight years ago, when he jumped a $1,000 bond under which he was awaiting trial on a charge of larceny. At that time he deserted a wife and three children, one daughter married. His family are highly respected in Owen Sound.

The woman with Dales, a Mrs. Smith, claims that she was married to Dales in 1887, at which time he was known as William S. Lynch, and that the day after the wedding he deserted her and went to Canada, where he was married again.

Five years ago Mrs. Dales of Owen Sound received a C.O.D. parcel and on opening it found a note stating that the clothes contained therein were those of her husband, who had died and been buried at Youngstown, N.Y. She had doubts, however, as to his death. Being an attractive woman, it is said she has had many offers of marriage, all of which she refused, believing that her husband was still alive.

JAILER INSULTS "BEAK."

Then St. Agathe Magistrate Has Free Fight With Official.

Montreal, Jan. 11.—A sensational affair is reported from St. Agathe, a small town in the northern part of the County of Terrebonne. The trial of one Robert for assault was in progress before District Magistrate Grignon, when Jailer Loisiaau entered and spoke very harshly to several of the witnesses and when censured by the judge he insulted the magistrate in open court.

As no one would accept the court's order to arrest the offender the judge undertook the job himself and a free fight ensued to the great scandal of the spectators.

The judge shortly afterwards condemned the jailer for contempt of court and ordered a bailiff, Victor Garceau, to take charge of the delinquent.

Here another scuffle took place and as no arrest was possible, the case ended by the magistrate declaring that he would not sit unless the jailer, who is also guardian of the municipal hall, was dismissed.

Hains' Trial Nearing End.

Flushing, N.Y., Jan. 11.—With the calling of one or two minor witnesses to-day the defence in the trial of Thornton J. Hains will sum up its case to the jury. Prosecutor Darrin promised Justice Crane Saturday afternoon that he would only take an hour more to get in all the evidence.

All of the session Saturday was given over to rebutting the evidence that James Tierney, the defence's eye-witness to the shooting of the publisher, was on the float when the tragedy occurred. Members of the Bayside Yacht Club swore that they did not see Tierney. These witnesses further declared that the actions and appearance of Capt. Peter C. Hains were those of a rational man.

Benefit Society Fight.

Hamilton, Jan. 11.—Chairs and knives, it is alleged, were used to canvass votes for the candidates for treasurer for a benefit society in connection with the employes of the steel plant at a meeting held Saturday evening in the Orange Hall. George Fox, Gibson avenue, was cut in the head and received a wound that required five stitches when he was carried across the street to Dr. Wardell's office. From what the police are able to learn about the affair, some Italians wanted to see the treasurer of the society elected, and in a row that started chairs were used and knives drawn.

Legs Amputated.

Montreal, Jan. 11.—Salem Assaley, the Syrian peddler who shot and killed his brother and tried to murder his sister-in-law at Hawkesbury on Dec. 28th, had both his legs amputated Saturday at L'Original. Assaley spent five days and five nights without food or water under a pile of wood in the shed adjoining the house where the deed was committed, and then dragged himself four miles along the road with both his legs frozen, only to be arrested on the train while on his way to Montreal. Assaley is not likely to recover from the operation.

THIS DEMENTED MAN MAY BE MURDERER

Man Answering Carmichael's Description Caught at Claremont.

OIL USED IN CREMATION

It Develops That Missing Michigan Minister Had Lamps Specially Filled Before Crime—Demented Tramp Now In Custody Near Toronto Tallies With All Descriptions Given of Slayer of Browning.

Toronto, Jan. 11.—A demented, though harmless man, supposed to be Rev. John H. Carmichael of Adair, Michigan, suspected of butchering Gideon Browning, a carpenter, and burning his dismembered body in a stove was arrested about 9 o'clock last night and locked up in a C.P.R. oil house near Claremont, 21 miles east of Toronto.

A special volunteer guard was placed upon him for the night, and he will likely be taken to Whitby jail to-day.

He was first seen trudging along the C.P.R. tracks at Markham going in the direction of Locust Hill. He was too well-dressed for an ordinary tramp and his height, handsome bearing and peculiar manner of walking with both feet extremely turned out; together with his deep musical voice as he passed the time of day with all who met him, aroused a suspicion that he might be the man who is so much wanted by the supervisors of St. Clair County, Michigan.

A hue and cry was raised and search parties started out from both villages. The man was run down just outside of Claremont, shortly after 8 o'clock. He had left the railroad tracks and was hoofing it up a side-road.

From his irrelevant religious talk and his utter indifference and inability to give a satisfactory account of himself, he was believed to be hopelessly insane.

His description tallies pretty well with the newspaper description of Carmichael, and it is said somebody saw in him a marked resemblance to the cut of the Adair clergyman which has been published in the papers.

Used Oil to Cremate.

Port Huron, Jan. 11.—An interesting development yesterday in the Rattle Run murder mystery was the report that shortly before last Tuesday's tragedy Mr. Carmichael had ordered all the lamps of the church filled with oil. It had been customary to use only part of the lamps and those not used regularly had not been filled for a long time. In directing the filling of the lamps, however, the preacher made it plain that none of them should be overlooked. Notwithstanding that the preacher's directions were carried out, it has developed since the murder that the oil was low in many of the lamps. As the light had not been used for a meeting since the last filling, the theory has been advanced that oil from the lamps was emptied into the stove to hasten the cremation of the body of Gideon Browning.

A good deal of surprise had been manifested over the almost complete cremation of the victim's body, only a few bones and fragments of flesh being left. Footprints left by the pastor in the churchyard indicate that his last movements here were made just as the soft ground was beginning to freeze, and this would have been between 1 and 2 o'clock Wednesday morning.

It was discovered also that instead of tying his horse in the shed back of the church, the interior of the shed being visible from the highway in the moonlight, he left his rig in the shed back of the Lutheran Church, across the road.

Elgin Man Killed.

St. Thomas, Jan. 11.—Malcolm C. Leitch of Dutton, and one of the best known men in Elgin County, was instantly killed at West Lorne on Saturday evening, being struck by a fast Michigan Central eastbound train from Wolverine. Mr. Leitch has been bailiff for more than ten years, was in West Lorne serving papers and walking along the road in the village at 7 o'clock. The flyer was late and he did not see it. He was thrown eighty feet and decapitated.

SEVERAL TRAGEDIES AMONG THE SKATERS

Four Drownings Are Reported Throughout the Province.

SKATE INTO OPEN WATER

Eli Gibson and Jessie Robertson of Parry Sound Lose Their Lives While Skating on Bay — Owen Sound Youth Is Victim of Disaster—Boy Near Kingston Is Drowned—Toronto Boy Is Killed.

Owen Sound, Jan. 11.—The town had its first skating fatality that has occurred in years yesterday afternoon. The cold snap of the past week put a skim of ice on the bay near the mouth of the harbor and hundreds were skating on the Brook and Owen Sound sides of the bay.

Robert Hammond, a young man of 20 years, whose parents reside near Jones Falls, three miles from this place, was one of a party skating on the harbor, his companion being Miss Marguerite Lynch. They got on thin ice near the end of the old Boyd Wharf and went through into about four feet of water. Hammond was quick to get out on the edge of the ice and endeavored to pull out his companion, when the ice gave way again and let them in.

By this time half a dozen young men jumped in and after some difficulty succeeded in getting Miss Lynch out on the ice. They then attempted to rescue Hammond, who, by this time, had become thoroughly benumbed. The young man who had hold of him was seized with cramps and was unable to hold up Hammond, who sank into water about six feet deep, and was drowned.

Skaters Drowned.

Parry Sound, Jan. 11.—The first drowning fatality of the winter occurred here on Saturday night, when Eli, son of Matthew Gibson, turnkey of the jail, and Miss Jessie, daughter of Robert Robertson, lost their lives by skating into open water.

The young couple were last seen skating up the north shore and on their failing to reurn home, search parties started out yesterday morning. The young man's hat and a fur ruff belonging to the young lady were found at the edge of an open space of some acres in extent and the searchers after a short time spent in grappling, recovered both bodies. The young couple were about 20 years of age.

Skated Into Hole.

Brockville, Jan. 11.—Skating on the river after dark resulted in an accident to Louis Davis, a well-known hockeyist, which nearly cost him his life. He went into an air hole at the western limits of the town in a secluded spot and struggled hard in the cold waters for several minutes before assistance arrived. It was then with great difficulty that he was rescued by James Brosnau. He managed to hold himself up by clinging to the ice, which time and again broke down under his weight. Louis was taken to a nearby house and put to bed. A doctor was called to attend him.

Broke Through the Ice.

Kingston, Jan. 11.—A lad, aged 10, named McGee, while skating on the bay at Adolphustown got on thin ice, broke through and was drowned.

A Skating Fatality.

Toronto, Jan. 11.—While skating on Kew Beach Park ring at six o'clock Friday evening, Manville Babington, the 12-year-old son of E. R. Babington, architect, 35 Lee avenue, received such injuries that he died from concussion of the brain some hours later. He and a number of companions were skating about the open rink, when Manville collided with another boy. Both lads must have had their heads down, as they did not see each other.

Edward Meehan Dead.

Toronto, Jan. 11.—Mr. Edward M. Meehan, one of the best-known newspaper printers in the province, passed away on Saturday afternoon after only four days' illness. He is survived by a widow and three sons. Deceased was 53 years of age. He was a past president of Typographical Union No. 91, and also represented the printers' local in a number of capacities.

Conservative Elected.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 11.—The bye-election for the Provincial Legislature in Virden on Saturday to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. J. H. Agnew, Provincial Treasurer, resulted in the return of Harvey Simpson, Conservative, by 206 majority.

Mr. Agnew was returned at the last election by a majority of 85.

Four Fatally Burned.

Dickinson, N.D., Jan. 11.—Three daughters of Joseph Kibl, a homesteader, living 12 miles from here, were burned to death when their home was destroyed by fire Saturday during the absence of their parents. A fourth daughter was fatally burned.

Canary Isles Shaken.

San Sebastian, Spain, Jan. 11.—Telegrams received here from the Canary Islands report severe earth shocks Friday and especially at Las Palmas where several of the oldest houses in town were damaged. No casualties have been reported.

King Edward Not Sick.

London, Jan. 11.—King Edward's appearance at various shooting parties in the recent severe weather has quieted the ever-prevalent rumors concerning his enfeebled condition. He has several times remained out for some hours in thick snow and then ridden home in the cold air.

SIMPSON MAKES FINE SHOWING IN FIRST PROFESSIONAL RACE BUT SHRUBB WINS THE RELAY EVENT

New York, Jan. 9.—Alfred Shrubb won his handicap race to-night, beating three runners. The English runner did twelve miles, each of his rivals to travel four. Shrubb's competitors were Frank M Kanaly of Cambridge, Mass.; Fred Simpson, an Ojibway Indian from Peterborough, Ont., and Tom L. Williams of Somerville, Mass.

That New Yorkers do not care for anything in the way of foot races but long-distance events between star performers of the Longboat-Dorando type was shown by the comparative smallness of to-night's crowd. There were, however, more than 3000 persons on hand at 9 o'clock, when a five-mile professional handicap was started.

Shrubb ran the four miles in 21.20, and had nearly three laps the better of it when Kanaly was succeeded by Simpson, the Ojibway Indian.

The redskin started off at top speed, and the crowd greeted him with war whoops. He wore a sky blue jersey and white running drawers. In appearance he was a ringer for Longboat.

But Shrubb, nothing daunted, went after Simpson at a great rate. The latter had drawn away about half a lap, and was going steadily when Shrubb finished five miles in 26 minutes 55 seconds. Dorando's time for the same distance was, 28 minutes 27 4-5 seconds. The Indian had so much speed in the next half mile that Shrubb could not gain on him to any great extent, but at that the Briton seemed content to travel at an even pace, still holding an advantage of two laps and a half. Shrubb had the same kind of a lead at the end of six miles, his time being 32 minutes 15 seconds.

At six and one-half miles the Indian was still making it a stand off, for Shrubb had not been able to cut down the distance between them. Simpson was making a much better showing than Kanaly, and seemed to be in better trim. Shrubb ran seven miles in 37.43. He was still two and one-half laps ahead. Dorando's time for this distance was 40 minutes 31 4-5 sec. Shrubb was gaining now, and at the end of the next half mile he had increased his lead to two and three-quarter laps.

The Indian sprinted in the next two laps and drew away, but it was clear that the Englishman had eased up a bit. Shrubb's time for the eight miles was 43 minutes 15 seconds with the same lead.

Williams succeeded Sampson then, and as the latter started off with a sprint, Shrubb looked across the track at him and laughed.

Shrubb ran eleven miles in 1 hour 20 seconds and was two and three-fourths laps ahead, with Williams plodding along wearily. In the next half mile Shrubb increased his lead to three laps. After that the Englishman was easily the master. He ran the last lap at top speed, and won by three and one-half laps in 1.05.57.

A New York despatch on Saturday before the race said:—

New York, January 9. — Alfred Shrubb's attempt to defeat three runners in a twelve-mile race at the Madison Square Garden to-night will mark the professional debut of a new runner, who is expected to become the world's champion Marathon runner. The debutant is Fred Simpson, a full-blooded Ojibway Indian, who lives at Peterborough Canada. He is a farmer, is 27 years old, is married and has four children. Simpson has been running amateur for three years. In fact, he started out the same day as Longboat, but they were in different races. In the try-out for the Canadian representatives who were to take part in the Olympic Marathon at London last summer, Simpson ran twenty miles in 1 hour and 58 minutes and could have gone faster but for the fact that he was far in the lead at the finish. He finished sixth in the London Marathon, and was the first of the Canadians to show up.

"I think I could have won that race," says Simpson, "but for the intense heat which came on all of a sudden. I was running strong at the finish, but, naturally, was tired."

Tom Eck got hold of Simpson a few weeks ago and the Indian decided to turn professional. That is why he is to run against Shrubb to-night. It is a kind of try-out.

"I am not especially fast at four miles," Simpson admitted, "but I will give the Englishman the run for it. The main thing I want is to see how these fellows run."

Shrubb will run the entire twelve miles against Simpson, Kanaly and Williams, each of whom will run four miles.

Shrubb is Confident

"I think I can win this race easily," said Shrubb to-day, "as I have beaten some very fast men at that distance. About the Marathon distance, I am not so certain," went on the Englishman. "I have never gone that far, and I don't know whether I will have enough endurance or not."

Shrubb smiled as he said this, for he had just said he had run twenty miles in a try-out at the Pastime Athletic Club, where he is training.

"Endurance is not the thing that appeals to me in a race so much as speed," said Shrubb. "I have always counted on my speed. There's all the difference in the world between the man who runs for speed and one who goes out to show endurance. I don't think the Marathon race can compare with a ten-mile race in interest to one who likes to see the fine points of an athlete."

Shrubb then made the rather surprising statement that the man who starts in to race feeling very good usually loses. "I had much rather start out feeling a little loggy," he said. "If I feel drowsy and tired I usually work that off and round into shape as I go. If I start in feeling fresh something is liable to happen. The man who is fresh at the start usually is the first to lay down."

The Englishman is not impressed with the style of any of the long-distance runners he has seen. "But I will admit," he says, "that Longboat is a remarkable runner when it comes to endurance." Shrubb will run Dorando, Hayes and Longboat a distance of fifteen miles, and will bet that he can beat all three of them. "It anybody thinks that kind of a race would be interesting," he says, "I am ready to start any time. They can run five miles each, and I will run the entire fifteen."

THE GAME WITH WHITBY TO-MORROW SHOULD BE FASTEST OF THE SEASON

Local fans will have an opportunity of seeing a splendid game of hockey to-morrow night, when the speedy Whitby seven, who trimmed the local juniors by 7—1 on New Year's day, will clash with them there on their own rink. Whitby has a classy team and will, no doubt, give the locals the hardest kind of an argument, even on the Brock street rink, but the Peterbprough outfit is confident. They state that they have lost their last game and that henceforth there will be nothing but victories to chalk up for them. It is likely that the line-up for to-morrow night will be changed a little, and the change is expected to round out the team nicely. The boys are in the best of shape and are looking for a complete reversal of the score, although advices from Whitby are to the effect that the lakeshore team is equally confident and will have their strongest line-up on for to-morrow night. It will be a battle royal all the way, and those who appreciate fast, clean hockey cannot afford to overlook this match. The locals realize that they must win to keep in the running and they can be counted upon to put up the hardest kind of a battle throughout. There should be a big crowd present, as the match will be worth seeing.

THE FIRST MARATHON RACE TOLD IN THE DIALECT OF MODERN SLANG

The following is an account of the first Marathon as told by a writer in the Morning Telegraph. The literary style is not exactly classic but as an example of the use of slang words and expressions it tells the story in a rather amusing way.

It appears that when the Persian army got gay and went down and started to tramp around through the backyards of the Greeks and rob their banana stands like a member of the police force, about ten thousand of these Greeks shoved their pushcarts into a back alley and under the leadership of one Miltiades, who was probably the undisputed heavyweight champion of his times, had themselves in the sage brush in the foothills overlooking the Plain of Marathon, where the Persians were hold ing a basket picnic and sitting around on damask rugs playing pinochle for a nickel a corner and drinking booze stolen from the corner saloon.

Miltiades, with rare ring generalship, watched till he saw that the Grand High Muck-a-Muck of the Persian army was deeply interested in a pedro problem, then he and his banana venders waltzed out into the open and whacked them over the head with their butcher knives and splattered them around over the scenery till the county coroner had to collect the remains with a blotting paper.

When it was all over and old Miltiades saw that he had pulled off a pretty nifty piece of work, like all pugilists he was extremely anxious to get a correct a count of the affair in the papers. He couldn't trust the Associated Press reports. And besides he had a wood cut of himself in ring costume that he wanted to get printed with the story. So he called a young Greek soldier who happened to be a space writer on an Athens evening paper, and taking him out to the public road told him to scoot for the office of his paper in time to catch the first edition and put him right before the sporting public, and to say that he was ready to meet all comers at any weight.

We are told that this Greek soldier was somewhat of a runner for a banana merchant, and he must have been there with the goods. Borrowing a chew of tobacco from Miltiades he dug his toes into the sand and was away on the road to Athens with the speed of the wind. As he warmed up to the job he forget the wounds he had received on the field of battle. On he sped toward Athens, thinking only of reaching the editorial rooms with his news beat before the forms had closed and of hanging up a record for the distance that Longboat and Dorando and the rest of the runners of posterity couldn't touch with an automobile.

We have no official record of this first Marathon race, but that guy must have been going some. Farmers along the route say that he stepped forty feet at a clip and the friction of his speed parched the corn in the fields. Be that as it may, just as the managing editor of the Athens Advertiser had shot the last sheet of copy into the composing room and was looking up his cook to go out and hit one of his favourite drinks of budge, a bleeding, battle-scarred shred of humanity came up in the elevator and staggered into the editorial sanctum. Supporting himself on a cut file he shouted in the words later plagiarized by Mr. Roosevelt, "We've licked 'em to a frazzle," threw his copy on the night editor's desk, then wilted into the waste basket dead as a mackerel.

He never lived to know that he had invented the Marathon race. From the historical account of the first Marathon race we can see that Dorando is the only runner of the present day who runs the Marathon according to the ideas of the originator as he also drops dead in every race.

TIME IN TURKEY.

The Hours Are Always Changing and Holidays Are Numerous.

In addition to laziness in Turkey there is inaccuracy. The Turkish official is naturally inaccurate, and habit and conceit make him more so. This perhaps is due to the way in which Turkey measures time. Twelve o'clock in the day corresponds with sunset—that is to say, whatever hour the sun sets, it must always be 12. Consequently the hours change always, getting later the first half of the year and earlier in the last, which compels everybody to put his watch to daily torture. So no one in Turkey can flatter himself that he has the exact time. The most strict of Englishmen soon loses his national punctuality, so when two Turks make an appointment it is within the limit of half an hour or an hour, and even then they don't generally arrive till after the time agreed on, each one calculating on the utmost possible delay on the part of the other.

Consequently the state employees are not bound down by very severe discipline. No one expects them to arrive at their office at any particular time, especially as the majority of them go hardly at all. As for the most industrious, they appear for two or three hours in the afternoon only, and rather late. In the morning state offices are usually closed. Besides this workdays are rather scarce for the race of officials. Friday is the Sabbath of the Mohammedans. Saturday is the day after a feast day, and one does not do much then. Sunday the Greeks and Armenians remain, like good Christians, at home, and the Mohammedans generally imitate so good an example. Monday is again the morrow of a feast day. Wednesday there is a meeting of the council of ministers, and few employees go then to the ministry. With religious festivals added in, it is easy to understand that out of the 365 days of the year there are not many left to consecrate to the interests of the Ottoman empire.—Nicholas C. Adossides in American Magazine.

The Horological Revenge.

They were looking over their wedding presents. He pointed to a small bronze clock. "Seems to me," he said, "that I have seen that before."

"You have," she returned serenely. "You gave it to my first husband and me for a wedding present. When we divided the things after the divorce he kept the clock, and now he is sending it back to us."

A CLASH WITH TURNER.

Retort of the Print Seller Who Longed to See the Artist.

Turner, happening one day to pass a printshop, noticed in the window a copy of one of the engravings from his famous "Liber Studiorum." The print was in a very dirty, ragged state. Entering the shop, Turner asked to see the master and when the man came forward proceeded at once to blame him in no measured terms for having neglected so valuable a print and for having allowed it to become so disfigured. The man protested that it was no fault of his, as he did but offer the engraving for sale in the same state in which he had bought it from some other dealer.

This did not satisfy Turner, however, and he and the man continued arguing for some time.

At last the print seller lost all patience.

"Perhaps, sir," he said, "when you have quite finished what you have to say you will kindly tell me what you have to do with this engraving and what business is it of yours whether the print is clean or dirty."

"This is what I have to do with it," answered the enraged artist—"it was I who drew the original of that print. My name is Turner, and I did every line of that engraving with my own hand. Now do you wonder that I am angry at seeing my work in so disgraceful a state?"

"Indeed, sir!" replied the print seller. "So you are the great artist himself! All my life long it has been my wish that I might some day have the good fortune to see Mr. Turner. Now that I have seen him I sincerely hope that I may never see him again."

REGULATING BALLOONS.

France Made the First Laws Governing Aerial Traffic.

In 1871, when French balloons from beleaguered Paris were dropping on the "sacred soil" of Prussia, a royal decree declared them confiscate as contraband of war. And on the conclusion of peace a measure was passed through the German reichstag which forbade under penalty of death any future similar aerial violation of German territory during time of war.

So long ago as 1830, again, balloon ascents were made illegal in Turkey so far as regards Constantinople and forty miles around, and in 1872 the prohibition was extended to include the entire Turkish empire. To France, however, belongs the distinction of having made the first laws for the regulation of aerial traffic. In 1784 it was solemnly decreed that nobody should be permitted to go up in a balloon "or any other kind of aerostatic machine" which was worked by burning spirits of wine or any other means of making a fire.

Later, in 1811, it was enacted in France that henceforth no balloon, whether free or captive, should be permitted to ascend with any species of furnace or stove, that no one should be allowed to ascend in a balloon unless he carried a parachute and that ascents were not to be begun later than one hour before sunset nor earlier than an hour after sunrise. Furthermore, no ascents whatever were to be undertaken during the garnering of the harvest nor for six weeks prior thereto.

London in White.

After a few visits to the White City one feels rather desirous of whitewashing the whole of London. Why not? White is an admirable background for color. Our blue sky becomes bluer and our gray sky looks more beautiful behind it, while a golden sky makes white buildings delightful. If we could only make the whole city white, to begin with, and then gradually and sparingly color, what a beautiful city London would be!

The First New Woman.

"We new women are really not so new as we think we are," said one of them. "In the thirteenth century there were lots of us. Can anything 700 years old be new? The University of Bologna had for professor of jurisprudence Morella d'Andria. She was no more new than beautiful. Her charms were so overpowering that the trustees made her lecture behind a curtain. When she lectured openly the students, their minds wholly occupied with her beauty, could not attend to what she said. Madonna Mansolina was professor of anatomy, Matilda Tromboni taught languages and Marie Magnesi held the chair of mathematics. This university was by no means a second rate one. On the contrary, it was perhaps the leading university of Europe. It had 10,000 students."

Called For the Author.

The Friars, an organization of theatrical press agents, dined a manager more conspicuous for his shrewdness than for his culture. When the menu had been properly discussed the guest of honor amazed his hosts by making a speech notable not only for its grace and wit, but for some show of erudition. He sat down at last amid loud applause, when Augustus Thomas, at the same time joining the handclapping, shouted: "Author! Author!"

Emotional England.

Ours is a nation of sentiment. We are probably more sentimental in a tearful way than any other country in Europe. The strongest man in England can weep when he hears a hymn that used to be played on the organ of the village church when he was a boy, but there is not much depth in the tears. They are not very salt.—London Ladies' Field.

A True Heroine.

"What is your idea of a heroine, John?" asked the wife of his bosom as she looked up from the novel she was reading.

"A heroine, my dear," answered John, "is a woman who could talk back, but doesn't."

For the Tea Table.

The girl who serves afternoon tea to her friends, formally or informally, should have a little receptacle at her side such as is shown in the illustration. This is very convenient. The frame is nickel plated, and the plates are in any chosen style and color of china. It is usual to put tiny sandwiches in the top one, buttered toast in the second one and small cakes or slices of layer cake in the third one. Before the food is laid on them each one should be covered with a fancy doily.

Small Rugs in Fashion.

While large rugs are not going out, small ones are getting smaller. Some of the prettiest look like children's play rugs. They are in beautiful colors, with a little fringe at the end, and many are of cashmere design.

They are used over doorsills, between folding doors, in front of pieces of furniture and under chairs.

There may be half a dozen in one room and a whole strip of them in a hall.

Apt Pupil.

"Didn't I see the grocer's boy kiss you this morning, Martha?"

"Yes'm. But he ain't to blame, ma'am. 'Twas the iceman set him the bad example."

The Fleur-de-lis.

The origin and therefore the full heraldic meaning of the fleur-de-lis is disputed. By some the emblem is supposed to represent a lily, by others the iron head of some weapon, presumably a lance. From the claims put forth by English sovereigns to certain principalities in France, gained by inheritance or marriage, the French royal coat appeared as a quartering in the English royal arms, but it was abolished by George IV.

Taking Him Down.

"Yes, sir," said the pompous individual, "I always pay cash for everything I get." "Dear me!" exclaimed the matter of fact person. "What's the matter with your credit?"

Consoling.

Mrs. X.—I must apologize, Mrs. Y., for failing to come to your party Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Y.—Oh, my dear, don't speak of it! You were not missed.—Pathfinder.

GABLE WALL FELL AT POWER HOUSE

Blame is Handed Around From One to Another and So On.

The east gable wall of the new power house at Crow Bay tumbled over one day last week. There is a great deal of talk about it; the Engineer blaming the Mayor and three Councillors, and they blaming the Engineer and Contractor. It is not for us to say who is to blame as we know nothing of engineering, although we surmise. The new Council will find out who is to blame. We think a thorough investigation should be made.—Campbellford Despatch.

THE SILVER NORTH

Cobalt, Lorraine, Larder Lake and Gowganda.

Travellers returning from the great mineral fields of the north are more enthusiastic than ever regarding the permanency of the Silver Camp. One hundred and fifty teams are now employed daily in moving passengers, freight and supplies to the new Gowganda finds from Earlton, Englehart and Carlton. It is only 18 miles from Charlton to Elk Lake where there are 22 mines, and from Elk Lake to Gowganda is 32 miles.

Leaving Toronto 10.15 p.m. daily, on the Grand Trunk "Cobalt Special", Elk Lake can be reached the next afternoon, via Cobalt, Haileybury, New Liskeard and Charlton, and this will continue to be the best way.

The Ontario Government are being strongly urged to push on the extension of their line from Charlton, which will open up this rich territory.

Full information can be obtained by writing J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, G. T. R., Toronto, Ont. 5d9

PORT HOPE BRAKEMAN DIES FROM HIS INJURIES

Examiner Special.

Toronto, Jan. 12.—Bert Sherrin, Grand Trunk freight conductor, of Port Hope, died at Grace Hospital this morning of concussion of the brain. He was brought to the hospital on Sunday to be attended for a broken arm, sustained in a fall from the roof of a freight car. At that time there were no marks of wounds on his head, and the doctors who examined him came to the conclusion he was all right so far as that was concerned. A few hours after being admitted to the hospital, however, he lapsed into unconsciousness and never recovered.

Obviate EYE Trouble
The Greatest Evil in connection with Eye Trouble is due to the fact that the faulty organ does not generally betray itself until the damage has made serious headway. You can prevent this risk by simply paying a visit to Fowler's Optical Department with the Nugent Drug Co., and allowing our Specialist in Eyesight to make thorough examination. If there is no trouble with your eyes, the examination will cost you nothing, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that your Eyes are right. If, however, there be any defect which needs correcting we guarantee to fit you with glasses that will surely correct it.

FRANCHISE TO GAS COMPANY IS EXTENDED THREE MONTHS; THEY MAY LOCATE AT LINDSAY

Council Discussed the Matter at Their Meeting Last Night---Land Owners Block Company's Plans.

AN AGREEMENT POSSIBLE

The franchise of the city streets for the purpose of laying gas mains which was extended to the natural gas concern which Mr. Chas E Dettman of Waynesburg, Pa., is interested in has been extended three months, the original time having elapsed on January first. Mr. Robert Leary who is also connected with the company, was present at the council meeting last night and stated that the arrangements for the securing the desired land had not been completed on account of the blocking tactics on the part of some of the land owners outside the city to the west.

Mr. Leary stated that every advancement that had been made for the securing of the lease of the lands referred to have come to naught the owners refusing to accept all the overtures that have been made. Mr. Leary states that they will not sign anything. There are four who are acting in this manner and Mr. Dettman refuses to proceed with the work until he can secure all the land in the block in which he desires to carry on operations.

May go to Lindsay

Mr. Leary read a letter from Mr. Dettman in which it was stated that the work was ready to be commenced as soon as the other lots have been secured. In the mean time Peterborough may miss this opportunity as it is believed that other parts are similar to those in North Monaghan. Mr. Leary will go to Lindsay on Wednesday for the purpose of considering the proposition with some important men of that town. It was moved by Ald. Bradburn and Butler that the franchise be extended three months, during which time it is expected that something will be done.

Ald. Morgan stated that he thought the idea was a good one and if the gas rate could be reduced he was sure that no taxpayer would object to the franchising of the streets if this would bring about that result. It was also decided that the Mayor, Ald. Gilkespie and Ald. Bradburn accompany Mr. Leary in an interview with the four men who are holding out in an endeavour to bring about a satisfactory agreement.

Many Interesting Cases To Come Before Railway Board In Their Meeting At Ottawa

Ottawa, Jan. 12—Of the 47 cases to come before the Board of Railway Commissioners at the session opening here to-day, there are some that interest Peterborough.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen allege dangerous positions of switches, switchstands, etc., generally by being placed near tracks on which the employees of the C. P. R. Railway have to work at Kenora and Keewatin yards.

Christie, Henderson & Co., Limited, of Toronto, want the G. T. R. to construct a branch line from the quarries of the applicants to a branch line of the railway company between Harrisburg and Guelph; and for payment by the railway company of the costs and expenses incurred by the applicants.

The G. T. R. and the C. P. R. are applying for an order fixing the compensation to be paid by the Canadian Northern for the use of the Union Station property at Toronto, including the service and accommodation provided.

The City of Toronto wants crossings on Eastern ave., Toronto, protected; and there is also an adjourned application of Toronto relative to constructing a high level crossing above the Don Improvement, and certain railway tracks crossing King street, and for an Order determining the proportioning of the costs amongst those concerned.

H. L. Drayton, K.C., Toronto, complains re the level crossing of the G. T. R. at Windermere and Ellis avenues, township of York.

The Town of Welland complains regarding the dangerous condition of the crossing of the G.T.R., the Michigan Central Railroad, and the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway Co., on Main street, Welland, Ont.

The Toronto and Niagara Power Co., wants authority to install twelve underground tile ducts under certain railway tracks, where the same cross Bloor street.

A draft order on the board will be considered regarding equipping non-platform cars with proper operating levers dispensing with the operating wheel at present in use on the ends of such cars; there is also the important question of providing better protection of wooden trestles and bridges on railways to be discussed.

W. D. Woodruff, St. Catharines, wants the G.T.R. to provide better station and siding facilities near Vine Land for the handling of traffic for the Ontario Experimental Farm; the Bay of Quinte Railway Co., wants a settlement as to compensation that the company has to make to the Kingston and Pembroke Railway in respect to running rights it has over the K. and P. from Harrowsmith to Kingston; and there are applications affecting Arnprior, Montreal, Kingston and many other points.

The Retail Coal Dealers' Association ask for an order respecting the receiving of coal from shippers, the weighing of it at port of entry, collecting freight, settlement as to shortages, etc., etc.

GEO. PRICE, FOR FOUR YEARS WORLD'S CHAMPION OARSMAN, IS DYING

Examiner Special.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 12—George Price, veteran oarsman, and world's champion for four years, is believed to be dying here.

George Price is now about 69 years of age. He was bow oar of the famous Paris crew, of St. John. This crew was made up of fishermen. They obtained the name by going over to Paris in '67 to a big international regatta, and in the two days there, cleaning up everything in sight.

After that the crew rowed many races at home, beating among others the famous Ward Brothers, at Springfield. They raced here on Toronto Bay in '70 and '71 against the Prince Alfred crew and won.

The English Championship crew, which came out to Canada defeated them at Lachine. On the Kennebecasis River near St. John, in meeting this crew a second time, James Hetherforth, champion sculler of the world and stroke of the Englishmen, fell dead in his boat a mile from the finish. The Paris crew finished and made a record for the course.

At the Centennial in 1876 the crew made a poor showing. This was the last race they entered.

Price owed his position in the boat to his skill as a steersman. He was five years older than the other members of the crew. His occupation was customs preventive on a boat running from St. John to Boston.

The Paris crew were—Robert Fulton, stroke; Elijah Ross, 3; Sam Hilton, 2; George Price, bow.

DESPATCH SAYS THAT JOHN T. FAY'S DEATH WAS RESULT OF ACCIDENT

A Philadelphia despatch to the Bill Board says:—M. J. McGowan arrived in Philadelphia on Dec. 28, having come east with the remains of John T Fay, who died in Oakland, Cal., ten days ago. Mr. McGowan had the book privilege with the Fay Show and states that the untimely death of Mr. Fay was the result of an accident, and he was not a suicide. He was talking to Mr. Fay a few moments before the sad event, and states that he was unusually bright and cheery. The company were packing up preparatory to moving to the next stand and it is presumed that an accidentally discharged revolver caused the death of Mr. Fay. The company had bookings for twenty-five weeks, but the tour was abandoned. Mr. McGowan will organize another company on the same lines, and play Western Vaudeville time after the first of the year.

John T. Fay, who recently killed himself, caused more or less of a sensation when he appeared here several years ago with his wife in occult demonstrations. Mrs. Anna Eva Fay, of Baltimore, Md., mother of the dead man, very much disliked the fact that Mr. Fay taught his wife the mind reading and other stunts and when here last predicted that her son would not have a natural death.

Protestant Home Inmate Dies At 91; His Wife Was 111 Years Of Age

Three years ago it will be remembered, the death took place at the Protestant Home, of Mrs Badge, who had reached the remarkable age of 111 years, and who had to be tied in her chair during the last years of her life in order to keep her from falling from the seat. This morning her husband, William Badge, passed away at the Home, at the age of ninety-one years, death being due to the effects of old age. The deceased was born in Yorkshire, England, and after coming to this country, had lived at Ida, some fifteen miles from this city. He had been an inmate of the Home since 1903, being preceded there by his wife.

The funeral will take place on Thursday at 2 o'clock to the Little Lake Cemetery, with Rev. Canon Davidson officiating.

REMANDED FOR A WEEK ON VAGRANCY CHARGE

A case that had its pathetic side was commenced before Police Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning, when a young man, (William Gregg, was charged with vagrancy. He had been the victim of an accident, as the result of which his right leg was amputated above the ankle and he is forced to walk on crutches. He has been unable to do any work, owing to his injury, and it is stated that he is without means of sustenance. Gregg was not asked to plead this morning, but was remanded for eight days to give the police an opportunity to look into his case. In the meantime he will be an inmate of the county gaol.

ROYAL BANK.

In another part of this number of the Examiner will be found the detailed report of the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Royal Bank. It reveals a flourishing condition of the interests of this progressive and progressing financial institution. The statement presented shows net earnings of $746,776, equivalent to a rate of profit of 19 1-2 per cent. upon the bank's capital of $3,900,000. The deposits of the year show an increase of $4,200,000, the total being $37,443,441. The liquidable assets of the Royal Bank, amount to $21,944,449, representing more than 52 1-2 per cent. of the total liabilities to the public. The sum of $210,000 added to reserve brings up the total of that fund to $4,600,000. With this provision made, with the contribution of $25,000 to the officers' pension fund, their remained $78,685.86 to be carried forward to profit and loss. The shareholders would be unreasonable not to be satisfied with so satisfactory a showing of the results of the bank's operations for the year and the prospects for future success presented. The local branch under the management of Mr. V Eastwood is sharing in the general progress, and is satisfactorily expanding in local interests and public favour.

OUR CIVIC NEED.

London the Less, is not a slow place by any means. It is perishing with thirst, having to struggle financially and otherwise with a water supply problem. Yet on January 4th the electors voted $5,000 towards a hospital for consumptives. This seems a trifle but it is to be remembered that London maintains a general hospital at a large expense. We in Peterborough do not, perhaps, appreciate the extent to which we are indebted to private liberality for hospital service. The Nicholls Hospital, one of the best in the province, was erected and is maintained without a cent of expense to the general body of ratepayers. Neither does an equally excellent hospital, St. Joseph's make any municipal levy upon the tax rate, yet we can't get a $5,000 or $6,000 isolation hospital built. We even had our splendid system of parks supplied by private liberality, the province gave us our water front, nature planted a magnificent and fruitful country around us, and poured a noble river through our streets; government enterprise has made, or is making an inland city a lake port through the Trent Canal, private enterprise has supplied us with railways radiating to five points of the compass; enterprise has planted in our borders a cluster of industries great and smaller, and in many other ways we are well favoured. Under these circumstances we should take a broad and liberal view of demands upon our resources for needed improvements, for needed public utilities. We have a first-rate water system that is paying its way and should not be penny wise in equipping our good city with everything it needs to keep it in the van of the progressive population centres of this progressive province. We need many things —a Smith street bridge, a park for the southern end of the city, and above all, more manufacturing industries, and if we get these we should get our hands upon more power. We need—or have we now?—a wide-awake and live Board of Trade, and we need a more aggressive policy of industrial expansion on the part of our City Council. Does it ever occur to our Aldermen that it is a long time between new industries? We need to take on new activity and new enterprise in the direction of adding to our industrial assets. Robust and energetic civic administration will not confine the application of its energies to collecting and expending so many thousands a year; in doing over again things that have been done since Peterborough was a hamlet. We need to blaze new trails of enterprise. We need alert initiative, we need more steam in the boiler, more oil for the wheels of progress. The City Council should set as a mark of aim, the acquirement of the addition of at least one large new industry every year. It is hoped that our new City Council will fall into line and dress its ranks for a vigorous industrial campaign for the year 1909. Civic administration in its widest sense, its highest conception of usefulness and achievement is not automatic. There must be something to make the wheels go round. Our permanent civic staff, with a little watching and guiding can run the machinery of municipal routine and leave our City Fathers opportunity to busy themselves with some larger form of activity. Our civic need is the spirit of doing things which ought to be done.

The Town of Welland has an Industrial Commissioner whose business it is to keep a look-out for new industries and to bring them to the town, and he does it, simply by doing it.

BRITAIN PAYING OLD-AGE PENSIONS.

The British old-age pension act went into force at the beginning of the year. The operation of the scheme, which provides for the payment of pensions to needy persons of seventy years of age and upwards, will be watched with considerable interest in Canada, as in other parts of the world. Already it is seen that the tribunals by which pension claims are adjudicated show a disposition to strictly interpret the law, as out of 700,000 applications filed 200,000 have been rejected.

Extensive machinery is created by the act for examination and adjudication of claims for admission to its benefits. The proposal of the Radicals and Socialists, that pension payments be conditioned on age alone, and that sixty or sixty-five years be the age of eligibility, was rejected by the government, which insisted on the seventy-year condition. The ministry also refused to make every applicant who is a British subject and of the prescribed age, eligible for a pension. Instead, it stipulated that no pension should be paid to persons who had led idle, worthless lives, who had a prison record, had received poorhouse relief, or who possessed private means. In the latter case, however, there is a graded scale, under which the claimant is admitted to a share in the dole proportioned to his private income. The act fixes the maximum amount paid to any pensioner at five shillings per week.

Notwithstanding the modest maximum payment and the large number of applications refused, the government will probably not be able to keep the aggregate outlay below the estimated figure of $35,000,000. Fresh sources of revenue will have to be found. No official announcement has been made, but it is expected that the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Lloyd-George, will in his next budget recommend a tax on taverns and considerably increased duties on land incomes and inheritances.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A man named Thorogood is wanted in Owen Sound for bigamy. Serves him right for spelling "Thorough" after the manner of the Toronto World.

"It is," argues the Ottawa Free Press, "merely a coincidence that the decision of the Department of Education of Ontario, to insist upon the use of the letter "u" comes under the supervision of that department by a Deputy Minister whose name is A. H. U. Colquhoun!" The department is justified in retaining the "u," as it is abundantly embodied in one of the most able of its constituent members.

The Conservative Victoria Colonist says:—"Mr. Mackenzie King took Christmas dinner with Lord Morley. The way in which this brilliant young Canadian is forging to the front as a public man is very gratifying to the whole of the people of the Dominion, who do not allow partisan prejudices to stifle their sense of pride in the achievements of one of their own 'boys.'"

The United States elector can't touch the quick like a Canadian voter. When the Canadian electors defeat a premier he is down and out, dead and gone twenty-four hours after the ballots are counted. If Theodore Roosevelt had been a candidate for the presidency and had been defeated as president, he could have "held down his job" and done business till the 4th of March next—nearly five months of irresponsible administration, after a popular vote of want of confidence. We have responsible government in Canada, where governments and administrations cannot, so far as administrative initiative is concerned, hold office an hour after the people have condemned them. The president of the United States and his Cabinet can hold office, outside of criminal malfeasance, no matter how ruinously they rule, till their term expires by the effluxion of time—the people are powerless.

Says He Didn't Say It.

Montreal, Jan. 12.—J. W. Levesque, M.P.P. for Laval, who is one of the numerous defendants in libel actions instituted by Hon. Geo. E. Foster, M.P., arising out of speeches made during the Federal election campaign of last fall, in which Mr. Foster's relations with the Union Trust and Foresters' affairs were criticized, has filed his plea in court here.

He denies the statements attributed to him and claims that what he did say was justified by the facts and in the public interest.

Waited at Church.

Cornwall, Jan. 12.—A young man named Lanthier, who originally hailed from Montreal, was to have been married at St. Columban's Church yesterday morning to a Miss Walsh, with whom he had been keeping company for several months. The bride and her relatives were in the church on time and the priest was waiting, but Lanthier came not. Finally a message was sent that Mr. Lanthier had left town suddenly the night before, for parts unknown.

Transfered to Toronto.

Brockville, Jan. 12.—Miss J. Gibson, for some years the matron of the Eastern Hospital for the Insane here, has been notified of her appointment to a similar position in the Toronto institution. She will be succeeded here by Miss Jones of London, Ont.

WATERWAYS PACT SIGNED.

Long Labors on U.S.-Canadian Treaty Come to an End.

Washington, Jan. 12.—After a long period of hard, patient work, some features of which ran into years, United States Secretary of State Root and Ambassador James Bryce of Great Britain last night signed a treaty for the settlement of international differences between Canada and the United States.

This is the agreement which has been popularly alluded to as the "waterways treaty," but its scope is broader than that designation implies, as it contemplates a disposition of everything in the nature of differences between the two countries, and machinery for questions that may arise along certain lines in the future.

Provision is made for a joint high commission to be made permanent in character.

The final draft and printing of the treaty was not finished until late yesterday, almost at the last moment, a whole page having to be reprinted because of a slight alteration in the text.

Dependent upon the final ratification of the treaty rests the settlement of numerous complex questions connected with the water boundaries, which have been the source of more or less annoyance at different times.

Included in these are the regulations of the use of the waters of the Great Lakes, with the secondary, but none the less important question of the diversion of the waters of these boundaries, including Niagara Falls, which involve that of the amount of water to be taken out for power purposes, the navigation of the St. John river between Maine and New Brunswick, and the use of the Milk river in the northwest.

The work of the present commission will be continued by the organization until it is completed—its other work gradually being absorbed by the joint high commission to be appointed in accordance with the treaty signed last night.

Not Unsatisfactory.

London, Jan. 12.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The absolute agreement reached between Great Britain, the United States and Canada on the waterways question and the fisheries draft treaty are regarded by Great Britain as "not unsatisfactory." The matter now rests with Canada and Newfoundland.

Bull Fight For Relief Fund.

Mexico City, Jan. 12.—President Diaz and his Cabinet on Sunday attended a bull fight given for the benefit of the Italian earthquake sufferers. Thirty-five thousand dollars in gold was added to the Mexican relief fund.

May Go to Hamilton.

Kingston, Jan. 12.—Rev. C. L. Bilkey, curate of St. James' Church, may accept a call as curate to Canon Wade, Church of Ascension, Hamilton.

Choked by Piece of Beef.

Kingston, Jan. 12.—John Cheevers, Gananoque, aged 60 years, was choked to death on beef which he was eating at dinner in his boarding-house.

IMPROVED machinery will not, of itself, produce good flour.

You may be an excellent cook, but you cannot produce light, wholesome baking unless the flour you use be the kind that permits such results.

So in the milling; machinery alone cannot produce

Royal Household Flour

out of the wrong kind of wheat any more than you can make the right kind of bread or pastry out of the wrong kind of flour.

Ogilvie's Royal Household Flour is made from hard spring wheat—a wheat that is rich in nutriment, that grinds fine and white, and produces bread and pastry that are wholesome and nourishing as well as light and crisp—it's a flour that begins to be good in the wheat fields, not in the mills.

Your grocer prefers to sell you Ogilvie's Royal Household Flour because he knows the value of a pleased customer.

MANY DON'T KNOW

HEART AFFECTED.

More People than Aware of It Have Heart Disease.

"If examinations were made of everyone, people would be surprised at the number of persons walking about suffering from heart disease."

This startling statement was made by a doctor at a recent inquest. "I should not like to say that heart disease is as common as this would imply," said the expert, "but I am sure that the number of persons going about with weak hearts must be very large."

"Hundreds of people go about their daily work on the verge of death, and yet do not know it. It is only when the shock comes that kills them that the unsuspected weakness of the heart is made apparent."

"But undoubtedly heart weakness, not disease, is more prevalent nowadays. I should think that the stress of living, the wear and rush of modern business life, have a lot to do with heart trouble."

There is no doubt but that this is correct, and we would strongly advise any one suffering in any way from heart trouble to try a course of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Price 50 cts. per box or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or will be mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FLUTTERING OF THE HEART.

Mrs. G. M. White, Williamstown, N.B., writes: "I was troubled with weak spells and fluttering of the heart. I was so bad I could scarcely lie down in bed. I procured a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and they helped me so much I got another box and it has made a final cure. I cannot speak too highly of them. I think they are worth their weight in gold."

REV. D. O. CROSSLEY'S FUNERAL AT WHITBY

Many Tributes Paid to the Memory of the Well Known Methodist Divine.

Whitby, Jan. 10.—Memorial services for the Rev. D. O. Crossley were held in the Methodist Tabernacle this morning. The platform and chancel were a mass of flowers from the churches throughout the Bay of Quinte Conference, at which he had been stationed since entering the ministry, thirty-six years ago. Conference President, Rev. Robert McCullough, was chairman. Appropriate singing by the choir and prayer by Rev. J. W. Bell, of Pickering. Scripture lessons by Rev. S. T. Tucker, of Greenwood, were followed with short addresses by Rev. Dr. Abraham, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and Rev. J. P. Wilson, of Lindsay; Rev. R. M. Manning, of Peterborough; Rev. E. E. Howard, of Myrtle; Rev. W. B. Tucker, of Oshawa; Rev. Dr. J. J. Hare, principal of the Ontario Ladies' College; Rev. A. J. Tyrell, of Greenbank; and the benediction by Rev. Roger Allin, of Brooklin. A touching tribute was paid to the manliness and unselfish devotion which were Mr. Crossley most marked characteristics.

The funeral leaves by the local Grand Trunk train to-morrow morning for Toronto and King, where the interment takes place. Mr. Crossley, merchant, of Bracebridge, son of the deceased, and Rev. H. T. Crossley, a brother, the famous evangelist, from Lansing, Mich., were mourners. Mrs. Beatty, of Toronto, intimately associated with the family, was also present.

FIRST TIME HOME IN EIGHTEEN YEARS

Mr. R. J. Duncan, of Cleveland, Visited Father and Other Relatives.

Mr. R. J. Duncan, of Cleveland O. has returned home after spending a number of holidays with his father Mr. Robt. Duncan, McDonel street, and also his brother, Ald. Duncan, George street. It is 18 years since Mr. Duncan was in Peterborough before. He is now engaged as foreman of the machine room of the Cleveland Press. Mr. Duncan learned his trade in the Examiner, and 20 years ago left Peterborough for wider experience. He renewed many acquaintances whilst here, and noticed as other old boys have done the city is steadily increasing.

MAKE A CHANGE

A New Back for an Old One—How it is Done in Peterboro

The back aches at times with a dull feeling, making you worry and restless, sharp pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, it is agony to bend, stoop or lift. The rubbing of liniments or application of plasters does no good in these cases, they do not reach the cause. To get rid of these symptoms and exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one, follow the example of this Peterborough citizen:

Mrs. John Barclay, 583 Water street, Peterborough, Ont., says: "My back was weak and tender, and a dull, grinding pain had settled in the small of it: I could not stoop to lift anything and could scarcely turn in bed. Rheumatism had settled in my hands and shoulders. I was in constant suffering and could find no relief. The urine plainly told the disordered, inactive state of the kidneys, as it was thick and highly coloured and contained a quantity of brick dust sediment. Booth's Kidney Pills were advertised at the Market Drug Store, and I tried them. I found more relief in one box of Booth's Kidney Pills than in all else put together. My back strengthened and the pains left it. Rheumatism disappeared and has not since returned. The urine cleared, I am strong and well and feel like a new person." Sold by dealers. Price, 50 cents. The R. T. Booth, Co., Limited., Fort Erie, Ont., sole Canadian agents.

Routine Business At First Meeting Of Council For Year; Several By-laws Were Passed

Mr. W. J. Johnston is the New Member of the Board of Health---Many Communications Were Received and Dealt With---Board of Education Matters.

The first meeting of the new Council was held last night with a full attendance. There was a fairly large amount of business on the file that required attention and received due consideration. The meeting was concluded at nine thirty, which as far as early closing is concerned, is a good sign.

Purchase of Stone

A communication was received from the city engineer, stating that it was a good time to secure stone for crushing, while the sleighing is good. He advised that advertisements be posted for 600 cords, to be purchased at $3.00 per cord. (Ald. Hicks suggested that the matter be promptly acted upon.

The Board of Works will look after this affair.

The report of the results of the recent elections was presented by the clerk.

From Mr. T. B. McGrath, applying for the position of assessor.

A similar application was received from Mr. F. J. Jamieson. Both were referred to the Committee of the Whole Council.

Horse Was Injured

A letter from Mr. S. J. McCluskey, stating that on the evening of December 21st, his horse was struck by the hose waggon of the fire department, while standing on Hunter street. It was knocked off its feet and rather seriously injured. He states he has been put to considerable expense and asks for remuneration. Referred to Legal Committee.

From the Canadian Municipal Journal Company, asking for subscriptions for this journal.—Received.

Real Estate Title

From Bicknell, Bain and Strathy, regarding the title of a part of Murray street, (By a by-law number 467, passed in 1884, a part of Murray street was conveyed to the William Hamilton Company, but has never been claimed. This communication was a notice to the effect that a claim was now being made. —Referred to the Property Committee.

Chief's Telephone

An extension to the house telephone at Chief Roxzel's residence was formerly paid for by the city. Last year, however, a change was made and the chief had to meet the additional cost himself. The chief is entitled to different fines during the year, which he has never claimed, and he considers that this is a reason why the city should pay for the extra 'phone bill. Last year, for instance, he might have collected about $30.00 in fines, but did not do so. The cost of the 'phone is $12.50, not quite half the sum which he did not take as his rightful claim last year. —The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

Board of Education Matters

A communication was received from the secretary of the Board of Education, stating that the sum of $10,000 is required by the Board for permanent improvements, namely, for the completion of the new Collegiate and the equipment which is necessary. They ask that a by-law be passed for the issuing of debentures to raise this sum. Referred to the Committee of the Whole. A deputation of the Board will wait on the Council at the next meeting to explain this matter.

Pay the Demand

It was moved by Ald. Morrow, seconded by Ald. Turner, that the demand of the School Board for the month of January be paid. The motion carried. There was some discussion, however. Ald. Bradburn, Hicks and Buller wanted an explanation of the increase in the years, which had been noticed during the past three years. Ald. Morrow stated that several of the members of the Board of Education had intended to be present, but they were told that they need not attend until the next meeting.

For Charity

A request for a donation was received from J. Ross Robertson, of the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto.—Finance Committee.

Oil Supply

A request was received from the Crescent Oil Company, asking for the contract for supplying the city with oil for the coming year.—Referred to the Board of Works.

By-Laws

By-law No. 1428—A by-law authorizing the Commissioners of the City Trust to sell to Mr. Wm. Weatherstone one acre of the Hilliard property for the sum of $150, on which he is to erect a factory for the manufacture of mats.

By-law No. 1429—A by-law to authorize the construction of a sewer on part of Dublin street, and to make an agreement for meeting the cost thereof.

By-law No. 1430—A by-law to authorize the execution of an agreement with the Peterborough Light and Power Company regarding the gas mains and city streets.

By-law No. 1431—A by-law to appoint the members of the Board of Health of Peterborough.

Romaine St. Sewer

A new question was introduced at the meeting last night. It was about a sewer down on Romaine street. It seems that the sewer was not built according to the best ideas at least from all reports it was not fit for use when it was announced ready for use. Ald. Duncan by way of variety asked what was being done in regard to this piece of civic workmanship. He thought that now in the dry season it was the proper time to undertake the work. Ald. Phelan stated that it was the intention of the Board of Works to go ahead with the work at once. Ald. Morgan was out with a suggestion to have the work done by the city street commissioner.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY CHOSEN FRIENDS

F. W. Campbell Came From Hamilton to Perform Ceremony.

The Chosen Friends' ceremony of installation of officers took place Friday night in the S.O.E. Hall in the presence of the largest audience that has ever been known to attend. F. W. Campbell, Grand Organiser, from Hamilton, was present to perform the ceremony. He gave an address upon the prosperity of the Order in Peterborough and the Dominion of Canada, showing how this Order of Chosen Friends has rapidly grown from a small number of members to an extensive body reaching from Newfoundland to the Pacific Ocean, this fraternal society having gone ahead by leaps and bounds, he said, in the last 21 years. It ranks as one of the first to-day, financially. He stated that the society was so well organized on a basis of economy by the Grand Council that the greatest of success was assured to it and while there are nearly six hundred Councils and over five thousand new members were added last year, they are still looking forward to greater achievements in the present year.

The membership at present is about 35,000, with over three-quarters of a million dollars in the bank to pay death, sick and funeral benefit claims.

The officers installed for this year are:

THIS ATHLETE OF FIFTY-TWO YEARS

Says He Owes His Wonderful Energy to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Was Tortured With Rheumatism and a Cripple Till the Great Kidney Remedy Cured Him.

Six Nations, Ont., Jan. 11th, Special --Fifty two years of age but still young enough to captain the lacrosse team, John Silversmith, of this place can truly be looked upon as a wonderful athlete. One would naturally think he was all his life a healthy man. But it was far otherwise, and he unhesitatingly states that his wonderful energy and vitality are due to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I suffered from Rheumatism for over seven years," Mr. Silversmith says in telling his story, and it finally made a complete cripple of me. My back was bent nearly double and when I tried to walk I had to use crutches. Latterly I could not get around at all and I suffered excruciating pain.

"Two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills gave me relief, sixteen boxes cured me completely."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure Rheumatism because Rheumatism is caused by disordered kidneys and Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure disordered kidneys.

NO MORE DANDRUFF.

Newbro's Herpicide Destroys the Pestiferous Causes of Annoying Dandruff

Does your head itch? Is your coat or dress full of white flakes after dressing your hair? That's the effect of dandruff. Is your hair thinning? Are you beginning to get bald in spots? Are you already, in fact, rapidly becoming bald? If so, that is the effect of a measly little parasite that burrows in at the root of the hair, and throws up the scalp in dandruff and eats off the hair at the root. Science's latest discovery is a destroyer of that pestiferous germ. That destroyer is contained in no other hair preparation on earth but Newbro's Herpicide. Try it and be convinced. A delightful dressing.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two Sizes 50c and $1. McDermid & Jury, and Payne's Drug Store, Special Agents.

OBITUARY.

MR. JOHN MENZIES

An old and well respected citizen passed away yesterday in the person of Mr. John Menzies, oldest son of the late James Menzies, in the 69th year of his age. Death came peacefully at the family residence, 228 Stewart street, while surrounded by his faithful wife and a number of relatives and friends. The illness was of short duration, the deceased having been stricken down by the rupture of a blood vessel, which rendered him unconscious and closed his earthly life at noon yesterday. The late Mr. Menzies was born in Perthshire, Scotland, November, 1840, and came to Quebec with his parents in 1851, afterwards removing to Peterborough in 1853, where he has resided ever since. He was married to Sarah Bradfield, daughter of the late William Bradfield, of Douro, in 1875. One child was born to this issue, which died in infancy. Deceased was of a quiet, genial nature, an affectionate husband, and an exemplary member of St. John's Church. Sincere sympathy will go out to his sorrowing wife, who has been so suddenly bereft of her faithful companion in life, and to his four brothers and three sisters, William, Donald, Jennie and Kate, of this city; Robert J., of Lindsay; James, of Montreal; and Mrs. Walter Paterson of Milwaukee.

Funeral will take place from the family residence, 228 Stewart street, on Wednesday afternoon, at two o'clock.

SARAH JANE GILCHRIST

That the agreement arrived at to settle the claim of Mrs. Rogers, regarding stagnant water caused by the filling in of the water front, namely, that the City pay $800, the Canadian Pacific Railway $600 and the Peterborough Cereal Company $350, be confirmed, and that the City Treasurer be authorized to issue a cheque for $800 to the City Solicitor to carry out this agreement and that the City Solicitor be authorized to pay the money to Mrs. Rogers upon receiving a proper release, also that the Mayor be authorized to give a letter to the Peterborough Cereal Company, agreeing that if the Company is not given a conveyance of the land referred to in bylaw No. 1128 and the City resumes possession of the said land, the City will return to the Company the $350 paid by them with interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum.

Splendid Concert By The Imperial Scots Company

It would appear as if the Caledonian population of Peterborough and the citizens generally are inclined to the teetotal principle. They don't seem to fancy either "Imperial" or "Scotch." There was a small audience last night at the Conservatory Hall to listen with delight to one of the best concert presentations ever given in Peterborough—by the Imperial Scots Company. A recall was demanded for every number on the programme, and in the majority of cases responded to, with the result that a programme of thirteen numbers was expended into one of twenty-five. The company are artists individually, and know how to sing—their voices in the last number of the programme being as clear, true and musical as at the beginning. They were conscientious artists, too, giving as prompt deference to the demands of a handful of auditors as they could have done to a crowded house. The same conscientiousness marked their work. They always did their best, and their best was delightful in every sense. Ruby Scott Grant, the soprano, has a beautiful voice, of robust and vibrant sonority, but always musical and sweet. She sings with the competent ease of a trained singer, with dramatic consistency and intelligent appreciation of sentimental and musical values. As the French would put it Ruby Scott Grant is not a mere chanteuse, she is a cantatrice—an artist with splendid voice and method. Mr. J. M. Hamilton, the tenor, while hardly in the robust class, is a great lyric artist, modified by a distinctly dramatic temperament, especially evident in such splendid declamations as "Draw the Sword, Scotland," sung with great fire and finish in full Highland costume; and his duets with the soprano were sung with such dramatic effect as to give the flavour of opera to their joint vocal offerings. These were also marked by the beautiful blend of two beautiful voices. Mr. Fred Barclay, heralded as the "Prince of Scotch Comic Singers, by the pawky humour of his drolleries, captured the audience and could not escape repetition of his three set numbers. Perhaps the highest word of praise is due the pianist of the company, Miss Annie McKay, whose accompaniments were perfection, in both judgment and taste. Altogether the Imperial Scots Company provided one of the very best musical entertainments, and perhaps the best Scotch concert ever given in Peterborough. If a return engagement is possible a crowded house should greet their re-appearance.

Gospel Temperance Meeting In Crystal Sunday Was A Success

The Gospel Temperance meeting held Sunday afternoon was a most endouraging success, both as to numbers in attendance and the quality of the addresses given. Every seat at the "Crystal" was occupied and all the available standing room taken up, while numbers who sought entrance were unable to get in. The meeting was in the hands of the various Bible classes of the city, and short addresses were made by representatives of these classes.

The first speaker was ex-Alderman Johnston, from the George Street Methodist Church. He spoke on the question of revenue, pointing out that the nineteen bars and five wholesale liquor establishments in the city were greatly in excess of the needs, and expressing the opinion that if all the money that is worse than wasted in these places were directed into proper channels, there would be little trouble about the revenue.

He was followed by Mr. Stabler, of the Murray Street Church, who discussed the question of influence, dealing especially with the influence that can be legitimately exerted by a young man who is not a voter. He showed that education is a most important factor in this question, pointed out the advantage of pledge taking, and urged young men everywhere to put themselves on record as against the evil.

The next speaker was Mr. George Hall, of Knox Church, who spoke on the responsibility of a Christian in the matter of his example. Should he by his example encourage moderate drinking, when he saw the effects that are being produced on home and social life by the liquor habit. He should by his example and influence do all he could, not only to put a stop to drinking, but to promote the passage of prohibitory legislation.

Mr. Downey, from Charlotte Street, said that the history of the world had consisted of three things—movement, achievement, improvement. Nations had moved in the direction of the abandonment of slavery, which had resulted in the achievement of freedom and the improvement in the condition of the race. So it must be with this question. Move in the way of education and agitation. When the time comes achieve closing the bars by popular vote and so bring lasting benefit.

Mr. R. A. Jackson, of Park Street, drew a contrast between the effects of spending money for the products of agriculture and manufacture and for liquor, showing how the one brought benefit and the other degradation and death.

Mr. R. Lees, in the absence of Mr. R. Patterson, of St. Andrew's, spoke briefly on the evils of the treating habit, and Mr. Hassard, of the Y. M. C. A., brought the meeting to a close with a pointed address, in which he stated the position of the institution he represented.

The orchestra of the George Street Church was present and took charge of the musical part of the programme to the delight and satisfaction of all present. The chair was occupied by Dr. Middleton.

Next Sunday's meeting will be addressed by Rev. H. J. Keith, of Knox Church.

A naval seaman has once every day to salute the quarter-deck of his ship, even if no officer is upon it. "Salada" Tea is in such popular favour that many people feel like saluting a packet wherever seen. 109

The Philomathean Society Has Its First Meeting Of The Year

The regular meeting of the Collegiate Philomathean Society was held yesterday evening in the Assembly Hall. The meeting opened with the reading of the minutes which were approved and signed.

The first number of the programme was a speech on "Hannibal" by Mr. Cyril Moore, which was heartily applauded. The next item was a beautifully rendered piano solo by Miss Jean Hill, followed by a speech on "The early history of Peterborough County," by Miss Gertrude Yenney. Then there was a humorous reading by Miss Carol Johnston, which was very well given and much appreciated by the audience. Another speech followed on "Voyages to the Arctic Ocean" by Mr. Gran. Mowat. We understand this was Mr. Mowat's first speech in public, and as such it was extremely well given. Next was a pleasing vocal duet by Messrs. Carlisle and then a speech on "The Awakening of China" by Miss A. Stinson, which was quite the success of the evening.

The meetings concluded with the criticism by Mr. Stubbs, and the singing of the National Anthem.

Asst. Clerk—G. Armstrong.

Managers—W. J. Johnson, F. C. Copperwaithe, James Belleghem.

After the close of the meeting a banquet was held in Mr. T. H. Hooper's grill room, where eighty Woodmen sat down to enjoy the many good things provided. After the needs of the inner man had been attended to speeches were given by the chairman of the evening, Mr. W. J. Johnston, and after that Mrs. Wm. Gibbs, of the Ladies' Circle, gave an interesting address. Short addresses were given by Mr. C. Ough, of Port Hope; Mr. Grills, of Campbellford; Mr. S. Cameron, of Lindsay, and R. N. Jones, of the local camp.

The evening was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem, "God Save the King."

THE MURDER MYSTERY HAS BEEN SOLVED

Rev. Mr. Carmichael Leaves Confession and Kills Himself.

SAYS HE WAS HYPNOTIZED

Minister Who Slew Gideon Browning Says That He Was Under the Influence of the Carpenter and Killed Him to End the Spell — Carmichael Cut Throat and Died While In Custody at Illinois.

Carthage, Ill., Jan. 12.—Rev. John Haviland Carmichael, the clergyman who is wanted for the murder of Gideon Browning at Rattle Run, Mich., is under arrest here. He was taken into custody early yesterday after an attempt to commit suicide by cutting his throat. Carmichael made two serious wounds in his neck, and it was at first believed by the physician in attendance that he would recover, but he died at noon.

A letter of ten pages was written by Carmichael before he attempted suicide, admitting his identity, and confessing that he killed Browning, cut up the body, and burned it in the church stove while under the hypnotic influence of Browning.

Carmichael had been staying here for the last two days at a private boarding-house.

His attempt at suicide was made while in an outhouse on the premises of the place at which he had secured a room.

He has a sister living here, a Mrs. Hughes, but he has not been with her to any extent.

The confession given out yesterday afternoon, follows:

Carthage, Ills., Jan. 9, 1909.

To Mr. Waggoneil, Port Huron.

Honored Sir: I write this letter to explain some things in connection with Columbus church tragedy. I am guilty only because I am a coward. The man had such a hypnotic influence over me that I felt that something must be done. I feel greatly ashamed that a man said to be short-minded should be able to compel me to yield to his will, but I said nothing about it.

At first he said: "It's all right, older, don't be afraid." Then he began to talk about how we two could get rich. Three times he came to the rear of my barn and talked to me through the manure hole, twice he was at the river when I went to water my stock, and each time I felt that he was doing something that he was proud of. Once when I was going out to Columbus he was on the pike near the pike schoolhouse. When I overtook him he asked me to ride. I could not refuse. He asked me if ever I had driven up the pike to Port Huron, and said: "Come, let's drive up"; I dissented, but he kept on until he persuaded me to go. He got out and stood at the corner while I went to the barn with the rig.

Then after we had been at the restaurant, for which he paid, also for the horse, he gave me half a dollar and he wanted me to go across there and buy a small hatchet for his boy to play with. I began to tell him to go and do his own buying when he set his eyes upon me in the queerest sort of a look, something like the look of a snake's eyes.

Then I felt his influence tightening his grip on my mind, so I went, intending to go into the store and out the back way to get the horse and rush off for home. When I turned to close the door he stood looking upon me through the window and I just thought of the hatchet and came out again, but by that time he had disappeared, so I went to the barn, got my rig and started for home. When I made the turn into Military street, he was at the corner to get in. He rode as far as South Park, where he got out to take the car. He took the hatchet with him and said nothing, nor did I think anything at the time about the change.

Once at the depot at Adair he came out of the house in his shirt sleeves and exercised me by compelling me to walk the rails. All the while I felt as small as a bantam chicken.

When he arranged with me about his wedding he said he would go to Port Huron and meet me on the road between that place and the church. I thought he fully meant to get married when he engaged my services, but when he said it was all right, the others would come in a carriage.

When we went into the church I wanted to light a lamp, to which he dissented, saying "No, Elder, no light unless they should come." Presently he said: "Maybe you'd better have a little fire." So I went and passed wood to him through the window. When I had put in what I thought would be enough he said: "Now, Elder, the moon is shining right on the front door and if you go around there to come in some one may see you. Just put up some wood here and come in at this window." I brought a few sticks and laid them across each other, from the top of which he helped me in the building. He let the window nearly down again and we kept looking out through the opening to see the others come down the state road. Presently he took a big hearty laugh and said: "There ain't no use looking for there ain't going to be no wedding."

Thrilled.

He was sitting where the gleams of light shone on his face and his eyes were so brilliant that I was thrilled through and through with the queerest sort of feeling. I asked why then he had made the present arrangements, when he said, "Well, Elder, I just wanted to have a little fun. You consider yourself an educated man, and look down on a poor ignorant fellow like me. And I just thought I would show you what I could do. I knowed if I could handle you I could handle other men, too, and make a big thing out of it."

Then he said, "Now, if I say raise your hand, up she goes, see that's no dream." I felt my hand raise without no effort whatever on my part.

Then he said, "If I say let down your hand, down it goes," and I felt it going down in a singular manner.

The Combat.

By this time I was so alarmed I was in a cold sweat. I leaned over to see if anyone might be on the road when he began to laugh again and I saw that he was holding a weapon of some sort up his sleeve. Instantly I made a grab for it and got the hatchet from him and asked what he meant to do with that.

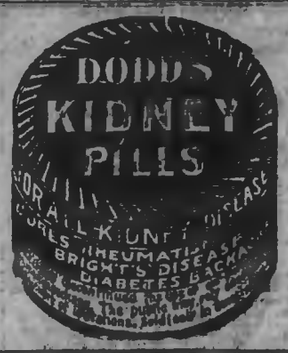
He said, "I'll show you," and from his overcoat pocket, drew out a knife in each hand. He came at me, striking with both hands, while I backed across the church, down the side aisle and across the front, but I did not dare to turn about to open the front door. Then I threw the hatchet and struck him and he fell. I then turned to open the door when he grabbed my leg and threw me down where my hands came upon the hatchet. There was a desperate struggle, in which I used the hatchet until he laid quiet and still.

I cannot tell all that happened after that. I was wild to dispose of the body. I was in a horrible terror, so I began pulling off his garments that I might drag the body somewhere and hide it. Then when my eyes fell upon one of those knives I flew into a rage and began to cut it when he woke up and grabbed me again.

Cremated the Body.

Then for a while I used that hatchet until I was sure he was dead. Then I saw the fire was hot enough to make the stove pipe red nearly to the elbow, so I grabbed him by the feet and dragged him down there and cut him to pieces, putting in each part as it was dismembered. Then I began to put the garments into the front stove when I remembered that it had a poor draft and the things might not burn. Then I saw that my clothing was torn and bloody, while some of his were yet whole and I changed and then took all but a few of mine and piled them in along with the body. I then went up nearly to tunnel station, where I turned my rig about and started it on the back track. My big coat hid my torn and bloody garments until I got to Chicago, where I purchased others. I am tired of trying to hide, though I have succeeded in eluding the detectives so far. If you get this while I am yet alive, come and get me, I shall not be far from Carthage, Illinois.

(Signed) J. M. Carmichael.



"Bronchitis"

Is generally the result of a cold caused by exposure to wet and inclement weather, and is a very dangerous inflammatory affection of the bronchial tubes.

The Symptoms are tightness across the chest, sharp pains and difficulty in breathing, and a secretion of thick phlegm, at first white, but later of a greenish or yellowish color.

Cure it at once by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Mrs. D. D. Miller, Allandale, Ont., writes: "My husband got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for my little girl who had Bronchitis. She wheezed so badly you could hear her from one room to the other, but it was not long until we could see the effect your medicine had on her. That was last winter when we lived in Toronto.

"She had a bad cold this winter, but instead of getting another bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, I tried a home made receipt which I got from a neighbor but to-nd that her cold lasted about twice as long. My husband highly praises 'Dr. Wood's,' and says he will see that a bottle of it is always kept in the house."

It is put-up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, the price 25 cts.

VANCOUVER SHAKEN.

Distinct Tremor Is Felt In Pacific Coast Cities.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 12.—A slight earthquake was felt here yesterday afternoon, about 3.45 o'clock.

In Fairview, Grandview and other high altitudes around the city, people rushed from their houses into the streets.

Reports of a slight shock came from Seattle, Victoria, Sumas, Tacoma and Bellingham.

The shock lasted from 7 to 30 seconds, according to various reports from different parts of the city.

In Bellingham plaster was knocked off the walls of houses and electric chandeliers shaken to the floor.

Tackled Two Burglars.

Kingston, Jan. 12.—Arthur Ellis, architect, caught two burglars in his house on Saturday night. He and his wife were out, and on their return heard persons upstairs. The electric lights were turned on, and the men sought refuge in the bathroom, where Ellis hung to the door knob until pulled into the room. He switched off the lights and found the men cowering and afraid. One disgorged all his thefts, money, trinkets, etc., and then, seizing a razor, flourished it and got away. Ellis held the other burglar, who cried and pleaded for mercy. Finally Ellis let him go.

NEW EXPRESS RATES ARE CANCELLED

Railway Commission Throws Out Express Schedule.

APPEAL WILL BE ENTERED

Justice Mabee and Colleagues Act Promptly in the Matter of the 1909 Tariff Put Into Force by the Express Companies and Says the Order Permitting It Was Issued Under a Misconception.

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—The Railway Commission took prompt and effective measures yesterday afternoon to protect the public against the increases in express rates all over Canada involved in the new classification, which went into effect on the first day of the year. Chief Commissioner Mabee, after hearing further evidence from the companies and from shippers, handed out a judgment summarily cancelling the new classification and restoring the old rate in force prior to January 1st. He explained that the board's order approving the new classification had been issued under a misconception as to the real effect of the changes applied for by the companies. It had been understood by the commissioners, he said, that the new classification would on the whole mean a slight reduction in rates to the general shipping public, and they had relied on the companies keeping the agreement entered into with the late chief commissioner, Judge Killam, that no radical changes would be made in the rates pending the result of the general inquiry into rates now proceeding, but now that it was made evident that the new classification involved serious changes and general increases, the board's plain duty was to recall the order of approval issued under a misconception. The companies are ordered to notify their agents at once to restore the old rates.

Notice of Appeal.

The question of claims for rebates on overcharges under the new rates from the first of the year until now will be settled according to individual cases. Counsel for the Canadian Northern Express Co. gave notice of appeal to the Governor-General in Council from the ruling of the board.

Two battleships are recommended by the committee instead of four, as estimated for by the Navy Department.

Just One Hail For the Chief.

Washington, Jan. 12.—If President-elect Taft has a sensitive musical ear, it will not be jarred on inauguration day with a constant repetition of the tune, "Hail to the Chief."

Heretofore it has been the custom of every band, drum corps, and other musical aggregation taking part in the inaugural procession to strike up this time-honored air in passing the President's reviewing stand. At the forth-coming inauguration the musical salute will be played but once and then by the band first passing in front of the President.

ORILLIA CURLERS WIN FIRST HALF OF THE SHEPHERD-NEILL CONTEST; NORTHERNERS AHEAD BY 4 SHOTS

Four rinks of Orillia curlers invaded Peterborough last night and were successful in winning the first of the contest for the Shepherd-Neill Trophy from a similiar number of local rinks by a four shot after a hard fought and interesting game. The visitors reached here on the 9 o'clock train and went direct to the rink where the locals were ready and the game was commenced at 9.30, terminating at 12.40. About fifty enthusiastic curlers remained until the finish and much interest was taken in the games. the ice was in fine condition and every end was keenly contested. Skip Neill succeeded in beating Skip Tudhope of Orillia by 11 shots but each of the other Peterborough rinks were down and his lead was not enough to carry them through. Skip Brown was beaten by 7 shots by Skip Thompson. Skip Giroux was three shots down to Skip Harvie and Toogood of Orillia beat Skip Ray by 16-11.

The return half of the game will be played in Orillia at an early date, as soon as the Peterborough bonspiel is over The conditions are that four rinks on each side will have to play in the second half.

The Shepherd-Neill Trophy was presented by Mr. Shepherd of Orillia and Mr. R. Neill of Peterborough to be competed for annually by the curlers of the two towns. The Orillia curlers won the first contest, but Peterborough followed up by winning the trophy for two years in succession. Last year however the Orillia knights of the stone succeeded in carrying off the honours again, and winning last night they have a good start in the race this year

GREAT INTEREST IN TO-NIGHT'S BIG JUNIOR O.H.A. GAME WITH WHITBY

A magnificent sheet of ice is available for to-night's big junior game with Whitby and the fans should see one of the hardest exhibitions of the season when the two great little teams clash. Whitby has still to be defeated in the district, having won their first two matches, but the locals are going to make a crimp in their lead by trimming them here to-night if the feat can be accomplished. Capt. Ray's bunch are in fit condition to-night, having rested since last game, and they will go on the ice fully recovered from the effects of their strenuous week They are fully confident of being able to reverse the score at Whitby, where Peterborough were beaten on New Year's Day, and if condition and determination can accomplish the stunt, they will do what they say. At all events it will be a merry ding dong battle all the way, and fans who appreciate fast hockey cannot attord to over-look the struggle which will commence at 8.15 sharp.

The team committee has decided to make a change in the line-up of the locals to-night, and the team will face the enemy in the following battle array:

Goal—L Giroux.
Point—Wade.
Cover point—Pentland.
Rover—Ray. (Capt.)
Centre—C Giroux.
Right wing—Short.

THE MURRAY ST. TEAM WHITEWASH KNOX JUNIORS BY A SCORE OF 4-0

The second game in the junior series of the Church Hockey League was pulled off on Park street rink last night, when Murray street Baptists showed under Knox Midgets by a 4 to 0 tally. Neither septette showed much team work, but there were numerous individual rushes in which Evans and Sullivan were the particular stars, the former netting all the Baptist's goals. The work of Dwyer in goal for the Presbyterians was all to the good, and called forth rounds of applause from the crowd on the boards.

Both teams have good material on their line-ups and with some team work developed can put up a good article of hockey before the close of the season.

The following is the line-up.

Murray street—I — Scott, Irwin, Miller, Evans, Doughty, Matthews, McConnell.

Knox—0 — Dwyer, Byers, Condon, Meehan, Taylor, Sullivan, Bucknell.

Referee—C Gilbert.

LAKEFIELD WILL HAVE STRONG TEAM FOR CITY LEAGUE GAME THURSDAY

Two good games will be seen in the City League series this week. The Lakefield team will make their first appearance of the season on Thursday night against the Belmonts, and native runners bring the report from Centreville that the team from Lake Katchewanooka is just about the fastest aggregation of puck chasers that has ever been out from that section in search of City League honours. Quinn and Simpson are on the forward line along with a new arrival in Lakefield, who is said to be a phenom., while Gordon Nicholls of the old Charlotte street champion team will be at point. On paper the Lakefield aggregation look all to the Jamaica, and they may take a lot of beating. The Belmonts expect to win, however, and it will be a hard fought contest.

The second game will be between the Strathconas and the T.A.S., the winners of the first two league games. The Abstainers will have a greatly strengthened line-up and hope to tie a knot in the Straths' championship aspirations by beating them Thursday. Rumours coming from the T.A.S. training quarters have it that Bill Meagher, Fred McGrath and other stalwarts who helped the red and black to win honours in other years will be on their team Thursday. The Straths, however, are in good condition and express no fear of the result. Looking at it from here it will be a game well worth seeing.

JUNIOR RACE IN DISTRICT IS CLOSE

Cobourg Trimmed Port Hope and Every Team in District Has Still a Chance.

Cobourg juniors put it all over Port Hope in a junior O.H.A. game at Cobourg the other night by 9—2 and as a result the situation in this district looks brighter for Peterborough, the local kids having an excellent chance to win out yet, despite their defeat at the hands of Port Hope last week. A victory over Whitby here to-night will put them right in the running and there will be a merry chase from then on, as the teams seem very evenly matched. It may prove a difficult task to trim Port Hope on their own ice, but stranger things have happened and the locals are going to make a big effort to pull off the feat. In the meantime they will have to win to-night's game.

The standing is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	To play.
Whitby	2	0	6
Port Hope.....	2	1	5
Peterborough ...	1	2	5
Cobourg...	1	2	5
Oshawa...	0	1	7

HOCKEY

The second game in the Mercantile League played last night at the Brock street rink, resulted in a victory for Ackerman's team by a score of 4—2 over the Auburns. The leather men led at the half by 2—0, and had the better of the play all the way, although the contest was hard fought from start to finish. It was a lively battle and not any too clean, both teams showing a tendency to wood up, so that referee, V. Morphet, was kept busy. He gave satisfaction to both teams. The opposing forces were as follows:

Auburns.	Ackerman's.

The Brantford Expositor has a cut of Walter Miller, the Peterborough player, with the Brantford pro. team, together with the following write-up: Walter Miller, who is now playing centre or rover, looks to have struck his gait. He was secured from Peterborough last year, where he had but few opportunities in last company. Roy Brown thought he looked good, although in need of development. Miller worked faithfully to make good, and may be he hasn't Thursday night he was cheered to the echo for spectacular rushes. If Walter improves his checking a little, he will be a star. He is at any rate a fixture on the team, and is probably the youngest one of the bunch. He has the physique and style for a great fixture.

The Lindsay Warder says of Friday's hockey match:

The Lindsay intermediates got away to a flying start again in the O.H.A. series. Belleville happened to be unlucky enough to first oppose the Lindsay team and that touted outfit tasted the bitter cup of defeat the score being 2—0.

It is a merry thought that the Bay City team didn't score once on home ice.

They are all wondering how it happened in Belleville now. Championships are looking distant and unattainable objects in that city.

The luscious odds everybody was talking about failed to show up and little money changed hands, not that it was Lindsay sports' fault The memory of the defeat the Lindsay Midgets inflicted a couple of years ago is still green in the minds of Belleville sports.

According to report the game was a rough and ready exhibition. The local team returned home this morning with a number of casualties to report.

Bill Goddard has a bad knee.

Sullivan has a yard or so of court plaster on his ear.

Randall is nursing several hammered ribs.

Taylor has to search for a portion of his person that isn't bruised.

And so on.

The team played great hockey last night and the game was one of the most exciting yet seen on the Belleville ice. The first goal was scored a fraction of a second before half time and the second goal about the middle of the second half. Goddard, assisted by splendid combination, notched the two counters.

Exporters.

The export trade was active and more would have sold readily had space on the boats been available. Straight loads of steers sold at $5 to $5.50, the latter price being obtained by Dunn & Levack for one load of the best cattle; export bulls sold at $3.75 to $4.25; with an extra quality one or two, at $4.50 per cwt.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots of butchers' cattle, butchers' weights, sold at $4.80 to $5.10; loads of good, $4.50 to $4.75; medium, $4 to $4.30; common, $3.50 to $3.90; canners, $1.50 to $2.50.

Milkers and Springers.

A limited number of milkers and springers were quoted at $30 to $50 each, the quality not being very good.

Veal Calves.

A few veal calves sold at $3 to $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts of sheep and lambs were moderate, with prices firmer. Sheep, ewes, sold at $3.50 to $4.15; lambs, $5.50 to $6.35 per cwt.

Hogs.

Gunns, Limited, report prices firmer at $6.40 for selects, fed at market, and $6.15 to drovers at country points, f.o.b., cars.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—At the Montreal Stock Yards' West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Jan. 9 were 2365 cattle, 1114 sheep and lambs, 1589 hogs and 125 calves. The offerings for local consumption to-day were 1100 cattle, 550 sheep and lambs, 1500 hogs and 50 calves. There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle, as compared with a week ago, except that feeling was former, owing to smaller supplies, but prices are unchanged. The attendance of buyers was large, and as the weather was more favorable than last week for keeping stock and prospects of a colder wave coming they showed a disposition to operate more freely and in consequence a fairly active trade was done. Cables from Liverpool on Saturday reported the market for cattle and noted no change in prices, but this fact was no inducement to exporters here, and trade in this respect was slow. A few extra choice stall-fed Ontario cattle were sold as high as $5.15 per cwt., while choice brought 5c; choice northwest ranchers, 4¾c; good beeves, 4½c to 4¾c; fair, 3¾c to 4c; common, 2½c to 3¼c, and inferior, 1½c to 2¾c per lb. A weaker feeling has developed in the market for sheep since this day week, and prices have declined ½c to ¾c per pound, notwithstanding the small supply coming forward. The demand is only fair and sales of choice lots were made at 4¼c to 4c, and culls, at 3½c to 3¾c per pound. In lambs, the feeling remains firm under a good demand and all the offerings met with a ready sale, 5¾c to 6c for choice lots, and at 5½c to 5¾c for good per pound. Calves were scarce, for which there was a fairly good enquiry, at prices ranging from $2 to $8 each, as to size and quality.

An easier feeling has prevailed in the live hog situation since last Wednesday, and prices this morning were 10c to 15c per cwt. lower, in spite of the continued small supplies coming forward, and the fact that the prospects are they will become still scarcer in the near future, as packers in some cases state that they are not in the country to come out, consequently they expect values to react again soon. The demand this morning was good and sales of selected lots were made at $6.90 to $7.10 per cwt., weighed off cars.

Three Coaches Left Rails.

Port Arthur, Jan. 12.—Three coaches of No. 97 left the track near Gravel yesterday morning and were damaged considerably. The officials say the passengers and crew were unhurt.

Freed as Priest.

New York, Jan. 12.—When arraigned in court yesterday on a charge of abducting Juliette Testa, a Newark, N.J., girl of 15 years, Nicolas Siani declared in court that he was not ordained by the Roman Catholic Church as a priest, although he had posed for three years as such. Siani was curate of the Church of St. Rocco in Newark.

Siani was discharged by the court and he and Miss Testa were sent to the City Hall in the custody of a detective to secure a marriage license.

Blythe Committed.

East Toronto, Jan. 12.—Haggard and worn and apparently now fully realizing his awful position, Walter Blythe of Agincourt was yesterday morning brought before Police Magistrate Ellis, charged with the murder of his wife by beating her to death with a poker.

The prisoner pleaded "not guilty." After hearing the evidence of the constable, Blythe was committed for trial at the spring Assizes.

Lynched.

Poplarville, Miss., Jan. 12.—A mob stormed the jail Sunday night and lynched Ping Willis, a negro who on Sunday attempted an assault on the young daughter of former Sheriff J. A. Moody.

Siam's Weights and Measures.

In Siam the liquid measure used is derived from a cocoanut shell which is capable of holding 830 tamarind seeds, and twenty of these units equal the capacity of a wooden bucket. In dry measure 830 tamarind seeds make one "k'anahn," and twenty-five "k'anahn" make one "sat," or bamboo basket; eighty "sat" make one "kwien," or cart. This is an example of the primitive origin of most units of weight and measures.

The First Slow One.

He uttered a joyous cry.

"And I am really and truly the first man you ever kissed?"

"Yes, Clarence," the beautiful girl rejoined, her red lip curling slightly. "The others all took the initiative."

Unkind.

"My dear," exclaimed a young bride, "my husband writes so beautifully! You really ought to see some of his love letters!" "Yes, dear, I know," was the unkind retort. "I have a drawer full of them at home!"

Genius.

"Is genius really the capacity for taking pains?"

"No," answered the poet. "Genius is the capacity for going without eating."

CITY CLERGYMEN URGE COUNCIL NOT TO LOWER POOL ROOM LICENSES

The ministers of the city have written the City Council letters regarding the licensing of pool rooms in Peterborough. At the meeting last night a communication was received from the Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Rural Dean of the district, and also from Rev. H. J. Keith, representing the Ministerial Association, in which they urged the Council not to decrease the license, but if possible to increase it if they could not be wiped out entirely. It was stated that it had been shown that there had been gambling allowed in certain of these establishments, and the influence at any time was not edifying to young men. The matter was given to the property Committee to deal with.

LICENSE BOARD IS SAME AS LAST YEAR

CAUTION TO COUNCIL ABOUT FROST AND FIRE DEPARTMENT

A caution has been sent to the City from John A Robertson, Secretary of the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association, to the effect that at this season of the year it was very important that the equipment of the Fire Department be kept free from ice. They advised that every precaution be taken to keep the hydrants free of ice, also the hose, chemical apparatus, etc. It was pointed out that fires have frequently made rapid headway through the inefficiency of parts of the apparatus which has been frozen, the result of carelessness. The letter was handed over to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

THE ACETYLENE GAS IN RINK EXPLODES

Stratford Man is Terribly Burned in Acetylene Accident.

ENTIRE WALL BLOWN OUT

Gas Plant in New Curling Rink Blows Up and Anthony Morris, Caretaker, is Seriously Injured—Citizens Are Scorched and One Has the Buttons Blown From His Coat—Damage Amounts to $600.

Stratford, Jan. 12.—As the result of an explosion at the acetylene gas plant in the curling rink here at 6.15 last night, Anthony Morris, the caretaker, lies in the city hospital terribly burned about the face and hands, and the east end of the new rink is a total wreck.

The plant was located in an outbuilding adjoining the rink, and the force of the explosion shattered the whole front. The shock was followed by fire, which was speedily extinguished.

D. D. Hay, R. S. Frame and E. C. Turnbull, prominent manufacturers, were passing the rink shortly before the explosion. They detected the smell of escaping gas and entered the rink to warn the caretaker. Scarcely had they told him when the explosion occurred. All three escaped serious injury, however, Mr. Frame having the buttons blown off his coat.

The loss will be in the neighborhood of $500; partially covered by insurance.

TILLMAN FLAYS TEDDY.

Senator Fiercely Resents President In U. S. Senate.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The galleries of the Senate were crowded yesterday when Senator Tillman rose to reply to President Roosevelt's strictures in respect to the Senator's connection with the Oregon timber land transactions. The President, Senator Tillman said, live in a house of which even the floor was glass. Later on in the session it was his intention to devote some time to bringing Theodore Roosevelt face to face with his true self, so as to let the people of the United States see what sort of man they had bowed down to. For the present he would content himself with applying to him this quotation from Spencer:

"He ranges throughout the whole world; neither is there any that can restrain him. Of late he has grown especially presumptuous and pestilent, barking and biting at all alike whether they be blameworthy or innocent. None are free from his attacks. He spares neither the learned wit nor the gentle poet, but rends and tears without regard of person, reason or time."

Reorganization of Soo.

Toronto, Jan. 12.—Hon. A. J. Matheson is in New York in connection with the reorganization of the Lake Superior Corporation and the Canadian Improvement Co., better known as the "Soo" Corporation.

An accession of capital from England to the extent, it is stated, of $50,000,000 will be made the occasion of paying off the balance of the loan obtained under the provincial guarantee in 1904. Originally $2,000,000, half the amount, was paid off in 1906, and the balance has been renewed from time to time.

The Algoma Central Railway, included among the Soo Company's assets and industries, will be extended to meet the G.T.P. Railway, and this activity will seek assistance from the Government.

A Tariff Reform Move?

London, Jan. 12.—The London correspondent of The Lancashire Post says in connection with the Imperial Press Congress an interesting point has arisen in regard to those back of it in London, and in response to a request from an Ottawa resident a Canadian journalist in London is anxious to ascertain if it is all a manoeuvre on the part of the English tariff reformers. The correspondent adds, if so, any British tariff plan for "hobbling" the Dominion press will be hopelessly ineffective in view of the movement in the United States to secure reciprocity with Canada.

Woman Frozen to Death.

Winnipeg, Jan. 12.—A despatch was received from Creelman yesterday giving meagre details of a brutal crime following a domestic quarrel. A man, whose name is unknown, drove his wife out in the bitter cold, with the thermometer standing at 50 below zero. The unfortunate woman was frozen to death beside the woodpile, where she had sought shelter from the wind.

The Mounted Police are investigating the sensational story.

Ask $60,000 Increase.

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—In his inaugural address before the new City Council yesterday morning, Mayor Hopewell urged the abolition of all civic committees, in view of the success of the board of control, and advised a new agreement with the Dominion Government, by which the city shall secure an increase of from $80,000 to $150,000 in the grant for fire protection and water service given to the Government.

The Department will recall the inspectors, as Canadian cattle are considered free from disease.

C.P.R. Acquires Paper.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 12.—The transfer of The Tribune to the C.P.R. and other corporation interests is one of the topics of conversation on the streets this morning. The deal has either been closed or will be within the next few days.

According to a report the consideration is $47,000 for The Tribune plant. R. L. Richardson, owner and manager, will retain the building and editorship of The Weekly Tribune, while the new management will increase and improve the plant with the intention of bringing out a morning as well as an evening edition. It will be an Associated Press paper, of which organization the C.P.R. controls the Canadian franchises.

Soldiers as Burglars.

New York, Jan. 12.—Tied to a chair, with his outcries stifled by a gag forced far back in his throat with the muzzle of a pistol, Harry Rawlinson, night watchman for a contracting company in its stables on West 15th street, was robbed by three soldiers from Fort Hancock early Sunday. Two of the soldiers were captured through information given by their comrades.

Chatham, Jan. 12.—While Mrs. Jas. Wardell was preparing to go to Hamilton to attend the wedding of her son, she fell on her porch and broke her wrist. She was lying on the ground when her husband found her. He became so excited that he was stricken stone blind and remained in that state for several hours.

Obviate EYE Trouble
The Greatest Evil in connection with Eye Trouble is due to the fact that the faulty organ does not generally betray itself until the damage has made serious headway. You can prevent this risk by simply paying a visit to Fowler's Optical Department with the Nugent Drug Co., and allowing our Specialist in Eyesight to make thorough examination. If there is no trouble with your eyes, the examination will cost you nothing, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that your Eyes are right. If, however, there be any defect which needs correcting we guarantee to fit you with glasses that will surely correct it.

$10,000 FIRE IN CAR BARNS AT KINGSTON

Broom Factory Was Also Destroyed in Big Blaze This Morning.

Examiner Special.

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 13.—Fire, which broke out early this morning in the street car barns on Ontario street, caused a loss of $10000. The night was bitterly cold, the fiercest of the year, but the firemen fought valiantly, aided by the battery men. Two street cars were burned. George Crawford's broom factory adjacent, was nearly gutted. His loss is $5,000. Both properties were fairly well insured.

IT WAS ONLY A TOY CAP SHOOTER

Police Court Case Was Held Just the Same and Charge Dismissed.

The toy gun case was heard in the County court yesterday by Magistrate Edmison. Mr. John McFarlane charged Thos. Winder with having threatened him with a firearm, in the shape of a revolver. Investigation showed that the gun was none other than a toy cap shooter as harmless as a Noah's ark, but resembling the real thing very closely. The case was dismissed, the complainant paying his costs. The affair took place at Burleigh, the gun being drawn it is stated, just in time to prevent a quarrel.

NO ADVANCE IN THE CITY WATER RATES

Some of our citizens are under the impression that the water rates for city water have been advanced. There is, however, no increase; only a change in the mode of payment of lawn rates. Instead of being paid by themselves these are now included with the household rates and to be paid together with them, quarterly, subject to the liberal discount of 33 1-3 per cent. We, in Peterborough may complain of our general (rate of taxation but there is no municipality in Canada possessing a better managed system or where more favourable water rates prevail.

GOOD PRICE FOR AN ENNISMORE COLT

A two-year-old Percheron colt, the get of the Ennismore syndicate stallion "Trenton," and bred and owned by Mr. Edward Corkery, was sold a few days ago to a buyer in Peterborough for the handsome figure of $200. A colt that grows in value at the rate of $100 per year is, according to horsemen, "going some," and if the pace is kept up till the animal reaches adult age, it will be worth a small farm. The price obtained is considered a good one, and speaks well for the colt itself, for the Percheron breed, for the sire and for the enterprise of the farmers of Ennismore.

THE WEATHER

SOME exceptionally cold weather has prevailed in the north-western portion of Canada during the past week, while in the east the weather has been comparatively mild. Last night, however, the thermometer took a little dip and went down to 10 below zero, but the temperature has moderated considerably since morning.

PRACTICAL SERMONS GIVEN INDIRECTLY DURING USUAL PROCEEDINGS OF THE COURT

Magistrate Dumble's Comments, Remarks and Advice May Well be Classed as Influential as a Sermon — Illustrations Always There — Temperance, Industry and Honesty To-day.

THE RAILBIRDS HEAR IT.

If the rail birds at the Police Court derive no other benefit by their daily attendance, they are at least frequently taught lessons in the ordinary virtues. Many of them are probably non-attendants at church on Sundays, but every other day in the week they receive forcible sermonettes accompanied by illustrations that should impress upon them the advisability of careful living.

This morning, for instance, there were three cases heard, and each indirectly taught a good lesson that could benefit everybody. They are as follows :—

Lesson of Temperance

James Wilson was sober and sorry this morning as he admitted the charge of having been drunk yesterday in spite of the fact that his name is on the Indian List. He has been on the water waggon for over four months, having been greatly assisted by the Salvation Army.

Yesterday he was feeling particularly poorly from asthma, and an old "pard" came along and enticed Jim to "come and have a drink." The struggle against the temptation could not have been a hard one, for Jim left his work and after four months of commendable sobriety, it did not take much to put him into sweet oblivion. Magistrate Dumble observed that the devil comes in all kinds of forms, and an old companion serves his purpose as well as anything else. "Whenever you see a man with a bottle go to the other side of the street," His Honour advised, and Jim responded "Yes, sir."

Staff-Capt. Walton stated that he would try to do the best he could for Wilson, and Jim tottered from the box promising to get back into the path of temperance again.

Lesson of Industry

Harry Waters, the next man to receive attention, has reached that stage of vagrancy that he may be termed a professional. To the charge that he was a vagrant without visible means of support, etc., he replied "Correct," and explained that he could not get any work. Chief Roszel understood him to say that he could not eat, whereupon the Magistrate remarked that his case would take care of him and he would soon have to be laid away. However Mr. Waters still enjoys the ability to eat, but it is work that fails him.

Chief Roszel disclosed the fact that this complaint was chronic with Mr. Waters, who had served in the jail and in Central Prison for the same reason. He was looking for six months on the knoll, but His Honour considered three sufficient, and at their termination Mr. Waters will have to go to work.

Lesson of Honesty

Stanley Hartley, "10 years, going on 11," Edward Shearer, 11 years, and John Jordan, 14 past, are three boys who were charged with stealing the sum of $5.40 from a George street concern. It happened shortly after supper hour and with the tiny little wad deep in a pocket of one of them, they went forth like gay young club men to take on a happy feeling. From all reports they visited three restaurants in a couple of hours and had a feast which they had only dreamed of like "Little Nemo in Wonderland." But good things do not last for ever, and trouble is generally preceded by pleasure. The boys were rounded up and spent the night hours in goal.

The money had been left in an overcoat pocket, and how the lads stole it is more than the proprietor can explain. Mr. Dumbe blamed the parents, stating that they should be sent to jail. People who have noticed the actions of these boys of late warned them to mend their ways but they would not pay attention to kindly advice. Mr. Dumble stated that the rawhide should be used on some parents. "Moral degeneration in the home causes the trouble," Mr. Hartley explained that he intended to move to Millbrook in a short time and wanted his boy given a chance. However the Magistrate enlarged the case until Friday when something will be done with them.

Pioneer Resident Of Otonabee Is Dead At The Age Of 89 Years

Examiner Special

Keene, Jan. 13.—One of the oldest residents of Otonabee passed away last night in the person of Mrs. Alexander Fife whose death occurred near Bethel, after an illness of a week. The deceased who was eighty-nine years of age was born in Otonabee and had been a continuous resident of that township all her life, being widely known and respected by the people of the community. Her maiden name was Margaret Eaton and she was a daughter of the late Alexander Eaton, one of the pioneers of Otonabee. During her long life she had seen the township develop from a backwoods community, small clearings in the forest being the only signs of cultivation, to a prosperous and smiling farm country. She had to experience the trials and hardships incidental to the pioneer's life during her residence in the township. Her husband, the late Alexander Fife predeceased her about thirty-five years ago. She is survived by three sons, Mr. John Fife, Reeve of Otonabee; Mr. George Fife, of Otonabee, and Mr. Alexander Fife, of North Dakota, and two daughters, Mrs. McConnell, of Otonabee, and Mrs. Jas. Heal, of Peterborough.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Ninety-eight Requests For Help During Past Nine Days

Since January 1st Mr. F. W. Miller relief officer, has been keeping an account of the number of requests for aid which he received daily and up to the present there have been no less than 98 demands on the city's charity account during the nine days which are left after one holiday and two Sundays are taken out of consideration.

This does not mean that all these people have been given aid in fact few, if any of them have been helped, but it shows what might be the case if aid was given to everyone who comes along. Mr. Miller has as busy a time in his office at this time of the year as could be very well dealt with. There are deserving cases which demand attention and are to be stated at the meeting last night in many of the other instances he does not like to turn them away but he knows he must under the circumstances which he always makes it a point to acquaint himself with.

FRESH AIR.

Fresh air is injurious—to the pneumonia microbe, which like all germ forms causing pulmonary diseases, flourishes and multiplies most plenteously in hermetically sealed or badly ventilated sleeping rooms. The modern—and in initial stages—curative treatment of consumption is breathing open air, irrespective of temperature. There is a popular delusion that "night air" is unwholesome. It is, however, no delusion, when the night air consists of re-breathed air in close sleeping chambers; then it is deadly, in proportion to the want of admixture of outer air. Such night air with outer air entirely excluded would, in time, cause asphyxiation as surely as carbon dioxide, or carbonic acid gas, which air expired from the lungs practically is. People forget or ignore the rudimentary physiological fact that the air we breathe out from the lungs is strongly charged with a poisonous gas (carbon dioxide) and if re-breathed sufficiently often is fatal to life. There is reason in breathing fresh or pure air. If the lungs or other pulmonary organs are affected, common sense suggests that they should be supplied with clean, pure, wholesome air—not air vitiated by breathing and re-breathing as is done by sleeping in close and badly ventilated rooms. No one with a weak or diseased or sensitive stomach, would think of eating tainted or rotten meat. Yet millions of us sleep in sealed bed chambers where after an occupancy of an hour or two the air becomes tainted and progressively rotten and unfit for breathing. Any one who will take the trouble to go from the open air into a closed sleeping room where one or two persons have lain all night, will notice a close, heavy, stuffy animal smell, the accumulated emanation from the lungs and bodies of the occupants, and be glad to escape to purer air. Yet that is the foul poison-laden air the occupants of the room have been breathing, especially the latter part of the night. Every sleeping room should be freely ventilated. If healthy conditions are desired and if the house is heated by hot air or hot water, the first thing done before getting into bed should be to shut off the heat, pile on the blankets, open the window, get under the bed covers and sleep as soundly as the condition of conscience will permit; for the other conditions, to sound, wholesome sleep will have been provided in the form of the fresh air of Heaven, Heaven's best physical gift to man. A device which permits without any inconvenience, the free access of pure air in all sorts of weather, even the most stormy is used by many persons. It consists of a light wooden box, without a bottom. This fits the width of the window and the lower sash rests upon the top. The box projects over the window sill outside and over the floor of the room inside. The air enters the open or under side of the box outside, passes upwards over the window sill and escapes through the under side of the box into the room, providing a constant and even current of fresh air and excluding the most violent gales or storms of snow or rain, and providing the only wholesome condition under which sleep can be taken, abundance of pure, fresh air.

If modern medical science regards and uses fresh air as the best curative agent of consumption, it is certainly the best preventive agent.

THE FRUITS OF FAITH.

The great industries at the Canadian Soo in their present condition and future prospects, illustrate the difference in the previsionary powers of Hon. G. W. Ross and Sir James Whitney. Towards the close of 1903 the extended condition of these industries in conjunction with a stringency in the money market, necessitated re-organization. To effect this it was made plain that unless the Ontario Government came to the rescue, the works could not be brought into operation. Hon. Mr. Ross recognized the possibilities of the situation and introduced and passed legislation guaranteeing the bonds of the Canadian Improvement Company. At that time, Sir James Whitney, then leader of the Opposition, led his followers in a vigorous crusade against the guarantee, and to show his idea of the folly of the proposal, and of the uselessness of the Soo industries, declared that "the money might as well be thrown into the Lake"—Superior, no doubt. Mr. Ross was right and Mr. Whitney was wrong. The money, instead of being thrown "into the lake," was thrown into the enterprise, which took on new life, flourished and became one of the foremost industrial assets of the country.

Early in the history of the Government of the doubting Mr. Whitney one million of the two million guarantee was paid off, and the Government of Sir James Whitney has been notified by the proprietors that the second instalment will be paid off within a short time. The confidence which Hon. Mr. Ross and his Liberal followers practically showed they had in the enterprise, his faith and theirs, were not only justified by the subsequent successful operations of the works, but have commanded the practical confidence of British capitalists. Within the past few days the large interests of the Lake Superior Corporation at Sault Ste Marie have been acquired by British financiers. At the head of these is Mr. Robert Flemming, one of the most successful of British financiers on a large scale, and with him is associated Mr. F. S. Pearson, D.Sc., the eminent engineer of London, Eng., and New York, and associated on the directorate with a great number of important companies, such as the Dominion Iron and Steel Company and more than half a dozen others. The new management, it is stated, will extend the operations of the Soo works, erect large modern blast furnaces, extend the Algoma Central Railway to connect with the Grand Trunk Pacific and effect other advances and improvements, such as ample available capital will easily admit of doing. It is believed that under the new management the Soo industries will afford great practical evidence that the guarantee of the Ross Government was well worth while, and will be given great and practical additional justification of the guarantee, without which the works would have collapsed.

In the history of Provincial administration the record of the Ross Government will be credited with the application of an expansive and progressive policy, which has been and will long continue to be of solid advantage to the country. Against great active and passive opposition the Government explored the unknown and theretofore unregarded country of North Ontario, revealed, in part its potentialities of wealth, opened it up with the first provincial built and owned railway, and in this process revealed a store of mineral wealth that is to-day yielding millions, not to speak of disclosing and making accessible important agricultural possibilities. But for that Government we should not probably have anything like these results. But for that Government we should not have had the Soo industries in their revived condition, for the party led by Sir James Whitney was both actively and passively hostile to these great undertakings. The liberality of the aid to the enterprise in its beginning was denounced by Sir James as a "colossal steal," and the money to guarantee their revival, "might as well have been thrown into Lake Superior." His unfaith in "the land of the stunted poplar," would have prevented the exploitation enterprise that has made it one of the richest financial harvest fields of Ontario.

The value of the mineral product of Canada last year amounted to $86,183,417, of which $9,535,407 was silver, very largely contributed by New Ontario mines.

REGULATES DIGESTION.

Digests All You Eat Leaving Nothing to Ferment in Stomach.

When your stomach is weak or lacking in gastric juice, anything that you eat, no difference what it is, will sour on your stomach, raise the bile and acids to cover your food like oil on water, causing indigestion, dyspepsia, stomach nervousness and belching of sour poisons, which produce foul odours, nasty taste, bilious headache, heartburn, intestinal griping and make you an object of misery. This is stomach trouble which can not be overcome with ordinary digestive medicines. It is caused by fermentation of your food, which will be remedied at once by Pape's Diapepsin, a preparation pleasant to take and as harmless as candy, though it will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat.

Indigestion is a result, not a cause of your stomach. If your stomach is sour and unhealthy, your food becomes tainted, and that's what is caused the indigestion and gas on stomach and other miseries. Pape's Diapepsin is an antacid, most powerful digestive and thorough regulator for weak stomachs. These Triangles will digest any kind of food you eat and will cleanse the stomach and intestines in a natural way, which makes you feel fine five minutes afterwards.

Any good pharmacy here will supply you with a case of Pape's Diapepsin for fifty cents. Just reading about this remarkable stomach preparation will not help. You should get now and get a case. Put your stomach in full health and by tomorrow you will forget the misery of stomach trouble. Your case is no different from many others. It isn't stomach nerves or catarrh of the stomach, or gastritis, or dyspepsia. It is food rotting—food fermentation—that's all—and takes about five minutes to overcome.

CHILDREN!

Vinol is the only preparation of Cod Liver Oil that children will take and which is easily assimilated by their delicate digestive organs. It builds up firm, healthy flesh, and makes little limbs round and plump. Delicate children thrive on it and love to take it.

The body-building and strengthening properties of Cod Liver Oil—but no oil—combined with peptonate of iron, makes Vinol the ideal tonic for delicate children. It tastes good and always does good.

GROWING CHILDREN play hard and work hard. They use up an enormous amount of energy and vitality that needs replacing. Give them Vinol regularly. It keeps them healthy, builds strong bones, sound flesh and muscle and pure rich blood.

SICKLY CHILDREN cannot digest ordinary Cod Liver Oil or Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil on account of their greasy nature and nasty taste. It upsets their delicate little stomachs. Vinol contains all the medicinal value they do and tastes good besides.

DELICATE GIRLS

"My 9 year old daughter was weak, pale, and had no appetite. I gave her Vinol, and she began to thrive at once. She gained rapidly in weight, color and strength." — MRS. W. H. GILMORE, Durand, Mich.

"MY TWO CHILDREN, who were puny and ailing, rapidly gained flesh and strength when I began to give them Vinol. I proved that Vinol is a splendid tonic for delicate children." — MRS. C. ALLEN, New Bedford, Mass.

NATURE AND A WOMAN'S WORK

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

Nature and a woman's work combined have produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they relied upon the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease and mitigate suffering.

The Indians on our Western Plains to-day can produce roots and herbs for every ailment, and cure diseases that baffle the most skilled physicians who have spent years in the study of drugs.

From the roots and herbs of the field Lydia E. Pinkham more than thirty years ago gave to the women of the world a remedy for their peculiar ills, more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Mrs. J. M. Tweedale, 12 Napanee Street, Toronto, Canada, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was a great sufferer from female troubles, had those dreadful bearing down pains, and during my monthly periods I suffered so I had to go to bed. I doctored for a long time but the doctor's treatment failed to help me. My husband saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and got a bottle for me. I commenced its use and soon felt better. I kept on taking it until I was well and an entirely different woman. I also found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made childbirth much easier for me. I would recommend your Vegetable Compound to every woman who is afflicted with female troubles."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Tweedale, it will do for other suffering women.

TERRIBLE EXPLOSION IN VIRGINIA MINE

One Hundred Workmen Die at Bluefield, Virginia.

DISASTER TWO WEEKS AGO

Lich Colliery In Which Fifty Men Were Killed Only a Fortnight Ago Is Visited With Another Terrible Catastrophe—Women and Children Rush to Pit Mouth When the Detonation Was Heard.

Bluefield, W.Va., Jan. 13.—Again the earth trembled yesterday and that unknown substance in which there is more deadly energy and destruction to the atom than in tons of dynamite, let go its awful engine of disaster in the mines of the Lick branch colliery, and snuffed out 100 lives.

It was in these same mines where two weeks ago to a day 50 miners were killed by a similar explosion.

In the quiet of the early morning there came a mighty rumbling in the bowels of the earth reverberating along the miles of corridors and air passages crowded with those who work there.

Scarcely had the detonation died away before a throng of terrorized women and children, in anxiety and dread, rushed to the mine mouth and implored those there to allow them to aid in the effort to save some of their loved ones. Mine Foreman Bowers, who was near the entrance, was blown from his feet, but managed to crawl out safely, as did also Robert Smith, a miner. With the foreman was a miner named Holiday and he, too, was bowled over.

A rescue party, organized on the moment, rushed into the jaw of the smoking mine and tried to rescue him. They were driven back by the deadly fumes of the after gases and were compelled to leave him to his fate.

A train was rushed from this city to the scene of the disaster, some 25 miles away, carrying bratticing and other material, to be used in the work of exploration and rescue.

There was supposed to be from 60 to 80 miners in the section of the mine affected. The debris from the explosion of two weeks ago had not been cleared away and 20 men were engaged in this work. Nineteen contract miners, with their crews, were at work in a new entry, and it is feared that all of these men were lost.

The explosion was in a different part of the mine than that of two weeks ago. Since that catastrophe the mine had been inspected by Government officials and by the most experienced mine men in the region, and all, it is said, expressed the opinion that it was safe.

Skaters Narrowly Escape.

Brockville, Jan. 13.—David Lewis and Fred Amond skated into an air-hole on the river and for several minutes their lives hung in the balance, particularly that of Lewis.

The boys did their best to extricate themselves, but their efforts were nullified by the thin ice breaking around them. Eventually a plank was shoved out by a rescuer. Amond succeeded in catching it and was saved. Lewis, who was further away, did not fare so well. He was rapidly becoming chilled and made frantic appeals for aid. The plank was too short to reach him and finally a rope was procured. Lewis' hands, however, were powerless, but he caught the rope in his teeth and in this way was pulled out more dead than alive.

Saw Scene In Vision.

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 13.—Rev. Charles E. Stowe in a speech here Monday night before a church club said his mother, Harriett Beeches Stowe, received the idea of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in a vision which she had in church, in which she saw clearly depicted the pathetic death of old Uncle Tom.

He said his mother began the story with this scene, writing the book backward.

In a recent court case it was shown that Mrs. Stowe's sister, Mrs. Isabella Beecher Hooker, held communication with spirits concerning her will and the phases of her every-day life.

Montreal Italian Murdered.

Montreal, Jan. 13.—Dominico Ranieri was stabbed to death on Vitre street on Monday night.

Cries for help attracted investigation by a passerby, who reached the spot of the crime just in time to see Ranieri fall to the ground with blood welling from his mouth, and to catch a glimpse of two running men. No suspicion of foul play was then entertained, as no marks of violence were visible. At the morgue three knife wounds were found in Ranieri's back.

New Transportation Company.

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 13.—Forwarders, Limited, a transportation company, has been organized in Kingston. The Moore's elevator will be taken over and suitable steam barges and other floats secured to carry grain from Kingston to Montreal. Ald. W. G. Craig is president and outside capitalists are represented on the board. They have secured a charter from the Dominion Government, authorizing a capital of $500,000.

Sultan's Brother Dead.

London, Jan. 13.—A despatch from Tangier to The Daily Telegraph says that news has been received here from Fez reporting the sudden death of Mulai Mohammed, brother of the Sultan and at one time pretender to the Moroccan throne.

There are rumors that Mulai Mohammed was poisoned.

Big Burglary at Kingston.

Kingston Jan. 13—Thieves smashed the lock in the store door of Louis Abramson, gents' furnisher, Princess street, Monday night, and made off with goods valued at $2,000.

The thieves also rummaged through the old safe, which was unlocked, and carried off farmers' notes, to the value of $1,500.

FRUIT JUICES CLEAR THE SKIN

The skin mirrors faithfully the state of the blood, and the blood shows how well—or how badly—the liver, bowels, kidneys and the millions of tiny glands in the skin are doing their work. If these organs are not properly clearing out the waste matter, the blood will be poisoned and the skin sallow, "muddy" and sprinkled with pimples.

Plenty of ripe fruit helps more than any other food to cure this condition, but even more effective, as well as less expensive, are "Fruit-a-tives". These are little tablets of concentrated fruit juices, combined in such a way as to many times increase their action on those organs that eliminate impurities. One or two "Fruit-a-tives" a day will keep the blood pure and give the skin the clear glow of health. 25c for trial size box—50c for regular size—6 for $2.50. Dealers everywhere should have both sizes. If you are unable to obtain "Fruit-a-tives" in your neighborhood, they will be sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

He himself was at one time a member of the Parliamentary press gallery. Prior to that he was schoolmaster at North Sydney, N.S.

Eight Hurt In I.C.R. Wreck.

Alderman Resigns.

Belleville, Jan. 13.—Ald. Thomas has resigned from the council. He thinks the aldermen used him badly in giving him an unimportant chairmanship as he stood next to the head on the poll. J. B. Harker, next on the list, will take Mr. Thomas' place.

A SURPRISED MINISTER

"For many years I have been a sufferer from bronchial catarrh, and had despaired of anything like a cure. Judge of my pleasant surprise when I first used Hyomei, which brought complete relief. Hyomei has been a veritable godsend."—Rev. Charles Hartley, Sardinia, Ohio.

Thousands of catarrh sufferers have given up in despair. They have tried stomach dosing, snuff, sprays and douches without success, and now believe catarrh to be incurable.

But Mr. Madill, the druggist, holds out hope to all distressed. He sells a remedy called Hyomei which is guaranteed for catarrh, colds, coughs, bronchitis, asthma and croup.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is medicated air, full of the healthy virtues of the mountain pines. You breathe in the delightful antiseptic air, and as it passes over the inflammation, kills the germs, and drives out the disease.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including a hard rubber inhaler, costs but $1.00, and an extra bottle of Hyomei, if afterwards needed, costs but 50 cents. See Mr. Madill about it to-day.

CARMICHAEL WAS LYING.

Police Says Confession Does Not Explain Murder.

Port Huron, Mich., Jan. 13.—"To my mind, Rev. J. H. Carmichael died as he had lived, almost, you might say, with a lie on his lips."

This was the statement of Prosecuting Attorney Frederick B. Brown, after a careful perusal of the confession left by the minister, murderer and suicide.

"His recent life has been a lie. Of that I am convinced. His confession appears to me as merely the pitiful attempt of a guilt-stained man to right himself in the eyes of the world before ending his miserable existence.

"I do not think that the confession shows mental weakness. Perhaps Carmichael's mind had become poisoned, but the statements he made appear to me to be as carefully thought out as the crime.

"Browning was a weak, simple-minded man. I doubt if he even knew what hypnotism was. He certainly could not have exercised an influence over Carmichael.

"I shall always believe there was another and deeper motive for this crime. What it was, neither you nor I nor any other man can tell. These facts died with Carmichael. They may never be revealed."

Other officials regard the confession as a "poor excuse."

"That was never written for a death-bed confession," said Under Sheriff Petit, "Carmichael wrote that with the idea that he would mail it to the sheriff and then come back, or be brought back, and stand trial. Then he found it getting too hot for him and he killed himself."

REPRESENTATIVES OF LABOUR HAVE DEMANDS

Delegates Present Case to Sir Wilfrid and Hon. Mr. Lemieux.

WANT THE I. C. R. RETAINED

Eight-Hour Day on Government Work, Higher Salaries For Letter Carriers, Minister of Labor, and Abolition of Assisted Immigration Are Included In the Program of the Trades and Labor Council.

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—The representatives of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress wh waited upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux yesterday afternoon were given considerate hearing.

The requests of the delegates were that legislation should be passed to: Prohibit strikebreakers during investigations; let onus of asking for conciliation board rest with company; adopt eight-hour day on Government work and fair wage schedule; increase pay of letter carriers; appoint Minister of Labor; retain I.C.R.; repeal provision requiring $300 deposit for Federal candidates; make election day a public holiday; abolish assisted immigration; exclude Asiatics; appoint technical education commission.

J. A. O'Donoghue, who was the first speaker, asked that during the progress of investigations under the Lemieux Act, the introduction of strikebreakers should be prohibited. Taking the case of the C.P.R. machinists' strike, he pointed out that the machinists had suffered criticism because it was at their instance the board of conciliation was named and they had declaimed to accept its findings. He argued that the onus of asking for a board should rest with the company in all cases.

Alphonse Verville, M. P., in urging the adoption of the eight-hour day, said the reduction of hours on the I.C.R. was proof that eight hours was sufficient for Government work.

James Simpson urged an increase for the letter carriers. He said: "It is a fine thing to have a surplus, but a surplus that is built up by starving the employes is creditable neither to the Department nor the Government."

P. M. Draper, in asking for the appointment of a Minister of Labor, alluded to the reports that the Intercolonial may be allowed to pass out of Government control. Against this he protested on behalf of the laboring people. "It is the centre and inspiration of Government ownership in Canada," he said.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux, who was the first to reply, said the suggestion in regard to a holiday election day would be laid before the Minister of Justice. He promised that the matter of better pay for letter carriers would be looked into, but pointed out that the Department is in receipt of hundreds of applications from men willing to become letter carriers at the present rate of pay. It should be remembered, he said that letter carriers who receive $2.25 a day, are allowed three weeks' holidays every year and a free uniform.

Mr. Lemieux assured the delegates that but few Japanese are coming into Canada at present, that of the four hundred who entered during the past year, the majority were of classes whom it would be undesirable to exclude. As to the Hindoos they were British subjects and for this reason their coming was a more difficult matter to control.

"None of them are coming in now," remarked Sir Wilfrid.

"The British Government," continued Mr. Lemieux, "is endeavoring to send them to Honduras."

Mr. Lemieux saw difficulty in complying with the request made as to conciliation boards. Sir Wilfrid remarked that no matter which side called the board, it was upon the findings that public opinion was formed.

Mr. O'Donoghue admitted that it was a difficult matter. He declared, however, that the act was favorable to the employers. As it was being upheld by the unions the Government should give consideration to the requests in amendments they might make.

Proceeding Sir Wilfrid said that while a few Chinese were coming into Canada it must be remembered that they were needed in the west as domestic servants.

Touching on the matter of technical education, the Premier made it plain that while the Government would collect the information required it would be handed over to the Provincial Governments to do the best they could with it as the Dominion had nothing to do with education.

Mr. Draper wanted to know if the door had not already been open to technical education by the establishment of experimental farms.

"Well, we won't open any more doors," replied Sir Wilfrid.

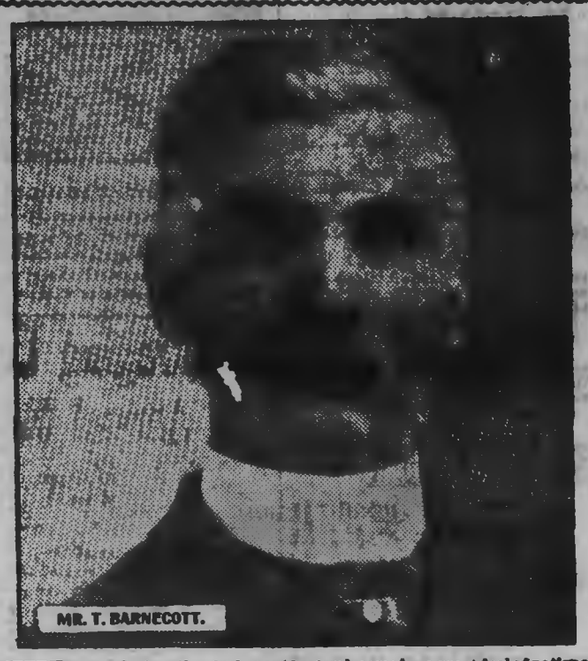
Pe-ru-na Promptly Relieves Severe Cold and La Grippe.

Mr. T. Barnecott, West Aylmer, Ontario, Can., writes:

"Last winter I was ill with pneumonia after having la grippe. I took Peruna for two months, when I became quite well, and I can say that any one can be cured by it in a reasonable time and at little expense. Every time I take a cold, I take some Peruna, which makes me well again.

"I also induced a young lady, who was all rundown and confined to the house, to take Peruna, and after taking Peruna for three months she is able to follow her trade of tailoring.

"I can recommend Peruna for all such who are ill and require a tonic."



MR. T. BARNECOTT.

EVERY year, during the inclement weather of winter, there is an epidemic of la grippe. The disease is really catarrhal in nature, but from the form it assumes, has been commonly termed the "grip."

Splendid Remedy for La Grippe.

Mr. Frank H. Fielder, 213 Pleasant Ave., Montgomery, Ala., formerly principal of Haynesville High School, writes:

"I can truthfully say that Peruna is a splendid remedy for la grippe and a good tonic for building up the system."

La grippe is very tenacious when it once gets a firm hold upon the system, and in addition to a thorough, systematic catarrh remedy, a great deal of patience and persistence in the treatment are required to eradicate the disease.

Peruna, an internal catarrh remedy, is one of the best medicines ever devised to meet the exigencies of these cases. The large number of commendatory letters received by Dr. Hartman, the inventor of Peruna, in behalf of his remedy is proof sufficient of its value as a reliable medicine for the "grip."

Prompt Relief.

Mr. Frank Bauer, Minneiska, Minn., writes: "I suffered with la grippe. My lungs felt as if knives were sticking in them. I took Peruna and in four days I was able to go out."

SUGGEST A HOUSE FOR THE HOSPITAL

Charity Board Talked Over This Question Last Night.

The Isolation Hospital tune (so to speak) has been whistled and sung on the streets and off and like some of the old favourite melodies, it still survives, every now and then appearing on the programme of a meeting here or there, and is received with the old time favour. Last night the Charity Board had it as one of the numbers on its programme and nearly everybody joined in the chorus. At any rate the opinion expressed was that it was necessary that a building be provided at once. One of the members suggested that the city might be able to purchase a fairly large building on the outskirts of the city at a reasonable price, three or four thousand dollars and this would entirely meet the city's demands for the next few years to come. Some of the members of the city council seem to have this question as one of the planks in their platform and something will likely result before the year is out. In the meantime other sections of the citizens are anxious to see a building provided as soon as possible in order to meet any exigency that may present itself.

THE SILVER NORTH

Cobalt, Lorraine, Larder Lake and Gowganda.

Travellers returning from the finest mineral fields of the north are more enthusiastic than ever regarding the permanency of the Silver Camp. One hundred and fifty teams are now employed daily in moving passengers, freight and supplies to the new Gowganda finds from Earlton, Englehart and Carlton. It is only 18 miles from Charlton to Elk Lake where there are 22 mines, and from Elk Lake to Gowganda is 32 miles.

Leaving Toronto 10.15 p.m. daily, on the Grand Trunk "Cobalt Special", Elk Lake can be reached the next afternoon, via Cobalt Haileybury, New Liskeard and Charlton, and this will continue to be the best way.

The Ontario Government are being strongly urged to push on the extension of their line from Charlton, which will open up this rich territory.

Full information can be obtained by writing J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, G. T. R., Toronto, Ont. 5.9

SCENES OF THE DISASTER.

ANOTHER SCENE IN THE VILLAGE OF BAGNARA.

This also gives an excellent idea of the awful force of the earth tremor which wrought so much damage. All the buildings in the cities of Messina and Reggio and the surrounding towns were in the space of a few seconds reduced to a mass of timber, stones and mortar, burying tens of thousands of victims.

Encouraging Reports Read At Annual Meeting Of Y.M.C.A.; Year Has Been Successful

The annual meeting of the Y M C A was held in the parlours of the Association last night with the president, Mr. J. C. Shook, in the chair. There was a fairly large attendance of members and considerable interest was displayed in the affairs of the Association. In opening the meeting, he referred to the work accomplished during the past year. Secretary Hassard also made a verbal report.

The reports of the various departments were as follows:—

Membership Committee

On Jan. 1, 1908, there were 175 full privileged members, 135 limited privilege and 105 boys, making a total of 415 members.

All these members were not taking part in the activities of the Association and were consequently struck off the membership list and placed on the subscribers' list. Therefore the report for this year of active members is a record one.

Full privileged members, December 31, 1908 — 163.
Limited privileged — 90.
Boys — 135.
Total — 388 active members.

This shows a decrease of 27, although many more are taking advantage of the privileges.

Physical Department

Considerable progress was reported by the Physical Committee, under the efficient leadership of Mr. Collings. Great interest had been developed in athletics. There was one team in the O.R.F.U., one in the City Rugby League, but were handicapped for want of a practice field; a basketball league of five teams played for the Cressman trophy, which was won by the Brownies; a gymnasium corps was organized as was also a track and field club; a boxing and wrestling class was formed. The work along all the lines has been very favourable.

Boys' Department

The interest in the Boys' Department is showing a general increase. The Y. M. C. A. Chieftain Baseball team won the championship last summer. Five Bible Classes have an enrolment of 56. Two are taught by older boys. The boys' rooms were moved from the basement to the second floor which is a great improvement. The visit of Mr. F. H. T. Ritchie, Canadian Boys' Secretary, was very successful, and the older boys' conference on November 7, 8, and 9, when 152 boys from all parts of Ontario attended, did much to stimulate the work of the department. The visit of Mr. R. A. Waite of New York, on November 28, 29 and 30, increased the activity in the religious work in the department. The boys have their own debating club and harrier club for the promotion of literary attainments and athletics. Besides mock court trials in the Conservatory of Music Hall in September, the boys have had three socials.

Educational Committee

The Educational Committee in its report referred to the several improvements that have been made. In the reading room there are 6 daily and 8 weekly papers, and 16 monthly magazines, or a total of 30 periodicals. Classes in junior matriculation were held on three nights a week.

Property Committee

The Property Committee Reports showed in addition to many incidental repairs, there was installed one pair of bowling alleys complete, provided for by the members of the association. A jacket boiler was installed which will prove an economy in, heating bath water in the summer. Repairs were made to the boiler, the first since it was installed twelve years ago.

Social Committee

The Social Committee's report referred to the various social functions during the year, including the New Year's reception at which the Ladies' Auxiliary assisted, and the formation of a social service club.

Religious Work

The Religious Work Committee reported that during the winter and spring, men's meetings were held Sunday afternoons at 4.15, but in the fall it was decided to hold opera house meetings once a month if suitable speakers could be secured. Only one has been held so far. The Bible Class on Sunday afternoon has taken the place of the mass meeting. Practice on the part of the religious committee is to put in touch with the pastors of the churches all those who in any of the meetings express a desire to lead a Christian life, and they have thus been brought into contact with the churches. The universal week of prayer for young men was observed by the association from November 7th to 15th. In connection with this work the members are helping to support a representative in India, and towards this support 48 of the members have, with a $5 contribution from the Ladies' Auxiliary, contributed $100, the largest figure raised for several years.

A SCIENTIFIC WONDER

The Secret of a Famous Healing Balm.

The re-discovery of a secret that has lain hidden in the dust of 20 centuries is an event full of fascinating interest, and the story of Zam-Buk, the world-famed first-aid and skin-cure will always enlist attention. Zam-Buk is the virtual descendant of those wonderful and mysterious herbal balms by the use of which those manly athletes of Ancient Greece and the stalwart gladiators of Rome ensured the healthiness and ready-healing of their skin.

Many are the attempts that were made to produce a perfect balm for the skin, but only in Zam-Buk has been welcomed in mansion and cottage, and the people of two hemispheres realised that they have been placed in possession of an absolutely unique cure for skin complaints.

The reasons for this triumph of science are simple and few. Taking a lesson from the Ancients, the proprietors of Zam-Buk first of all wisely decided that the ideal balm must be purely herbal and contain not the slightest trace of rancid animal fats or poisonous minerals. Thus Zam-Buk is made solely from rich and pure essences obtained from certain rare medicinal herbs. These juices and extracts are prepared and refined by ingenious scientific process and then so skilfully blended that a unique, effective, and yet perfectly natural preparation for dispelling skin-disease is secured.

Zam-Buk has an affinity for the human skin such as no ordinary ointment or liniment can possibly possess. Besides soothing pain and allaying irritation, it possesses unique antiseptic and germicidal qualities which virtually chase disease germs out of their hiding-places in the skin tissues; at the same time it purifies the pores and invigorates the natural functions of the skin in a way that no other preparation can.

Zam-Buk solves in a perfect manner the problem of always having ing handy at home or at one's work an ever-ready and reliable first-aid for cuts, burns, scalds, bruises, lacerations, scratches, etc. Zam-Buk is without equal for eczema, ulcers, piles, bad leg, ringworm, scalp sores, festering sores, sprains, stiffness, poisoned wounds of all kinds, face sores, chafing, chapped hands, cold-sores, frostbites, sore feet, diseased ankles, and all itching, irritation, and inflammation.

Zam-Buk is a daily need in every household and is sold by all druggists and stores at fifty cents a box. Refuse harmful and dangerous substitutes sometimes "pushed" as being "just as good."

BIG BILL OF FARE FOR THE CITY LEAGUE PATRONS TO-MORROW NIGHT

There is a great bill of fare for the fans at to-morrow night's City League games. The first game will bring together the Belmonts and Lakefield, and it promises to be an interesting struggle from start to finish. Much interest is being taken in the Lakefield team on account of the reports from the north that the Cementville team has gathered together the best aggregation that has ever been sent after the City League silverware. They will likely have a big bunch of supporters with them, and there will be some excitement before the result is known, as the Belmonts will have some changes in their line-up that are expected to make them fifty per cent. stronger than they were last week, when they fell before the Strathconas.

The second game will bring together the T. A. S. and Strathconas, and as the Abstainers will have a stronger line-up than the one that wore the red and black last week there should be a hard battle. The champions will likely have several changes, too, and expect to be as strong as ever, although Dobson is out of the game with an injured knee.

The Junior City League game, which precedes the double header, should be a corker. The speedy Chieftains, the team which was to have represented Peterborough in the Junior O. H. A. ranks this season, will clash with the Junior T. A. S., and a lively battle should be the result, as both teams are in the best of shape.

Geo. Lynch will referee the senior games.

SPEEDY BELLEVILLE TEAM WILL BE HERE FOR BIG GAME ON FRIDAY

The first Intermediate O. H. A. game of the season will be played here on Friday night when Peterborough's old rivals the Belleville seven will meet the locals in what should prove a lightning fast exhibition of Canada's national winter game. Belleville are reported to have a splendid team this year, Dr. Gilbert, the old Varsity star is at cover point and with him is a fast and well balanced team who will take a lot of beating. The Quad City seven are confident of winning here and will have their strongest line up on Friday night. They will have to be class if they hope to beat Peterborough, as the local team has been practising faithfully since the ice first came and will be in the best of shape for the opening. A strong team has been collected and there will be some surprises for the fans when the line up is announced. The team that will represent Peterborough will be a pretty clever aggregation and those who have been watching the practises realize that the outfit will make things lively for the other teams in the district. Friday's game should prove one of the best games that has been seen here in several years and there is every indication of a record crowd as much interest is being displayed in the game in Peterborough.

ALLEY RECORD FOR THREE GAMES WAS BROKEN

Mr. R. B. Gray, of Toronto, a commercial man who is a frequent visitor in Peterborough, and who is well known to the local ten pin fraternity, made an onslaught on local alley records last night at the P.B.C., and succeeded in establishing a new mark for three consecutive games that should stand for some time to come. Mr. Gray and J. B. Hay were engaged in a series of games when the visitor accomplished his remarkable feat. He had been off colour in his first three games, but on his fourth he started to topple the pins over in a way that made the spectators gasp with astonishment. He started off with a spare and three strikes followed. Two more spares followed to be succeeded with five strikes in row, the final score being 253, only 11 pins behind the best single game ever put up on the alleys, the record being 264 held by Geo. Cairns. In his second game Mr. Gray started off with five strikes and piled up a score of 236. The pins broke badly for him in his final game, he got but 172, a total for the three games of 661, or five pins more than the record established some months ago by B. A. Lillie.

The disposition of the valuable silver trophy donated some time ago has been definitely decided upon. It will be offered as a challenge trophy, emblematic of the city championship and the competition that will be started immediately for its possession should set at rest the controversy that has been raging for some time past as to the identity of the real bowling champion of Peterborough. The club has consulted a number of leading bowlers and it is the consensus of opinion that the trophy should be disposed of in this way. Practically all the bowlers now taking part in the league games will enter and all others who are desirous of going after the honours should hand in their names to the club at once. Generous handicaps will be allotted to the less experienced bowlers and the competition should be a hard fought one.

KNOX CHURCH BEAT PARK ST. ONE GOAL

By the smallest possible margin Knox church defeated Park street in a senior church League on Knox rink last night. The Presbyterians won by a score of 1—0. Neither team scored in the first half, but immediately after the face off Hillier carried the rubber from centre through the Park street team for the only score of the game. It was hard, fast hockey throughout. Knox church had Dwyer of their junior team in goal, and he played a stellar game. Both teams played nice hockey and the game was about the best in the series to date. The teams lined up as follows:

Charity Board Declines To Interfere With This Case

Elderly Woman Who Appeared in Court Will Not Likely be Sent to the Protestant Home—Is at Present in the Jail.

SHE HAS BEEN REMANDED.

One of the questions considered at the meeting of the Charity Board last night was the case referred to in these columns last week, regarding an elderly woman who was remanded for one week on the charge of vagrancy and is now spending the time in the jail while her husband is at work earning eight dollars a week and yet cannot provide for her. A letter was received from Chief Rorel in which he stated that he had seen the husband and had him sign his name to an order whereby he would pay two dollars a week for the maintenance of his wife and it was thought that the city through the Charity Board would make up the rest. However, after a discussion of the question last night it was decided to take no steps in the matter and nothing will be done until the woman comes up before the Magistrate in a day or so on the original charge, the information of which it is understood was laid by the husband.

Just what will be done is not known at present, but the general opinion expressed is that the woman should not be sent to jail on the charge. From facts learned it is understood that the husband is not entirely to blame but to what extent has not been made known.

Young Man Is Charged With Theft Of Gold Filled Watch

High County Constable Cochrane drove out into Harvey yesterday and after supper arrested Gilbert Connors, a young man who is charged with having stolen a gold filled watch from Mrs. Albert Bishop. The young man was brought into the city and will be tried in the County Court next Monday before Magistrate Edmison. The story of the theft is that on last Sunday a number of neighbours called at the Bishop residence, among them young Connors. All of the men went out with Mr. Bishop, leaving Connors alone in the house. Mrs. Bishop, it is stated, went out into the yard for a short time, and afterwards the watch was missing. Mr. Bishop had been seen putting the watch in a trunk by everybody, and Connors was the only one who had a chance to take it. He has been arrested on suspicion.

HE TURNED HIS WIFE OUT IN SNOW TO DIE

Creelman, Sask., Man Charged With Cruelty to Wife

THERMOMETER 42 BELOW

Wife of Charles Coles Driven Out of Her Home With Only a Thin Cotton Nightdress on, Will Probably Die as a Result of Exposure—Was Found by Neighbour and Taken to His Home Nearby.

Creelman, Sask., Jan. 13.—Investigation of the reported murder of a woman near here by the police reveals a harrowing story of a husband's brutality, which may result in sending him to the gallows. The man's name is Charles Coles, a homesteader, five miles south, who came from the United States several months ago. He and his wife quarelled frequently, and it is alleged he treated her most brutally. But his brutality reached the limit a few nights ago when he threw her out in the cold, when the thermometer registered 42 below zero, and with nothing to protect her from the storm but a thin cotton night dress. A neighbor, who happened to be passing and wished to obtain protection for the night, sought admission to the house, but was ordered to leave at once on pain of being shot. As he turned to go he heard groans from the direction of a wagon box, and going to investigate found the unfortunate woman lying there almost frozen to death. He picked her up and managed to reach his own home with her, but she was so terribly frozen that recovery is impossible. She has so far refused to lay a charge against her husband, and as a result he has not yet been arrested, but will be should she die or should he attempt to leave the country.

Earthquake on Coast.

Port Townsend, Wash., Jan. 13.—An earthquake shock caused considerable damage here at 3.30 o'clock Monday afternoon, lasting from 10 to 15 seconds. The trembling took the form of a vibratory convulsion, swaying buildings and breaking many windows and fragile roofs.

Reports from adjoining towns and cities show that the force of the shock extended over an area of at least 50 miles square, and in several places two distinct shocks, separated by more than a minute, were felt. In many places in this city where water pipes lay in frozen ground, the earthquake broke the pipes and flooded the houses.

It is reported that immediately after the shock smoke was seen arising from Mount Baker, an extinct or dormant volcano.

Verdict For $30,000.

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—A verdict of $30,000 against the Ottawa Electric Co. was given by the jury at the Assizes yesterday in favor of Edward A. Bredenberg, the London mining engineer, who was injured in the Britannia line accident last May.

Mr. Bredenberg had his leg amputated. He claimed $50,000 on the ground that being a mining engineer in the Yukon at a salary of $6,000 he was unable to continue his profession and his earning powers was lost.

Quits Cigarettes and Dies.

Hazleton, Ind., Jan. 13.—Edward Lane, twenty years old, died here as the result of keeping a New Year's resolution in which he gave up the use of cigarettes. He was addicted to excessive smoking and was urged to stop them with the New Year.

So accustomed had the young man become to their use, the denial of them affected his nervous system seriously. But he determined to do without smoking, thinking the keen desire for them would pass away.

Gompers to Meet Roosevelt.

Washington, Jan. 13.—President Roosevelt will have a conference with President Gompers and other officials of the American Federation of Labor at the White House on Thursday morning.

The conference is at the request of Mr. Gompers and in accordance with the action taken by the Denver convention of the Federation which directed its officials to take up with the president a number of questions affecting labor interests.

WAR TALK ENDS.

Austria and Turkey Agree on Indemnity For Bosnia.

Constantinople, Jan. 13.—The Turkish Government accepts the Austro-Hungarian offer of $10,800,000 indemnity for the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, thus removing every possibility of war. The Grand Vizier Kiamil Pasha received Marquis Pallavicini, the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador, at noon yesterday and notified him of the decision of the Council of Ministers.

The Grand Vizier made an effort to induce Austria to increase the compensation another half million pounds, but Ambassador Pallavicini declared that an increase in the amount was out of the question. If the offer was rejected, he declared, negotiations would be broken off. It is believed that settlement of the difficulty with Austria will facilitate an understanding with Bulgaria.

Montenegro and Servia Angry.

Vienna, Jan. 13.—It is felt here that the settlement reached between Austria-Hungary and Turkey may have an irritating effect on the other countries concerned in the near eastern difficulty. According to reports that have come into Vienna, Servia and Montenegro resent the fact that they were not considered in the arrangement, and they may be expected to raise objections. But the agreement between the two principal powers has made war to-day a more remote possibility than at any time since the annexation.

The Government continues in the belief that Servia has no grounds for complaint, and as a protection against any surprise will keep up military preparations in the annexed provinces and on the Servian and Montenegrin frontiers. Its next care will be to rebuild the Austria trade in Turkey by the removal of the boycott which led to its collapse.

IS I.C.R. PURCHASED?

Rumor Says Mackenzie and Mann Will Take It Over.

Montreal, Jan. 13.—There is a rumor current here that Mackenzie and Mann have got the Intercolonial hard and fast and that the prices paid will be forty millions.

The purchasers will no doubt bond the road. At $20,000 a mile from Halifax to Montreal this will be equal to sixteen millions.

There can be no doubt that the announcement of such a deal will encounter a great deal of opposition from the lower provinces, although evidence is not wanting that agencies are at work attempting to win Nova Scotia and New Brunswick over to the idea of a sale to one of the big corporations.

It is stated that the whole Government is so tired of the deficits that very little opposition to the project has been met with.

Mr. Borden will of course oppose the measure.

Private Bankers Sentenced.

Erie, Pa., Jan. 13.—A fine of $2,000, the return of the property embezzled, or the value thereof, and imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for one year was the penalty imposed by Judge E. A. Walling of the Criminal Court upon William A. Ensign and Charles W. Ensign, father and son, who conducted a bank at Northeast, and were convicted of receiving deposits, knowing the bank was about to fail.

The elder Ensign is about 80 years of age.

Railway Offices Attacked.

Pernambuco, Brazil, Jan. 13.—The Brazilian employes of the Great Western Railway of Brazil, a British concern, employing 4,000 men, went on strike yesterday afternoon.

Race feeling against the English runs high in the state, and the police were called out to preserve order. They were powerless, however, to prevent the raiding of the company's main offices.

The strikers have seized the rolling stock and practically are in possession of the terminals.

Fire In Church.

St. Catharines, Jan. 13.—St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, Merritton, had a narrow escape from destruction by fire Monday night. New transformers for the electric light plant were being installed, and in some manner the wire, which runs along a room, became ignited and when first discovered a portion of the roof was in flames. An immediate alarm was given and the quick response of the firemen saved the church, the damage being confined to a small area of the roof and to portions of the interior, the damage to the latter being due to heavy smoke.

Dutch Steamer Sunk.

Singapore, Jan. 13.—The French liner Polynesien ran down and sank the Dutch steamer Dyaudi at the wharf here yesterday. Seven natives were drowned. The Polynesien proceeded on her way.

Assault on Policemen.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 13.—Charles Westman, aged 20, of London, Ont., was arrested yesterday on suspicion of being implicated in an attack on two London policemen last week.

To Investigate Contract.

Regina, Jan. 13.—The Saskatchewan Legislature after a hot debate has called for the appointment of a royal commission, composed of judges provincial of the Supreme Court, to enquire fully into the whole subject of the Morang school book contract.

A NOTABLE WEDDING.

Lady Violet Elliot Marries Lord Fitzmaurice In Calcutta.

Calcutta, India, Jan. 13.—The wedding of Capt. Lord Charles Fitzmaurice, 1st Dragoons, and Lady Violet Elliot, celebrated at St. Paul's Cathedral, Calcutta, yesterday, was an event of unusual interest.

The imperial significance of the union is noteworthy. The bridegroom's father, the Marquis of Lansdowne, has been Governor-General of Canada and of India, while the bride's father, the Earl of Minto, assumed the Governor-Generalship of India immediately on his return from Canada. Only last spring the bride's sister, Lady Ruby Elliot, married Viscount Errington, the eldest son of the Earl of Cromer. As a further testimony of imperial service rendered by members of these families, it may be mentioned that just one hundred years ago the Right Hon. Hugh Elliot, brother of the first Earl of Minto, was governor of the Madras Presidency.

Lady Violet Elliot's wedding dress was of ivory satin charmeuse, fastened with ornaments of pearls and silver. The train was of silver cloth, beautifully embroidered in a design of feathers and roses worked in crystals and diamonds. With her going-away dress Lady Violet wore a cloak of blue satin charmeuse, lined with apricot satin, and a hat of pink straw trimmed with pink satin ribbon and a spray of wisteria. All her trousseau had been sent out from London, and she received many articles of jewelry from her relatives and friends.

Witnesses Coached?

Flushing, N.Y., Jan. 13.—Charges that the testimony of members of the Bayside Yacht Club was manufactured and witnesses were withdrawn from the stand because their evidence was not sufficiently rehearsed, were made by Lawyer John F. McIntyre yesterday in summing up for the defence in the trial of Thornton Hains.

Mr. McIntyre had not finished his closing address when adjournment was taken until to-day.

Counsel spent over five hours yesterday in reviewing the evidence and pointing out discrepancies, which the lawyer asserted, showed much of the testimony of the state had been rehearsed in an instruction school. Mr. McIntyre declared that much of the testimony of Mrs. William E. Annis, whose husband was shot and killed by Capt. Hains, was "manifestly false, and she had been taken from the witness stand when it was seen that her story had not been sufficiently rehearsed."

French Deputy Goes to Jail.

Paris, Jan. 13.—Pierre Bietry, a member of the Chamber of Deputies from Finistere, was yesterday sentenced to six months' imprisonment for breaking the seals placed a fortnight ago by the Paris police upon the offices of Le Jaune, a newspaper edited by him.

The case of Bietry is closely allied with the Mattis incident. Mattis is the unemployed waiter who on Christmas Day waylaid ex-President Fallieres on the streets of Paris and made an attempt to pull his beard. Mattis was connected with the "Yellow Syndicate," a supposed Royalist organization, and, as a result the police sealed the office of Le Jaune, the originator of the syndicate, with the intention of making a thorough search of the premises.

VARICOCELE CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

PETERBORO'S BIG BONSPIEL IN FULL SWING; FIRST ROUND OF THE PRELIMINARY WAS COMPLETED WITH MANY EXCITING GAMES

Peterborough's big curling bonspiel is in full swing, having started yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, with thirty-eight rinks battling for the honours. Twenty-one games were played yesterday, with the result that considerable weeding out was done, the first round of the primary being completed last night. The curling yesterday was of the keenest variety, many of the matches being most exciting, and the big crowd of spectators present followed the contestants with interest. The local rinks in the bonspiel failed to get away to a good start, most of them failing to qualify for the second round. All seven sheets of ice were in constant use yesterday, and there were many complimentary references to the quality of the ice and the excellence of the arrangements made for the bonspiel.

One of the most exciting games yesterday was that between the two veterans, W. J. Reid, of Bobcaygeon, and G. McFadden, of Lindsay. It was a stubborn fight all the way, and the spectators gathered to watch the final ends. At the end of the thirteenth end the Bobcaygeon quartette was three to the good, but McFadden's men rallied and by steady curling piled up a three end, which tied the score and necessitated an extra end. The end was most exciting, but the 'Cygeon four succeeded in getting two shots and won out.

Rev. Mr. Wallace, of Lindsay, and J. R. McIntyre, of Keene, had a merry battle, which was exciting all the way, the Lindsay clergyman finally winning out by one shot.

Two Peterborough skips, Messrs. Geo. Giroux and J. H. Connal, fought it out to the last end, the latter winning by one shot.

In the evening games the most exciting was the battle between Skip Toogood, of Orillia, and Dr. Greer, of Peterborough, which required an extra end. The rinks were tied at the end of the forteenth end, with eight each, and in the play off the northerners succeeded in getting one shot. Dr. Greer's last stone came within two inches of being shot.

The well known eastern curler, Skip Ham, of Napanee, and Skip W. G. Morrow, of Peterborough, had a bitter fight, the former winning by one shot.

The curling was uniformly good throughout, and the second round today should witness some exciting games. The visiting rinks are doing well, especially Flavelle, of Lindsay, Dobson, of Beaverton; Toogood, of Orillia; and Ham, of Napanee.

Below will be found the rinks with their skips and scores, which played yesterday afternoon and last night:

PETERBORO JUNIORS BEAT WHITBY IN LIGHTNING FAST O. H. A. GAME BY SCORE OF 9-6 HERE LAST NIGHT

Visitors Were in Front 2-0 in the Early Stages But Faded on End —Peterboros Played the Finest of Hockey Throughout — Outlasting and Out-playing Whitby.

SCORE WAS TIED AT HALF.

Maybe those Peterborough O. H. A. Juniors didn't extract ample revenge from Whitby in the Junior O. H. A. game at the Brock Street Rink last night for the trimming the locals received at the hands of Whitby, on their own ice on New Year's day. The locals won handily by 9—6, after having all the better of the play from the middle of the first half on. Whitby came strong at the opening, and before fifteen minutes had gone they were out in front with a 2—0 score, and with the locals working at top speed, but unable to find the nets. Then the visitors began to fade. They were smothered up by the fast doubling back of the Peterborough forward line, and unable to negotiate the defence, while at the same time the Peterborough line began to work together and get away in a line, with the result that the score was tied at the half and after that there was never much doubt of the result. Although the visitors showed flashes of the speed that had marked their work in the opening, once in a while, Peterborough, on the other hand, improved all the way, and they had the visitors backing up throughout the whole of the second half.

It was good fast hockey all through and if it was at times not brilliant, it was at least interesting. Both teams drove along under a full head of steam, and there was no let up until the end, when both sides slowed, perceptibly. There was plenty of combination and good individual work, and a few other features not usually on the bill of fare, thrown in as side dishes. One of these resulted in Goal Umpire McGiffin, of Whitby, being shunted to the side lines, where he almost fell a victim to the anger of the crowd. The fair sized crowd enjoyed every moment of the play, and the victory of Peterborough's good little team was much appreciated. The septette is deserving of credit for their performance. They fought an uphill game and did not quit when the enemy was in the lead and their determination as much as anything else won for them. They never let up until they had pulled the game out of the fire, and their plucky playing won them many friends.

There were many exciting moments, especially in the early part of the second half, when with the score 3—2 in favour of Peterborough, three of the locals were called upon to hold off six of the visitors, and they succeeded in preventing a score. Ray and Waugh had a mix-up and the local rover went off for five minutes, while the Whitby man got three. Almost immediately Hillier and Jones got ten minutes for scrapping. Then Wade and Giroux, of the locals, were both sent away and Waugh came back, leaving Pentland, Short and Goalkeeper Giroux to fight off the six Whitby men. They accomplished the feat, too, and did it so well that Whitby didn't get a shot on the nets until the teams were even again.

The locals' victory was earned. Capt. Ray's bunch of youngsters played a pretty classy brand of hockey all the way, and when they found themselves here was nothing else to the contest. They were a little erratic in their passing in the first few minutes, but they came along nicely before half time and in the second half were going great guns, while Whitby went down with all hands on board. The Petes played clever combination and took full advantage of their opportunities when in close, while, on the other hand, the district leaders blew up generally when they got within range and forgot the combination that they showed themselves capable of in centre ice. Then, too, when the visitors wiggled through they were always checked by the local forwards backing up fast, while Peterborough, on the other hand, when they rushed, broke entirely free of the forwards as a rule, boring down on the defence at a pace that left their opponents in their back wash. The locals were in the best of shape, thanks to Trainer Bill Milburn, and showed themselves capable of going the full hour at full speed, while Whitby, with one or two exceptions, seemed to tire as the game progressed. The local defence played fine hockey and the visitors had troubles of their own in trying to get through, cumbered as they were by the aggressive checking of the locals' line.

For the locals Ray at rover showed his customary brilliancy and played a hard, effective and useful game, his fast doubling back being a feature. Losing the puck on a rush he was back hammering at the heels of the visitors or nipping in front of them, and stealing the rubber, while he showed his usual speed and clever stick handling in the attack. Cyril Giroux went at full speed for the hour, playing a grandg ame. He was always in his place, checked splendidly and shot with effect. Bill Short at right wing, was there or in the vicinity all the way, and held Blanchard, the star left wing of the visitors, down to perfection, while, on the other hand, he was shooting from the boards in splendid fashion. Hillier played his first game in O. H. A. company on the other wing, and checked well, although he was plainly nervous.

The defence handled themselves in grand fashion. Pentland, who was moved back to cover point, showed that he knew how to play the position, checking and relieving well. Wade played a really magnificent game at point. It was almost impossible to circumvent him, and his rushes in the second half were the features of the game. On one occasion he carried the puck from his position through the whole Whitby team, being tripped as he passed Lavery, and scoring while on his knees on the ice. Later he secured the rubber behind his own goal and galloped the length of the rink for a counter, and once again carried the puck from one end to the other and passed neatly to Ray for another goal. Len Giroux shone between the flags, pulling off some brilliant stops. Several times he was called upon to beat off two and three shots in succession, and he cleared splendidly.

That Whitby team is no funeral procession. They have a well-balanced team with lots of speed on the forward line, and they were playing a pretty combination in centre ice that if persisted in when close on the nets might have proved remarkably dangerous. Blanchard at left wing was the star of their team in the early part of the play, although he wilted on end. He has great speed, is a clever stick handler and shoots hard and with effect. In the last half Smith, the little centre man, came along in great fashion and did some fine work with the puck. Waugh was good at cover, and Smith did good work in the nets, especially, in the first half.

E. J. Livingstone, of Toronto, refereed the battle satisfactorily. He was strict but impartial, and frowned on any suggestion of rough play, with the result that there was a procession of considerable length to the fence for minor offences.

The teams were as follows:

PETERBORO
L. Giroux
Wade
Pentland
Ray

WHITBY.
Blanchard — J. Smith — Wilson

H. Smith.

Whitby had considerably the better of the play at the start and for the first fifteen minutes they looked decidedly dangerous. The play was fast from the beginning. Thirty seconds after the face off Blanchard and H. Smith got away together and carried the puck in for what looked like a certain score, but Giroux pulled off a sensational save. Whitby pressed and kept the play in Peterborough territory, the local forwards seemingly unable to work loose from their checks. Hillier was benched for slashing during this period but there was no score until he was back. Finally after 11 minutes hard playing Smith and Blanchard carried the puck from centre on a pretty combined rush and Smith scored on a neat shot from close in.

Peterborough 0; Whitby 1.

Four minutes after Whitby followed up by scoring again Blanchard came up the wing alone and eluding Ray and Pentland shot from the boards, the long shot beating Giroux, although he practically stopped it.

Peterborough 0; Whitby 2.

The locals began to come on with a rush from this on. In one minute Ray intercepted a pass at centre and skating around the visitor's defence with a pretty rush placed the puck behind Smith.

Peterborough 1; Whitby 2.

Peterborough kept pressing and were having the better of the play at this stage. Ray and Short combined beautifully and deadly scored. The puck went into the corner and Short passed out in front to Giroux who did the needful.

Peterborough 2; Whitby 2.

Ray was penalized for slashing and a moment after Wilson of the visitors was sent away for the same offence. Hillier got another rap just before half time for using his stick too freely.

The locals were all over the visitors in the second half and had considerably the better of the play throughout. The teams started in fresh and inclined to liven it up, but Referee Livingstone soon broke up their intentions. Ray and Waugh got together and the local man got five minutes and the visitor three. Half a minute afterwards Hillier and Jones had a sparring match which resulted in their banishment from the scene of activites for ten minutes. With the teams playing five a side Giroux broke the deadlock by getting a pass at centre and scoring in seven minutes on a beautiful shot from well out.

Peterborough 3; Whitby 2.

Almost immediately afterwards Wade was sent away for cross-checking Blanchard and Giroux followed him a few seconds later. Waugh came back with his three minutes served and the three Peterborough men left on the ice refused to allow the visitors to score, holding them in amid the cheers of the crowd and Wade, Giroux and Ray were back again. The teams were even when Short broke away for a nice rush along the boards and scored on a pretty shot from the side in four minutes.

Peterborough 4; Whitby 2.

A minute after Wade broke up a Whitby rush and tearing loose from the forward line came down along skating around the visitor's defence in a grand rush. Lavery tripped him after he had passed the Whitby point but he scooped the puck into the nets while on his knees.

Peterborough 5; Whitby 2.

Lavery was banished for the trip. Whitby rushed and Blanchard shot the puck glancing off Giroux's pads into the corner of the rink. The goal umpire McGiffin of Whitby waved his white flag for a goal and was relegated from the scene at the request of the locals amid great excitement. The goal had to count however.

Peterborough 5; Whitby 3.

Giroux was sent away for tripping but was back again when Wade broke away for a sensational rush carrying the puck from behind his own goal the length of the rink for a score in three minutes.

Peterborough 6; Whitby 3.

Short and Ray got away together nicely and the right wing scored but the play was called back for an off side. A few minutes afterwards, however, the same pair got working again and Ray carrying the puck from centre transferred to Short who scored without trouble.

Peterborough 7; Whitby 3.

Ray made it still bigger a moment later after Wade had made another rink length rush with a clever pass at the right time, Ray scoring in one minute.

Peterborough 8; Whitby 3.

Smith and Jones broke away from the face off and former scored for Whitby on some nice combination in thirty seconds.

Peterborough 8; Whitby 4.

The visitors began to revive again at this stage and three minutes after scored, Blanchard doing the trick on a shot from close in.

Peterborough 8; Whitby 5.

It only took Peterborough thirty seconds to get that one back. Ray scoring after Pentland had carried up the puck nicely.

Peterborough 9, Whitby 5.

Ray was penalized for tripping and Wade was also away for slashing and the locals were playing five to seven, but Whitby were too tired to make use of their opportunity, although they succeeded in getting the last goal in four minutes. Smith doing the trick.

Peterborough 9, Whitby 6.

The summary follows—

"CAN I GET WELL?"

If Your Trouble comes from the Kidneys, or from Kidney Poisons in the Blood,

YES!

And if you have been ailing a long time don't lose your courage. It takes a little time—takes some constitutions longer than others. But Doan's Kidney Pills will gradually drain the poisons out of your system; the pain in your back will stop; the sediment in the urine will cease; there will be no rheumatic pains; you will feel freer and brighter, and when the last of the poisons have gone you will be well.

There is no way of getting the kidney poisons out of the system except through the kidneys, and no medicine so effective in taking them out as Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mr. W. Perkins, South Maitland, N.S., writes: "I feel it my duty to let you know of the great cure I have obtained by using Doan's Kidney Pills. For six months I could not obtain a good night's rest, had to get up four or five times to urinate, and the urine was very thick and red. I commenced using Doan's Kidney Pills and in a very short time I was right and fit again. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure."

Price 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Gave Wrong Verdict

AGED FARMER HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM PREMATURE DEATH.

One of the most ancient families of the British nobility has for its motto "Dum Spiro Spero" ("While I breathe I hope"); and surely this might well be taken as the battle cry of every sufferer from Lung disease in this fair Canada of ours.

That many lives have been allowed to sink into the grave by default, especially in cases of Lung trouble, is apparent from the constant testimony of those who after having received such a verdict, by the use of PSYCHINE have been restored to complete health and vigor, as who have proved that the doctor's judgment was erroneous, by living to a good and robust old age.

Such a case is that of Mr. John Radford, of Ruskview, Co. Dufferin, Ont., who some years ago had reached such a low state of health that his medical attendant assured him that his Lungs were so seriously affected that it was absolutely useless for him to take any more medicine; and in fact that nothing more could be done for him. It was at this point that Mr. Radford started to use PSYCHINE. In a very short time his health began to improve, the Lung trouble disappeared, and he was soon able to go out to work on the farm again.

On August 24th of this year Mr. Radford writes: "If it had not been for your PSYCHINE, I would have been in my grave years ago. I have had no need of any more medicine since, as I have enjoyed perfect health. I am now 82 years of age, and feel quite smart. I recommend PSYCHINE to all sufferers from Lung disease as a SURE CURE."

Such evidence as the above cannot be gainsaid. It is genuine, convincing, and conclusive; but why not get a sample bottle and prove its merits for yourself?

PSYCHINE is an infallible remedy for all disorders of Throat, Lungs and Stomach. Sold by all druggists and dealers at 50c. and $1. Prepared only by Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, of Toronto.

WHITTY'S TEAM BEAT MAPLE LEAFS OF WINNIPEG EASILY MONDAY

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 13.—In Monday night's Fit Reform Cup hockey match Edmonton defeated Maple Leafs by 13 to 5, showing in most decisive fashion that Whitcroft's team is still a strong aggregation.

Maple Leafs had Joe Hall, whom Edmonton dropped before starting for the Stanley Cup, but he was no help he was expected to be. The Edmonton line was too fast for him.

Miller and Decton fully justified Whitcroft's desire to play them in the first of the Stanley Cup matches against the Wanderers, when overruled by club officers.

Reports of a change in management of the Edmonton team are denied.

Nicholson had lots of work, but did it well, and the defence was so well helped out that the Leafs were smothered.

Eczema, Salt Rheum.

Eczema or Salt Rheum, as it is often called, is one of the most agonizing of skin diseases. It manifests itself in little round blisters, which contain an extremely irritating fluid. These break and subsequently a crust or scale is formed.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when the part is exposed to any strong heat, are almost unbearable.

The pre-eminent success which Burdock Blood Bitters has met with in permanently curing a disease of such severity is due to its wonderful blood cleansing and purifying properties.

No other remedy has done, or can do, so much for those who are almost driven to distraction with the terrible torture, as our thousands of signed testimonials can testify to.

Mrs. John O'Connor, Burlington, N.S., writes:—"For years I suffered with Salt Rheum. I tried a dozen different medicines, but most of them only made it worse. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I got a bottle and before I had taken half a dozen doses I could see a change so I continued its use and now I am completely cured. I cannot say too much for your wonderful medicine."

Obviate EYE Trouble

The Greatest Evil in connection with Eye Trouble is due to the fact that the faulty organ does not generally betray itself until the damage has made serious headway. You can prevent this risk by simply paying a visit to Fowler's Optical Department with the Nugent Drug Co,, and allowing our Specialist in Eyesight to make thorough examination. If there is no trouble with your eyes, the examination will cost you nothing, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that your Eyes are right. If, however, there be any defect which needs correcting we guarantee to fit you with glasses that will surely correct it.

Memorial Service Last Night At Charlotte Street Church

Congregation Pays Tribute to Their Deceased Pastor Who Laboured Successfully for Their Spiritual and Material Welfare---What He Did for the Church----A Martyr for the Interests of Humanity.

The congregation of the Charlotte street Methodist church paid respect to the memory of one of their most devoted pastors, the late Rev. D O Crossley, who passed away Friday, Jan. 8th, in Whitby, by a memorial service, held last night. There was a large attendance manifesting the deep esteem and love in which the deceased pastor was held by members of the flock which he at one time tended diligently and ceaselessly as the Master had commanded. It was a tribute to the memory of the departed one who will always be remembered by the people of Charlotte street church for the great labours he accomplished here for the improvement of the spiritual and material welfare of the entire congregation.

Rev. Mr. Henderson conducted the meeting which was carried out with a reverence that was enhanced by the thought of the pastor who had once prayed with the congregation and guided them, but who had since been called to his reward.

His Business Ability

The Board of the church had arranged to have a few of the members refer to the life of their late pastor, and Mr. A B Cunningham who was the first, spoke of the business ability of the late Rev. D O Crossley. Figures failed, he said, to give an idea of the task which the deceased undertook and successfully accomplished during his pastorate in Peterborough. His desire to get the church free of debt was more than that idea. He felt that only when that work was done could they advance and take up greater tasks. He likewise practised what he preached. He voluntarily gave $50.00 to the fund for the church, saying that it was a subject dear to his heart.

When he commenced his duties as pastor there was a debt on the church of $12,000 and from 1897 to 1904 the congregation paid off $13,000. At the outset his task had been difficult, as the subscriptions were rather few, but towards the end the responses were general and hearty. This enabled the church to take up other works and in every department an increase has been made. In the Sunday School it has grown rapidly and last Sunday the record attendance of 475 was experienced. Thus Rev. Mr. Crossley had planted the good seed and the congregation was now reaping the fruits of his toil and labour.

His Personality

Dr. M A Morrison was the next speaker. He stated that mere words at this time failed to express the feelings and emotions of the heart. There were two characteristics which stood out marking the deceased as a man above ordinary men. One of these was his great desire for work. Dr. Morrison reviewed instances when his dominating will carried him through things which seemed almost too great for his frail physical strength. He was a man who did things and did them well. Thoughts of his work and of his charge were always uppermost in his mind, and even when he lay in his bed overcome by illness.

The other outstanding quality was his devotion to the ministry. Shortly after beginning his work here he was offered a position in secular life with a salary double that which he was receiving as pastor. This he refused, saying that his work was in the pulpit and among his people. He had been called to that and in that he would remain.

His Death

Rev. H M Manning, of St. James' church who represented Charlotte street church at his burial, told in a graphic manner the events leading up to and which were directly responsible for his death. After three lives had been offered up on the altar of Bacchus, Rev. Mr. Crossley felt that it was his duty to undertake a great moral reform in a movement to abolish the bars in Whitby. His task in Peterborough was light in comparison with this. He preached from the pulpit and at meetings, he appealed to men, he laboured indefatiguably. He won many to the cause in spite of great opposition. He contracted a slight cold on the Sunday before voting day, and on the Monday went out and cast his vote. The defeat of the cause hurried his end. The promises that men had made, but had ruthlessly broken, caused him a terrible shock and worried him in his delirium. "It was that strenuous work of weeks that caused his death," Mr. Manning said, "and he literally laid down his life in the interests of humanity. If he had taken the responsibility easily he would be living, but he died a martyr. It is men like him that we need in these days, as an example to us that we may see how much we are lacking in real earnestness."

Mr. Manning closed with a reference to the obsequies.

The following is the account of his death in the Christian Guardian:

It was with sincerest regret that

LATE D. O. CROSSLEY.

In respect for whom Memorial Service was held at Charlotte Street Church last night.

his many friends learned of the death of Rev. D O Crossley, pastor of the Methodist Tabernacle, Whitby. He became ill on Sunday, Jan. 3, but on Monday went out to vote for Local Option. He grew rapidly worse and passed away on Friday, Jan. 8. He was sixty years of age, and had been in our work since 1872. He entered the ministry in the Methodist Episcopal Church, and after the Union was stationed at Deseronto, Newbury, Belleville Tabernacle, Napanee West, Peterborough, Charlotte street, Bowmanville, and Whitby. He leaves a wife to mourn the loss of a devoted husband. The evangelist, Rev. H T Crossley, is a brother. We extend our sincerest sympathy to the bereaved ones.

During the service a quartette, composed of Mrs. B. Hughes, Miss S. Lee, Mr. James Browne and Mr. Chas. Harmer, sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," in an impressive manner.

"He Wipes the Tear From Every Eye," was sung by Mrs. Hughes with expression and sympathy.

HOUSE ORNATE FOR NUPTIAL EVENT

Mr. H. C. Macdonald, of Richard Hall & Son, Followed Artistic Design.

The house decorations at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Moore yesterday for the wedding of their daughter to Mr. Noble Kelly, were more than ordinarily beautiful. The work was left in the hands of Richard Hall and Son and was carried out by Mr. H. C. Macdonald, whose artistic work has been frequently complimented by the citizens as seen in the windows of that firm. The scheme in the dining room was white and pink gracefully and delicately carried out by means of apple blossoms and vines. In the parlour, where the ceremony was performed an arch and lattice work bore a whit effect relieved by green here and there.

The halls were decorated with ivy and contrasted delicately with the other rooms.

CHARITY BOARD'S REFUSAL TO ASSIST MRS. DRURY MEETS WITH CRITICISM OF COURT

Woman Saved From Being Turned Out on Streets by Personal Care of Magistrate Dumble—Refused to Take Responsibility of Her Maintenance.

WHAT IS THE NEXT STEP?

Only Magistrate Dumble's charity saved Mrs. Robert Drury from being turned into the streets this morning, homeless and practically friendless. This little old woman, who says she is seventy-five years of age, has been the subject of general discussion as to what was to be done with her. She had been charged with vagrancy, her husband having laid the information with Chief Roszel. On her appearance in the police court a week ago she had been remanded until to-day, when the case was dismissed in the police court.

Magistrate's Remarks

In reviewing the affair Mr. Dumble referred to it as follows:

"The charge is that Mary Drury is a vagrant, that is, that she has no home and no visible means of maintaining herself. It appears she is the wife of Robert Drury, who works at the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company, and earns $8 a week. The wife is about ten years older than the husband. She has three grown up children who are married, two of them residing in Peterborough.

The woman is frail, both in mind and body. The husband boards in a hotel, where he says he pays four dollars a week for his board. He has no home for his wife and is anxious to have her taken care of by the public. Under pressure he finally gave an order upon his employers for $2.00 a week to be used in support of his wife. Application was made to the Protestant Home to take her in and that institution finally consented to take her if the Charity Board would bear the responsibility for her keep at $1.50 a week.

Board Refuses

The Charity Board in committee have refused to assume this responsibility. The problem with the court, now, is to find a place for her that she may not perish in the streets. The jail is not the proper place and the city of Peterborough has not provided any home for the destitute poor and the court can do nothing but turn her out. The husband having set apart two dollars for her maintenance, it was thought that the Charity Board would not hesitate to accept the responsibility to the Protestant Home. The criminal code forbids imprisoning in the county goal as a vagrant anyone who has been a resident in the municipality over two years. I have therefore to dismiss this charge and suffer this homeless woman to go out at a season of the year when it is a cruelty to turn out a dog. The responsibility of this woman's death, if it should occur through exposure must rest on the Charity Committee."

The Magistrate handed Chief Roszel two dollars, saying that he would pay for her board at the Home for one week. In the meantime it is believed that some steps will be taken to provide for the maintenance of the woman for the rest of her life.

It is stated on good authority that the woman's children are willing to provide for her and give her a good home and made attempts to do so, which, however, have not been taken advantage of.

THE DORCAS SOCIETY RECEIVES PROCEEDS

Yesterday Mr. Edwards very kindly gave the proceeds of the afternoon at the Crystal, which amounted to $11.50, to the Dorcas Sewing Society. This society works for the poor of this city making every year many homes bright and happy through the winter by clothing the women and children. The society is very grateful to Mr. Edwards for his great kindness in helping them to go ahead with this good work.

CHICAGO WOMAN'S OPINION OF DIVORCE

Chicago, Jan. 14 — "Marriage is founded on love, not friendship; one will make you forever happy, the other forever unhappy." With this advice to young women, Mrs. T. T. Woolens, who after eight years of married life obtained a divorce from the president of the Hayes Dental Company, told the story of the romance and tragedy of her own life to-day.

Two flaxen-haired girls — one six years old, the other five — clung close to her as she voiced her philosophy of love and marriage.

"I loved as much as any girl could ever love," she said, "I knew, though, that my husband had only a kindly friendship toward me. He took that friendship to mean love. Result — unhappiness."

Mrs. Woolens charged desertion.

CANADA'S SHARE.

Sir James Whitney, speaking recently, in certainly academic mood, makes a statement which will not stand analysis. He says the only return Canada "makes for all that the Mother Country does for us is to pay the salary of the Governor-General." That is only a part of the truth. We give the Mother Country a market, and on terms of preference which no other nation enjoys. We give lands, living and homes to her congested population, we give a preference to British literature. Canada feeds the Mother Land and the day is not far distant when our fertile plains can and will supply all the breadstuffs the British people can consume, and above all Canada constitutes the centre of the outer circle of Empire, whose maintenance is the glory of Britain. We spend some two million dollars a year in the maintenance of a militia, permanent garrisons and conducting a military college which has provided more than a hundred first class officers to the British army and navy. Take it all in all, Canada does a good deal to help the Mother Country in grateful return for all the great things the Mother Country does for us. We do not want to fight; we want to be left in peace to grow. Past experience shows that if the Mother Land is foolish or unfortunate enough to be embroiled in a war, Canada will come to her help in a very substantial manner. Great Britain and the Empire will be the gainer if Canada is permitted to use in peace all her resources to develop its great heritage. Millions can be more profitably employed and to the advantage of both, in building up a Greater Britain on this continent, than in maintaining an expensive and burdensome military establishment and a toy navy—our best wouldn't be much. Our resources would not permit of our doing much in the way of building eight or nine million Dreadnaughts. In case of war Canada could look after the commissariat department, while our insular cousins were fighting. Such a division of responsibility indicates to what an extent Canada is prepared and able to do something for all that Britain does for us.

Canada borrowed one hundred and sixty-five millions of British money last year to assist in making herself a source of real strength to the Empire.

BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA.

The Bank of Nova Scotia enjoys a green old age. Its seventy-seventh annual report shows a continued prosperity. It reveals net profits of $559,557.58. After placing $15,000 to the credit of the officers' pension fund, writing off $100,000 from office premises and allowing $100,000 each for anticipated loss through liquidation of the Ontario and Sovereign Banks and providing for four quarterly dividends of $90,000 each, the remainder to be added to profit and loss, the sum of $55,741.78. Dividend rates of 12 1-2 per cent. were declared and paid upon the paid-up capital of the bank of $3,000,000. The report indicates a flourishing condition of all the interests of the bank. The statement should give satisfaction to the shareholders and the public, and reflects credit upon the management. The local office under the management of Mr. J. H. Ferguson, has shared in the general prosperity and contributed its quota thereto. The text of the report appears in these columns to-day and will be perused with interest.

BUILD UP PETERBOROUGH.

The Mayor of Brantford in issuing his inaugural address, presented an extensive municipal programme. The most important issues dealt with were the bringing of new industries to the city, the co-related matter of obtaining cheap power and the also related question of improving railway facilities. In these respects Peterborough has little to trouble itself with the two latter, and especially the last; but it has much to do in the matter of securing new industries, and securing additional cheap power. We have the cheap power to a certain extent, and the desirable railway facilities to be importantly augmented by the addition of water transportation through the completion of the Trent Canal to Lake Ontario. Speaking on the subject of new industries for Brantford, the Expositor, in dealing with the Mayor's message says:

The first essential is the securing of new industries which will bring capital to the city, afford labour for workingmen, increase the population, fill vacant houses and stimulate every line of local trade. The second essential is the meeting of the civic requirements which a growing population and a prosperous city will create, among which, in the case of Brantford, will be an improved market in order that the people on the one hand may get their food supplies at first hand and the farmers on the other may be brought here to dispose of their produce and in turn make their purchases at local stores.

The industrial prestige of the city during the next few years will depend largely on the system which the city sees fit to adopt. WHAT IS ACTUALLY NEEDED IS A THOROUGHLY EQUIPPED INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT, the chief business of which would be to "hustle" for new industries. In this connection, in addition to the advantages which Brantford is already able to offer to incoming concerns, there should be the boon of cheap power and enlarged railway facilities. The entire power situation will be taken up at once, as well also, it is hoped, the question of the city securing options on desirable industrial sites and connecting the same with the railway lines. Once given an active industrial growth Brantford will readily meet the requirements arising therefrom.

The Expositor's remarks, can, mutatis mutandis, be regarded as a sermon to our own Aldermen and Board of Trade, and it is to be hoped they will lay its teaching to heart as much as they will regard the sermon which is to be launched at our city fathers next Sunday. Peterborough must not be allowed to stand still, though there is hardly such a thing as standing still; we either advance or go back. We look to our civic and trade interest representatives to maintain the pace. Would it not be well for the city council to consider the question of the establishment of what Brantford proposes, a thoroughly equipped industrial department, involving the creation of a commissioner whose duty it shall be to especially busy himself with keeping an outlook for industrial enterprises, in search of the most desirable location? Such a commissioner would have the time to place himself in touch and keep himself in touch, with the continental and even transcontinental situations, in a manner evidently not to be expected nor possible to members of the city council, absorbed in a combination of personal and civic duties. Incidentally such a commissioner could interest himself in promoting other civic interests such as publicity activities and the arrangement of conventions, the attraction of excursions and other means for making Peterborough a centre of resort for the outside world. The city fathers might also profitably consider with a view to early action, the question of obtaining additional cheap power from available resources within easy and cheap power distance of the city. There is a big field of activity outside the routine of civic administration, which is almost automatic, to engage the attention of our city representatives in the council.

A YEAR OF NOTABLE ANNIVERSARIES.

The year 1909 is peculiarly rich in centennial anniversaries of the births of men whose names are writ large in the history of civilization. Abraham Lincoln and Darwin were both born on February, 12th, 1809. Edgar Allan Poe, the melancholy poet, came into the world January 19th of the same year, while Tennyson, whose crossing of the bar seems to have occurred but yesterday, first saw the light on August 6th. Oliver Wendell Holmes, one of the brightest lights in American literature, was born on August 29th, while Gladstone whose career has, perhaps been subjected to more varying judgment than that of any other man of modern times, came on the scene four days after the Christmas festivities. In this year, too, occurs the four hundreth anniversary of the birth of John Calvin, whose rigid creed has swayed the minds of unnumbered millions.

It is not necessary, however, to go beyond the past century for anniversaries which cause 1909 to stand out above and beyond any other year in the first quarter of the twentieth century. Is there some unseen influence exerted from beyond our sphere, which for good or ill controls the destinies of those born in a particular year, or under particular conditions? Or did the world-shaking events of the first fifteen years of the nineteenth century, have an influence in broadening and strengthening minds which were in the most plastic form at that time?—Weekly Sun.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Canada ranks tenth in the wheat producing countries of the world, and it will not be long before this order is changed and this country will forge further to the front.

The Canadian Northwest, says the Wall Street Journal, is now drawing 100,000 of America's best farm population away to the virgin lands of the north. However unpleasant these facts may be to an American, it is folly to blind one's self to the fact that the Canadian Northwest is destined to supply beef and pork, and cheese and butter and bread to the world. It has the soil, the climate and the cheap transportation, and it will have the people.

Alfred Austin the British poet-laureate, takes a rather pessimistic view of the results of extending the franchise to women. He says they are emotional and if given a voice in the management of national affairs, they would embroil the country in war, and leave mere man to do the fighting—the bleeding and dying, "while the very utmost women could do would be to act as ministering angels." His poetic imagination evidently cannot conjure up regiments of militant Amazons.

On motion of Coun. Charlton and Walsh, the council adjourned to meet at a call from the reeve.—Carried.

HASTINGS ITEMS OF INTEREST

Hastings, Jan. 13.—Miss Jessie Baker, who has been teaching the Dutch Line School, leaves at the New Year to take charge of the school at Dartmouth. Miss Baker is a sister of Mrs. Harold Wilson, of town.

The many friends here of Mr. Geo. Gumpricht, piano tuner, regret very much to learn of his sudden demise. Mr. Gumpricht was widely known in this locality and much respected.

A New Year's service was held in the Presbyterian Church on Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

This week being the "Week of Prayer," service is being held nightly in the different churches of the town.

The Hastings hockey club held their annual meeting on Tuesday evening, 29th ult., when the officers for the ensuing year were elected, with John Welsh, Sr., as Hon. President and Dr. Wilson as Hon. Vice-President.

Mr. J. Jones, of town, was the lucky winner of the gold watch, which was given as a prize in the guessing contest on the weight of the cake of soap, which has for some time past been displayed in a local grocery shop window. The soap was weighed by Mr. Alex Wilson. The actual weight of the cake was 117 1-2 lbs., while Mr. Jones guessed it at 116 lbs. 3 oz.

Mr. John Wills recently slaughtered a yearling heifer which, when dressed, tipped the scales at 476 lbs. This is the best we have seen in town for some time and took the prize for Christmas beef.

Mr. Fletcher Anderson, of Carleton Place, is visiting his mother, Mrs. A. Anderson.

Dr. and Mrs. Berry spent the holiday in town, the guests of the Misses Fowlds.

The concert given in the town hall on Christmas night by the Methodist Sunday School, was a decided success in every particular. All the different numbers which were given showed that great pains had been taken by those who had the entertainment in charge. The house was crowded to its utmost capacity and the best of order prevailed throughout the entire length of the programme, which consisted of songs by the primary class, drills by older girls, solos, dialogues and quartettes, while almost every number had to respond to an encore. What is worthy of more particular mention were the selections which were rendered in such a pleasing manner by "Little Annie Christie," the gifted child elocutionist, of Peterborough. This child, although of very tender years, appeared in four different numbers, and each number called for an encore, which were given in such a manner as to show that she possesses a gift rarely met with in one so young. Some of the audience were heard to remark that although there had been several adult professionals here, they could not compare with "Little Miss Christie." The committee in charge have reason to be proud of the success of the entertainment.

Mrs. J. H. Hess and daughter, Myrtle, are spending the week in Toronto.

Mrs. Robert Tudhope and children, of Norwood, are guests of Mr. H. Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Buchanan, of Havelock, have been visiting the latter's mother, Mrs. Joseph Carter, Sr.

Mr. Geo. Stwvenson, of Peterborough, spent Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Stevenson, Sr.

Mr. Frank Hill, of Toronto, spent the holiday with his mother, Mrs. Wm. Hill.

Miss Attie Fowlds, of Port Perry, was in town for the holidays.

Miss Hattie Preston, of Asphodel, is visiting with friends in Mount Pleasant.

Mr. A. Knight spent Sunday at his home in Warkworth.

Mr. Wm. English, of Detroit, is renewing old acquaintances in town.

Mr. John Mundy, of Toronto, has been visiting his mother, Mrs. C. Mundy.

Mr. Gordon Johnston, of Egmvale, spent the holidays with his parents.

Mr. O. Burns, Sask., is holidaying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. (Rev.) Burns.

Mr. Robt. Carter, of Peterborough, spent Christmas with his mother, Mrs. J. Carter.

Miss Eva Moore, of Albert College, Belleville, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Christie and daughter, Annie, of Peterborough, spent the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Beavis.

The reeveship of Hastings is being contested by Mr. D. Learmouth and Mr. T. Howard.

Asphodel mourns the loss of another respected resident, in the person of Mr. Jas. D. Buck, who departed this life on Sunday, the 20th. Deceased was in his fifty-ninth year and had been ailing for some time, and his demise was not unexpected. Surviving the deceased are a wife, six sons and three daughters, who remain to mourn his loss.

THE TRIAL OF MOIR HAS COMMENCED

Alleged Murderer of Sergt. Lloyd at London Faces Jury.

DEFENCE PLEADS INSANITY

Crown Completes Its Case Against Young Wolseley Barracks Soldier Defence Shows Its Hand Enough to Indicate That It Will Blame Fits For Crime—No Doubt He Shot Color-Sergeant Lloyd.

London, Jan. 14.—When the trial of Private William A. Moir, charged with the slaying of Color-Sergt. Lloyd, was adjourned at six o'clock last night, all the evidence for the crown was in and the defence had advanced far enough with their case to give a clear idea of the line upon which they are fighting in their efforts to save the young soldier.

The evidence given by the defence favored strong the "brain storm idea." Evidence was brought out to show that Moir was subject to fits, but no evidence was adduced to show that he still retained the use of his limbs during these attacks. A good deal of testimony, however, was advanced to show that such cases are not impossible, and the defence appear to be prepared to back this line of argument by further witnesses, who are being called to-day.

The evidence of the crown traced the tragedy from the time that Moir reached the barracks until he was captured in the stable near Arthur.

There is no shadow of doubt that Moir did the shooting. It is a point to which the defence hold, however, that Lloyd was reaching for the muzzle of the rifle in Moir's hands when the fatal shot was fired.

One feature of the trial was the statement of one of the witnesses at the barracks, who said that he had in his own possession at the time of the shooting from 1,500 to 2,000 rounds of ammunition.

It is expected that the evidence will be concluded to-day, and the fate of Moir will probably be in the hands of the jury before night.

Coal Output Checked.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Bituminous coal production in the United States in 1908 reached a total of between 320 and 330 million tons.

In 1907 more than 400,000,000 tons were produced.

The surveys' investigation showed that the cause for less activity in the coal mining industry was one of the result which followed the financial depression in the latter part of 1907. A short cotton crop and a period of idleness from April 1 to June 15, pending a settlement of the wage scale controversy, also affected coal production adversely.

Railroad shipments of anthracite in the last year amounted to more than 64,000,000 long tons, as compared with more than 67,000,000 long tons the previous year.

Fired the Suffragette.

Birmingham, Eng., Jan. 14.—During a dinner given to Winston Churchill last night, a woman in evening dress went to the table where Mr. Churchill was sitting and commenced to argue with him in favor of votes for women. The conversation was carried on for some time, the woman standing facing Mr. Churchill, who, with his wife, remained seated, eating his dinner. Finally the officials insisted that the woman leave the dining hall, and, upon refusing to do so she was taken by the shoulders and escorted to the door, meanwhile shouting suffragette battle cries.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

Is without an Equal for COUGHS, COLDS, BRONCHITIS and all Affections of the THROAT and LUNGS.

All the most serious affections of the throat, the lungs and the bronchial tubes, are in the beginning but colds or coughs. Too much stress cannot be laid on this fact, and neglect to cure the cold very often causes years of suffering and in the end comes "Consumption." Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup combines all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree with other absorbent, expectorant and soothing medicines of recognised worth, and is absolutely harmless, prompt and safe.

Mr. J. L. Purdy, Millvale, N.S., writes:—"I have been troubled with a hard, dry cough for a long time, especially at night, but after having used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, for a few weeks, I find my cough has left me. To any person, suffering as I did, I can say that this remedy is well worth a trial. I would not be without it in the house."

So great has been the success of this wonderful remedy, it is only natural that numerous persons have tried to imitate it. Don't be humbugged into taking anything but "Dr. Woods." Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents.

"After taking three bottles of your wonderful medicine, our baby was entirely well and needed no more medicine. At sixteen months of age she weighed thirty pounds. She had cried eight months, night and day, and nothing did her good until we tried Scott's Emulsion."—MRS. E. C. SMITH, Villa Rica, Ga.

Scott's Emulsion

probably saved this child's life. Four doctors had been tried. SCOTT'S EMULSION seemed to be just the thing needed, and it is just the thing needed by thousands of other children. It's so easily digested, so pure and harmless, yet most powerful in building up the most delicate child or adult. But be sure to get SCOTT'S EMULSION, there are so many worthless and harmful imitations.

JUROR SHOWS PLUCK.

Thos. Walsh Saves Hains Case From a Re-trial.

Flushing, N.Y., Jan. 14.—Events crowded fast yesterday in the trial of Thornton Jenkins Hains. When court adjourned last night, Juror Thomas Walsh, injured in a street car accident in New York Tuesday night, was placed in the care of a physician by Justice Crane, that his injuries might not cause a mis-trial of the case.

Counsel for the defence concluded their summing up yesterday afternoon, and Prosecutor Darrin began his address to the jury. Mr. Darrin will conclude his speech some time to-day, and Justice Crane after his charge will give the case over to the jury.

Only the pluck of Juror Walsh saved the Hains' case from mis-trial and postponement yesterday. Battered almost beyond recognition from a fall from a street car, Walsh came from the hospital to the court and sat through the day's trial, though at times he appeared to suffer greatly, and Justice Crane took frequent recesses that the injured juror might recover his strength. The juror informed Justice Crane that he felt that he could continue, but only when a physician gave his assent would the justice permit the case to go on. He was cared for last night by a physician in Flushing.

Prosecutor Darrin, following the closing address of Mr. McIntyre for the defence, bitterly scored many of the defence's witnesses called to testify as to the insanity of Capt. Hains. For over two hours the state's attorney dwelt upon the question of the rationality of the army officer. His address to the jury was clothed in no dramatic terms of forensic utterance, and he confined himself to marshalling the facts from the evidence.

Militia to Oust General.

Bismarck, N.D., Jan. 14.—In spite of a court injunction an armed guard of the state militia patroled the state capital Tuesday night and it will remain on duty pending the settlement of the legal controversy regarding the relative rights of Gen. T. H. Poole and Col. A. P. Peake.

Gen. Poole was retired by Governor Burke. The militia was called out on Tuesday after Gen. Poole had re-entered the capital and taken possession of his offices, from which he had been ousted the preceding day.

Another Concession.

London, Jan. 14.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Regarding the waterways treaty, The Standard says we apparently decide on Canada's behalf the Canadian suitors shall be compelled to submit to the decision of a joint commission, while the United States suitors will find a court appeal in their Senate. Such a provision is extremely unfortunate. The day of concessions to the beautiful eyes of the United States or any other power, has definitely passed away.

Fort William Marine Traffic.

Fort William, Jan. 14.—The customs house returns show that during the season of navigation for 1908, 1,885 vessels arrived and departed with a tonnage of 3,530,460, and crews of 46,286. For 1907 the number of vessels to arrive and depart was 1,829, but the difference in number was more than made up in 1908 by the larger size of the vessels as they aggregated a greater tonnage capacity of over 1,300,000, or a greater tonnage capacity per boat of 600 tons.

Frozen to Death.

Waterous, Sask., Jan. 14.—William Evans, an English homesteader, aged 55, living two and a half miles northwest from here, left Waterous on Saturday forenoon for his shack, and not being seen again his footsteps were traced, and the man was found lying frozen in a bluff were he had crawled to die.

George Smith, County Judge.

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—At yesterday's meeting of the Cabinet, George Smith, ex-M.P., Woodstock, was appointed county court judge of Essex County, Ont. He succeeds Judge Mickle, who was appointed a month ago, but who resigned.

INDIAN CHIEFS ASK FOR $380,000

Want Refund of Money Badly Invested by Government.

THEY DEPOSITED IT IN 1834

Chiefs Representing Six Nations Go to Ottawa to Ask Return of Funds Said to Have Been Left With the Government and Lost In Old Canal Scheme Which Failed a Number of Years Ago.

Toronto, Jan. 14.—Three Indian chiefs, with blood in their eyes passed through Toronto last night bound for Ottawa. They were Chiefs Dekanenranch (two ranks of men), Sbohskohrovane (big raft), and Sakokares (much bite) — modernly known as A. G. Smith, William Smith and Josiah Hill.

They are after a refund from the Dominion Government of $153,028 with compound interest from the year 1834 to the present time; the price and accrued interest upon 1,800 acres of valuable corn land which was flooded by the construction operations of the Grand River Navigation Co. in the early thirties; also the price and interest of 200 acres of land said to have been forced from their people by the Canadian Government to be utilized as tow-paths along the waterway which was never developed.

They have been deputed by the council of the Six Nation Indians of the Brant Reserve, and, armed with a voluminous legal brief and a letter of assurance from Hon. Frank Oliver, superintendent of Indian affairs, that they will be given a fair hearing, they are in high hopes of securing a requittal in full without going into the law courts.

Senator Belcourt and Solicitor A. G. Chisholm of London have been their legal advisers.

The trio left Brantford at 4.30 and had supper with "Chief" Tom Flanagan at the Grand Central Hotel, leaving for Ottawa via C.P.R. at 10 p.m.

The Claim.

Their case is this: They always had the privilege of selling land in order to secure money for improvement and living purposes, and the Imperial Government permitted them to deposit the proceeds with the crown for safekeeping with interest. In 1834, when a chartered company wanted to make the Grand River navigable from Lake Erie to Brantford, the Government appropriated their people's funds and invested it against their wish in stock of the Grand River Navigation Co.

Enough money was subscribed in this way to absorb three-quarters of the capital stock. The Buffalo & Lake Huron Railway (now the Grand Trunk) was chartered and killed the scheme.

In addition to surrendering some 300 acres of land for a tow-path along the canal, 1,800 acres of corn land were flooded and rendered forever useless. While the scheme was still in embryo the Government of Upper Canada got the trust of the Indians' money in its hands, and, according to Chief A. G. Smith, "did as they pleased with it afterwards."

Realizing that the Brant River Navigation scheme was a failure, they urged time and again that their money be restored to them, and were so anxious to get rid of the stock that they agreed to surrender an additional 40,000 acres of land providing that the purchaser would take over the defunct stock. The Government took the 40,000 acres, but left them still laden with the stock, Sir John Colborne, they say, was governor at that time.

There are now in Canada about 4,000 descendants of the Six Nation Indians, and they expect that the Government's sense of justice will refund to them $800,000. They now have between $800,000 and $900,000 invested with the Government, upon which they are drawing interest.

Aged Trio Bound and Robbed.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 14.—Binding, gagging and assaulting Solomon Loughner, 80 years old, and his two sisters, both of whom are between 70 and 80 years old, six masked robbers Tuesday night ransacked the house, securing about $1,500 in cash, ate their supper and then disappeared.

The Loughners live on an isolated farm.

Not Responsible.

Woodstock, Jan. 14.—Roy Ingles, the young man who put up a highway robbery game on himself, and then sent threatening letters to Henry Craig, was before the magistrate yesterday afternoon. On the evidence of two doctors as to his mental capacity, Ingles was sent to the Orillia Asylum.

Canada's Army Act.

London, Jan. 14.—(C.A.P. Cable)—Sir Frederick Borden made representations to the Home Government with reference to the Army Act, which Ottawa seeks to adopt. In the special circumstances of Canada, constitutional difficulties have prevented this from being done.

Confused by Signals.

Windsor, Jan. 14.—Daniel Wood, tunnel employe, was struck by a Sandwich street car early yesterday, and was seriously injured. The motorman states that Wood became confused by the warning signals and stepped directly in front of the car. His injuries consist of severe scalp wounds and broken ribs.

"The Camera Club section of the Arts and Crafts Exhibit in the Green Room of the Young Women's Christian Association, attracted large attention. There were one hundred pictures entered, all of them being worth close inspection. The judges, Mrs. D. Hughes Charles, Miss Hatton, and Fred Roy, awarded the prizes. N. A. THE SILVER NORTH

Cobalt, Lorraine, Larder Lake and Gowganda.

Travellers returning from the great mineral fields of the north are more enthusiastic than ever regarding the permanency of the Silver Camp. One hundred and fifty teams are now employed daily in moving passengers, freight and supplies to the new Gowganda finds from Earlton, Entelhart and Carlton. It is only 18 miles from Charlton to Elk Lake where there are 22 mines, and from Elk Lake to Gowganda is 32 miles.

Leaving Toronto 10.15 p. m. daily, on the Grand Trunk "Cobalt Special", Elk Lake can be reached the next afternoon, via Cobalt, Haileybury, New Liskeard and Charlton, and this will continue to be the best way.

The Ontario Government are being strongly urged to push on the extension of their line from Charlton, which will open up this rich territory.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

FROM THE GALLERY

Joseph O'Mara, the famous Irish tenor, who is appearing in the Broadway Theatre production of "Peggy Machree," told this good one to Eddie Burke in the Metropole: "I was playing Faust in Limerick. When Mephisto seized me and we started to sink through the stage in the last act, the trap got wedged and we got only half way down when the property flames raged up around us — but there we stuck. Suddenly a chap in the gallery yelled: "Hey, Mike, bell is full and they can't get in."

NATURAL GAS PROPOSITION WAS LAID BEFORE LINDSAY PEOPLE AND MET WITH APPROVAL

Mr. R. H. Leary Met the Board of Trade and Council in Regard to the Matter—8000 Acres Guaranteed.

WILL GET A FRANCHISE.

Lindsay, Jan 13th—Mr. Robert H Leary, of Peterborough, was in town to-day and held a palaver with W. B. Sparling, President of the Board of Trade; Johnston Ross, F. C. Taylor, and Wm. Flavelle in the Simpson House, relative to the securing of a franchise to lay gas mains on the streets of the town and supplying Lindsay with natural gas.

Some time ago natural gas, said to be in unlimited quantities, was struck in Monaghan township, Peterborough county. Mr C. E. Dettman of Waynesburg, Pa., decided to exploit the find and a company was formed. Mr. Leary, of Peterborough, mentioned above, is actively interested in this company. He is also president of the Peterborough Agricultural Society.

This company is of the opinion that there is a stratum of natural gas running right through the county, which passes through Victoria county. Mr. Leary is here to take arrangements for the securing, if possible, of a franchise to place mains on Lindsay's streets.

If the right to do this can be secured along with the lease of sufficient land, tests for gas will be made in this county.

"8,000 acres of land in a block is necessary," stated Mr Leary.

"They are willing to drill 4,000 feet to make the test."

The lease which the company desire over the land entitles the said company merely to the oil and gas in the property. It is desirable to have the land in a block to secure the full right in case a vein of gas was struck that would lead in any direction.

Extensive tests will be made all over this property. If a test is not made on a farmer's land in a year he will be allowed 25 cents per acre for the lease.

A public meeting of the citizens will be held to-night at 7.30 to discuss the project fully, along with the council and Board of Trade. Mayor Begg was notified by the gentlemen mentioned above and he gave his full consent to the calling of a meeting.

It seems that property owners in Monaghan township have been asking exorbitant sums for the use of their land and thus have been blocking the extension of the mains to Peterborough city.

Mr. Leary stated to the Peterborough council that every overture made to these property owners had been refused, and they would not go on with the work unless some agreement was reached. Lin say met. became interested, and Mr. Leary came to Lindsay as a result of a communication received.

(Mr. R. H. Leary, who returned this morning from Lindsay, where he had been in the interest of the firm of American capitalists, who have secured a franchise of Peterborough streets for the purpose of carrying on a natural gas business, reports that the proposition was received with hearty approval by the Lindsay people.

A joint meeting of the Board of Trade and city council was held last night, at which the matter was discussed, and after Mr. Leary had laid the proposition before the meeting, the offer of the company was enthusiastically received, and there will not be any difficulty in securing a franchise or in getting the land necessary. Mr. Leary states that the Lindsay people will guarantee the company a block of land containing 8,000 acres, so that the difficulty met with here in getting land will not be found in the Scugog community. In the event of the company getting what they are asking for in Lindsay. (Mr. Leary does not know what course they will adopt in regard to Peterborough. Several farmers in the section of land wanted are still blocking the scheme by refusing to give leases of their property to the company.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAMME FOR THE Y.M.C.A. BOYS GYM. CLOSING

The Boys of the Y.M.C.A. will put on an exhibition of their gymnasium work on Thursday evening, January 21.

This exhibition will give the parents and friends an opportunity to see what the boys are doing in the gymnasium. The programme is a very good one and will include drills, marches, apparatus work, games, races, burlesque basket ball, and a ladies' championship walking race and many other features.

The drill will be put on by the Junior School Boys, and will be in the form of running formations with music accompaniment.

A dumbbell drill will be put on by the Business Boys, and apparatus work by the Collegiate Boys.

Among the specialities will be ball hustle, blind pillow fight, obstacle race, potato race, ladies' walking race and sack basketball.

Great interest is being taken in the ladies' walking race, and this race promises to be one of the best sporting events of the season.

The blind pillow fight and sack basketball will give lots of opportunity for a good laugh, and the races will make plenty of excitement.

LEGAL COMMITTEE TAKES UP SOME DAMAGE CLAIMS AGAINST CITY

The Legal Committee have had the honour of being the first of the City Council committees to meet, Ald. Turner's committee being convened last night to consider several requests for damages.

The request for damages from Mr. McClusky, whose horse was struck by the fire department rig some time ago on Hunter street, was taken up. The request was considered, but as there was no information to hand the matter was left over until another meeting. In the meantime evidence will be gathered, to enable the committee to deal intelligently with the subject.

The city has had to bear a portion of the cost of the flagman at the C. P. R. crossing on Aylmer street. Recently the Grand Trunk put a siding across Aylmer street to connect with the C. P. R. siding to the Matthews Company factory. Now the Legal Committee considers that the G. T. R. should pay the city's portion of the cost of maintaining the flagman.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams presented a claim for damages on behalf of Mr. Kennedy, who fell on the sidewalk on Hunter street last February. The matter will also be looked into and taken up at another meeting.

ANOTHER LETTER ON THE CITY'S FINANCES

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir:— Shortly before the late municipal election I wrote you a letter criticizing the management of the city finances by the Mayor and Council of 1908, and I predicted an overdraft on the current business of the year of $15,000. To that letter Mayor Rush replied accusing me of making "misleading" statements, and by stating one side of what had still to be taken into account and not the other side, he tried to make it appear that all would be well in the end.

I want now to invite your readers' attention to the statement of the actual position at the end of 1908 as shown by the City Treasurer's report to the first meeting of the new Councils I said the deficit would be $15,000. The Treasurer shows it actually was $20,745. Now will the Mayor tell us who was making the "misleading" statements.

Possibly the Mayor will again claim credit for the outstanding taxes, amounting according to the Tax Collector's statement to $11,800. If so he must deduct the similar arrears of the preceding year, which, according to the same statement amounted to $8,700. If this allowance should be made the deficit at the end of the year will still be $17,600, which is in addition to the spending of the surplus of $6,600 received from that terribly extravagant Council of 1907.

Yours truly,
R. F. McWILLIAMS.

NOTE — If Mayor Rush wishes to reply to above letter, space will be afforded him, but with that the correspondence on the subject will close. There does not seem to be any evidence of wrong doing on the part of last year's Council, or any necessity of prolonging an election controversy throughout the year.

CELEBRATED THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Wilson, Formerly of Peterborough, Married Fifty Years.

On the twenty-seventh day of December, 1858, at Peterborough, Isabella Milburn and William B. Wilson were married by Rev. John Cameron. On New Year's Day, 1909, at their home in Bright, Ont., Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were At Home to their friends to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. The guests present numbered sixty-one, and of these some had come from far Saskatchewan and Vancouver. The home was tastefully decorated the predominant colours being white and gold. After dinner, some guests expressed, in felicitous terms, their pleasure at being present, and their congratulations and good wishes, whilst others contributed music and recitations. Needless to add there were the usual gifts, useful, ornamental and monetary, from relatives and friends, present and absent. Ever since they came to live in Bright, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson have been actively connected with the Methodist Church. Mr. Wilson is a member of the Parsonage Trustee Board, and the Quarterly Official Board, and for several years filled the office of church treasurer; whilst Mrs. Wilson has been a class leader, Sunday School worker, and president of the Ladies' Aid for many years.

MARKET BUTCHERS PLAY TIT FOR TAT

A Sort of Friendly Combine That Was Worked to Get Even.

A reporter casually remarked a business coup that was worked yesterday on the market by three butchers. Each of them had a sleigh load of meat and competition was keen for all the business that came along. It was a friendly rivalry. Finally the man at the south sleigh walked up to the middle one, where a citizen was pricing the different quarters, and said, "That's pretty good looking meat, but if you do not see just what you want, come down to my sleigh till you see what I've got." The man went away and the middle and north men resolved to get square.

After a short time had passed and several men were standing near the south sleigh, they both strolled leisurely down and took a part in the conversation. Finally one of them corralled the south man and the other button-holed a prospective buyer and whispered in his ear to come up to his sleigh and he could get "as nice a piece of beef as there was on the market and the price would be all right." And then the conversation with the south man abruptly ceased.

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character, far from it. Prof. Sabouraud of Paris, France, inoculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. MACBETH CLASS TO RESUME THIS EVENING

Mr. A. Mowat will resume the study of Macbeth with his large and enthusiastic class this evening.

The members of Mr. Mowat's class feel that this Thursday evening hour is one of great privilege and benefit. There are about fifty names on this class role, but there is still room in our large drawing room for others to enjoy with us this helpful hour.

Mr. Mowat will finish the study of Macbeth in two or three more lessons, when he will begin a series of lectures on "The Development of the English Novel." Remember the hour—eight o'clock sharp each Thursday.

The development of the spiritual life is the underlying purpose of all association work. No book will so richly repay study as the Bible. We desire to welcome many new faces to our Bible Circle, which meets each Friday evening at eight o'clock. We are following a series of character studies.

The Educational Committee is planning for new classes, which will be announced within a week.

THE DOMINION BANK.

To the rapidly-growing list of annual statements recently issued by financial institutions is added the exceptionally satisfactory exhibit of the Dominion Bank. Comparison with previous yearly reports by the same bank reveals the fact that, the increase in the paid-up capital by $134,795 during the year fractionally decreased the percentage of profits. The net profits were actually several thousand dollars greater than in the previous year, a very fine achievement in a year when general business experienced the contraction felt in the last twelve months. The profits were $641,318, or 16.25 per cent on the present paid-up capital of $3,983,392. The dividends at the rate of 12 per cent. took $473,462. $100,000 was written off bank premises account and a balance of $302,956 was carried to profit and loss. Last year $205,140 was carried forward. An amount of $148,274, the premium received on the new capital stock being carried to the reserve fund, increases that fund to $4,941,731, or a million dollars more than the paid-up capital. The great strength of the bank is best shown, however, at a glance at its assets. Cash assets are over ten million and immediately available assets $17,506,000, or 43 per cent. of the total liabilities to the public. The tendency of deposits to increase at the present time is emphasized in this instance by the growth in this item to a record level, total deposits by the public being nearly $38,000,000 or $3,700,000 above last year. At the same time the amount of bills discounted and advances current indicate a large and profitable business in hand. 1d'w

The "Soo Loan Guarantee" Has Been Discharged In Full

The Balance of $1,000,000 Paid Provincial Treasurer by Canadian Improvement Company---Where Ross Government Deserves Credit.

As was intimated in the editorial columns of the Examiner yesterday, would be the case, the Province of Ontario has, according to the Globe, been relieved of all responsibility in connection with what is commonly known as "the Soo loan guarantee." Sir James Whitney last night received from Hon. Mr. Matheson, the Provincial Treasurer, who went to New York a few days ago in connection with the matter, the following telegram: "The Canadian Improvement Co. paid in $1,000,000, and the Morton Trust Co. gave a certificate that all guaranteed certificates are cancelled and the matter closed."

The guarantee of the Province was given in 1904 on a $2,000,000 loan to the Lake Superior Corporation during the crisis of 1904. The corporation has immense industries at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and the action of the ten Government in the year named in guaranteeing the loan gave the industries a new lease of life, and was indirectly an immense boon to the town.

Some time ago the Province was relieved of $1,000,000 of the guarantee, and the step outlined in Hon. Mr. Matheson's telegram relieves it of the rest.

As stated in The Globe of Monday, a large interest in the Lake Superior Corporation has been secured by Mr. Robert Fleming of Edinburgh and London, a financier of international repute, and Dr. F. S. Pearson, a famous engineer, will have charge of the industries. The developments of the last few days promise much for the future of the corporation and Sault Ste. Marie.

The above is very gratifying intelligence. Such a result at once illustrates the public-spirit and foresight of the Ross Government and justifies the prompt and patriotic action it took in the emergency of 1904. This action resulted in placing the Soo industries on their feet and has led to the present flourishing outlook under the recent change of proprietorship. But for this action the industries would, no doubt, have collapsed. The action of the Government was all the more creditable because it was taken in face of the dead weight of the hostility and pessimism of the Conservative Opposition of the day, and of the machinations of powerful United States interests concerned in in bringing about of the competition represented by the active operation of the great cluster of industries at Sault Ste. Marie. Now that the whole of the two millions covered by the guarantee has been paid, and the works are in operation with a flourishing future in sight, Sir James Whitney will look back with regret upon his pessimistic assertion that the money "might as well have been thrown into Lake Superior." Courage and foresight are two of the essentials of productive and constructive statesmanship.

Provincial Treasurer, Who Has Been In New York Conducting Negotiations Regarding Canadian Improvement Co. and Soo Corporation, Wires That Certificates Are Finally Cancelled.

Toronto, Jan. 14.—Hon. Col. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer, has been in New York for several days taking part in the arrangements by which the affairs of the Canadian Improvement Co. and the Soo Corporation are being settled up.

It will be remembered that one-half of the amount guaranteed by the province was paid off some time ago, leaving the provincial liability at $1,000,000.

Last night Sir James Whitney received the following telegram from Col. Matheson:

"The Canadian Improvement Co. paid in $1,000,000 and Morton Trust Co. gave certificate that all guaranteed certificates are cancelled and the matter closed."

"This," said James Whitney, "puts an end to the provincial liability and the Provincial Treasurer deserves great credit for the pains he has bestowed upon this matter from the beginning, ending in the satisfactory result above mentioned."

SHOULD BE FRENCHMAN.

L'Action Sociale Speaks Regarding Forget's Successor.

Montreal, Jan. 14.—The announcement that Lieutenant-Governor Forget of Saskatchewan may be called to the Senate in place of the late Senator Bernier of St. Boniface, has caused a good deal of comment in the Quebec press.

L'Action Sociale, the Quebec clerical organ, not only wants the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Bernier filled by a French-Canadian, but that journal also wants the governorship to go to a French candidate.

L'Action Sociale says they do not want to raise the race cry, but simply to ask that they shall retain their position in the west.

The French, the paper says, were the first to occupy the great west, and they should count for something in the opinion of the paper.

A Vain Sacrifice.

London, Jan. 14.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Col. George T. Denison, Toronto, writes The Standard with reference to Great Britain's marked loss of prestige in Canada, in the last seven years:

The feeling is general, he says, that the Canadian blood shed in South Africa was a vain sacrifice to aid the Empire which is too feebly governed to profit by such loyal devotion.

If Britain does not soon reciprocate the preference, or at least take measures to protect herself from impending disaster, Canada may be induced to play her own business game.

Tennessee Votes "Dry."

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 14.—The bill to prohibit the sale of all intoxicating liquors in Tennessee passed the lower House of the General Assembly last night by a vote of 62 to 34.

The measure now goes to Governor Patterson, who, it is expected, will veto it. Under the constitution, his veto only acts as a suggestion, not as a stay, and a bare majority may pass a bill over the executive's unfavorable action.

The bill provides that prohibition become effective July 1, 1909.

They'll put you in such condition you'll never know you have a heart, make your nerves strong and your whole being thrill with new life. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cured Mrs. K. E. Bright, Burnley, Ont. She writes: "I was greatly troubled, for six years, with my heart and shortness of breath. I could not walk eighty rods without resting four or five times in that short distance. I got so weak and thin I only weighed seventy-three pounds. I decided at last to take some of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after taking eight boxes I gained in strength and weight, and now weigh one hundred and thirteen pounds, the most I ever weighed in my life. ROOFER IS KILLED.

One Man Dies and Another Is Hurt at Newmarket.

Toronto, Jan. 14.—John Hoy, 35 years, married, 221 Maria street, West Toronto, a foreman tinsmith, is dead and John Trempe, 25 years married, 254 Sydenham street, a helper, is in so critical a condition at the General Hospital, that an ante-mortem statement was taken last night.

This is the result of the collapse of a roofer's scaffolding on the new Friends' College, in course of construction at Newmarket, at four o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The two men had been at work upon the sub-contract of A. Matthews, who was putting on the slates and tin work of the roof.

They were finishing up the slater's work, which had been left two weeks ago, and, according to Trempe, were at a point of 25 feet from the edge of the roof, using the scaffold tackle that the slaters had used when this gave way. The men slipped to the eaves and unable to stop their flight, dropped 50 feet to the ground.

Hoy's right arm was broken and three ribs were crushed, one of these puncturing his lung, causing a severe internal hemorrhage.

Trempe's left thigh was broken and his right arm was fractured. Both suffered severely from shock.

Trempe was met at the Union Station by a private ambulance and hurried to the General Hospital. Hoy's body was sent to Harry Ellis' College street undertaking rooms. Dr. Scott, who is a coroner, communicated with County Crown Attorney Drayton, who did not decide as to the necessity of an inquest, but ordered the taking of a statement from Trempe, which was done.

Hoy is an Englishman. He, with Trempe, who is a Canadian, had been employed by the Matthews' firm for two years.

He leaves a widow and one little girl, four years old.

Did He Slay Brother?

North Bay, Jan. 14.—Maurice Ryan, awaiting trial here on a charge of highway robbery, was served yesterday with information charging him with the murder of his brother on or about Nov. 6, 1907. The preliminary hearing begins before Police Magistrate Weegar this morning.

The body of the murdered man was well concealed under brush and leaves in a wild, uncleared covering, which had hidden the remains for nearly a year, before the crime was revealed.

Detective Greer has secured a striking piece of evidence in the form of a Traders' Bank check with the name of Joseph Ryan forged to it. It was made out for $200 against a bank at Tupper Lake, New York State.

Lives Lost In Fire.

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—Annie, aged five; Elisabeth, aged three, the two children of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. O'Neill, Armstrong street, were burned to death at three o'clock yesterday morning.

When the temperature was 15 degrees below zero fire broke out. The father, sleeping downstairs, rushed up and managed to save his wife, though both were badly burned about the hands and head.

The place was a frame structure and burned rapidly. Wm. Marriott, his wife and four children occupied one part of it, but all escaped safely, though their possessions were burned, including Marriott's cork leg.

Messina Is Rebuilding.

Messina, Jan. 14.—While thousands still are buried under ruins, any signs of revival of the city are greeted with enthusiasm by the survivors. A fruit merchant, who was the first to reship yesterday a hundred cases of oranges, lemons and other fruit for the far east, was saluted like a hero, while the appearance of two cabs on the streets was considered an historic event.

Amid the ruins of the city, villages of huts are springing up. One of these villages includes not less than three thousand huts, extending for a distance of two miles.

To Appeal Against Sentence.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 14.—The appeal from the recent decision of Judge Wright in sentencing Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison to jail for contempt will be vigorously pressed and a call for funds for that purpose will shortly be issued by the American Federation of Labor.

This action was decided upon at a conference here yesterday between the executive council of the federation and Alton B. Parker of New York, chief counsel for the federation officials.

Another 'Quake In Italy.

Rome, Jan. 14.—A slight earthquake was experienced early yesterday morning throughout Lombary, Venetia and Tuscany. No damage was done and no one was injured, but wild panics occurred.

According to the reports of the observatories, the centre of the disturbance was near Leimbach, Austria.

The 'quake was strongest in Italy at Trevise, 16 miles north of Venice.

MONTREAL, Jan. 13.—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market this morning the offerings were 600 cattle, 225 sheep and lambs, 625 hogs and 50 calves. The weather was all that could be desired for this trade, it being good and cold; consequently buyers generally were in good humor and showed a disposition to operate freely in cattle; in consequence an active trade was done, as the supply was just about large enough to go around. The undertone to the market was firm, and the advance in prices noted on Monday was fully maintained. Choice beeves sold at 5½c; good at 4¾c to 5c; fair at 4c to 4½c; common at 3½c to 3¾c, and inferior at 2c to 3c per lb.

There was no change in the condition of the market for sheep and lambs, prices being firm under a good demand and small offerings. Sheep sold at 3¾c to 4c, and lambs at 5½c to 6c per lb. A few odd extra choice lambs brought as high as 6c per lb. There continues to be a very firm feeling in the market for hogs, owing to the limited supplies coming forward and the good demand for the same from packers, and sales of selected lots were made at $7 to $7.25 per 100 lbs., weighted off the cars. The demand for calves was fair at prices ranging from $3 to $10 each, according to size and quality.

LINDSAY RINKS IN THE FINALS OF THE PRIMARY EVENT OF BIG 'SPIEL; LITTLE DEFEATS FLAVELLE IN FINAL

When play in the big local bonspiel was brought to a close last night only two of the twenty-eight rinks which started on Tuesday afternoon were left in the running for the primary prizes, and they were from that headquarters of good curlers, Lindsay. Skip Flavelle and Skip Little, of Lindsay, fought their way through the various rounds to face each other in the finals this morning. The games yesterday were keenly contested, and that the bonspiel has been one of the most successful ever held here is conceded on all sides.

Considerable progress was made yesterday and last night with the Consolation contest, and the probabilities are that the event will be over to-night.

Great interest was taken in the bonspiel yesterday, and there were many spectators present throughout the day, while at night several hundred people followed the play.

Peterborough's last chance to figure in the primary finals faded yesterday afternoon, when Skip A. Moore was badly beaten by Skip Dobson, of Beaverton, to the tune of 20—5, while the veteran Skip W. A. Read, of Bobcaygeon, defeated J. H. Connell, by 14—11. Little, of Lindsay, proved "too good for Skip Togood, of Orillia, defeating the northerners by 14 shots to 8, while at the same time Skip Flavelle, of Lindsay, was demonstrating the secret of his success at Winnipeg by beating the well known Napanee curler, Skip Ham, by 14—10, in an interesting game.

This left two Lindsay rinks, Beaverton and Bobcaygeon in the semi-finals, and the draw was made as follows for the game last night:

Flavelle, of Lindsay, vs. Read, of Bobcaygeon.

Little, of Lindsay, vs. Dobson, of Beaverton.

A big crowd of interested spectators was on hand for the semi-finals, and the chief interest settled in the battle between Flavelle and Read, both tankard winners. They had a beautiful game, in which the curling was at times brilliant and always interesting, and the good plays of the two rinks were enthusiastically cheered by the big gallery, which followed the progress of the game.

The Bobcaygeon rink played carefully and steadily at the beginning, getting a shot on each of the first two ends. Flavelle's men tied the score with a two-end in the third, but the quartette from Little Bob came back with a one and then a two end, and were three to the good at the end of the fifth. Flavelle won the sixth with one shot, but Read's four retaliated by taking one on the seventh, maintaining their lead of three. The complexion of affairs was changed in the ninth, however, when Skip Flavelle, by raising a guard with his last stone changed a majority of one for 'Caygeon into three for himself and tied the score.

This was the exciting stage of the game, with both sides doing steady, careful curling. Read succeeded in scoring a two-end in the ninth, but Flavelle repeated the feat in the next and the two were still tied, with four ends to play. Flavelle, however, by splendid curling got one in both the eleventh and twelfth and cinched the game with three in the thirteenth. Lindsay were lying three, and although Read had a chance to draw in, his last stone was heavy and did not change the situation. Read threw caution to the winds in the last end when needing five to win he tried to build up a big end. He was lying three when Flavelle played his first stone, getting shot with a nice draw. Reid wasted his first shot and Flavelle drew in another. Reid made a pretty attempt with his last stone but only succeeded in taking out one stone, leaving Lindsay one up on the end and six on the game. It was a splendid game and both rinks are to be congratulated. The personnel of the rinks was as follows—

W Williams	W T C Boyd
R H Cubbert	J T Robinson
J D Flavelle—14	W J Reid—8

Little Beat Dobson

Meanwhile over across the rink Geo Little of Lindsay was qualifying for the finals by beating A. Dobson of Beaverton in an interesting game which was however marked by considerable loose play, big ends being a feature. The Lindsay quartette won by 18 to 10 and were never in serious difficulty, Beaverton, who had played several brilliant games throughout the spell, being off colour that night. Little started out with one in the first and two in the second and was never collared afterwards. Beaverton won the third by one but dropped the next two by the same margin and then after winning the sixth with one let Little get away with a three end in the seventh and Lindsay were six to the good. Two in the eighth and one in the ninth improved Beaverton's stock a little but they were set back in the tenth when Lindsay piled up a five end. Nothing daunted Beaverton came back with a majority of four in the next end, only to lose the twelfth by three. The thirteenth fell to Beaverton by one shot, but Lindsay lay two on the last end winning out by 18-10. The rinks and score by ends were as follows—

Lindsay		Beaverton
W G Reesor		M Roach
M H Sisson		W. Dobson
T Burke...		L Birchard
G A Little—18		A Dobson — 10

Lindsay	—	1	2	0	1	1	0	3	0	1 — 18

Following were the scores in the primary competition yesterday.

The final game in the primary in the curling bonspiel this morning between the two Lindsay rinks skipped by Messrs. Flavelle and Little was intensely interesting and was followed by a large gallery of spectators. The rinks were as follows:

Lindsay.	Lindsay.

BELLEVILLE CONFIDENT OF WINNING BIG GAME WITH LOCALS TO-MORROW

To-morrow night's intermediate O. H.A. game between Belleville and Peterborough is arousing considerable excitement and there is every indication of an old time crowd being on hand to see the old rivals in action against each other once again. Belleville, nothing daunted by their defeat at the hands of Lindsay are coming here to-morrow night with the firm determination of beating Peterborough here and then going on and beating Lindsay on their own ice. The Dead City team have always been noted for their determination and with the strong team that Dr. Gilbert has rounded into shape there is every reason to expect that they will prove very awkward adversaries here to-morrow night. Most of the good little junior team which represented Belleville several years ago are playing intermediate now and they are said to be a classy bunch of puck chasers. The team that will represent Peterborough to-morow night will however, prove a surprise not only to Belleville but to the local fans, as a very strong seven in the pink of condition will be sent out to do battle for the locals and the crowd will have something to root for. It should prove a hard fought, interesting game from start to finish and will be well worth seeing. Any one who enjoys good hockey cannot afford to miss to-morrow night's game, which will be one of the events of the season. The old rivalry between Belleville and Peterborough is helping to swell the interest in the event.

THE CITY LEAGUE TEAMS HAVE STRENGTHENED LINE-UPS FOR TO-NIGHT

The fans are taking great interest in the City League games to-night The Lakefield team is proving a drawing card as the team from the north always have lots of friends in Peterborough who admire the many plucky expeditions they have made after the Stratton trophy To-night the Cementville seven will clash with the Belmonts in the first game, and it should prove a fine exhibition throughout The Belmonts have several changes in their line up from the team that represented them last week and they are confidently looking for a victory as they are in much better shape than they were seven days ago. Leo Quinn, Harry Simpson, Gordon Nicholls and other well known players are on the Lakefield line up and they will undoubtedly prove an awkward proposition. it should be a game well worth seeing.

The Belmonts will line up as follows—

Goal—Thornton.
Point—Myers
Cover—Ecclestone.
Rover—Wilson
Centre—Elliott
Left Wing - Waram

The second game will bring together the champion Strathconas and the T A S and one of the best games in the league to date should be the result, as both teams are in the best of shape and it will be hard, fast hockey all the way. The Abstainers will have a stronger line up than last week and threaten to make things interesting for the High Commissioners, who are going on their third year of City League hockey without a defeat. Manager Deanutro's Pets are going to break the long string of victories to-night if possible and the fans will see a struggle that they will long remember.

The Straths team committee has selected the following team to represent them against the T A S—

Goal—Wilson.
Point—Smith
Cover Point—Dusty
Rover—Ray.
Centre—Long.
Left Wing—McMillan.

Before the senior games there will be a Junior League fixture that should prove a splendid exhibition as the opposing teams are the Chieftains and the T A S juniors. It will be the first appearance of Manager Jack Trimbeck's crack little team and their playing will be watched with interest. The Abstainers have a lively aggregation of players wearing their colours and it will be a good game throughout.

The Chieftains will line up as followers—

Goal—Lees
Point—Munro
Cover—Wallis
Rover—Cran.
Centre—Hall
Right Wing—Burritt
Left Wing—Fortye.

Geo Lynch will referee the senior games and S. W. Ross the junior contest.

PRAISE FOR THE GENTLEMANLY BEHAVIOUR OF WHITTY'S TEAM

That the Edmonton hockey team, by their conduct while in Montreal, evidently made a good impression on those with whom they came in contact, is evidenced by the following letter under date of January 2nd, received by ex-Mayor McDougall from A. S. McLeary, manager of the Corona Hotel, Montreal:—

"My dear sir — The Edmonton hockey team left here yesterday for Ottawa, and it was with a feeling of regret that I saw them go. I have been in the hotel business for some years, and I have never yet seen a more orderly or respectful lot of young men in any house where I have been. You, sir, as mayor of Edmonton, should feel proud to have such favourable impressions left behind by the representatives of your city, and I am more than sorry they were not successful in taking the Stanley Cup with them. However, the season has just begun, and possibly later on they may return, and I have no doubt but that they will give a better account of themselves. I sincerely hope they will have as pleasant a recollection of their visit at the "Corona" as I have. Wishing you the compliments of the season, I am, yours very truly,

A. S. McLEAN,
Manager."

JUNIOR O.H.A. RACE IS INTERESTING

Any of the Clubs in the District Has Still a Chance to Win.

There is a very pretty race going just now in this district of the junior O H A and it would take a pretty good doperter to pick the winner. Tuesday night's games when Peterborough trimmed Whitby and Cobourg put it over Oshawa, changed the situation somewhat and almost any one of the teams has a chance to win out. Peterborough will journey to Cobourg to-morrow night and a victory there will help them considerably in the race. The boys are in good shape and playing fine hockey just now and with any kind of luck should win the contest, which will boost their standing.

Following is the record for the district—

	won	lost	to play
Port Hope	2	1	5
Whitby	2	1	5
Peterboro	2	2	4
Cobourg	2	2	4
Oshawa	0	2	6

GAUNTLET THROWN AT LITTLE PETES

Midgets Will Claim Return Game by Default.

There are signs of disruption in the local Buster Brown League. The Midgets loudly claim that the Little Pets are afraid to play a return game for fear of being defeated. On New Year's day they trimmed the Midgets by 4-3 and since then the latter have been clamouring for another game. The Pets have steered clear of this however and on occasions when the return had been arranged for they failed to appear. If they do not play his second game the Midgets claim it by default. The supporters of the latter are willing to put up all kinds of money that their septette can trim the Little Pets.

PETERBORO' HORSES AT LINDSAY RACES

Hurkland and Patterson Made Good Showing Yesterday in Ice Events

Lindsay, Jan. 13.—The races to-day were run off on a fast ice track and were attended by a large crowd. They proved very exciting. Maud Keswick was the only horse entered in the free for all, as the owners of the others did not wish to enter in a sure defeat race. The management of the meet offered the owner of Keswick a purse of $50 if the mare broke the track ice record of 2.20. This the mare did, doing the mile in 2.17.

Next Thursday and Friday two days of horse racing will be seen at the Hastings track. There will be four events, one named race, a free for all, 2.20 class and 2.30 class. The purses aggregate $75.00 more than last year and two days of good sport are looked forward to.

JUNIOR TEAMS FOR COBOURG

The Peterborough Juniors will be without the services of Capt. Ray in the Junior O. H. A. game at Cobourg to-morrow night. The team committee has decided that it will be better to hold the speedy little rover for use on the Intermediate team against Belleville here to-morrow night, feeling that the Port Hope Junior game away from home is more important than to-morrow's game with Cobourg. However, the team that will go down to-morrow will be strong and should beat Cobourg, even on their own ice, as the boys are in the best of shape and will put up the game of their lives. The following team will represent Peterborough:

Goal—L. Giroux.
Point—Wide.
Cover—Pentland.
Rover—Short.
Centre—C. Giroux.

The above eight players are asked to be at the G. T. R. station to-morrow morning at 11.45 to Cobourg and are asked to bring with them blue sweaters. Messrs. Metheral and Milburn will accompany the team to Cobourg.

PETERBOROUGH TEAM AGAINST BELLEVILLE

The team that will represent Peterborough against Belleville in the Intermediate O. H. A. game here to-morrow night will be picked from the following players:

Wasson, Derocher, Glover, Moore, Ray, Long, Rose, Dusty and Parnell. The team will practice between six and seven o'clock to-night in final preparation for the game.

SHRUBB WANTS HIS $5,000 NOW

New York, Jan. 13.—It was learned from a reliable source last night that Matthew Maloney, the holder of the world's record and a winner of the recent amateur Marathon race, has been tempted by the offers of a large purse, and will soon turn professional. It is said that he has accepted Promoter Pat Powers' guarantee of $5,000, win or lose, to race the Indian, Tom Longboat, over the Marathon distance at the garden some time in April. Maloney is scheduled to compete for a trophy in the Brooklyn Seagate Marathon, to be run on Lincoln's birthday, and will then desert the amateur ranks.

It was learned, in this connection that the Shrubb-Longboat race will probably be called off on account of the demands of the English crack that he receive $5,000 as his share for the race, whether he defeats the Indian or not.

Shrubb is Master

Tom Flanagan is of the opinion that the Shrubb-Longboat Marathon scheduled for Jan. 26th in New York may never be run, but that Shrubb may get on some ten or fifteen mile races with the Indian instead.

Shrubb evidently figures that, with Flanagan out of the way, and with Powers looking only at the business end of it, he can almost have his own way, and, as the day of the big race draws closer, he is beginning to get nervous, with the ultimate result that he may demand a change.

THEY WERE EASY FOR LINDSAY TEAM

The Cobourg seven were the victims last night.

The Lakeside outfit proved false alarms and were beaten by the Midgets by the whitewash score — 10-0. The second nick in the post didn't take much effort on the part of the Lindsay team, and as yet not a goal has been scored against them.

Of course Cobourg has the excuse that three of their men, McCallum, Payne, and Bulger, were off and the team thus weakened considerably. Excuses are good enough to offer the general public but they don't go with the O.H.A. officials.

The game was a rough and ready affair and lots of mixing it up kept the affair from being tame. The penalty time-keepers were called upon to work overtime and sentences were imposed upon offenders by Judge Al. Clarke many times. Such little trivialities as taking a man's feet from under him with one fell swoop were part of the routine.

Then Koyl and Bentley and Crossen and Taylor seemed to have private feuds of their own and took a tilt at each other when opportunity offered itself.

Yes, the score was 10-0 at full time and 4-0 at the turning post, and the game was as one-sided as a horse race between The Eel and a cart-horse.

Lindsay's big defence kept the puck from the local citadel, while the speedy forwards whisked the rubber around the Cobourg nets. At times shots rained on the goal keeper of the visiting team and he was lucky to stop as many as he did.

It seemed that from the first the visitors recognized that defeat would be their lot and aimed only to stem the tide of goals a little. Their forward line was miserably weak, and although Crossen didn't do so badly at cover point, the youngster playing point was too scared to accomplish anything vital.

—Lindsay Warder.

WEDDING BELLS

KELLY—MOORE

A wedding that is of interest to many in the city was celebrated yesterday at "Moorevale," Smith, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Moore, when their daughter, Mary, became the wife of Thomas Noble Dean Kelly, son of the late W. H. Kelly, of Bridgenorth. The ceremony took place at two o'clock, in the presence of over sixty guests, the Rev. Mr. Bonnar, pastor of Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church, officiating.

The bride was handsomely gowned in ivory satin, wearing the conventional veil and orange blossoms and carrying a beautiful shower bouquet of white bride roses. She was attended by Miss Mary Elliott, of Peterborough, and Miss Beatrice Kelly, of Bridgenorth, both of whom were dainty cream empire gowns and pearl rings, the gifts of the groom. The wedding march was played by Miss Ida Sanderson, who, when the ceremony was over, sang "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden." The groom was assisted by Dr. Barritt, Kelly, of Toronto.

The large number of presents that were received evidenced the popularity of the happy couple.

An elaborate luncheon was served before Mr. and Mrs. Kelly left on their honeymoon, which will be spent in Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo. The bride wore a travelling suit of navy blue with Persian lamb coat and toque.

Many guests were present from the city and outside points, including Mr. F. D. Moore, of Lindsay; Dr. Mac Queen, of Yarker; Miss Zetta Bottum, of Bobcaygeon; Mr. Geo. Marrow and the Misses Morrow, and Mr. and Mrs. George E. Elliott, of this city.

WALTER MILLER WAS BADLY INJURED IN G. T. R. WRECK NEAR GUELPH YESTERDAY

Local Hockey Player Was in a Smash-up With the Brantford Team — Was Returning From Game in Guelph.

WILL BE OUT OF GAME.

(Walter Miller, son of Mr. Finch Miller, City Relief Officer, was one of those injured in the G. T. R. wreck near Guelph yesterday. He was returning from Guelph with the other members of the Brantford pro team, with which he was playing rover, and was in the car that was derailed, having one finger cut off, which will keep him out of the game for some time. As soon as he was able, after the accident, he wired his father that he had been in a wreck but that he was all right. The following despatch from Brantford gives the details of the accident., Jack Marks, of Brantford, who was so badly injured, is well known here, having played here for Belleville and other towns.

Brantford, Jan. 14. — The Brantford professional hockey team, returning from Guelph on the Grand Trunk 10.40 train this morning figured, with a number of other passengers, in a most dangerous wreck, in which altogether 25 were seriously injured, and Jack Marks and Walter Miller, two of the Brantford players, were badly hurt. The last passenger coach on the train at a point near Gourock, four miles south of Guelph, jumped the track and was dragged on its side for over 100 yards, when the train came to a dead stop. The other players on the Brantford team are reported to be uninjured, besides Messrs. Fred Westbrook and Hugh Howie, who accompanied the team to Guelph last night, where the Brantfords pulled out a victory.

Hospitals Full

The injured have been removed to the Guelph hospitals and the number reaches in all about 25, from the information it was possible to obtain from that city this afternoon. Marks and Miller will be brought home this afternoon, it was announced by Secretary Nelson.

The Injuries

From reports received Jack Marks is the worst of the injured. He has an arm broken and several ribs fractured, and is said to be badly hurt internally. From the description of his injuries it is doubtful if the speedy skater and brilliant player will ever play hockey again. He is expected, however, to recover, although his internal injuries, it is said, will incapacitate him for a long time. Walter Miller is badly cut up, and has a hand cut open from which a couple of fingers were severed. Tom Hutton, who accompanied the team, is also reported to have been hurt internally.

Story of the Wreck

The train was due to leave Guelph at 10.40 this morning, but as usual it was several minutes late. Pulling out of Guelph for Hespeler, the train struck a fast clip. The accident happened at 11.15, just four miles below Guelph.

The Causes

A broken flange and a spread rail were given as the cause of the disaster. When the coach left the rails, it turned over on its side and for one hundred yards, amid the crashing, banging and splintering of the coach, windows and timbers on the ties, the train continued on its terrible death-dealing course, until the stop was made.

In Other Car

Most of the Brantford players were in the smoking car, including Messrs. Howie and Westbrook. The passengers in the other part of the train were unhurt, the remainder of the outfit receiving no damage whatever. The names of the other members of the team who were with Marks and Miller could not be ascertained.

Work of Rescue

The work of rescue commenced immediately and the task was a terrible one. The rescuers had a hard time in getting out the injured. Many of the passengers were knocked unconscious, others were pinned, bleeding and with bones broken, under the debris in the wrecked coach. Amid the moans of the injured, Messrs. Howie and Westbrook, with the others, set to work to get out those buried in the glass and broken timber. Jack Marks was found by Mr. Howie and an axe had to be brought in commission before he could be removed. Mr. R. H Brydon, of Guelph, had to be practically cut out from the ruins. He was badly injured.

Returned This Morning

Manager Roy Brown and Trainer Hamburg were not with the party. They left Guelph for Brantford on the 4.40 train this morning and arrived at half-past seven. The manager, when informed of the disaster, was very much overcome this afternoon, especially when told of the serious injuries to Jack Marks, one of the most popular players and loyal team-mates who ever donned a shoe. A multitude of friends and fans will wish for Marks' speedy recovery, as well as for the recovery of Walter Miller.

Out of Game for Good

Brantford, Ont., Jan. 14.—Members of Brantford professional hockey team arrived here from Guelph this afternoon in a pretty well crippled condition. Marks and Miller, two of the worst injured in the wreck, were taken to the hospital here to-night. Both will be out of the game for the season and probably for good. Marks' arm is broken in six places below the elbow, two ribs fractured, and has internal injuries of a severe nature. Miller is injured about the spine and may be incapacitated for life. Other members of the team are badly shaken up. News of the disaster caused a gloom in this city as both men were great favourites. Tommy Smith, reported among the injured, escaped from the car unscratched.

COLONEL HENRY W. MAPP,

Chief Secretary of the Salvation Army in Canada. A brilliant speaker who will conduct meetings in Peterborough on Saturday and Sunday. Civic welcome on Sunday afternoon, Everybody cordially invited.

Bought Whiskey For Man On Indian List And Gets Jail For A Month Or $25

If an old pal of yours was feeling ill and in distress from asthma and if he asked you to buy for him a bottle of whiskey to relieve the pain, what would you do, knowing that he was blacklisted and could not procure it himself?

William Clark had an experience of this kind, and he forgot the law from probably a charitable motive. However the sequences were disastrous for himself. The other day his friend, Jim Wilson, appeared in court charged with being drunk although he was on the Indian list. Wilson was allowed to go cot free, but in the meantime the police found out where he got the King Cole variety that is sold in round bottles. They learned that William Clark had been the go-between and Magistrate Dumble laid upon William's shoulders the minimum fine of $25.00 without costs, and in default of payment, two million five hundred and ninety-two thousand seconds, in the county gaol—in other words 30 days on the hill.

Clark was given 10 days to pay his fine, but it is likely that he will spend time rather than spend $25.00.

He stated that he did not know that Wilson was listed. Jim had told his tale of woe and Clark bought the Whiskey. Wilson said the latter had a "horn" out of the bottle and he himself had the rest. This fact casts a doubt on Clark's charitable motives. At any rate Magistrate Dumble did not take long to conclude that Clark had broken the law. He told the defendant that he should not help a man go wrong while he was trying to get along and keep away from drink. Clark asked the Magistrate to make the fine as light as possible, but the minimum was $25.00.

Robbed Of His Savings He Starts Back To Work Again

Young Man Had Saved $250 While Teaching School and Was on His Way to College to Improve Himself— Money Taken While Asleep.

OBTAINS ANOTHER SCHOOL.

William Thompson is the name of a young school teacher who after saving $250.00 of his earnings to enable him to attend the Calgary Normal school was robbed of his little fortune on a train while traveling from Kamsack to Edmonton en route to Calgary. Instead of sitting down to mourn over his loss he has secured a school at Lacombe and intends to go saving his money again to pursue his course at the Normal School.

He is an ative of Bridgeville, Pictou county, Nova Scotia, and went west about a year ago where he commenced teaching. When he saved $250.00 he started out for Calgary to take the Normal course to better fit him for the teaching profession. One night, only a short time ago, he slept on the train and awoke in the morning to find his money gone. Someone had robbed him. Search proved fruitless and the authorities had no clue on whom to work. Now he is back again at the beginning of the struggle. It is stated that a number of those who have heard of his misfortune are doing what they can to assist him, but it is likely that he will have to go over the same ground as that which got him the other little bank account.

BETTER TIMES.

It we wish to go beyond the evidences we see around us; beyond what comes within our knowledge, we can find indications that the cloud of commercial, industrial and financial depression has passed and the clear sky appears. Perhaps one of the sanest authorities on finance in Canada is Mr. B E Walker, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. In his annual address, of the proportions and dignity of a budget speech, he takes a decidely hopeful view of the situation. He tells us that conditions are greatly improved over those of last January, and gives reasons for the faith that is in him. The world-wide pace of expenditure has been slackened to a sufficent extent to ease the money markets and besides Canada has had an excellent harvest. We have felt the pinch of hard times, but Mr. Walker shows that we in Canada have suffered less than other countries. We can note all over the country a resumption, or, at least, a preparations for resumption, of large enterprises, and the existence of a more buoyant and hopeful spirit. A pretty sure index of increased national ease in trade conditions is the customs returns, the revenue from which represents the state of commercial activity, and this again is dependent upon popular command of the means of purchasing the goods of merchants.

As previously noted in these columns, the customs revenue for December of last year showed an excess over the corresponding month of the buoyant year of 1907, $89,825. During the past year, up to the month mentioned, the customs returns showed a steady decline as compared with the corresponding months of 1907, and it is almost certain that from the present continuous improvement will be shown. For the nine months of the fiscal year ending March 31st, next, the total revenue has been $62,298,583, a decrease of $11,457,375 as compared with the corresponding period of 1907. The total expenditure on consolidated fund account was $50,432,021, an increase of $4 705,535. Capital expenditure totalled $26,316,434, of which $22,960,899 was on public works railways and canals. the construction of the National Transcontinental Railway being, of course, responsible for most of this. The net public debt on the 31st of December stood at $291,573,767. In a country like Canada, where so much is to be done to bring our great resources in, so to speak, liquidable form, the expenditure of large sums to provide transportation and allied facilities, is of course inevitable; it is also inevitable that additions should be made to the public debt. This is defensible, not only as an investment certain to yield large national returns, but the incidental expenditure of large sums in construction work will increase the volume of money in circulation with the evident advantages to trade and commerce. Contrary to what the pessimists say the credit of Canada in the money markets of the world is good. Mr. Walker spoke within his knowledge and within the truth, when he said, in his annual address, "this comparative ease (of realizing on Caandian securities), it is well to remember is due to the high state of our credit in London and sympathetically elsewhere." When the world has confidence in us we have the best of warrants in having confidence in ourselves. If we talk good times we have good times with us, and the surest way to have hard times is to talk hard times. The New Year opens with a hopeful outlook and there is every indication that all branches of national enterprise will show in 1909 a progressive improvement in condition.

It is criminal for any man to say that the nation is declining; for the very expression of that opinion tends to make it true.—Rt. Hon. Herbert Asquith.

THE PHILISTINE SPIRIT.

Referring to the recent procession in Toronto upon the eve of the municipal vote on license reduction, under the heading a "Bad Example," the Canadian Churchman says:

The voting is over, and in about a week most of the adults will have forgotten the municipal agitation. But youthful minds retain the impressions that unusual happenings give. Knowing this, we express our extreme regret at a scene we witnessed in Toronto. Vans full of children, who were taken in a 'procession, using the opportunity of hooting and being disrespectful to their elders. We were shocked that those responsible for such a demonstration should train up young boys and girls to show dishonour and disrespect to older people. Of the merits of the matter, of the reason of such improper conduct, the children knew nothing. They are ready enough to be unruly and insulting without being taught conduct which will bear fruit in after years. You cannot sow the wind without reaping the whirlwind. We do not want young Canada to grow up a race of rude, lawless larrikins. We have plenty of men and women who know the elements of learning, but we men and women who are spiritually minded, possessed of higher instincts, and who realize that boys and girls should be taught to do to others as they would be done unto; in a word, that they have souls to be developed and minds to be trained.

The comments made above deal with a condition, that is a menace to good citizenship, the prevalent and growing lack of the spirit of veneration. Religion itself is only the practical application of the spirit of veneration or reverence, the basic idea of all worship. Children who are permitted to practise disrespect or irreverence towards their parents, teachers, elders or superiors, will easily grow up without reverence for the divine, or a proper respect for the claims of law and order. Such children are anarchists in the making. Our whole population, infant, juvenile and adult, seems to be infected with the spirit so mischievously prevalent in the country to the south of us, of universal equality —"Jack is as good as his master." This spirit indulged and encouraged leads or tends to (according to the material worked upon) disrespect for age, antiquity; for culture, for refinement for the ordinary decencies of civilized society and every thing that interferes with the unbridled indulgence of untrained and undirected impulses, in line with the natural trend of human nature—evil. From this flows disregard for the restraints of wholesome discipline of which we have too frequent evidence. The Brockville Times deals with a case in point, as follows:

Because the school authorities changed the hours for closing from 3.30 to 4 p.m., the pupils of the Jarvis street Collegiate Institute, Toronto, issued a pamphlet which was characterized by insolent defiance of the authorities. The Toronto newspapers quoye passages from this precious manifesto and its gross impertinence would be amusing were it not for the fact that the issuing of such a screed shows a lamentable lack of a sense of discipline among the precocious brats responsible for it. If the Toronto school authorities are worth their salt, or if they have any respect for themselves, they ought to find out the authors of the pamphlet and expel them summarily. A sound caning would also have a most wholesome effect upon the impudent little rebels. And the incident suggests the question: what kind of home training have these children had? Certainly not the kind of training which is going to make them good citizens of Canada and upholders of law, order and authority. If their parents had brought them up in the way they should go, they would never have dared to cross swords with those put in authority over them.

It is difficult to fix with any degree of definiteness the responsibility for the innate or inculcated irreverence behind such incidents as the foregoing. Ineffective home, school and even church training, has its share. The spirit has invaded every walk of life; even the press is infected. The attitude of levity in regard to things worthy of veneration is reflected in disregard for dignified form of expression, in the corruption of our language and the universal resort to slang. Even a dignified Toronto morning journal is afloat on the wave. In a featured front page article yesterday the slang phrase "it's up to" was expressed in prominent letters. Since the little press discussion on spelling reform began, many journals have expressed flippant scorn for the "antiquated" "fogeyish" way of spelling, made venerable by centuries of usage of the greatest literary authorities in the world. This may seem a trifling matter, but it is an outcrop of the spirit of lack of reverence for what is venerable, the same spirit that leads the 'hoodlum' to scoff at refinement of speech or propriety of deportment, that leads the children of this generation to show outrageous disrespect for the persons of parents and teachers, and disregard of parental and school restraint. Lack of discipline in our general population has the same disastrous tendencies in the social body as it has in an army. All who value the good, the true and the beautiful are called upon to lend their aid to exorcise the Philistine spirit, always dangerous, whether in its overt or insidious manifestations.

The fifth commandment is being relegated to the index expurgatorius of modern life.

HISTORY OF CANADIAN JOURNALISM.

Everyone who is interested in the history of Canada will welcome a new book, "A History of Canadian Journalism," which has just been issued. The volume, which furnishes in permanent form the first comprehensive history of the press in Canada, covers a great deal of ground not dealt with in any other extent publication. The reader, as he peruses its pages, is constantly surprised to find in it hitherto unpublished delights on the careers of our public men, as well as full and first hand information regarding our great journalists and our great newspapers. Altogether, it is one of the most valuable historical works which has appeared in Canada.

Not only is the matter fresh and interesting and important, but the style throughout is quite equal to the best. This will be better appreciated when it is stated that the contributors include Goldwin Smith, Dr. A H U Colquhoun, Deputy Minister of Education for Ontario; John Reade, F.R.S.C., Montreal Gazette; Arthur Wallis, Toronto Mail and Empire; J E.B McCready, Charlottetown Guardian; J P Robertson, Winnipeg; Robert Bellar, Huntingdon Gleaner; J K Mclnnes, Regina Leader; J W Bengough, Toronto, and R E Gosnell, Vancouver.

One portion of the book presents an exceedingly interesting history of the Canadian Press Association, in honour of whose 50th birthday the book was first projected, with other sections devoted to the press in each of the Provinces.

The book includes 268 pages with 40 half-tone portraits of prominent journalists. Typographically the book is very pleasing with its large type, heavy paper with rough edges and gilt top, and its handsome cloth binding. Orders may be sent in care of John R Bone, Secretary Canadian Press Association, Daily Star, Toronto. The price is $2.00 a copy, postage 15 cents extra.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Col. Sam Hughes has submitted to the City Council of Toronto a plan for purifying sewage by chlorine gas. Col. Sam's enemies say that he has a supreme confidence in the power of gas.

Montreal is the fifth port in importance on this continent, being surpassed only by New York, Galveston, Boston and New Orleans in the United States. Mr. Walker, president of the Bank of Commerce, recalls that the improvement made to the St. Lawrence route, under the auspices of the much criticised—in some quarters—Department of Marine, has saved vessel owners $6,000,000 in eight years.

Mr. Byron E. Walker's financial and trade review, delivered in connection with the annual meeting of the Bank of Commerce, has come to be regarded as something cognate in weight and influence to a budget speech. It reveals a tireless industry in collection, and shrewd appraisement of th erelative value of facts concerning our national financial, industrial and commercial operations.

A BLESSING TO MANY PEOPLE

May Mean Much Less Sickness Here When This Prescription is Known.

IS A HOME-MADE REMEDY

This is a simple home receipe now being made known in all the larger cities through the newspapers. It is intended to check the many cases of rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble which have made so many cripples and invalids and weaklings of some of our brightest and strongest people.

The druggists here have been notified to supply themselves with the ingredients, and the sufferer will have no trouble to obtain them. The prescription is as follows: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; and Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle. The dose is one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Recent experiments prove this simple mixture effective in rheumatism, because of its positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys. It compels these most vital organs to filter from the blood and system the waste impurities and uric acid, which are the cause of rheumatism. It cleanses the kidneys, strengthens them and removes quickly such symptoms as backache, blood disorders, bladder weakness, frequent urination, painful scalding and discoloured urine. It acts as a powerful stimulant to the entire kidney and bladder structure.

Those who suffer and are accustomed to purchase a bottle of medicine should not let a little inconvenience interfere with making this up.

APPOINT ASSESSORS PERMANENTLY

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir:— I ask space in your valuable paper to call attention to what seems to me an inconsistency in the appointment of city officials. I am sure that the Council does not intend to do anything unfair, and that it will be necessary only to call attention to the matter to have it set right.

While the appointments of Clerk, Treasurer, Collector, Engineer, Street Commissioner, Plumbing Inspector, Chief of Police and others are made permanent or during good conduct, the Assessors are appointed annually.

Now I think all will agree that the office of Assessor is a very important one, and if, as I believe, continuity is desirable in the cases of the other officials, it is surely desirable in the case of the Assessors.

It must be possible to find, in a city like Peterborough, men capable of filling for a number of consecutive years, even this important position, and surely each year of service should increase their efficiency.

As to the propriety of appointing last year's Assessors, I shall say nothing, believing that the Council are the proper and fittest judges of their suitability but I do think that their appointment should be made the same as others and that they should be relieved of unnecessary trouble and anxiety.

There can be no doubt that the efficiency of Assessors is more likely to be secured by generous and trustful treatment than by the course which, I am sure thoughtlessly, has been followed in the past.

I have not written this so much as a ratepayer, having interests common to all ratepayers, but as a man addressing himself to men.

I am, Mr. Editor,
Respectfully yours,
OBSERVER.

SOUTHLAND SEPTETTE IS TO SING HERE

Will Give a Concert Under the Auspices of the Y.W.C.A. Ladies' Corps.

The Leaders Corps of the Y.M.C.A. have been fortunate in securing the Old Southland Sextette to give a concert in the Opera House on Friday evening, the 29th of this month. This company is one of the best aggregations of Jubilee Singers touring Canada and the United States, and they will put on an entertainment that is artistic, bright and pleasing in the highest and best sense; so that those who hear the sextette in their programme of Southland melodies and old plantation selections will not be disappointed, and those who fail to hear the company will miss such an entertainment as has not been given in this city for many a day.

STRONG LEGAL ARGUMENT IN COUNTY COURT

A large number of the ratepayers of Douro, Dummer and Lakefield were present at the Court House this morning to hear the argument known as the Lakefield school case, which was held before Judge Weller.

Mr. O A Langley of Lakefield, appeared on behalf of the ratepayers in the Township of Douro, who are moving to set aside the award of the arbitrators allowing the boundaries of the Union School Section. Mr. E A Peck opposed the application on behalf of the trustees of the new non-union section created by award, and Mr. Dumble represented the Lakefield Public School Board.

At the conclusion of the argument the judge stated that if substantial injustice is shown the award will be set aside.

RYAN ON TRIAL.

Alibi Is Advanced In North Bay Fratricied Case.

North Bay, Jan. 15—The preliminary trial of Maurice Ryan, charged with highway robbery, and with the murder of his brother, began yesterday afternoon before Magistrate Weegar. The town hall was filled to the doors.

The highway robbery charge resulted in a committal. Joseph Goulet, of Waverley, Mass., swore that while returning from a trip to Winnipeg he stopped off at North Bay to meet some friends, but got acquainted with Ryan, who proposed driving out a short way in the country and having a good time. Ryan gave him drink, and the last he remembered was holding his money about $65, in his hand, with Ryan taking it away. He recovered consciousness lying in the road with his money gone.

Two witnesses testified to seeing a buggy driven rapidly from the scene and finding Goulet unconscious.

The evidence of William Ryan — a brother of the accused, furnished a a surprise in setting up an alibi for the prisoner. William Ryan works in a livery stable and swore that on the night of his brother Joseph's disappearance the prisoner and Joseph came to the stable and engaged a rig. They drove away, but Maurice returned about midnight saying that Joseph Driscoll, a chum of Joseph Ryan, had driven his brother to Callendar. Prisoner then went to bed in the office, and remained all night, and could not have left without his knowing it. The rig was found in the morning in an outside shed with the murdered man's grip in the buggy, and blood stains on the robe. The witness did not think there was anything strange about these circumstances. Driscoll he has not seen since.

James Ryan, another brother, testified to seeing Maurice with a hundred dollar bill after Joseph's disappearance. Joseph had at least one thousand dollars in cash on his person the night he started to leave town.

Joseph Cook swore that Maurice Ryan paid a note for $150 after Joseph Ryan disappeared.

Evidence was also given that Maurice Ryan had sold the furniture in his brother's resort for $200 and kept the proceeds, took charge of his brother's trunk and effects and tried to draw $200 out of a bank in Tupper Lake, New York State, signing his brother's name to a check. One witness swore that the prisoner said he had received a letter from his brother Joseph.

An important witness, Nora McKeown, has not been seen since 9 o'clock Wednesday night, although every effort is being made to locate her.

G. L. T. Bull is defending the prisoner and Crown Attorney Browning is prosecuting.

Must Not Receive Visitors.

Detroit, Jan. 15.—Judge Wisger of Flint, Mich., delivered a unique judgment yesterday when he sentenced Mrs. Grace Conger, a resident of that city to "stay at home nights, report to the court every 60 days, and to receive no callers for the next three years, except in the presence of the adult members of your family."

Mrs. Conger, who is an unusually attractive looking woman of 40 years and mother of a family of five children, was arrested in Syracuse a few days ago, whither she had eloped with Odson Brooks, a prominent resident of Flint, and a close friend of her husband.

Brooks was given a sentence of three months in the Iona Reformatory.

Three Years For Colored Burglar.

Chatham, Jan. 15.—John Dean, colored, was sentenced to three years in Kingston Penitentiary for burglary. His wife fainted in court while he gave evidence and was nearly hysterical when the sentence was imposed.

J. Lorne McDougall's Illness.

Ottawa, Jan. 15.—The condition of J. Lorne McDougall, former Auditor-General of Canada, remains unchanged. He is not gaining any strength.

A WOMAN'S BACK WAS NOT MADE TO ACHE.

Thousands of Women Suffer Untold Misery Every Day With Aching Backs That Really Have No Business To Ache.

Under ordinary conditions it ought to be strong and ready to bear the burdens of life.

It is hard to do housework with an aching back. Backaches come from sick kidneys, and what a lot of trouble sick kidneys cause.

But they can't help it. If more work is put on them than they can stand it is not to be wondered that they get out of order.

Backache is simply a warning from the kidneys and should be attended to immediately so as to avoid years of terrible suffering from kidney troubles.

Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you in the same way as they have cured thousands of others.

SEVERE PAINS IN BACK.

Mrs. O. Warren, Radisson, Sask., writes: "I was troubled with very severe pains in my back for years. I tried everything I could think of but they did me no good. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking two boxes, I have not been troubled since."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.35, all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering specify "Doan's."

More Bread in a Barrel.

That extra cost per barrel which your grocer asks you for doesn't go into anybody's pocket.

Ogilvie's Royal Household

It comes back to you.

It is the difference in money between flour you are sure of and flour you are not.

It covers the cost of inspecting the entire wheat crop of the country, and selecting the choicest grain.

It pays for advanced milling methods, for cleanliness, for purity and for scientific flour-making.

It comes back to you in the shape of light, wholesome, nourishing bread and pastry.

A barrel of Ogilvie's Royal Household Flour goes farther than a barrel of any other flour. It makes more bread and better bread.

You are not really spending that extra amount —you are investing it.

Do not let it stand between your family and good baking. Go to your grocer and say "Royal Household."

What It Was.

She was visiting a Chinese restaurant for the first time and had ordered, among other things, an omelet. After sampling the succulent chop suey and the appetizing chow mein she turned her attention to what seemed a dish of pancakes. Puzzling over the combination of ham, onion and other ingredients, she suddenly exclaimed to her companion, "Why, there's egg in this!"

"Sure; it's the omelet," he replied.

THE word "OXOL" does not mean one food or one preparation. No "OXOL" is a name given to all goods for horses, cattle, swine and sheep, prepared by Messrs. S. K. and T. C. Windsor, of Australia, New Zealand, England and Canada.

The veterinary preparations as well as the compressed bales of fodder placed on the market of the world under the name of

are all of the greatest possible order of merit and may be used by farmers, graziers, dairymen and all owners of stock with the full assurance that these goods have the power in a very short time to double their incomes by feeding, fattening and curing all animals, which to them means money.

Scientific Meetings will be organized by Messrs. Windsor and held through out the Dominion of Canada, when farmers desirous of improving their knowledge of stock will have an opportunity of doing so and to be instructed on the life of stock from birth to death, free of any charge.

CONNECT NORWOOD AND STONY LAKE

Prospect of Telephone Service Seems Brighter—Fine Driving on the Lake Now—Many Accidents Happen

HAD FINGER CHOPPED OFF.

Stony Lake, Jan. 15—Stony Lake must have come under a very unfortunate planet this fall as there has been so many accidents; but none so bad as that which happened to Thomas Puffer. We are pleased to hear that he is doing so well.

Mr. William Drain (son of Mr. John Drain at the lake) chopped off the first joint of the forefinger of his left hand a few days ago. He was working in Wildman's camp on the ninth line when the accident happened. He will be laid off work for a few days.

The ice in the lake has not been so fine for driving on for some years, and all those who have marsh hay on the other side are hustling it home before the deep snow comes, which is not likely to come very soon.

There seems to be some prospect of a telephone from Norwood to Stony Lake. We hope that this may materialize and become a fact. Now is a splendid time to get out poles as there is not much snow and the swamps are pretty dry. If the lines run to Norwood it will require some poles 30 or 35 ft. at the railway crossing; say 5 35 ft., 5 30 ft., 5 inches at top end; 10 30 ft., then down to 25 ft., then 20 ft., all 5 inches at small end. You want to know how many wires will be strung — the fewer wires the further the poles can be apart.

PUTTING SUFFERER OUT OF MISERY

Doctor Raises Question of Killing When All Hope of Saving is Gone.

Considerable excitement has been aroused in Paris by the question raised by Dr. Bosredon of Brive, and taken up by his Paris colleagues whether a doctor has a right, under certain circumstances, to take a man's life.

Dr. Bosredon was the first medical man who arrived on the scene of the railway accident in Brive Tunnel. The stoker of the engine, a man named Lefort, was caught under the wreck and slowly burned to death.

"When I reached him," writes Dr. Bosredon, "the man was screaming with agony and begged me to kill him. There was no possible hope of saving his life. He was being slowly burned to death, and his body was horribly crushed.

"I considered that my conscience permitted me to put an end to his agony, and asked a gendarme for his revolver. He said that he had none, and the stoker was slowly burned to death, instead of being put out of his pain there and then."— Paris Cor. London Express.

INSTALLED A.O.U.W. OFFICERS AT COLBORNE

District Deputy J. J. Turner, Sr., Had an Enjoyable Visit Last Night.

District Deputy J. J. Turner, Sr., of the A.O.U.W., was in Colborne last night installing the officers of Faith Lodge, A. O. U. W. A very enjoyable evening was spent. Immediately after the installation an oyster supper was served and a pleasant time spent around the festive board. Mr. Turner met many friends in Colborne, including Grand Master Workman B. Mooney, of Rodney, Ont. A feature of the evening was the presentation of a gold locket to a young member of the lodge, who was only initiated two weeks ago, and has succeeded in bringing in thirteen new members in that period.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY TO HOLD MEETING

Mr. Cornish Will Deliver Lecture on Volcanoes.

The first meeting of the re-organized Historical Society will be held in the Collegiate Institute on Tuesday, Jan. 26th. This is the first of a series of monthly meetings which are being arranged and for this occasion an address will be given by Mr. G. S. Cornish, B.A., of the Normal School staff. His subject is one that should be of special interest at present, being on "Volcanoes." Mr. Cornish is a scientist of provincial reputation and should deal with his subject in an interesting and instructive manner. A cordial invitation is extended to all those interested to be present. The lecture will probably be followed by a discussion on different points brought out in the address.

CEMETERY COMPANY'S ANNUAL MEETING

Will be Held at 3 o'clock on Monday Afternoon Next.

A preliminary meeting of the directors of the Little Lake Cemetery Company was held yesterday afternoon, to consider and prepare matters to be dealt with at the annual meeting of the shareholders, on Monday, January 18th. It is desirable that there should be a large attendance of the latter. An erroneous impression prevails in regard to the Cemetery Company. It is not, as some think, a close corporation. Every owner of a lot is thereby a shareholder, and entitled to take part in the proceedings of the annual meeting. No dividends are paid. All moneys received are either devoted to maintenance and extension or funded for similar purposes. Everybody interested is invited and urged to attend the annual meeting, on Monday, January 18th, at 3 o'clock p. m.

Officers Of Court Chemong Were Installed Last Night

The regular meeting of Court Chemong, No. 530, Independent Order of Foresters, was held last night in the S. O. E. hall. Several applications for membership were considered for initiation at the next meeting night. Several members were reported on the sick list, and two were reported permanently disabled, and the Court recommended that they receive the half of their insurance at the end of six months. After the business was concluded Chief Ranger Bro. W. G. McKee requested Bro. G. N. Brown, D.H.C.R., to take the chair, and with the assistance of Bro. A. Bradshaw, D.S.C.R., who acted as High Conductor, and Bro. A. Allison, S.P.C.R., who acted as High Marshal, the twelve officers for 1909 were duly installed in their respective chairs of office.

Under the order of "Good and Welfare," several musical selections were contributed by Mr. P. Wilson, and were much appreciated. Brief but cheery speeches were made by Bro. G. N. Brown, D.H.C.R., and Bro. A. Bradshaw, D.S.C.R., who both reported progress and prosperity throughout Eastern Ontario, where they had laboured during the past year. The order had an experience of thirty-five years and now had 250,000 members, a surplus of $12,500,000, and had paid $27,000,000 in benefits. They were both pleased to renew acquaintances with the Peterborough brethren.

Bro. A. Allison, S.P.C.R., in a splendid speech, referred in feeling terms to the commendable work of the I. O. F. in so tenderly caring for the orphan children of deceased members, and quoted an instance where the house of the widow built by the insurance money of her late husband had been destroyed by fire, the order came to the rescue and provided for widow and children. Another widow and children were assisted to the Canadian Northwest and provided for, and were now locating land there. He paid a high tribute to Bro. J. C. Morgan, M.A., Superintendent of Orphans' Home, whom, he said, the children loved like a father. He was proud of the order for carrying on a work so Christian-like as this.

On motion of Bro. Wallace and Bro. Spring votes of thanks were tendered to Bros. Brown and Bradshaw.

The meeting then adjourned until January 28th, when the officers' reports will be given.

SOO INDUSTRIES STRENGTHENED BY SIX MILLIONS OF BRITISH CAPITAL

British Financial Magnates Have Brought About Extinction of Guarantee Liability----Mr. Matheson Generously Admits That "The Province Has Been Put to No Loss.'

The Toronto Globe of to-day contains the following—

Hon. A. J. Matheson, the Provincial Treasurer, returned from New York yesterday, bringing the documents under which Onta io secured a release from all obligations under the Soo loan guarantee of 1904. The documents were signed by the Provincial Treasurer and the representatives of the Canadian Improvement Co. yesterday afternoon at New York.

Hon. Col Matheson was accompanied by Mr W H Hearst, M.P.P. for Sault Ste. Marie, who was the original agent of the Government in respect to the Soo industries. Mr. Hearst resigned to contest the Soo seat, and was succeeded by Mr. Boyce. In addition to the prospective development of the industries and extension of the Algoma Central contemplated by Mr Fleming and his associates, Ontario's representatives urged upon them the advisability of extending the Manitoulin & North shore Railway to Little Current, consideration being assured.

"The Province has been put to no loss in the matter," said the Minister. "The Canadian Improvement Co. has paid all expenses."

"Mr Robert Fleming and his associated have taken over control of the Company," continued Hon. Col. Matheson. Mr. Fleming has the highest financial standing, and is a shrewd and able Scotchman. He has taken over the interests of the Canadian Improvement Co., those of the Sovereign Bank and larger Philadelphia interests.

"It means a big 'thing to the resources of that country," added the Minister. "We couldn't have done a better thing than get all this British capital. It was much better than a foreclosure."

Mr. Fleming and his associates have already put over $6,000,000 into the undertaking, and further investments are planned in the development of all the allied industries and extensions of the railways.

Ontario was represented on the former board of the Lake Superior Corporation by Messrs. C. D. Warren Geo. Drummond, R. S. Wilson-Smith and Geo. Pattison, M.P.P., but the province will have no further status on the board with the releasing of its guarantee.

Sir James Whitney received a message last evening from Hon. J. J. Foy, the Attorney-General, stating that he had arrived in New York on his return from the old world. Mr. Foy will remain in New York to-day in conference with Mr. Robert Fleming, the head of th efinancial interests which have taken control of the Lake Superior corporation. He will return to Toronto to-morrow.

Woeful Woo! Was Fined $20 For Selling Tobacco To Minors

Supposing that C. Q. Woo has a profit of two cents on every package of Old Chum, (the actual amount would be a lit le less than two cents, he will have to sell one thousand packages to make up the fine of $20 that was imposed by Magistrate Dumble this morning for selling tobacco to minors.

Last Tuesday night three small boys Eddie Shearer, Stanley Hartley and John Jordon between them stole $5.00. An item of the subsequent jollification was tobacco and they decided to make their purchases at the King Street Chinese restaurant. They bought small pipes first and then went down to get a supply of the weed. There were two men inside having their supper and the boys waited until they had finished. Young Hartley went in and according to his story got a package of Old Chum from C. Q. Woo himself. Jordon later entered and got two packages one being for Shearer. His purchase was made from Ing Louey Woo's new cook who also acts as servitor while Woo turns the ham and eggs.

Ing stated in his testimony that Jordon had told him he was 18 years old, whereas the boy is only 14 and scarcely looks it.

Woo testified that he did not sell tobacco to Hartley and had told his new man Ing Louey" to be careful and not sell to small boys.

Ing said that Jordon told him it was for his father.

Magistrate Dumble found that the charge had been substantiated in the cases of Hartley and Jordon purchases and imposed a fine of $10 in each without costs.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, who represented C. Q. Woo will it is understood appeal the case.

GEORGE ST. BEATEN IN CHURCH LEAGUE

Methodists Lost by Score of 7-3 to St. Andrew's Team Last Night.

The Senior Church League fixture last night provided a good brand of hockey, St. Andrew's putting it over George street by the score of 7—3. The game was very interesting and while the margin looks rather wide it hardly indicates the play. It was pulled off on Park street ice and quite a number witnessed the struggle. Roughness was absent throughout, only one man being ruled off, and Jim Squires' rulings were always impartial and kept the men playing hockey all the time.

The teams faced each other as follows:

St. Andrew's — Goal, Patterson; point, Staunton; cover, Flannagan; forwards, Ray and Currie.

George Street — Goal, Williams; point, Ackerman; cover, Curtis; forwards, Pratt and Long.

Referee—Jim Squires.

Time keepers—E. N. MacWilliams and Ernie Reid.

George street played nice combination, but could not net goals. Pratt and Long for the Methodists, and Flannagan and Ray for the Presbyterians, were the scintillators. Only five men a side played.

CANADIAN NORTHERN IS TO LINK UP

Eastern and Western Sections Will Be United.

LINE NORTH OF SUPERIOR

William Mackenzie Gives Interview In Which He Confirms Statements That Connecting Road Between East and West Systems Will Soon Be Constructed—Says the I.C.R. Should Not Be Sold.

Montreal, Jan. 15.—Reports that Mackenzie and Mann will build round the north shore of Lake Superior, and thus connect the eastern and western sections of the Canadian Northern Railway, were confirmed yesterday by William Mackenzie, who is here, so rumor says, in connection with the offer that firm are said to be contemplating for the Canadian Government (I.C.R.) system from Montreal to Halifax.

Although the president of the C.N.R. would make no admission as to the amount they would be willing to give Mr. Mackenzie stated that for five or six years past he had been favorable to the absorption of the I.C.R. as the eastern link of the Canadian Northern, and he still considered the project a profitable one to the Dominion. Not knowing much about the present rates on the I.C.R., he could make no statement as to what the C.N.R. would do in this connection, except that no corporation would put rates into force that would be detrimental to the best interests of the country through which the line runs.

Mr. Mackenzie was more definite as to the north shore line.

"Yes," he said, "we are going to build that section in the near future, and already a good portion of the road is permanently located from Port Arthur eastward. We have found a first-rate route and the location lies between the Grand Trunk Pacific and the C.P.R., and while in some places we come nearer the G.T.P., at other points we approach nearer to the shore route of the C.P.R."

Mr. Mackenzie intimated a policy to build this line as soon as possible, but the beginning of the work during the present year depended upon circumstances. The road now being constructed from Hawkesbury to Ottawa would be fully completed during the coming summer and the link from Hawkesbury to Montreal permanently located to a point on the Back River would likewise be shoved ahead.

It is understood as soon as the link is completed from Port Arthur to Parry Sound the section of road now being operated by the Grand Trunk between the capital and Parry Sound will be transferred to the foot of the Rocky Mountains. It is likely that long before the section round Lake Superior is completed the Canadian Northern will have begun work on the Pacific side of the Rockies. They have a charter to build through the Yellow Head Pass.

Motorless Aeroplane.

Canton, O., Jan. 15.—Wm. H. Martin, former surveyor of Stark County, announces that he has made eight successful flights in a motorless aeroplane of his invention.

His wife rode in the machine at a height of 30 feet for a distance of two hundred feet.

The aeroplane is operated on sleigh runners. As soon as it receives sufficient velocity it rises in the air and sails.

Martin will purchase a motor, he says.

Connaught at Messina.

Messina, Jan. 15.—The Duke of Connaught arrived here Wednesday afternoon on board the British cruiser Aboukir. He said:

"This beautiful city seems to have passed through a sieve like ground wheat."

A crowd of people pressed around the duke imploring aid. He distributed a large sum of money and then after taking several photographs of the ruins shook hands with the soldiers working at the excavations.

Fiend With Penknife.

Hamilton, Ohio, Jan. 15.—Rudolph Wirts, a promiennt business man, ran amuck with a penknife, injuring six persons including his wife, who will probably die. He cut and stabbed the woman forty-four times, cut out her left eye and severed her right thumb.

Boils and Pimples

Are caused entirely by the blood being in an impure condition, and the quickest and simplest way to get rid of them is to take a few bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters.

This purely vegetable remedy has cured thousands of cases of these painful and unsightly troubles during the past thirty years.

BOILS.

Mr. S. J. Weir, Riverview, Ont., writes:—"Last summer I had nineteen boils on my neck and back. I was off work for over two weeks. I took everything I could think of but to no effect. I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and before I had used half the bottle the boils were gone. I took the rest of it, however, and I have not had a boil since."

PIMPLES.

Mrs. W. J. Crandon, St. Mary's, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with pimples on my face for a couple of years and tried a good deal of patent medicine, but they were not of much use. Finally I used four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters and am now entirely cured."

EXIT ROJESTVENSKY.

Disgraced Admiral Dies of Neuralgia of the Heart.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 15.—The death is announced of Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky who was in command of the Russian fleet in May, 1905, when he was practically annihilated by the Japanese in the battle of the Sea of Japan. Death was due to neuralgia of the heart.

VICE-ADMIRAL ROJESTVENSKY.

Sinovi Petrovitch Rojestvensky, who was about 60 years of age, had been in the Russian naval service the greater part of his life. Graduating from the Michael Military Academy, Rojestvensky rose steadily until he became chief of the naval headquarters' staff and the head of the intelligence department of the Russian navy.

Returning to Russia after the battle with Togo, he pleaded guilty to charges of cowardice to save his brother officers, but was declared not guilty. Others were condemned to death, but their sentences were commuted.

HIGH-HANDED DEALINGS.

Multitude of Charges Laid Against Express Companies.

Toronto, Jan. 15.—All kinds of accusations were hurled at the express companies by complaining shippers, before the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners in the city hall yesterday.

Loose business methods, double charging, excessive rates, utter indifference as to prompt shipment and delivery, collusion in increasing prices and discrimination against certain districts of cities, wholesale destruction of merchandise through careless handling and even threatening employes with dismissal if they attempted to deliver or collect packages outside of certain prescribed bounds, were all mentioned, and left for Chairman Mabee and Commissioner McLean to ponder upon.

The complainants represented wholesale milliners, lobster merchants, fruit growers pop manufacturers, hardware establishments, etc., and came from various parts of the province. Some protests were by letter.

At the adjournment last evening Counsel E. Lafleur, K.C., for the Canadian Express Co., announced that the companies would produce no evidence at the present session, as they wanted time to investigate all the complaints.

Willing to Wear Clothes Now.

Prince Albert, Sask., Jan. 15.—Warden Fred Kerr of Prince Albert jail will take six Doukhobor women, who have been confined to jail for the past six months, to their homes at Hileberno, to-day.

These women are some of the pilgrims who spent last winter at Fort William, and who persisted in doing without clothes last year. They have quite recovered from frenzy and wear clothes and eat anything given them. When they first arrived at the jail they had to be fed by force.

Did Brother Malign Sister?

Winnipeg, Jan. 15.—A peculiar case is pending in the provincial court.

J. C. Stuart of La Riviere, Man., became possessed of some anonymous letters containing scandalous stories about his daughter, Margaret. The provincial police, after investigating, charged the brother of the girl, Duncan R. Stuart, aged 19, an agricultural college student, with writing the letters, and offer expert evidence of the handwriting. The youth denies the accusation. Neither father nor girl credit the charge.

A Raid at Gananoque.

Gananoque, Jan. 15.—The police on Wednesday night raided a supposed poker club, making four arrests. Three others got away. The police long suspected the rooms were frequented by young men for the purpose of gambling. One table and three packs of cards were confiscated. Two ten-cent pieces were found on the floor. The frequenters yesterday pleaded not guilty and were remanded.

MOIR GOES TO THE ASYLUM FOR LIFE

Murderer of Sergt. Lloyd at London is Adjudged Insane.

TO END DAYS IN ASYLUM

Jurors In Murder Case Spend Only Fifteen Minutes In Deliberation Before Deciding Upon Verdict—Judge Says Epileptics Must Be Confined — Lawyers Waive Addresses to the Jury.

London, Jan. 15.—After 15 minutes' consideration the jury yesterday morning acquitted, on the ground of insanity, Private Moir, late of the Royal Canadian Regiment, charged with the murder by shooting of Sergt. Lloyd at Wolseley Barracks last spring. Chancellor Meredith in his charge to the jury said there was no doubt Moir had been insane.

Moir will be committed to the Hamilton Asylum, and Dr. Bruce Smith, provincial inspector of prisons, says that not in 32 years has anyone sent to the asylum on account of epilepsy been allowed his freedom.

"Under the verdict," said the chancellor, "the prisoner will be kept in close confinement till the pleasure of the crown is known, which means practically he will be confined to an asylum for life. This trial shows the public are in danger from epileptics such as the unfortunate prisoner. Such people may go around without having knowledge of their condition and their homicidal mania may develop at any time.

"Those in charge of affairs should see that epileptics such as the prisoner should be subject to imprisonment for life, or until such time as medical science will have discovered a remedy, which has not yet been done."

Moir, who had flushed and shown emotion by twitching lips and gulping throat when the verdict was announced, was then led away through the crowded court-room.

The chief witness yesterday morning was Dr. W. J. Robinson, superintendent of London Asylum, who declared Moir to be an epileptic, having treated him for that disease in 1906. Alcohol would excite an attack and when senses were recovered the patient would have no knowledge of what might have occurred. Alcohol and epileptic mania were frequently confused.

Dr. C. K. Clarke, superintendent of Toronto Asylum, believed Moir to be an epileptic. An epileptic was usually irritable. Up to a certain point this irritabilty might have nothing to do with epilepsy, but after that it had.

There were no addresses by counsel.

The ambassador has communicated the duke's proposal to the Italian Government.

The duke would allot to each family two farms, one free and the other to be worked for a small rental.

Flushing, N.Y., Jan. 15.—The jury in the case of Thornton Jenkins Hains retired at 4:55 o'clock yesterday afternoon to determine whether the indictment charging him with being a principal with his brother, Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., in the killing of William E. Annis has been proved or not.

The case was given to the jury after Prosecutor Darrin had completed his closing and Justice Crane had charged the law and reveiwed the evidence.

Both men were drowned.

Doctor Amazed by Great Zam-Buk Cure

Sores on Scalp, Face, and Hands.

Children's Torture ended at last by Zam-Buk.

One of the greatest cures of Eczema and of open discharging sores ever effected, has just been worked by Zam-Buk, in the family of Mrs. J. Butler, of 3, Bannockburn Avenue, Montreal. She says:—

"Three of my children owe their cure of Eczema and foul discharging sores, which made their lives miserable, to the curative power of Zam-Buk.

My eldest daughter, Annie, first took the disease. It broke out on her face and scalp, causing nasty sores which discharged freely and gave off a very offensive odour. The disease was quickly transmitted to Herbert and Edith, and in their cases not only their heads, but their hands and faces were covered with sores and scaly places.

"I first tried various blood-purifying remedies, together with a highly recommended ointment and salve, but it did no good, so I then consulted a doctor. He treated the three children for some weeks applying all kinds of lotions and salves, but they did not seem powerful enough to get to the root of the disease. He next advised that the hair be all shaven off from the girls' heads in order to get down to the disease on the scalp, but as they each had such long hair I thought it a pity to cut it all off, and refused to comply with his request. He thereupon withdrew his services altogether. After that I bought first one kind of ointment and salve from the druggist and then another, but after using awhile, the result was the same—no benefit.

"I was now at a stand-still to know what to do when my son Herbert got a supply of Zam-Buk. The result in his case was so clearly beneficial after using the contents of one box that I immediately sent to the druggists for more, and lost no time in applying this balm to the discharging sores on the girls' faces and scalps. It seemed to take immediate effect, for the next day the sores looked healthier, and there was not so much complaining.

"From that time on, day by day Zam-Buk clearly demonstrated its exceptional healing powers. The discharging sores kept drying up, and disappearing from both face and scalp, and the itching, pain, and soreness grew less and less, until ended altogether.

"In the course of six weeks from beginning with Zam-Buk the two girls were entirely cured of this eczema—not a spot or sore to be seen on either face or scalp, while Herbert's case not being so serious, Zam-Buk cured him in less than two weeks. The doctor and all who have known of the children's sufferings have been amazed at the wonderful cure which Zam-Buk effected in so short a time."

Photo of Mrs. Butler's son and daughters who were so wonderfully cured by Zam-Buk.

MOTHERS SHOULD KNOW.

That the skin, once it is broken, is no longer a protection against disease, and neglect to remember this fact is the reason why festering, inflammation, discoloration, swellings, proud flesh, and even blood-poisoning so often follow ordinary every-day injuries. The great merit of Zam-Buk lies in its unique composition and its wonderful antiseptic quality. It immediately takes the soreness out of a wound, allays inflammation, destroys dangerous germs, and prevents festering. Zam-Buk will not only cure the most troublesome case of skin-disease, but for cuts, bruises, burns, sprains, festering wounds, ulcers, pimples and sores, there is nothing to equal Zam-Buk. It is always reliable for the many injuries and diseases to which children are liable and should be kept always handy.

RUNNING ATHLETICS HOCKEY

STRATHCONAS AND LAKEFIELD WERE THE CITY LEAGUE WINNERS; BOTH GAMES WERE ONE-SIDED

Five hundred fans gathered for the City League games at the Brock street rink last night, and saw one excellently played junior game and two rather loose exhibitions in the senior series. In the major events —the Lakefield team made a very successful debut for the season by trimming the Belmonts to the tune of 13—2, while the Stratheonas increased their lead in the league race by winning from the T. A. S. handily in the second contest by an 8—2 score. Neither game was a really good exhibition of hockey, chiefly from the fact that the losing team in each case never had a chance to win, and the winners played indifferently, realizing that they were not in danger. The result was that there were times in both games in which the play lagged so much as to bore the audience, only an occasional streak of hockey being thrown in with the mediocre variety. However, the crowd seemed to find both games interesting, and they remained until the finish.

The Lakefield team showed practically no changes in their line-up from last year's team, but at that they were miles too good for the Belmonts and the contest dwindled down into a question of how big a score the Cementville seven would be able to pile up. The Belmonts scored the first goal, but were never in the hunt after that, the northerners being in and out around them, with the result that the game became a procession. Lakefield were ahead at the half by 7—2, and they piled on six more in the last period, coming within one goal of equalling the score amassed by the Strathconas against the same team last week. The Belmonts were demoralized, having no combination and being without system, both on the defence and on the attack, while they had not the speed or the condition to hold Lakefield.

Leo Quinn was at cover point for Lakefield, and he was the bright shining star of the contest. He had speed to burn and when he got going went through the Belmont ranks like Paderewski through a faucet. His stick handling was magnificent, and his long sweeping strides carried him away from the Belmont forwards and around their defence in easy fashion. The crowd cheered his performance to the echo, and he earned all the bouquets that were coming his way. Quinn is about fifty per cent. of the Lakefield team, although he received good support from his club mates last night. Tony Sabatino was always in his place at centre and figured in the goal getting While Quinn, especially in the second half, played a fine game at left wing, shooting nicely from the boards. The defence had little to do, Crawford only having two shots to handle during the second half.

Elliott was the best of the Belmonts He worked like a Trojan throughout, and although he was unable to accomplish much, was in the game from start to finish. The other forwards worked hard, but there was no system and their individual work was unsuccessful.

Myers, Ecclestone and Davidson were an overworked trio, and must have been glad when the game was over.

Belmonts scored the first goal in three minutes, Taylor lifting one past Crawford from the wing, but Lakefield came back with a pretty goal in thirty seconds, on a combination rush between Sabatino and Simpson, and after that there was nothing to the contest. Quinn began to get in his serpentine rushes and although he was slashed pretty freely by the Belmont defence, he never let up his great work, being responsible for most of the scores.

The teams were as follows:

	LAKEFIELD
	Crawford
	M. Sabatino

Straths Beat Abstainers

The Strathconas—T A S contest which followed was listless throughout proving rather a disappointment as a fast and game between the two was looked forward to. The Straths won easily but failed to play in anything like their usual form, losing many opportunities and failing to get together with their usual team work on the forward line. However, they were never in danger after they scored the first four goals before the T A S tallied and repeated the performance with a quartette in the second half while the T A S added a lone counter. It was not good hockey by any means, the play lagging badly in spots. The Straths had too much speed for the Abstainers and backed up so fast that the T A S line had few chances to break away and when they did get going the High Commissioners' defence had no trouble to handle them. Both teams contributed some dumb playing but it was seen soon after the start that the champions had the game on ice, a fourth they were not working together as usual. The Abstainers worked hard all the way and checked well, but they suffered as had the Belmonts in the first game by not having any combination on the forward line.

Ray played a very useful and effective game at rover for the Straths his back checking always helping, while he rushed well as usual. The other three forwards worked hard all through but could not seem to let going at their usual clip. Seymour got a bump shortly after half time that left him dazzled for the rest of the game. Dusty was as effective as ever at cover and his rushes helped while Smith at point played a splendid game both on the defence and on the attack. His hurdling was one of the features and he got away with some spectacular work. Wilson had little to do in the nets.

Cyril Giroux of the junior O H A team and Quigley did the best work on the Abstainers' line, although Coughlin who had played earlier in the evening for the T A S juniors against the Chieftains did splendid work. Crough and Cahil made a good defence and Derocher in goal kept the score from going into double figures by pulling off some spectacular stops. The winners were coming right in on top of him but he went out a score of times and beat them off in clever fashion.

THREE GAMES IN LOCAL BOWLING LEAGUE WERE PLAYED LAST NIGHT

After a few days' rest the ten pin tournament at the P.B.C. alleys was resumed last night with renewed energy caused by the arrival of the handsome trophy which is referred to elsewhere in this issue.

There were three matches pulled off last night which provided two distinct sensations. The first was the downfall of the Bankers, whose scalps were carried into camp by the Pacifics. The money counters lost two of the three games, and for the first time since the tournament opened have bid farewell to the first place. The Examiner A bunch are now in the lead and the other teams will endeavour to pull them down from their exalted position.

The scores for last night's games are as follows:—

THE CHIEFTAINS SHOWED GREAT FORM IN JUNIOR LEAGUE GAME

Manager Jack Thirnbeck's crack little team — the Chieftains — did things to the T.A.S. Juniors in the Junior City League game played at the Brock street Rink last night before the Senior League fixtures. The Chieftains won out by 8-4, leading at half by 3-2. The game was by far the best exhibition of the night, the youngsters unravelling a pretty classy brand of hockey all the way. The pace was hot from start to finish with no let-up in the play, and the crowd enjoyed the fray immensely.

Superior team work won for the Chieftains. When their combination got working in the second half they went along like a piece of well oiled machinery, carrying the puck right in on the nets so that the goal keeper never had a chance to keep them away. Early in the game they were bunching too much to be effective, but they soon steadied down and when they did the Abstainers were out of the hunt.

Individually the T.A.S. were good. They have a number of fast men on their line-up, and if they worked together as did the Chieftains, the result might have been closer. Their individual efforts, however, were not enough to win for them, cumbered as they were by the fast back checking of the Chieftains' line and the goodwork of their defence.

The Chieftains' playing was a revelation to the crowd. Two or three men handled the puck in every rush and they shot well too, while their checking was excellent. Crane was the star of a splendid forward line. His stick handling and shooting could not have been improved upon, while his checking always helped. Wallis played a fine game at cover, and Lees in goal pulled off some splendid stops in the second half. The team is well balanced and will take a lot of beating.

For the T.A.S. Coughlin, Milloy and Gorham were the stars, playing nice hockey, but team work was lacking.

S. W. Rose made a very satisfactory referee, and the teams and summary were as follows:—

	CHIEFTAINS

What has proved one of the most successful bonspiels in the history of the Peterborough Curling Club was brought to a close early last evening by the playing of the finals in the consolation event resulting in Skip Ham of Napanee defeating Skip L. V. O'Connor of Lindsay, in the last game by 5 shots the score being Ham 20, O'Connor 15. Skip Morrow of Peterborough defeated Skip Reid of Bobcaygeon for third prize in the consolation event by 8-7 being the only Peterborough rink to win a prize in the spiel.

C. N. BROWN,
President of the Peterborough Curling Club under whose auspices this week's successful bonspiel has been held.

The fourth round of the consolation played yesterday morning resulted in L. V. O'Connor of Lindsay, W. G. Morrow of Peterborough, G. S. Ham of Napanee, and W. J. Reid of Bobcaygeon being left for the semi final round in the afternoon.

There was a big crowd of spectators on hand in the afternoon to watch the play off and they saw two highly interesting games. O'Connor and Morrow were drawn against each other and the Lindsay quartette won an interesting game by eight up. At the same time two well known curlers, Ham of Napanee and Reid of Bobcaygeon were battling it out on another rink the easterners winning out by 4 shots after a splendid game.

This left it for Napanee and Lindsay to fight it out in the finals, which were commenced immediately afterwards and the result was another clean cut victory for Skip Ham's rink. The Lindsay quartette were well ahead in the early stages being seven ahead at one time, but the Napanee men curled brilliantly in the nine ends and won out by 5 shots. It was fine curling all through and the big crowd found the match most interesting.

Skip Morrow of Peterborough and Skip Reid of Bobcaygeon played off for third prize, the honours falling to Peterborough after a bitter game by one shot, the score being Morrow 8 Reid 7.

The rinks and scores in the finals were as follows—

For 1st Prize

Napanee		Lindsay
H. Daly		F Carew
R G H Traver		R Butler
C I Maybee		F Knowlson
G S Ham 20	L V O'Connor 15

For 3rd Prize

Peterborough		Bobcaygeon
R Carlon		C Dickson
H A Morrow		W C T Boyd
G L Hay		J T Robinson
W G Morrow 8		W J Reid 7

Thus ended a most successful bonspiel and the local curlers who had

MR. W. G. MORROW,
Skip of the only Peterborough rink to win a prize at the local bonspiel.

the affair in charge are to be congratulated upon the happy culmination of their efforts. The visiting curlers have been unanimous in their praise of the rest men they received and of the manner in which the spiel was conducted. The new rink has been praised on all sides by the visitors as a commodious, well lighted and well arranged building.

PETERBORO'S STRONG TEAM FOR TO-NIGHT'S GAME WITH BELLEVILLE

The great interest that is being taken in the opening of the Intermediate O. H. A. season here to-night, with the big game between Belleville and the locals, presages a record crowd at to-night's game, which will be called at Brock street rink at 8.15 o'clock. Both teams are confident of winning and a great battle should be the result, as the ice is in splendid condition for fast hockey. A telephone message from Belleville this morning supplied the information that Belleville will have their strongest line-up on, including Dr. Gilbert, and that they expect to beat Peterborough here to-night without much trouble. That there is a surprise in store for them is the opinion of the fans who have attended the recent practices of the intermediates. The local team is in excellent shape and if they do not pull off a victory they will be a very much surprised bunch. Peterborough are determined to win the district, and to get away to a good start will do their utmost to hand Belleville a package of limes to-night. It will be fast, hard hockey all the way and the fans cannot afford to miss the opener. It is expected that Waghorne will referee the contest.

The Petes will have Charlie Ray, rover of the junior team, on their line-up, as well as Glover, Parnell and Moore of the old intermediate and senior team, on the defence so that the team on paper looks strong enough to beat any team in the district. They have been practising faithfully and are in condition to go the route at top speed to-night. The Peterborough team will line up as follows:

Goal—Derocher.
Point—Glover.
Cover point—Moore.
Rover—Ray.
Centre—Parnell.

There should be a big crowd on hand, as the game will be well worth seeing.

BONSPIEL PRIZES PRESENTED TO THE WINNERS LAST NIGHT

The closing act in the curling bonspiel was the presentation of the prizes to the winning rinks, which event took place in the club room, at the rink, immediately at the conclusion of the finals in the consolation event, and which formed a very pleasant closing to what has been a most enjoyable and successful affair. Mr. C. N. Brown, the president of the Peterborough Curling Club, presided, and presented the prizes in a happy manner. The winners and their prizes were as follows: Skip Little, Lindsay, first in the primary, four pairs of curling stones; Skip Flavelle, of Lindsay, second in the primary, four gold lockets; Skip Ham, of Napanee, first in the consolation, four travelling bags; Skip O'Connor, of Lindsay, second in the consolation, four pairs of military brushes, and Skip Morrow, of Peterborough, four cut glass bon-bon dishes.

The feature of the speeches that were made, was the unanimous expression of the fact that the bonspiel had been a grand success, and that the utmost harmony and good feeling had prevailed throughout. Rev. Wallace, president of the Lindsay Club, and Messrs. J. D. Flavelle and L. V. O'Connor spoke on behalf of Lindsay Club, and Mr. J. Sellam, of Napanee for that club, congratulated the Peterborough curlers on the great success of the bonspiel. Mr. Flavelle warmly praised the rink, saying that it was the best rink that he had ever played in.

The local curlers have reason to shake hands with themselves over the result of their efforts to make the event a success. All the outside clubs were enthusiastic over the manner in which they were received and treated while here.

The Bobcaygeon curlers, who played the first game for the Fitzgerald-Bottum trophy, last night, were entertained by the local club at a delightful little banquet at Coleman's restaurant last night.

HOCKEY

The Collegiate Institute hockey team is looking for a game with some of the junior teams in the city. They would like to play the T.A.S., Otonabees or the Business College, the latter preferred.

• • • •

A meeting of the executive of the Junior City League is called for Saturday night at eight o'clock at the Examiner office.

• • • •

The Little Petes accept the challenge of the Midgets and will be pleased to meet them at as early a date as possible.

Edmonton Coal

—Before last Friday the price of coal in Edmonton was $8.50 a ton. That day it advanced fifty cents and on Saturday was selling at $6.00 and some at $5.50 a ton. The reason for the rapid advance in the western city is that the people wait until the last minute to get in a supply and then when a cold spell comes along there is a general rush for it, with the above results. It is safe to say that if the first prices prevailed in Peterborough the citizens would not hesitate long in securing enough to last a whole year.

BARGAIN ANNEX A GOOD FEATURE

A. W. Cressman's Special Department Favourably Criticized.

The "Bargain Annex" is a department which Cressman, of Peterborough, introduces with profit in connection with holiday seasons. He gives it the benefit of strong advertising. Here is a paragraph from his ad. which is in itself descriptive of the methods employed: "Big Dress Goods Bargain—Last week's annex dress goods sale was such a big success that we have selected another lot for this week's annex in plain navy, black, brown, etc. In the annex all one price. As is always customary in the cases of special or general merchandising, plans with which A. W. Cressman featureizes his business the proposition is always given the benefit of the best possible publicity. That is one explanation of their success.

MANY ENTRIES FOR BOWLING CONTEST

Handsome Trophy Has Stimulated the Interest in big Handicap Event.

Entries are coming in fast for the trophy competition which started yesterday at the P.B.C. The trophy which is a handsome and valuable one is in the form of a silver punch bowl, gold lined. It rests on three gold ten pins with a number of bowls grouped beneath, the whole standing on an ebony base. It will be emblematic of the individual ten pin championship, and the competition now in progress should set at rest the controversy which has been raging for some time past as to the identity of the bowling champion of Peterborough.

The present competition will last until the end of February and it has been decided that the player who makes the ten highest scores during that period shall become the possessor of the trophy, which he will hold as a challenge trophy, and he will be subject to a challenge on Thursday evening of each week throughout the season, the bowler winning it the most number of times before the end of next season to become the permanent owner of the handsome piece of silverware.

In order to give all devotees of the great indoor pastime an opportunity of having the honour of winning the championship emblem it has been decided to allot generous handicaps to the less experienced members of the fraternity, and already this course has been justified by the large number of entries received from new bowlers. The big fellows, too, are taking up the idea with great enthusiasm, and are almost to a man entering for the trophy.

A suggestion has been made that a number of the high men at the finish of the competition be entered in the Canadian tournament which will be held early in March in Hamilton, and the prospects are that some of them will go to the Ambitious City and try their skill against some of the cracks who will assemble there from all over Canada and many points across the border to do battle for Canadian national bowling honours.

THE G. T. R. ISSUES NEW MAP OF CONTINENT

The Grand Trunk Railway System has just issued what is considered to be the most complete map of the North American continent, showing the relative positions of the Grand Trunk Railway System, the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and their connections. The map is printed in five colours, the combination of vinces of the Dominion. The colour being used for each of the States of the republic and each of the Provinces of the Dominion. The colours used for the water portion of the country is light blue, making a pleasing contrast with the tints used for the land portions. The map is 45 inches by 65 inches, printed on heavy coated stock, mounted on rollers and bound with linen.

Among the special features that are embodied in this map may be mentioned the following: The Grand Trunk Railway System is shown with reference designating the double track under operation, other lines of the company in operation, through car lines and connections. The lines of the Grand Trunk Pacific under operation, under construction and the proposed branch lines are also shown in an accurate and comprehensive way. The Trans-Atlantic and Trans-Pacific steamship routes appear in dotted lines and include all the principal lines operating from all the principal seaports on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

The typographical features are shown, such as mountains, lakes, rivers, etc. In addition to the main map there are two key maps, one showing the routes around the world on Mercator's projection, which is a most interesting feature, and one that shows the relative positions of all the countries on the globe with the around the world routes. The other key map is a part of Alaska, showing north Pacific coast points steamship routes, Behring Sea and a part of Siberia.

The exebution of the map is a credit to the publishers, and it is the best railway map published and one that will be sought after for its general usefulness.

THE EGG YIELD IS SCARCE THIS YEAR

Complaints come from all sides that egg yieldrs are low. What is the reason? I don't know; I wish I did. The egg yield here is also low. There may be a number of conditions that tend to keep the yield low. Last fall was so favorable that I found that hens laid almost continuously till quite late, going into moult very late. They will not lay for a month or two yet. The early pullets laid well during the fall months and are taking a rest now. The late pullets did not get started before this exceptionally cold snap, hence are still not producing. The lack of sunshine retards laying, so that all these conditions (and there may be others) probably in part account for the lack of eggs.

The best thing to do is to give the very best care possible; change the feed somewhat; give plenty of it, and induce a good healthy exercise. Keep the places clean and birds free from vermin; houses well ventilated but free from draughts; dry, and as bright as possible.—F. C. E.

Gin Pills Cured Them. Free Sample Box Leads to Cure.
Only those who have been tortured with Kidney Trouble can appreciate how Mr. Trumper suffered. Being a railroad man, he was called upon to do all kinds of heavy work. The constant strain of lifting, weakened the kidneys.
I received the sample box of Gin Pills and was greatly benefitted by them. My kidneys were in such bad condition I could not lift or stoop without pain. In fact, they pained me nearly all the time. I have taken three boxes of Gin Pills, working all the time at heavy work on the railroad and did not lose a day.

FIGURES ILLUSTRATING THE GROWTH OF TRAFFIC ON THE TRENT CANAL

Report From the Lockmasters at the Different Locks as Supplied to The Examiner by Superintendent McClellan.

THE INCREASE IS GREAT.

Superintendent J. H. McClellan, of the Trent Valley Canal, has supplied the Examiner with a report of the number of lockages at the different points along the canal during the past season. The following figures, which are given as supplied by each lockmaster, illustrate the growth of traffic :—

Hydraulic Lift Lock Kirkfield

Wm. Jobe, Lockmaster

This is the second year that the Kirkfield Hydraulic Lift Lock has been operated, and notwithstanding the fact that there is no through route from Georgian Bay as yet, and therefore, nothing to demand very much traffic on the Lake Simcoe-Balsam Lake Division of the canal, there has been, nevertheless, a slight increase in the number of lockages this year. The following tabby will show the number of lockages at the Kirkfield Hydraulic Lift Lock during the past season :

	Steamers	Small Boats	Scows	Rafts
April	—	—	—	—
May	4	4	7	—
June	22	8	6	—

Total number of lockages 180.
Comparison for past two years, 1907—136 (total.) 1908—180 total.

Rosedale Lock

A. A. Sackett, acting lockmaster

A substantial new lock, much larger than the old wooden lock formerly at this place is now about completed. A splendid new concrete dam is also being constructed at Rosedale. Balsam Lake just above the Rosedale Lock constitutes the summit waters of the Trent Canal. From Balsam Lake the waters of the Trent Canal flow eastward to Lake Ontario. While the artificial stretch from Balsam Lake to Lake Simcoe carries a very light portion of the water from Balsam Lake to Georgian Bay.

A record of the lockages at Rosedale during the past year is as follows...

CHATS ABOUT FAMOUS BOOKS AND THEIR AUTHORS

By F. M. D.

"The place and the value of Christopher Marlowe as a leader among English poets it would be almost impossible for historical criticism to overestimate. To none of them all, perhaps, have so many of the greatest among them, been so deeply and so directly indebted. Nor was ever any great writer's influence upon his fellows more utterly and unmixedly an influence for good. He first, and he alone, guided Shakespeare into the right way of work; his music, in which there is no echo of any man's before him, found its own echo in the more prolonged but hardly more exalted harmony of Milton's. He is the greatest discoverer, the most daring and inspired pioneer in all our poetic literature. Before him there was neither genuine blank verse, nor a genuine tragedy in our language. After his arrival, the way was prepared, the paths were made straight for Shakespeare."

In the above words, Swinburne, than whom there is none living more qualified to render an opinion, sums up the great debt which followers of English literature owe to Christopher Marlowe. Although more is known of the life of this great genius than of his contemporary, Shakespeare, there is little enough that can be with safety reckoned on as authentic, and what little there is, apart from his great services to the drama, is of a saddening character. For Marlowe was one of those men, at whom the world looks askance; a lover of low jokes, a drunkard and a libertine, a scoffer at Christianity. Our literature, however, furnishes us with more than one example of a poet or a prose writer, who whilst capable of writing the most sublime and touching passages, breathing the very spirit of reverent piety, can still revel in the gutter with the veriest outcasts of society. It was so with Marlowe. In his short life there seems to have been a wonderful admixture of bodyriot and soul-rapture. In the companionship of his roystering friends, Peele, Green and Nash, he seems to have passed his leisure hours, getting mixed up in all sorts of disgraceful brawls, in one of which he had his leg broken, and in another by a stab from a knife, the lamp of his genius extinguished forever. There is an entry in the burial register of St. Nicholas Church, Deptford, which reads as follows: "Christopher Marlowe, slain by Francis Archer, June 1, 1593." There are two accounts extant relating to his death. Both although differing widely in certain features, unhappily agree in the statement of his murder.

Born at Canterbury in 1563, or 1564, the son of a shoemaker, Marlowe was educated at King's school, Canterbury, and proceeded from there to Cambridge, where he took the M. A. degree in 1587. Prior to his leaving Cambridge, he had composed his tragedy of Tamburlaine the Great, "the first tragedy worthy of the name in our language." This was followed by Doctor Faustus, and several other plays, and also by some beautiful lyrics; one especially "The Passionate Shepherd" is unrivalled in its way, for its purity of fancy and bright melody. Sir Walter Raleigh's reply to it, entitled "The Nymph's Reply to the Passionate Shepherd" written in the same metre is well known to lovers of poetry. The play entitled "Doctor Faustus" dealing with the doings of one who has been termed "facile princeps of magicians" is, no doubt, Marlowe's greatest work. There are passages in it, notably the terrible scene depicting Faustus in despair at the impending approach of Mephistophilis, which have, possibly, never been surpassed by any writer an vividness of illustration and tragic power. It is transcribed herewith and will appeal to all lovers of the tragic muse. Its splendour has been marvelled at by no less a genius than Goethe, the creator of the modern version of the well known legend:

THE DOOM OF DOCTOR FAUSTUS

(The clock strikes eleven.
Faust. O, Faustus.
Now hast thou but one bare hour to live,
And then thou must be damned perpetually.
Stand still, you ever-moving spheres of heaven,
That time may cease and midnight never come.
Fair Nature's eye, rise, rise again and make Perpetual day; or let this hour be but
A year, a month, a week, a natural day,
That Faustus may relent and save his soul
O lente, lente, currite, noctis equi
The stars move still, time runs the clock will strike,
The devil will come and Faustus must be damned.
Oh, I will leap to heaven; who pulls me down?
See where Christ's blood streams in the firmament!
One drop of blood will save me, O my Christ,—
Rend not my heart for naming of my Christ.
Yet will I call on Him; O spare me, Lucifer.
Where is it now? 'tis gone!
And see a threatening arm and angry brow.
Mountains and hills, come, come and fall on me,
And hide me from the heavy wrath of heaven.
No! Then I will headlong run into the earth.
Gape, earth. Oh, no, it will not harbour me
You stars that reigned at my nativity,
Whose influence have allotted earth and hell,
Now draw up Faustus like a foggy mist
Into the entrails of yon labouring cloud,
That when you vomit forth into the air,
My limbs may issue from your smoky mouths,
But let my soul mount and ascend to heaven.
(The clock strikes)
Oh, half the hour is past; 'twill all be past anon.
Oh, if my soul must suffer for my sin,
Impose some end to my incessant pain.
Let Faustus live in hell a thousand years,
A hundred thousand and at last be saved;
No end is limited to damned souls.
Why wert thou not a creature wanting soul?
Oh, why is thou immortal that thou hast?
Oh, Pythagoras' Metempsychosis were that true.
This soul should fly from me, and I be changed
Into some brutish beast.
All beasts are happy, for when they die
Their souls are soon dissolved in elements;
But mine must live still to be plagued in hell.
Cursed be the parents that engendered me;
No, Faustus curse thyself, curse Lucifer,
That hath deprived thee of the joys of heaven.
(The clock strikes twelve.)
It strikes, it strikes; now body, turn to air.
Or Lucifer will bear thee quick to hell.
O soul, be changed into small water drops,
And fall into the ocean; ne'er be found.
(Thunder, and enter the devils.)
Oh mercy, heaven, look not so fierce on me.
Adders and serpents, let me breathe awhile;
Ugly hell, gape not, come not Lucifer;
I'll burn my books—Oh! Mephistophilis!

(Enter scholars.)

First Scholar—
"Come, gentlemen, let us go visit Faustus,
For such a dreadful night was never seen
Since first the world's creation did begin;
Such fearful shrieks and cries were never heard.
Pray heaven the Doctor have escaped the danger

Second Scholar—
O help us heaven! see, here are Faustus' limbs
All torn asunder by the hand of death.

Third Scholar—
The devil whom Faustus served hath torn him thus:
For, 'twixt the hours of twelve and one, methought
I heard him shriek and call aloud for help
At which same time the house seemed all on fire
With dreadful horrors of these damned fiends.

Second Scholar—
Well gentlemen, though Faustus' end be such
As every Christian heart laments to think on,
Yet, for he was a scholar once admired
For wondrous knowledge in our German schools,
We'll give his mangled limbs due burial;
And all the scholars clothed in mourning black,
Shall wait upon his heavy funeral.

Chorus—
Cut is the branch that might have grown full straight,
And burned is Apollo's laurel bough
That sometime grew within this learned man;
Faustus is gone. Regard his hellish fall,
Whose fiendful fortune may exhort the wise
Only to wonder at unlawful things
Whose deepness doth entice such forward wits
To practise more than heavenly power permits.

"If the general doesn't want to see me now—and I can understand that he mustn't be caught confabbing with any supposed parties to the affair—you must make it plain to him how matters stand. Somehow and by some means our dear Hercules must be saved. Hercules is an ass, but so are most of the men and all the rowdies of Slavna. They love their Hercules, and they won't let him die without a fight—and a very big fight. In that fight what might happen to his royal highness, the commandant? And if anything did happen to him, what might happen to General Stenovics? I don't know that either, but it seems to me that he'd be in an awkward place. The king wouldn't be pleased with him, and we here in Slavna, are we going to trouble ourselves about the man who couldn't save our Hercules?"

Round faced Markart nodded in a perplexed fashion. Stafnitz clapped him on the shoulder, with a laugh.

"For heaven's sake don't think about it or you'll get it all mixed! Just try to remember it. Your only business is to report what I say to the general."

Rastatz sniggered shrilly. When the wine was not in him he was a cunning little rogue—a useful tool in any matter which did not ask for courage.

"If I'd been here Mistitch wouldn't have done the thing at all—or done it better. But what's done is done, and we expect the general to stand by us. If he won't we must act for ourselves, for there'll be no bearing our dear commandant if we sit down under the death of Mistitch. In short, the men won't stand it." He tapped Markart's arm. "The general must release unto us Barabbas!"

"Tell him not to play his big stake on a bad hand."

The man's easy self confidence, his air of authority, surprised neither of his companions. If there were a good soldier besides the commandant in Slavna, Stafnitz was the man. If there were a head in Kravonia cooler than Stenovics', it was on the shoulders of Stafnitz. He was the brain to Mistitch's body, the mind behind Captain Hercules' loud voice and brawny fist.

"Tell him not to play his big stake on a bad hand. Mind you tell him that."

"His big stake, colonel?" asked Markart. "What do I understand by that?"

"Nothing, and you weren't meant to. But tell Stenovics—he'll understand."

Rastatz laughed his rickety giggle again.

"Rastatz does that to make you think he understands better than you do. Be comforted—he doesn't." Rastatz's laugh broke out again, but now forced and uneasy. "And the girl who knocked Sterkoff out of time—I wish she'd killed the stupid brute—what about her, Markart?"

"She's—er—a very remarkable person, colonel."

"Er—is she? I must make her acquaintance. Goodby, Markart."

Markart had meant to stay for half an hour, but he went.

"Goodby, Rastatz."

Rastatz had just ordered another liqueur; but, without waiting to drink it, he, too, went. Stafnitz sat on alone, smoking his cigar. There were no signs of care on his face. Though not gay, it was calm and smooth. No wrinkles witnessed to worry nor marred the comely remains of youth which had survived his five and thirty years.

Chapter Fifteen

STENOVICS was indeed in a quandary. Mistitch had precipitated an unwelcome and premature crisis. The minister's deliberate, slow moving game was brought to a sudden issue which he was not ready to face. It had been an essential feature, a governing rule, of his campaign to avoid any open conflict with the Prince of Slavna until an occasion arose on which both the army and the king would be on his side. The king was a power not merely by reason of his cheaply won popularity, but also because he was, while he lived, the only man who could crown Stenovics' operations with the consummation to which the minister and his ally, Countess Ellenburg, looked forward with distant yet sanguine hope. The army was with him now, but the other factor was lacking. The king's pride as well as his affection was enlisted in his son's interest. Moreover, this occasion was very bad.

Mistitch was no better than an assassin. To take up arms on his behalf was to fight in a cause plainly disgraceful—one which would make success very difficult and smirch it forever and beyond remedy even if it came. It was no cause in which to fight both prince and king. That would be playing the big stake on a bad hand, as Stafnitz put it.

Yet the alternative? Stafnitz, again, had put that clearly. The army would have no more to do with the man who could not help it at the pinch, who could not save its favorite, who could not release Barabbas.

The prince seemed to be in his most unyielding mood—the Bourbon in him was peeping out. For the honor of the royal house and for the sake of discipline Mistitch must die. He had packed his court martial with the few trustworthy friends he had among the officers, using the justification which jury packers always use and sometimes have. He had no fear of the verdict and no heed for its unpopularity. He knew the danger—Stenovics made no secret about that—but said plainly that he would sooner be beaten by a mutiny than yield to the threat of one. The first meant for him defeat, perhaps death, but not dishonor nor ignominy. The more Stenovics prophesied or threatened a revolt of the troops, the more the commandant stiffened his neck.

The square of St. Michael was full of life and bustle; the center of interest was on the north wall.

Meanwhile Slavna waited in ominous, sullen quiet, and the atmosphere was so stormy that King Alexis had no heart for fishing.

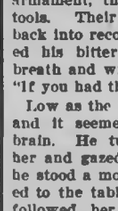
On Friday morning—the day before that appointed for Mistitch's trial—the names of the members of the court were published. The list met with the reception which was no doubt anticipated even by the prince himself. The streets began to fill with loiterers, talkers and watchers; barrack rooms were vociferous with grumbling and with speculation; Stafnitz, with Rastatz always at his heels, was busy with many interviews; Stenovics sat in his room moodily staring before him, seeking a road out of his blind alley, and a carriage drew up before the sign of the Silver Cock as the cathedral bells chimed noon. It was empty inside, but by the driver sat Peter Vassip, the prince's personal attendant, wearing the sheepskin coat, leather breeches and high boots that the men of the hills wore. His business was to summon Sophy to Suleiman's tower.

The square of St. Michael was full of life and bustle. The Golden Lion did a fine trade. But the center of interest was on the north wall and the adjacent quays under the shadow of Suleiman's tower. Within those walls were the two protagonists. Thence the prince issued his orders. Thither Mistitch had been secretly conveyed the night before by a party of the prince's own guard, trustworthy Volsenians.

A crowd of citizens and soldiers was chattering and staring at the tower when Sophy's carriage drew up at the entrance of the bridge which, crossing the North river, gave access to the fort. The mouth of the bridge was guarded by fifty of those same Volsenians. They had but to retreat and raise the bridge behind them, and Mistitch was safe in the trap. Only—and the crowd was quick enough to understand the situation—the prisoner's trap could be made a snare for his jailer too. Unless provisions could be obtained from the country around it would be impossible to hold the tower for long against an enemy controlling the butchers' and bakers' shops of Slavna. Yet it could be held long enough to settle the business of Captain Hercules.

Sophy entered the time worn walls of Suleiman's tower with a thrill of pleasure and followed Peter Vassip up the narrow stair with a delighted curiosity. The prince received her in the round room which constituted the first floor of the central tower. Its furniture was simple, almost rude, its massive walls quite bare save for some pieces of ancient armor. Narrow slits, deep set in the masonry, served for windows and gave a view of the city and of the country around on every side. They showed the seething throng on the north wall and on the quays. The distant sound of a thousand voices struck the ear.

Zerkovitch and his wife were with the prince, seated over a simple meal, at which Sophy joined them. Marie had watched Sophy's entrance and the prince's greeting closely. She marked Sophy's excitement betrayed in the familiar signal on her cheek. But the journalist was too excited on his own account to notice other people. He was talking feverishly, throwing his lean body about and dashing his hands up and down. He hardly paused to welcome the newcomer. He had a thousand plans by which the prince was to overcome and hold down Slavna. One and all, they had the same defect. They supposed the absence of the danger which they were contrived to meet. They assumed that the soldiers would obey the commandant even with the sound of the rifles which had shot Mistitch fresh in their ears.



He was talking feverishly.

At last the prince patted Zerkovitch's shoulder indulgently.

"Well, it's good not to fear," he said. "We didn't fear the other night, Mlle. de Gruche and I, and all ended well!"

"Ended?" Marie murmured half under her breath.

The prince laughed. "You shan't make me afraid," he told her, "any more than Zerkovitch shall make me trust Colonel Stafnitz. I can't say more than that." He turned to Sophy. "I think you'd better stay here till we see what's going to happen tonight, and our friends here will do the same. If all's quiet you can go home to sleep. If not, we can give you quarters—rough ones, I'm afraid." He rose from the table and went to a window. "The crowd's thinner. They've gone off to eat and drink. We shall have one quiet hour at all events."

An orderly entered and gave him a letter.

He read it and said, "Tell General Stenovics I will receive him here at 2 o'clock." When the messenger had gone he turned round toward the table. "A last appeal, I suppose! With all the old arguments! But the general has nothing to give in exchange for Mistitch. My price would be very high."

"No price! No price!" cried fiery Zerkovitch. "He raised his sword against you! He must die!"

"Yes; he must die." He turned to the window again. Sophy rose from the table and joined him there, looking over the city. Directly beneath was the great gate, flanked on either side by broad, massive walls, which seemed to grow out of the waters of the river. He was aware of her movement, though he had not looked round at her. "I've brought you, too, into this trouble—you, a stranger," he said.

"You don't think I'm sorry for that?"

"No, but it makes my impotence worse." He waved his arm toward the city. "There it is—here am I! And yet I'm powerless!"

Sophy followed his gesture and understood what was passing in his mind—the pang of the soldier without his armament, the workman without his tools. Their midnight talk flashed back into recollection. She remembered his bitter complaint. Under her breath and with a sigh she whispered, "If you had the big guns now!"

Low as the whisper was he heard it, and it seemed to shoot through his brain. He turned sharply round on her and gazed full into her eyes. So he stood a moment, then quickly turned to the table and sat down. Sophy followed, her gaze fixed on his face. Zerkovitch ceased writing. He had been drawing up another plan. Both he and Marie now watched the prince. Moments went by in silence.

At last the prince spoke—in a low voice, almost dreamy. "My guns for Mistitch! Mistitch against my guns! That would be a price—a fair price!"

The three sat silent. The Zerkovitches, too, had heard him talk of the guns. How on them hung the tranquillity of the city and how on them might hang the country's honor and existence. Stenovics could give them if he would in return for Mistitch, but to give up Mistitch was a great surrender. Sophy's whisper, almost involuntary, the voicing of a regret, hardly even of a distant aspiration, had raised a problem of conduct, a question of high policy. The prince's brain was busy with it and his mind perplexed. Sophy sat watching him, not thinking now, but waiting, conscious only that by what seemed almost chance a new face had through her been put on the situation.

Suddenly Zerkovitch brought his clinched fist down on the table. "No!" he almost shouted. "They'll think you're afraid!"

"Yes, they'll think that, but not all of them. Stenovics will know better, and Stafnitz too. They'll know I do it not because I'm afraid, but in order that I never need be."

"Then Stenovics won't give them!" cried Marie.

"I think he must give anything or everything for Mistitch." He rose and paced restlessly about the room. Sophy still followed him with her eyes, but she alone of the three offered no argument and made no suggestion. The prince stood still for a moment in deep thought. Then his face cleared. He came quickly up to Sophy, took her hand and kissed it.

"Thank you," he said. "I don't know how it will turn out for me. The case is too difficult for me to be able to foresee that. For me it may be mastery—I always thought it would mean that—or perhaps, somehow, it may turn to ruin." He pressed Sophy's hand now and smiled at her. She understood and returned his smile. "But the question isn't one of my interest. My duty is plain."

He walked quickly to his writing table and unlocked a drawer. He returned to the table with an envelope in his hand and sat down between Marie and Zerkovitch.

The orderly entered again, announcing Stenovics. "Let him come in here," said the prince. His manner grew lighter, and the smile which had comforted Sophy remained on his face.

Stenovics came in. His air was nervous, and he looked at the prince's three companions with a visible access of embarrassment. At a nod from the prince the orderly placed a chair for the general and withdrew.

"The same matter we discussed last night, general?"

"There can be but one matter in the thoughts of all of us now, sir. Pardon me; I understood your royal highness would receive me alone."

The prince gave a low laugh. "When one bargains, shouldn't one have witnesses?"

In an instant Stenovics laid hold of the significant word. It made him forget his request for privacy. An eager light came into his eyes.

"Bargains? You're ready now to"—

"La nuit porte conseil." He drew a paper from the envelope, unfolded it and handed it across the table. "You remember that, a memorandum I sent to you three months ago in my capacity as commandant?"

Stenovics looked at the paper. "I remember, sir."

"It's indorsed in your hand?"

"Yes."

"The indorsement runs, 'Impossible.' Rather curt, general!"

"The note was for my private use, but your royal highness particularly pressed for the return of the document."

"I did, and, after all, why use more words than necessary? One will still be enough, but not that one."

"I'm not following you, sir," said Stenovics.

The prince leaned across the table to him. "In our conversation last night you asked me to do a very remarkable thing and to get this lady here"—he indicated Sophy—"to do it too. You remember? We were to think that at night, in the Street of the Fountain, in the light of the illuminations, Sergius Stefanovitch and Nikolas Stafnitz looked and sounded just the same. I didn't see my way to that, and I didn't think this lady would see hers. It seemed so difficult."

Stenovics was in a strain of close attention. The paper from the envelope crackled under the trembling of his hand.

"Now, if we had such a memory as Lieutenant Rastatz is happy enough to possess!" the prince pursued. "Or if Colonel Stafnitz had taken us into his confidence about his quarrel with Captain Mistitch! All that was not so last night. Consequently Captain Mistitch must be tried and shot instead of suffering some not very severe disciplinary punishment for brawling in the street and having a quarrel with his superior officer."

Stenovics marked every word and understood the implied offer. The offer was good enough. Stafnitz himself would not and could not ask that no notice whatever should be taken. The trifling nature of the punishment would in itself be a great victory. But the price? He was to hear that in a moment.

"Sergius Stefanovitch—Nikolas Stafnitz! Which was it, general? It's only changing two words, yet what a difference it makes!"

He looked full at Stenovics, and the general's eyes fell.

"The difference of peace tonight or"—Stenovics waved his hand toward the city. But the prince interrupted him.

"Never mind that," he said rather sharply. "That's not first in my mind or I should have left the matter where it rested last night. I was thinking of the difference to Captain Mistitch and perhaps to you, general."

He looked full at Stenovics, and the general's eyes fell. The prince pointed his finger across the table at the paper under Stenovics' hand.

"I'm a liberal bargainer," he said, "and I offer you a good margin of profit. I'll change two words if you'll change one—two for you against one for me! 'Sergius Stefanovitch' becomes 'Nikolas Stafnitz' if 'Impossible' becomes 'Immediate.'"

Stenovics gave one slight start, then leaned back in his chair and looked past the prince out of the window opposite to him.

"Make that change, and we'll settle details afterward. I must have full guarantees. I must see the order sent and the money deposited in my name and at my disposal."

"This afternoon, sir?"

"Wouldn't it be well to release Captain Mistitch from Suleiman's tower before tonight?"

"The money is difficult today."

"The release will be impossible tomorrow."

Again Stenovics' eyes wandered to the window, and a silence followed. Perhaps he saw the big guns already in position, dominating the city. Perhaps he listened to the hum of voices which again began to swell in volume from the wall and from the quays. There are times when a man must buy the present with a mortgage on the future, however onerous the terms may be. It was danger against destruction. He put out his hand and took from Zerkovitch a quill which the journalist was twiddling in his fingers. He made a scratch and a scribble on the paper which the prince had taken from the envelope.

To be continued next Saturday.

NO MORE HEADACHES

Suffered From Constant Headaches—Cured by "Fruit-a-tives" When Doctors Failed.

"I was a sufferer from fearful headaches for over two years, sometimes they were so bad that I was unable to work for days at a time. I took all kinds of medicines, was treated by physicians, and yet the headaches persisted. I was rarely free from headache. A short time ago I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives" and I did so with, I must confess, very little faith, but after I had taken them for three days my headaches were easier and in a week they left me. After I had taken a box of the tablets my headaches were quite cured. My appetite was always poor and my stomach bad, and now my appetite is splendid and my digestion is excellent. I had become thin and weak from the constant headaches, but now not only have I been cured of all these awful headaches, but my strength is growing up once more, and I feel like a new man. I have taken in all three boxes of "Fruit-a-tives." I am exceedingly grateful to "Fruit-a-tives" for curing me, and I give this unsolicited testimonial with great pleasure, as I hope thereby some other sufferer of headaches will be induced to try "Fruit-a-tives" and will be cured."

DANGEROUS BITES.

Cure Claimed For Hydrophobia and Cobra.

Every one knows, of course, that the bite of the Indian cobra is fatal. But what Europeans do not actually know is whether or not the natives of India really possess the cures they claim to have, both for cobra bite and for hydrophobia caused by the bite of a mad dog. A few years ago an Indian civilian in Burma strolled out with his gun in the evening. When scarcely a hundred yards from the zayat (or shelter) in which he was camping, S—— was bitten in the leg by a cobra, which he promptly shot. He at once returned to the zayat and scrawled a pencil note to be carried by his orderly to his chief, the deputy commissioner, and then resigned himself to the attentions of of a couple of Burmese medicine men who happened to be passing the night there, and to the death which he accepted as absolutely inevitable. Meanwhile, his superior officer proceeded direct to headquarters on receipt of the news to seal up the unfortunate man's effects, after which he set out for the zayat to see to the burial of his subordinate. On the road he met the "dead man" comfortably jogging along towards headquarters, quite recovered. The Burmese medicine men had scarified the wound and rubbed a certain paste into it. They had also given the patient certain infusions to drink, and had cured him. Nothing, however, would induce them to give away the secret of their treatment.

Our own medicine men have many cures of hydrophobia to their credit, but cures of cobra bites are almost unknown. An English officer in the Shan States kept a number of dogs, one of which recently went mad and bit one of the sahib's servants. The station was an isolated one. The services of a Shan doctor were called in, and the servant, after passing through all the severe stages of the terrible disease, was absolutely and completely cured by the Shan doctor. The English officer offered 1,000 rupees for the secret of the treatment used, and, to a Shan, this would, of course, be a large sum of money. But the secret was never divulged.—The People.

Attacks on Europeans.

A remarkable state of affairs exists at present at Bettiah, in the Champaran district of Behar. Disputes between planters and ryots (peasant cultivators) have led to acts of hostility, and in order to protect the European population large forces of Bengal armed police and Gurkhas have been drafted to the town and neighborhood.

Fifty rounds of ball ammunition were served out to each member of the Behar Light Horse. In parts of the division affairs have assumed a warlike appearance. Seven cases are reported to the police in which Europeans have been attacked. Other stories are current of equestrians being ambushed and of frantic rides along jungle paths through crowds of ruffians. Inoffensive folk have been molested on the highway.

A few days ago nineteen persons were convicted and sentenced, besides being fined, the full term of six months' solitary confinement. No fewer than 200 prisoners are awaiting trial at Motihari under various charges, chiefly of assaulting Europeans.

A Bengali was arrested while loitering at Bankipur Station (Bengal) when the viceroy's special train was passing on strong suspicion of being an anarchist.

Not a Joke.

On getting to his chambers in court a Paris judge was handed this note: "Monsieur the Judge—In the belief that a judge can form an accurate opinion only of matters of which he has personal experience we think that it will interest you to be exactly acquainted with the facts of a case similar to many which are tried by you every day. We accordingly have the honor to inform you that we have had much pleasure in burgling your flat today." "This," said the learned judge, "is obviously a joke." But he found that it was not when he got home.

Beech Lumber.

Beech lumber has the lowest market value of any American wood. Lumbermen pay $4 a thousand feet as against $35 for oak. It is useful in the mines for ties, posts, stringers and rails and in buildings for studding, rafters, joists, etc., and should be used at home, reserving more valuable trees for important use and for sale.—Arboriculture.

WHEN YOU CAN'T SLEEP.

There is many a man and woman tossing night after night upon a sleepless bed. Their eyes do not close in the sweet and refreshing repose that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right. Some constitutional disturbance, worry or disease has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system, that it cannot be quieted.

Or again, you have, a sinking sensation, a feeling you are going to die; or perhaps, you wake in your sleep feeling as though you were about to choke or smother, and rest leaves you for the night. If you allow these conditions to continue for a short period even, you will begin to feel your health declining. It is the nerves and heart not acting rightly, and they can only be set right by the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They soon induce healthful, refreshing sleep, not by deadening the nerves, but by restoring them to healthy action.

Mrs. E. Natt, St. Mary's, Ont., writes:—"I can gladly recommend your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as I was greatly troubled with my nerves. I was so bad I could not sleep at night without the lamp burning, but after taking four boxes of the pills I became all right again."

Price, 50 cents per box; 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PROGRESS OF NIGERIA.

Witchcraft, Trial by Ordeal and Tribal Fighting Are Passing Out.

A British White-paper gives an interesting account of the splendid progress of peaceful penetration in the provinces of southern Nigeria. Many of these rich districts were closed only a few years ago to all comers. The natives vigorously excluded the outer world, and gave themselves up to barbarous customs. In the Ibibio country of the eastern province incessant inter-tribal warfare was carried on until quite recently. Slave trading, twin-killing, human sacrifice and cannibalism were openly practiced. In the Onnoduru, Ahvada and Bende districts a similar state of affairs prevailed.

Without bloodshed, or even military measures, the country has been civilized and developed. In the majority of the districts offences against human life is rare, and old customs such as witchcraft and trial by ordeal are being dropped. Even in the most uncivilized tracts the natives are speedily acquiring an appreciation of the justice administered through the native courts which have been established.

Altogether a remarkable transformation has been brought about in a short time, and great headway has been made against the evil influence of the Aros. They have a powerful hold over the natives, who are generally afraid to give evidence against them, and they indulge whenever possible in slave dealing. Despite their power, however, and their persistent attempts to spread evil reports about the intentions of the Government, their power is being steadily undermined, and the work of progress is going rapidly forward.

Sailors' Pickings.

Here and there on an Atlantic liner in midocean sailors with pots of paint and huge brushes painted cowls, stanchions, rails, everything they could reach. Suddenly dropping his brush, one of these sailors rushed to a man in a black suit.

"Oh, sir," he cried distressfully, "you've sat down on fresh white paint."

With a roar the man leaped to his feet, curved himself acrobatically and stared at the seat of his trousers.

"But I've got a bottle of benzine in my bunk," said the sailor. "I'll run and get it. I'll have your pants all right in a jiffy."

Soon the pants were all right, and the man ere he strolled jauntily off (a little wet and smelly, perhaps) gave the sailor a quarter.

"That's the third today, Bill," the man said to his mate. "I tell you, what with all this paintin', us jackies do durn near as well on tips as the stewards."

"That's right," said Bill. "I made a dollar myself yesterday with that little bottle of benzine."

Keeping Up to Date.

"Yes," said the housewife, "yours is a sad story. But it isn't the same story you told last year."

"Well, lady," answered Plodding Pete, "you surely wouldn't expect a man to go all dat time an' not show any improvement!"

Accents.

In the midst of a rambling speech the political orator declared. "The situation is grave; the crisis is acute."

"And the gentleman's speech," added the newspaper reporter, "was circumflex."—Youth's Companion.

EDWIN FORREST.

The Great Tragedian's Acting Was Saturated With Realism.

Edwin Forrest, says William Winter in "Other Days," was an uncommonly massive and puissant animal, and all of his impersonations were more physical than intellectual, while no one of them possessed any spiritual element whatever.

From the first and until the last his acting was saturated with "realism," and that was one reason of his extensive popularity. He could at all times be seen, heard and understood. He struck with a sledge hammer. Not even nerves of gutta percha could remain unshaken by his blow. In the manifestation of terror he lolled out his tongue, contorted his visage, made his frame quiver and used the trick sword with the rattling hilt. In scenes of fury he panted, snorted and snarled like a wild beast. In death scenes his gasps and gurgles were protracted and painfully literal. The bellow that he emitted when, as Richelieu, he threatened to launch the ecclesiastical curse almost made the theater walls tremble. The snarling yell of ferocity that burst from him when, as Jack Cade, he recognized and sprang upon Lord Say in the forest fairly frightened his hearers. His utterance of Lear's delirious prayer to nature was like a thunderstorm. Often he produced amazingly consolatory effects, affording ample gratification to the overstrained feeling of his audience, desirous—as in stormy passages of "King Lear" and "Othello," the forum scene of "Virginius," the statue scene of "Brutus" and the scaffold scene of "Damon and Pythias"—that something tempestuous and terrific should be said and done. There are times when it is a comfort to see somebody who can let himself go. Forrest could. His style accordingly had its positive, ample, undeniable merits, but neither he nor his apostles were ever satisfied with acknowledgment of those merits at their actual worth.

From Half-Timer to Knight.

Another remarkable illustration of what self-help and energy will do for a man is furnished by the romantic career of Sir James Duckworth, who has lately been made a knight. He worked in a calico-mill when he was 11 years of age from six o'clock in the morning until o'clock at night. At 17 he ran away from home and enlisted in the Royal Marines. He was bought out six months later, and, after a spell of selling second-hand books in the market places of South Lancashire towns, he got a job at 14s. a week in a warehouse. On this wage he supported a wife and child. Then a friend started him in the tea trade. He was given a pound of tea, made up in 2 ounce packets, and these he hawked from door to door. And it was those two ounce packets of tea which led to success, and ended in the future knight becoming a wholesale dealer, with a warehouse in Manchester, to which he afterwards added many branch food-product businesses.

The Cullinan Diamond.

The highest authority is claimed for a statement in The Liverpool Post, that no funds are forthcoming to pay for the cutting of the Cullinan diamond, which was presented to King Edward some time ago. The Treasury officials declare that they have no power to give a grant for this purpose; the King declines to pay the expense out of his privy purse, and the cutter at present sees little prospect of getting his money. Meanwhile, for some $75,000, a diamond cut from the Cullinan can be obtained by anyone who cares to pay for it.

A Hermit Peer.

The late Lord Stanley of Alderley, brother of the present peer, was a Mohammedan, and rather eccentric. During his thirty years' reign Alderley Park, the fine family place in Cheshire, was quite a hermitage; no entertaining was done there at all, and on the present Lord Stanley of Alderley succeeding to the title and estates in 1903 he had to spend a good deal of money on the place to make it presentable.

Fastidious Hunger Marchers.

A party of forty of the Reading, England, "hunger marchers" arrived in Oswestry recently on their way to South Wales. At the police station they received tickets of admission to the workhouse, but on reaching that institution and being shown to the casual ward they refused to enter them on the ground that they were not vagrants.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORIES

GOING TO PRISON TO MAKE A CAPTURE.

BY A. L. DRUMMOND, FORMERLY CHIEF OF THE U. S. SECRET SERVICE.

FOR almost forty years my business has been to run down those who break the law. Early in my career as a detective I conceived the idea that the best way to catch a criminal is to think at least twice to his once. It's true there is a time to shoot and to shoot to kill, but this occasion does not arise nearly so frequently as one might imagine. A good many otherwise competent detectives have died with their boots on because they depended too much on force. And for the same reason a still greater number have failed to catch the men they were after.

The story I am about to tell is perhaps as good an illustration as I can give from my own experiences of the good results that can sometimes be obtained from planning. In the latter part of 1872 a particularly dangerous counterfeit $50 Treasury note was put into circulation. Complaints came to Washington from all over the country. Everything that looked like a clew was investigated, but without satisfactory result.

In May, 1873, the chief of the secret service ordered me to go to Atlanta, Ga. He said he had nothing tangible to turn over to me for investigation, but a good many of the counterfeit notes had recently appeared in the South, and he wanted me to go down and see what I could find.

I made up my mind I would hang around the resorts frequented by crooks and learn what I could hear. I was dressed shabbily and had no difficulty in mingling with those with whom I came in contact without attracting attention. And gradually I let it become known that I was a burglar.

I had loafed around perhaps a week or so without hearing anything of importance when the newspapers printed an account of a sensational attempt to arrest two men near Natchez, Miss. The men were out in a boat when deputy United States marshals overtook them. One of the men jumped overboard and escaped. The other, who gave the name of Seymour, though his right name was James Hanford, was captured and lodged in the jail at Holly Springs, Miss. Hanford was suspected of passing one of the counterfeit notes. But when he was arrested he had not a dollar of spurious money upon him, and only $5 or $6 of genuine currency. He protested his innocence, declaring that he was a respectable farmer of Penora, Iowa, where he owned a farm.

I went to Penora to investigate his statements. I found that they were all true except the one referring to his respectability. He owned a farm, but he also dealt in counterfeit money. His neighbors did not know that he was engaged in anything except agriculture, but I learned that he bought counterfeit from Jim Pitts, the man who jumped overboard when Hanford was arrested.

When I returned to Holly Springs I laid this information before District Attorney G. Wiley Wells, who later became Minister to China. I asked Mr. Wells to co-operate with me in the execution of a plan I had devised to catch the string of men down through which the counterfeit passed from the makers to Hanford.

"Mr. Wells," said I, "I believe the information I have obtained about Hanford will be sufficient if he be confronted with it to wring a confession from him. If so, I would like to be arrested for counterfeiting, put in jail with him, and then both of us permitted to break out together. Immunity can be promised him if he will do what I want him to do."

"What do you want to be sent to prison and then break jail for?" asked Mr. Wells.

"So that all of the counterfeiters in the country will read about it," I replied. "They all know Hanford, and if they read that he has broken jail with another counterfeiter they will be ready to sell me counterfeit money if Hanford introduces me to them. When we get loose I want him to take me to his friends."

"All right," said Mr. Wells, "I will have Hanford brought over to my office and we will see what we can get out of him."

I went up the back stairs as Hanford was taken up the front way, and once inside the District Attorney's office Mr. Wells and I both went at him. Only a little while was required to break down his denials, and with the penitentiary staring him in the face he was quite willing to buy his liberty by doing what I wanted him to do.

Hanford, having been fully instructed what to do when I joined him in prison, was taken back to jail, while I was left to contrive means to bring about my own arrest in as conspicuous a manner as possible. In order to have the matter appear to be genuine I told Mr. Wells I though I ought to be picked up for trying to pass a bad bill in one of the local stores. He agreed with me and the store of Sam Frank was selected. Mr. Wells, who served with a loyal Kentucky regiment during the civil war, said that Frank was the only man in the town to whom he would dare intrust the secret of my plans. Those were the reconstruction days of carpetbag government in the South and men from the North were not looked upon with favor.

Frank accordingly warned his clerks to beware of me. He told them he did not like the looks of me, that more than likely I was a counterfeiter, and under no circumstances to take any money from me that did not look all right. A few days later the District Attorney provided me with a genuine fifty-dollar note, which I wet and rubbed together until it looked like a piece of canton flannel. Then I sauntered into Frank's store and asked for a paper collar. A clerk handed me what I asked for and I gave him the rumpled fifty-dollar note, which, by the way, was not only good, but marked with the initials of both the District Attorney and myself.

I shall never forget how the clerk looked at me. It was as if he were saying to himself, "Here's the man who is passing all of this counterfeit money, and now he is trying to do me." All he said, however, was to ask me to wait until he could go to the back of the store and get the change from the cashier. While he was gone I gazed around the store, leaned up against the counter and began to whistle. The clerk soon returned, gave me another hard look and said he could not change the bill. So I gave back the collar and went out.

But before I had even left the store the cashier had reported the attempted "fraud" to Mr. Frank, and both had gone to the District Attorney's office to tell him of what had happened.

"There is only one thing to do," said Mr. Wells. "Go before the United States Marshal at Oxford, swear out a warrant and have him arrested."

The United States Marshal at that time was Colonel Pierce, who had also been a Northern army officer during the war. He was known far and wide as a bad man to impose upon. During the trial of a Ku-Klux case, a few years earlier L. Q. C. Lamar, who later became President Cleveland's Secretary of the Interior, and was eventually appointed to the Supreme Bench, knocked Pierce down with a chair. Pierce arose and quietly informed Lamar, who was the attorney for the defendants, that his friends would call upon him before night to arrange for a duel. Within two hours they came. Lamar would not fight. But he apologized publicly for the insult he had heaped upon Pierce—apologized to the Court, the spectators and everybody.

It was this kind of a man who was selected to arrest me. But while Wells dared choose no other because of the local hostility to Northerners, he did not believe it to be advisable to tell Colonel Pierce that the arrest was to be only part of a plan to trap a number of counterfeiters. I think he said he was afraid Pierce could not keep his face straight. At any rate he did not tell him.

Mr. Frank's clerk therefore went to Oxford and swore to a warrant charging me with having tried to pass counterfeit money upon him. Word came back to Wells that Pierce would be over to arrest me the next day and I arranged with the District Attorney the remaining details.

First I wrote a letter, ostensibly to a fellow criminal, in which I told him how well I was doing in the counterfeiting business in the South. This letter I left unsealed in my room. Then I put in a book in my trunk two hundred dollars' worth of marked counterfeit money. I put a roll of two hundred and eight dollars' worth of counterfeit in my pocket, with the understanding that I should throw it away when dealers in counterfeit money always do. [illegible] to Wells—

"When the Marshal comes to get me I will be talking [illegible] on the sidewalk in front of a [illegible]

As the hour drew near when I knew the Marshal would arrive, I looked up the hobo and engaged him in conversation at the appointed place. I had my hat cocked over to one side of my head and was damning the "rotten town" and telling him that I was going up North, where a man in my line of business could make a little money, when I felt a tap on my shoulder. I looked around angrily and saw a tall, lank man.

"Is your name George Murray?" he asked.

That was the name by which I was known, but I told the man who made the inquiry that it was none of his business.

"Well, I know your name is Murray," he replied, "and I have a warrant for your arrest."

"Read it," I snapped out.

Then the Marshal, with his peculiar drawl, began to read a document that he had drawn from his pocket. He had not uttered more than a dozen words before I drew the roll of counterfeit from my pocket and hurled it behind me, hitting the District Attorney in the stomach, as I afterward learned. As I did so my hand brushed aside the skirt of my coat, revealing the butt of a .38 calibre revolver.

Instantly Marshal Pierce covered me with a double barrelled Derringer, each tube of which was large enough to hold a ten cent piece.

"Deliver over your arms," he commanded.

"Take them yourself if you want them," I said angrily, at the same time turning my back to him. Ostensibly I was only carrying out my part of a bad man, but in reality I didn't want to fumble even with my own gun in the presence of a man who had the reputation of being rather quick on the trigger.

Marshal Pierce took my revolver, placed his own weapon in his hip pocket and put mine in front, where he could get at it easily. He knew a good revolver when he saw one, and recognized that mine was superior to his own.

"Murray, where do you live?" he asked.

"None of your business," I replied.

"Where did you come from?"

"None of your business."

"I think he lives in Captain Cooper's lodging house," interjected Wells.

"You are a liar," said I.

"Murray," said Pierce, "you've got a nasty tongue."

Away we went to the lodging house, where my room was found and in it the unsealed letter to a supposed criminal and the two parcels of counterfeit money.

"Murray," said Pierce, "the best thing you can do is to make a full confession and tell us the names of those from whom you got this counterfeit money. You look like a young man of some intelligence, and I dislike to see such a man continue to lead a criminal life. Better make a clean breast of it all, and perhaps regain you own liberty by exposing those who are more guilty than you are."

For reply I raged at him, denying that the trunk in which the counterfeit was found was mine or that the room was mine. To settle the question, Captain Cooper, the landlord, was summoned.

Captain Cooper, a former federal soldier, was of diminutive size and peaceful spirit. Caring to be neither an aggressive Northerner nor a Southern sympathizer, all he asked was to be let alone. He did not want to be embroiled in the quarrels of either side. So, when the captain, having entered the room, was asked to whom the trunk belonged, he was placed in an awkward position. For a moment he hesitated, and then he pointed a finger toward me.

"You are a liar!" said I, springing at him. And poor old Captain Cooper, believing his life to be in danger, leaped out of the room and jumped down a short flight of stairs.

"Murray," said the Marshal, "you've got a gall to deny that this trunk and this counterfeit money are yours."

Then the District Attorney, his assistant, the Marshal, and I went to get something to eat. Pierce, however, did not eat. He stood at the head of the table with his right hand in the pocket in which I knew was my revolver. During the meal Wells told Pierce that, owing to the overcrowded condition at the jail at Holly Springs, he wished he would take me to Oxford.

"And while you are about it," said Wells, "you might as well take old Jim Hanford, too."

Pierce readily consented, and it was planned that a negro deputy should take us to the train that was to carry us to Oxford. The Marshal, however, never suspected *the real reason why we were to be incar*cerated in his home town instead of in Holly Springs. The fact was that the Holly Springs prison was too strong to permit anybody to break out of it easily, while the Oxford jail was weak. I wanted to be put in a jail that I could get out of when I wanted to.

While Wells and Pierce, who were to accompany us to Oxford, were preparing for the trip I was locked up in the Holly Springs jail. I met Hanford, who pretended not to recognize me, and stood around perhaps half an hour when a big negro deputy marshal locked Hanford's left wrist to my right and started with us through the fields to the railway station. Wells and Pierce had not yet appeared.

"Now you gemmen go about fo' feet ahead of me," [illegible] the negro, "and walk jess as fas' as I do. And [illegible] on try to run or I shall be fo'ced to shoot you down, 'deed I will."

We walked "fo' feet ahead" of the negro for perhaps five miles, when I wheeled around and said to him:—

"Now, Sam, you do not want to take us to jail. I've got $5 that I'll give you if you will let us go."

Instantly he pulled a gun on us.

"Now you gemmen go on," he said. "I'se an officer of the law and you mustn't try to bribe me. Go on, now."

When we reached the railway station we sat on the platform to wait for the train, and while we were waiting there I began to tap on the handcuff with the end of an umbrella that I had bought in Rio Janeiro when I was a sailor. Again the negro drew his gun.

"Now you jess stop that," said he. "Needn't try to break that handcuff, fo' I'll shuly shoot you if you do. I'se been told to take you on dis train and I'se gwine to do it." And with that he drew up the cuff on my wrist a notch.

A little later I tapped on the handcuff again with my umbrella and the wrath of the observant negro knew no bounds. He pulled up the handcuff until the blood stopped circulating in my wrists and addressing old Jim said:—

"You is all right, but dat little man you got along with you is a bad man—'deed he is. But he can't get away from me, and dere ain't no use to try."

When Wells and Pierce came up I appealed to the Marshal to loosen my handcuff, and the negro excitedly told him of my alleged attempt to escape. Pierce said the negro had done right. Then I appealed to Wells. From the tone of my voice, he knew I wanted the handcuff loosened, and, the Marshall dissenting, he agreed to take the responsibility himself. Pierce then let the cuff out two or three holes.

On the train Wells and Pierce sat across the aisle from and a little ahead of Hanford and me. Pierce wore a long linen duster, in the right hand pocket of which he carried my revolver. After the train had been running a little while I saw Wells hand Pierce a paper that I recognized, because I had given it to Wells. It was my commission as a Secret Service officer. As Pierce read the paper, he drew my revolver from his duster pocket and put it in his hip pocket. Then he came over to me.

"You played it pretty slick, Murray," said he. "But you took some chances. If you had done anything with that gun when I arrested you, I would have dropped you."

When we reached Oxford we were put in a room by ourselves that occupied the entire top floor of the jail. The prison itself was surrounded by a sixteen foot fence, through which was a gate that was fastened with a chain. We planned to break from the jail a little after midnight, in order to catch a particular train for Louisville, and the warden promised to leave a heavy club near the gate to facilitate the breaking of the chain.

I shall never forget how I felt when night came on and the lights began to flicker from the windows of adjoining buildings. It was summer and I heard the voices of children playing just outside the fence. I had gone to prison of my own volition, and I knew I was to be out in a few hours, but it seemed as if I would have given everything I had to go at once. Old Jim was sleeping peacefully in his bunk and I sat near him in the darkness, looking frequently at my watch and wishing the time would pass more rapidly.

At last midnight came and with it the hour for action. I awakened Old Jim and we crept softly out of the prison. At the gate I found the club that the warden had promised to leave. In my pocket I had a bench warrant authorizing me to arrest Old Jim if, after regaining his liberty, he should break his promise to lead me to his friends. With the club I broke the chain and we passed out of the gate. Outside a sentry was walking, but fortunately he was going from us. We skulked along a few steps, when suddenly we saw two men approaching us, and one of them shouted: "Hello, Jim!"

Old Jim leaned up against me heavily and did not reply.

"Hello, there!" I called out. "Just getting home?"

"Yes," the voice; "no other place to go."

We had met a homebound drunkard and he had mistaken one of us for some one he knew.

We reached the station in safety, and in a little while were on the train speeding to Mississippi Junction, where we changed to the Memphis train and went on to Louisville.

The morning after our departure from the Oxford Jail the news was sent broadcast that we had escaped. Circulars were at once put into the mails containing a minute description of each of us, and a reward was offered for our capture. I was therefore not much surprised at an event that happened the next evening after our arrival in Louisville. We were sitting in chairs on the sidewalk in front of the cheap hotel at which we were guests. Old Jim was fifteen or twenty feet distant from me, deep in some sort of a reverie. We had been sitting thus in silence for perhaps ten minutes when a man drew a chair up to Old Jim and engaged him in conversation. The next moment another man drew a chair near to me and sat down. I looked around and recognized "Yankee" Bly, the Chief of Police of Louisville.

"Here's where we get 'pinched' again," I thought to myself, "and I don't care. It will help along our game."

"You and your friend strangers in the city?" Bly asked.

"Yes," said I; "we just came in this morning from New Orleans."

"Do you live in New Orleans?"

"No, we live in Oxford, Mississippi," said I, by way of helping him to make up his mind.

"Well, I am sorry, my friend," said Bly, "but I guess you and your pal will have to take a walk with me to the station house. The fact is, you answer the descriptions of two men who are wanted for breaking out of the Oxford Jail."

"Take another look at me, Chief," said I, "and you may remember me. I was here a year ago on another case. My name is Drummond. My home is in New York."

"I remember you now," said Bly. "It is your clothes that threw me off the track. But both of you do look like the men who are wanted for breaking from the Oxford Jail."

"We are the men," said I "but our escape was only a part of some detective work that I am doing. However, go ahead and arrest us. I'd like to have you take us up and give the story to the newspapers. Then let us go again to-morrow morning."

"But how could I let you go again in the morning without the fact becoming known that the arrest was not 'on the level'?"

"You could bring some of your men in to identify us and have them declare we were not the right men, couldn't you?"

"I guess that's a good idea," said the Chief. And then addressing Detective Gilchrist, who sat beside Old Jim, he said:—

"Gil, you and your friend take a walk with us up to the station house."

The Chief's words fell upon Old Jim like a penitentiary sentence. As Gilchrist arose and told Jim to follow him the old man mechanically got on his feet and prepared to obey, but he quickly stepped around to me and whispered:—

"Is this all right, Mr. Drummond?"

"It's all right," said I. "Come along."

We passed the night at the station house. Bly's men failed to identify us the next morning and we were turned loose. The territory around Cincinnati was at that time a hotbed of counterfeiters, and old Jim, true to his promise, at once began to introduce me to his friends. They had read of our escape from the Oxford jail, as they also knew of what they supposed to be the mistake of the Louisville police in failing to hold us, and were therefore disposed to give us their confidence. Jim took me around to see a noted character who was known as "old Mother Roberts," a woman seventy years old, who dealt in counterfeit money. She received us cordially and gave me to understand that whenever she had anything to sell I could be one of her customers. In fact, the situation developed so rapidly and so favorably that a number of Secret Service men were sent on from New York to help me, as it was not desired to arrest one until we could arrest all against whom we could get evidence. To have done otherwise would have been to capture only one man, as at his arrest the others would have taken fright and fled.

After the arrival of the other Secret Service men Detective Kennoch went over to Cincinnati one night to buy some counterfeit from a man who was known as South Harris. Harris had been introduced as a dealer in counterfeit money, and such he was. But he was more. He was one of the particular kind of counterfeiters who, when they could work with a crooked police officer, made it their business to blackmail prospective customers of whatever good money they might have on their persons. And the Police Department of Cincinnati at that time contained many dishonest officers. The Chief was all right, but some of his men were not.

Harris' scheme was to conduct his negotiations with Kennoch in a place where a crooked policeman could be secreted, and at the proper moment have the officer appear and arrest him. Then Kennoch would be given to understand that if he would give the officer what good money he had he would be released. We suspected something of the sort, and therefore I followed Kennoch at a distance, and also carried his revolver, so that in the event of his arrest no weapon would be found upon him.

The arrest took place as planned, and Kennoch, refusing to buy his way off, was taken to the station house. I followed a few minutes later and asked permission to give him some cigars. An officer who at different times had seen me with Kennoch exclaimed as I entered the room, "There's another of this gang of counterfeiters!" and the officer who had arrested Kennoch also took me into custody.

The next morning I sent a message to Judge Hoffman, a Secret Service man who afterward became Assistant United States District Attorney for the Eastern District of New York, telling him what had happened to Kennoch and myself and asking him to go about it quietly to get bail. Hoffman, who was an excitable man, undertook his task in anything but a quiet manner. The first thing he did was to rush down to Police Headquarters and tell who we were, which in view of the corrupt tendencies of some of the police officers was precisely the thing I did not want him to do. To prevent him from spoiling my plans I was compelled to deny everything he said, which I did with all the emphasis at my command. Privately, however, I told the authorities who I was, and a little later Kennoch and I were released without the rest of the force being the wiser.

For five weeks thereafter Kennoch and I lay under cover in an obscure hotel while the United States District Attorney spread the word that all the Secret Service men had gone. All of this time, however, we were working through old Jim and a retired counterfeiter named Porter who had turned informer. Daily they brought us reports of men whom they knew to be in the business of selling the counterfeit five dollar notes.

When the time came that we felt it would be safe to appear in the open we drew the lines quickly on all of the marked men. While Kennoch or myself, as the case might be, bought counterfeit the other was hidden near to act as a witness, and an arrest followed. Altogether we gathered in fifteen counterfeiters, all but one or two of whom were sent to the penitentiary.

Such is the story of the chase that began by going to prison at Holly Springs. As a sort of an appendix I may add that old Jim was caught red handed during the operations in Cincinnati and sent up for four years. He did not know all of the other Secret Service men who had come on from New York and made the mistake of trying to sell one of them counterfeit money.

"I have only myself to blame, Mr. Drummond," he said to me. "I did as I agreed by you, but I saw a chance to make a little money on the side and couldn't let it go by. That fellow didn't look like a detective, anyway."

ISHMAELS OF CEYLON.

The Rodigas, a Curious Tribe of Social Outcasts.

There is a curious tribe of people in Ceylon called the Rodigas, who live the life of social Ishmaels, despised and cast out by their fellows. Until quite recently they lived apart from the abodes of other men, in holes and caves. In no case may they lie down to rest with other men. They may not enter a temple or a court of justice and on all occasions are compelled to "stand afar off." So low down in the scale of humanity are they placed that they may not even speak with strangers except through the intermediary of a man of the lowest caste above their own. Of late years their status has been improved, and they are less servile in consequence, but even now they fall on their knees with uplifted hands to address people of the lowest recognized caste, and upon the approach of a traveler they shout to warn him to stop until they can get off the road and he can pass without risk of defilement from the proximity of their persons. It is curious and yet so characteristic of society in all countries and all levels that even among these people, who seem to have reached the very lowest rung of the human ladder, there are classes and social distinctions. Thus the ambetteyos, or barbers, and the hanomoreyos, or betal box makers, are looked upon with contempt by the despised, ostracized Rodigas, who go to the length of shutting up their dogs lest they should stray into the houses of the lowborn or gnaw a bone that they may throw at them.—Dundee Advertiser.

THE COCKET WRITERS.

What Happened When England Abolished Their Offices.

In the long room of the London custom house years ago were twelve officers styled "cocket writers." They wrote certificates that goods had been duly entered and the duties paid. They were also known as patent officers because appointed for life by letters patent from the crown. Their salaries were nominal, £60 a year, but they were permitted to remunerate themselves by extorting fees from the merchants—fees which in some cases amounted to a thousand pounds a year. In 1851 the treasury determined to abolish patent offices and called upon the twelve cocket writers to furnish a statement of their emoluments. The officers, ignorant of the treasury's purpose, imagined that the government intended to impose an income tax. Ten of the writers, therefore, returned a statement which understated their fees by several hundred pounds. The other two furnished an honest statement. In a few days ten clerks were surprised and disgusted and two clerks were astonished, but pleased. The treasury notified the cocket writers that their offices would be abolished and that they would be compensated by pensions rated according to the returns they had themselves furnished. There were gnashing of teeth and broad smiles in the long room. One of the two honest cocket writers enjoyed his pension for fifty-two years, during which time the treasury paid him £52,000.

Where Dollars Originated.

Joachimsthal, near Carlsbad, is historic as the birthplace of the original dollar. This was the silver guldengroschen, coined in 1519 by order of Count Schlick from the metal of a recently opened mine, and it became known as the joachimsthaler, or "thaler" alone for short. Before 1600 the nimble English language had already made "dollar" of this. Therefore this name was loosely used of all manner of coins, varying in value from 75 cents to $1.25 and belonging to all manner of countries, from Sweden to Japan. It was from the prevalence of the Spanish "dollar" in the British-American colonies at the time of their revolt that the modern "almighty dollar" was derived, while in modern English very recent slang has given the name to the crown piece.

Grouchy.

"There is a movement on foot," said Mr. Snoope, "to prevent the marriage of weakminded persons. What do you think of it?"

"I think it's rot," answered Mr. Grouch. "Why, who else ever wants to get married?"—Cleveland Leader.

An Easy Stunt.

"I see a premiere danseuse is advertised to dance with five snakes twined about her."

"Should think she would. If a snake got on me I'll bet I'd dance!"

The Want of It.

"The love of money," quoted the moralizer, "is the root of all evil."

"That being the case," rejoined the demoralizer, "the want of money must be the full grown tree."—Exchange.

THE DARDANELLES.

Changes in the Name of the Famous Two Mile Strait.

The Dardanelles, which is so familiar today, meant to our grandfathers not the Hellespont, but merely "two ancient and strong castles of Turkey, one of which is in Roumania and the other in Natolia." The famous strait was known in early Victorian geography by the name of Gallipoli. But the brave, dominating castles swept away both Hellespont and Gallipoli and gave their own name to the two mile passage. Those venerable castles, built in 1659 to "secure the Turkish fleet from the insults of the Venetians," were known, according to an early geographer, as the Old Dardanelles to distinguish them from two others at the entrance of the strait, one of which "stands in like manner in Asia and the other in Europe" and called the New Dardanelles.

In spite of the four castles, however, the passage was forced by a British fleet in 1807. In later years fortifications of a formidable nature have been constructed between the two sets of castles, and these are now properly the Dardanelles. The ultimate responsibility for naming the famous strait rests with Dardanus, the gentleman who crossed on his inflated skin from Samothrace to Asia and founded the town which afterward became the city of Troy.—London Chronicle.

Civilized Poverty.

Barbarism has no horrors so horrible as the bestial squalor and sheer misery of civilized poverty. Poverty is a great evil in any state, but the world has not known any poverty so foul, so brutal and so utterly loathsome as the poverty of the city slum, the sweating den, the pawnshop and the gin palace.—Clarion.

Happy School Days.

Tommy was about to leave the school where he had spent his first years. He went to the teacher to say goodby and added: "I am awfully sorry to leave this school. I had such good times at recess."—Lippincott's.

Encouraging.

The Suitor—Johnny, your parlor clock is an hour fast. The Kid Brother—I know it, but don't tell sister so. The Suitor—Why not? The Kid Brother—Because she thinks you don't know it.

STARTLING STATEMENT

It's Statements Like That of H. Heyman, Kingston, Ont., That is Making Mi-o-na World Famous For Obstinate Stomach Complaints.

Mr. H. Heyman, 132 Colborne street, Kingston, Ont., says: "Mi-o-na is worth its weight in gold as a remedy to quickly cure long-standing cases of dyspepsia. For years I had suffered with my stomach and could find no cure nor even relief. I could not eat anything, as it would sour and form gas on my stomach that had a pressure on the heart. Heavy pains would come around my sides and pit of my stomach. I was unable to sleep for this and there was nothing to relieve my miserable condition. I was weak and languid and would feel as tired in the morning as on going to bed and perspiration would break out all over my body. I would be so weak from vomiting that I would fall to my knees. My head would ache and spells of dizziness would leave me unable to see. Doctors had termed the trouble gastritis, but failed to benefit me. I tried Mi-o-na, of which I procured a bottle on the advice of a friend, which has cured me when all else failed. I am sound and well and feel grateful to Mi-o-na for my present health."

It's the known results obtained by Mi-o-na that places it far and away above all other remedies and confirms Wm. Madill in offering to refund the money if Mi-o-na fails to cure stomach trouble. 50 cents a box. Relief in twenty-four hours.

Five Brothers and Fifty Years.

Fifty years ago, on Oct. 31, 1858, five brothers occupied a pew at the dedication of St. Michael's church at Cambridge Junction, Mich. On Oct. 31 last the same brothers occupied the same pew at the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the dedication. They are A. F. Dewey, George Dewey, I. S. Dewey, F. S. Dewey and J. W. Dewey. The church was organized in 1840, and since that time its records have been carefully kept by two persons, Francis S. Dewey and his son, John W. Dewey, who is the present clerk.

Visible Music.

By causing a small mirror to oscillate in accord with the movements of the diaphragm of a phonograph a Mr. Bowron is stated to have contrived the means of exhibiting to an audience a visible representation of a piece of music to which they are listening. A beam of light reflected from the oscillating mirror and from another mirror which rotates uniformly is thrown upon a screen, where it appears as a luminous curve, varying in correspondence with the sounds. The instrument is called an acoustic oscillograph.

Old Time Surgery.

Francis Galton, who is now eighty-six years old, studied surgery in the old days before chloroform was used and says of the Birmingham hospital: "The cries of the poor fellows who were operated on were very characteristic. In fact, each class of operation seemed to evoke some peculiar form of them. All this was terrible, but only at first. It seemed after awhile as though the cries were somehow disconnected with the operation, upon which the whole attention became fixed."—London Graphic.

THE KING AS A SMALL HOLDER

Curiosities of Crown Lands Are Many and Date Back to Conquerer.

The Crown lands are a survival of the Norman Conquest, when the whole lay soil of England was held to be forfeited to the Conqueror. Now the Crown lands are placed under the control of Parliament, and from these thousands of acres handsome sums are received for the national exchequer.

The value of the Crown lands has varied considerably in the past. Between the years 1660 and 1670 the annual income derived from them was close on £232,000, but in the reign of Charles II. their value decreased by two-thirds, owing to his lavish grants to worthless favorites, and when George III. came to the throne only £89,000 yearly could be realized on the estates. Now the Chancellor of the Exchequer receives the nice little nest-egg of £767,790 yearly from the Crown lands. Even this enormous increase does not represent the total value of His Majesty's small holdings.

The sources from which this huge income is derived are in some instances peculiar and interesting. It is not generally known that the Crown receives an annual income from the Holborn Restaurant of £2,144, nor that the piece of land with the messuage and buildings thereon known as the Carlton House, His Majesty's Theatre and the Royal Opera Arcade yields no less than £4,200 annually. This latter property is leased for seventy-two years from October, 1898, and when the lease expires the value of the ground rent will have increased by ten times its present value.

One hundred and fifty pounds a year is the estimated annual value of Albany street police station, and for this sum the receiver of the Metropolitan Police District rents the police depot from the Crown. Vine street police station and the land upon which it stands is also numbered among the Crown estates, and from this bit of property our national exchequer receives £515 annually.

TO BOOM IRISH GOODS.

Direct Supply Association Opens Its Shop in London.

A new venture destined to do much for Ireland, was inaugurated a short time ago in Victoria street, Westminster, when the first London depot of the New Irish Direct Supply was opened to the public.

Tweeds from Kerry and Donegal, rugs from Antrim and King's County, shirts and hosiery from Lurgan and Balbriggan, woodwork from Belfast, and Irish horn hatpins from Dublin in charming varieties, are to be seen and bought at reasonable prices at the new depot. Then there are charming specimens of Irish lace and beautiful linens, both hand and power loom made, all with a guarantee that they are of Irish manufacture throughout and bearing the Irish trademark.

The chief activities of the society, however, are directed to the fulfilment of household wants and housewives can in future secure a plentiful supply of the best Irish poultry, butter, bacon, eggs, cream, and honey at prices in most cases less than those charged by the stores. For Christmas gifts hampers were arranged for sale, and a special display of poplin ties and bog-oak ornaments was held.

Smokers will watch with more than ordinary interest the experiment the society is making in introducing Irish-grown tobacco and cigarettes to the English public. One specialty likely to become popular is the Turcirish cigarette, made from tobacco grown in Ireland from Turkish seed, which has proved an even greater success than some of the Virginian varieties.

A Famous Society Sportswoman.

It is fashionable now for London society ladies to indulge in sport, but the sport that requires a retinue of servants to beat the cover and drive the animals up to the fair sportswoman to be slaughtered does not appeal to Lady Grizel Hamilton, who is probably the finest big-game shot in society circles. Lady Grizel has not long returned from a shooting expedition with her husband and a party of 120 persons in British East Africa, where she had some exciting experiences. Her chief ambition was to "pot" a buffalo, but although there was plenty of other game she had to wait many weeks before her first buffalo, a fine male with splendid horns nearly 44 inches at the widest part, fell to her gun. One of her most exciting moments was when she observed a huge hippopotamus in a river swarming with crocodiles. Lady Grizel Hamilton was equal to the occasion, however, and, having planted some well-directed shots, she killed the animal, which weighed about three tons.

RULER AS LAW-BREAKER.

Lord Brassey Was Once Arrested When Governor of B. C.

The first yachtsman to qualify for, and take out, the master's certificate entitling him to navigate his own vessel was Lord Brassey, who has declared that Great Britain's naval position has greatly improved by the alliance with France. As a child he lived at Rouen in a house looking down on the river, and was never more delighted than when out of barrels or boxes and poles he constructed on the lawn make-believe ships. Since those days he has owned eight yachts, the most famous being the Sunbeam, which he has navigated more than 300,000 miles. Lord Brassey is the first baron of his line, his peerage dating back to 1886, after he had been Secretary of the Admiralty for a year and a Civil Lord for five years before that. His father, Thomas Brassey, was a railway pioneer, and his grandfather a Cheshire farmer. Thomas Brassey constructed over 7,000 miles of railway at a cost of close on $400,000,000, and was among the first and the most successful exploiters of labor by navvies in the laying down of great tracks. Seventy-five thousand worked under him. In France, on one occasion, he had a large contract to fulfil, in the execution of which he engaged French navvies. They did not give satisfaction, however, and thousands of Englishmen were imported, who, fed on roast beef and English beer, were ready to do three times the amount of work of the Frenchmen.

When Governor of Victoria, British Columbia, Lord Brassey established a couple of records. He was the first governor to sail to his colony in his own yacht, and the first governor to be reported by a policeman for breaking the laws he was sent to administer. He was seen cycling on a footpath, and was let off with a caution. His lordship keeps most of the marvels he has collected during his travels at Normanhurst, his Sussex seat. The King of the Sandwich Islands was once entertained there, and the thing that struck him most was a royal feather cloak, composed of scarlet and yellow feathers arranged in a diamond-shaped pattern. His dusky Majesty made Lord Brassey the princely bid of a dollar for every feather in the cloak—he wanted it for his Queen—but his host was not to be tempted.

Won by Shouting.

Lord Wolseley, whose health is causing his family and friends grave anxiety, was an engineer officer at the time of Sebastopol, and has made the interesting confession that they won some of their engagements during the Crimean War simply through shouting. He had charge of the advance sap, close to the redoubts. "I don't believe," Lord Wolseley has said, "that we had twenty-five fellows the last time we attacked. We were shouting, and afterwards I could not speak for four days, whilst some of the officers lost their voices for a week. We fired from behind a heap of dead bodies, and I told the bugler to blow his very loudest whilst we cheered, and so the enemy thought we had plenty of men in the rear." It was during the Crimea that Lord Wolseley lost the sight of his right eye, although it was in Burma, when quite a boy, that he received his first wound. A young brother subaltern who had lent a shirt to Wolseley just before the fight saw him fall, and exclaimed involuntarily, "There goes my one change of linen!" Fortunately both shirt and wearer were only slightly damaged.

The Burglars' Nap.

Three housebreakers, named Johnson, Allen, and Kerwick, forced an entry into the house of the town clerk of St. Helens (Eng.) recently. The occupier was away on vacation, and as there were no servants or other residents in the house, the burglars decided to make holiday. After ransacking the place and packing the valuables in portable form, they descended to the wine cellar. Here they found a plentiful supply of drinkables, which they took upstairs to the dining-room. They sat for some hours drinking with such enjoyment that they completely forgot where they were, and eventually all went upstairs and put themselves to bed. A policeman who was going his rounds in the early morning noticed a window open at the back of the house, and entered. He went through all the rooms successively taking a note of the havoc, and ended by going into the best bedroom, where he found the three housebreakers sleeping placidly. When the men were shaken they woke up under the impression that they were snugly in bed at home, and were bitterly disappointed at being caught napping.

"Its Only a Cold, A Trifling Cough."

Thousands have said this when they caught cold. Thousands have neglected to cure the cold. Thousands have filled a Consumptive grave through neglect. Never neglect a cough or cold. It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It strikes at the very foundation of all throat or lung complaints, relieving or curing Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Sore Throat, and preventing Pneumonia and Consumption.

It has stood the test for many years, and is now more generally used than ever. It contains all the lung healing virtues of the pine tree combined with Wild Cherry Bark and other pectoral remedies. It stimulates the weakened bronchial organs, allays irritation and subdues inflammation, soothes and heals the irritated parts, loosens the phlegm and mucous, and aids nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulations. Don't be humbugged into accepting an imitation of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cents.

"Mrs. J. Brewster, Grafton, N.S., writes:—"Two winters ago I suffered severely with a very bad cold and asthma. I was so bad I could not get my breath, and very often thought I would choke. My husband became very much frightened, and got me a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and it gave me almost instant relief. I can recommend it to anyone having the least kind of a cold."

Bobcaygeon Lock

John J. Walker, lockmaster

The lockages at Bobcaygeon during the past year totalled 526, a slight decrease under the number of lockages during the preceding year. It might be noted, however, that this decrease was not in connection with the steamboat traffic, but in the number of scows that were locked through during the past year, and also in the matter of the number of rafts. In 1907 the number of rafts locked through at Bobcaygeon totalled 256, whereas this year they dropped to 226. The number of steamboats passing through this lock during the past year showed an increase of 25 over the season of 1907.

Young's Point Lock

P. P. Young, lockmaster.

Young's Point still maintains the proud position of being the busiest lock on the entire Trent Canal. Each year the number of lockages show an increase over the preceding year and during the past season the number of lockages at this point totalled 2,189. This of course is due to the large tourist traffic to Stony Lake. Notwithstanding the fact that local option prevails in a number of the municipalities that border on Stony Lake, it is significant that Lockmaster Young reports that 8 tons of whiskey passed through his lock on the way to Stony Lake during the past season.

Lockmaster Young's official returns for the past season are as follows:—

This lock is known as Lock No. 1 of the Peterborough - Lakefield section. In former years the traffic through this lock was almost exclusively freight, but during the past season the Otonabee Navigation Company ran a passenger boat from Peterborough to Stony Lake each day which has brought up the total number of lockages from 440 in 1907 to 564 during the past year.

Peterboro Lock

William Collins, lockmaster.

The traffic through the Peterborough Lock does not at the present time indicate the volume of traffic down the Otonabee River to Rice Lake as it did some years ago, before the Peterborough Street Railway Company extended its line to a point on the Otonabee River just below the Locks. As is well known, a handsome new dock has been constructed oon the Otonabee River, at the foot of the Peterborough Street Railway, and a great deal of traffic commences at this point. Notwithstanding this fact, however, the total lockages through the Peterborough Lock during the past year amounted to 1,188. Of this amount it is worth noting that 466 of these lockages consisted of small boats, chiefly gasoline launches, but it should also be noted that there was one passenger boat less plying on the Otonabee River than there was in the preceding years. The Water Lily, which formerly travelled on the Otonabee River had its route last year from the Wolfe street Wharf to Stony Lake points.

The record of the traffic at this lock during the past year is as follows:—

	Small Steamers	Boats	Scows

Lake Simcoe—Balsam Lake Division

The above list of locks does not by any means constitute the number of locks on the Trent Canal. For instance, on the Lake Simcoe-Balsam Lake division, there are five locks between Lake Simcoe and the Kirkfield Hydraulic Lift Lock, of which no mention has been made above. This is owing to the fact that a record of the lockages at Kirkfield indicates pretty much the volume of traffic through the other five locks on that division.

Peterboro—Lakefield Division

There are five locks on this division that are not mentioned in the above list. The records of the Lakefield Lock and the Peterborough Hydraulic Lift Lock indicate the amount of traffic in the remaining five locks on this division.

EIGHTEEN PEOPLE KILLED AND THIRTY INJURED IN A RAILWAY WRECK LAST NIGHT.

Special to The Examiner.

Glenwood Springs, Colo., Jan. 16.—Eighteen known dead and at least thirty injured is the result of a collision last night at Dotsro, between a west bound Denver and Rio Grand passenger train and an east bound freight. Dotsro is but twenty miles from here, but their is no communication with the place other than the railway telegraph lines, which are now out of commission. This accounts for the lack of details of the wreck. The freight was taking a siding and had almost cleared the line when struck by the passenger. The chair car was cut in two and one tourist car telescopied. It is probable that the number of dead will be increased. Eighteen bodies have already been recovered. No one was injured in the sleeping car. A train left here this morning for the scene of the wreck, carrying all available doctors and nurses in the city.

Rev. Father Dan O'Connell Passes Away At St. Joseph's Hospital

In the death of Rev. Father Daniel O'Connell, chaplain of St. Joseph's Hospital, which took place at the hospital this morning, there passed away one of the best known and most popular priests in the diocese of Peterborough. The deceased had been ill for the past two weeks, suffering from a severe cold and his death was not unexpected. He was seventy-four years of age and had been a resident of Peterborough county for a large number of years.

The late Father Daniel O'Connell was born in Ireland and came to Canada at the age of twenty years. He was educated for the priesthood at Regiopolis College, Kingston, and at Laval University, Montreal. After graduating he was ordained at Kingston, but was not attached to the Cathedral there, going to Perth where he remained one year. He was then appointed parish priest of Douro, serving in that capacity faithfully for twenty years, during which he endeared himself in the hearts of his parishioners by his many excellent qualities and his earnest attention to his duties. Afterwards he was three years in charge of the parish of Enismore, and from there came to St. Joseph's hospital where he has acted as chaplain for the past sixteen years.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Donaghue, of Jones' Falls. The funeral will take place on Tuesday morning from St. Joseph's Hospital to St. Peter's Cathedral, where requiem high mass will be sung and thence to the St. Peter's Cemetery for interment.

The following were elected directors for 1909:—

Handsome New Cottage For Mr. T. H. G. Denne At Story Lake

Mr. T. H. G. Denne is arranging for a handsome new summer home to be erected at Stony Lake as soon as the weather opens in the spring. Last season Mr. Denne purchased from Dr. Morrison the island formerly owned by Mrs. Dr. Bell, which is very conveniently situated. Mr. Denne is having the stone and sand placed upon the island, so as to be ready for operations when the weather permits in the spring. The first story of the residence will be built of stone and the balance will be frame. Its dimensions will be 50 feet by 60 feet. Mr. Denne's cottage when completed will be one of the finest on the lake, will be of the latest architecture and will be one of the most popular homes in the Kawartha district.

LARGE BANQUET HELD AT THE MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

The complimentary banquet given by the Canadian Shredded Wheat Company, Limited, to the Murray Street Baptist Church, under the auspices of the Women's Aid Society, was a great success, both financially as well as socially.

Tea was served in the basement of the church to a very large gathering and was commenced by singing the grace.

Twenty-five waiters waited on the tables and saw that everybody was served with all that was wanted.

Beautiful menu cards were issued by the company with the programme printed on one half. These were set at intervals along the table.

Six tables were set with the good things to eat, which were greatly enjoyed if one could judge from the remarks heard from all quarters of the room.

After the inner man had been satisfied, the chairs were pushed back and turned to face the platform from which a short programme was rendered.

The programme was as follows—

CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS.

MILLER IS BADLY HURT

Brantford Despatch Says That His Hip is Seriously Injured, While He is Very Much Shaken Up.

FATHER GOES TO BRANTFORD

Mr. Finch Miller, left for Brantford last night to see his son, Walter who was injured in the wreck near Guelph on Thursday. A Brantford despatch says—

With Walter Miller the exact nature of the injuries are not fully known. His hip is badly bruised and the damage may prove serious to him in the future. His left hand is lacerated to the bone, and he is cut from head to foot and badly shaken up. It will be some days before his condition will be fully known. Marks passed a restful night, but Miller had a bad time of it

A Loss to the Team

Both men were gentlemanly fellows and well liked by their teammates, who knew them best and by everyone. Miller was a favourite with many, while Marks was ever popular. It took nearly 20 minutes for him yesterday to realize that he was hurt, during which time he stood around while the others were being removed. This, in spite of the fact that the bone in one arm was literally crumbled. Miller also showed great pluck, and it was half an hour before he collapsed.

Distinguished Salvation speaker who arrives in Peterboro to-day for special services to-night and to-morrow.

DOUBLE WINDOWS MAY BE USED AT THE KING EDWARD

It may be that double windows will be placed on the King Edward school. Each window was provided with a weather strip last year and these are doing good work, but it was pointed out that double windows were necessary. The difference in cost of heating which would come as a result would make up for the windows. If the board decides to fit the King Edward school with them they will be put on the inside.

ESTABLISH A RECORD

Police Department by Arrest and Conviction of William Clark for Giving Liquor to Man On Blacklist.

WAS FIRST KNOWN TO CHIEF

Chief Rossel has probably established a record by the conviction of a man who gave liquor to one who was black-listed. Asked regarding the case the Chief stated that he did not know of any similar case in Ontario. The point that was emphasized in court was that the law deals rather harshly with those who buy liquor for or give it to a man that is listed. The Chief meant that he did not know of any one outside of hotel keepers who had ever been charged with this offence.

YOUNG MAN WILL BE SENTENCED NEXT TUESDAY

The young man who pleaded guilty to stealing $21.00 a few days ago, from a man whom he was asking for work, was again remanded at the police court to-day and will appear for sentence on Tuesday. The police obtained nearly all the money after the lad's arrest. In giving his references to the Magistrate, Chief Rossel stated that the boy would not go to school for his mother, his father having died when he was about five or six years old. He was taken in charge by the Children's Aid Society and went with a family near Brighton and was finally sent to the Industrial School.

LARGE LYNX WAS SHOT ON MONDAY

Mr. J. Payne of Lakefield, was very fortunate in securing a very large lynx. The animal was caught in a trap on Monday in the wilderness near the shores of Clear Lake, and was despatched by the use of a stick, without making a hole in the pelt, which gives it a much greater value it measures five feet and six inches from point to point and was one of the very largest of its kind. It was brought into the Examiner office this morning by Mr. Payne, and it was one of the best specimens ever seen here.

The hide was bought by Wm. Lech & Sons, who paid a good price for it.

WALTER MILLER DOING NICELY WIRES FATHER

Rev. J. R. Webb, of the Murray Street Baptist Church, received a wire from Mr. Finch Miller, who went up to Brantford last night to see his son Walter, who was injured in the wreck at Guelph on Thursday morning, to the effect that Walter was not hurt as bad as reported, and that he is getting along nicely. "Diddy's" many friends in Peterborough will be glad to learn that his condition is not so serious as was thought. There have been many expressions of regret since word was received here that he was badly injured and that he would be forced to retire from the game.

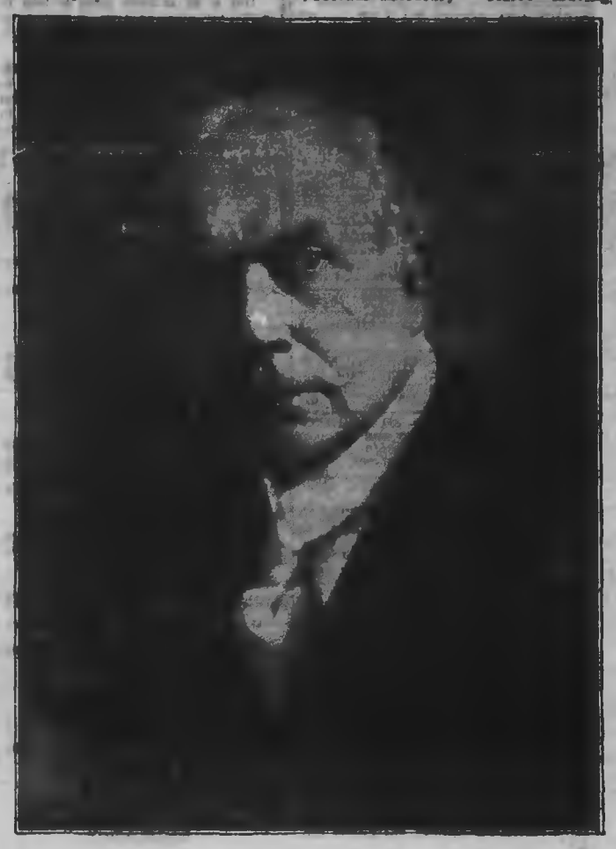
IRVING BEERS AND DR. A. H. BEERS WILL MANAGE CANADIAN TOUR OF DONALD ROBERTSON

Some details of the career of Donald Robertson, the famous Scotch actor, whose wonderful progress and achievements in literary stage-land, have set all in the higher dramatic world talking, will interest those who will have the opportunity of seeing him and his wonderful company next season, when he tours Canada from coast to coast, under the joint management of Irving Beers, of this city, and Dr. A. H. Beers, the well known writer. Mr. Robertson was born in Scotland and at an early age the family moved to New York, where he and his famous brother graduated from the Polytechnic Institute. He entered upon his theatrical career when only a boy with Daniel E. Bandman, in Shakesperian repertoire. Then followed engagements with Henry Abbey, Steel, Mackeye and Lester Wallack, in plays under their direction. He was chosen at the early age of eighteen to play the cripple in the famous revival of the "Two Orphans," in New York, with Miss Kate Claxton and a star cast. After this he starred in the first play written by himself, entitled "My Misses," which was spoken of by the critics as one of the most human and captivating of modern plays. Returning to London for the next ten years, where he brushed sleeves with the great artistic element of France and England, it was not long before the acknowledged critics of London, were writing in glowing terms of his wonderful talent as an actor, and during that ten years he shared the honours with his brother, Robert Robertson, Forbes Robertson, John Hare, (now Sir John Hare), Mrs. John Wood and several other leaders in English dramatic art. He then returned to America, when he starred in a repertoire of plays adapted or written by himself, among them, "Don Caesar's Revenge," "The Scarlet Letter," (by Hawthorne), which he dramatized in one week, "The Triumph of Youth," and his own dramatization of "The Man in the Iron Mask," by Dumas, which he produced in this city some twelve years ago, and which is not yet forgotten. The following few years he played in New York, and found time to write two delightful volumes of poems, the last one being entitled "Impressions in Rhyme," and it would do everybody good to read it. His greatest achievement, however, has been in the last three years in Chicago, his headquarters, where he is establishing a "National Theatre," resembling in artistic aim the "Theatre Francaise," in Paris. Pending the erection of that worthy institution the "Art Institute," has opened its doors to him free of charge. This is an honour that has never been conferred upon any other actor in America.

"The Literary Digest" says: Donald Robertson has produced a list of plays in the last year in Chicago that no actor manager in New York or London could duplicate, though at the great Continental Court Theatre, a repertoire of similar weight and worth is not infrequently found. The following is a list of the authors of some of the plays he has produced in the last two years, the best of which he will give Canada next season. Shakespeare, Milton, Moliere, Ibsen, Browning, Giacosa, Pailleron, Gerhart-Hauptman, Jose Echegary, Bjornsen, Goldini, Dr. Richard Burton, Hamlin Garland, and others.

Irving Beers, who will manage Mr. Robertson's tour, will produce "The Private Secretary" before leaving Peterborough, and it is very probable that the tour will open in this city. Mr. Beers was for several years a prominent member of Mr. Robertson's Company, and a great personal friend of Mr. Robertson. This will be one of the greatest companies that has ever visited Canada, and Donald Robertson is spoken of by all the great critics, such as Wm. Winter, Burns Mantle, James O'Donnell Bennet and Dr. Richard Burton, of the "Bellman," as one of the great eat actors in the English speaking world.



DONALD ROBERTSON,
Actor and Author, whom the leading critics of two continents speak of as the most illustrious figure on the American stage.—(Empire Review, London, Eng.)

Grimsby, Jan. 16—A sleigh load of people returning from a dance at Winona was struck by Grand Trunk express No 8, running at the rate of sixty miles an hour this morning, about 3 o'clock at a crossing just east of Grimsby station. Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilson and Geo. Teeter were instantly killed, and Mrs. Geo. Teeter so sadly injured that she died shortly after. Miss Lottie Teeter was badly shaken up and Gordon Nelson was terribly injured and is not expected to recover, but Teeter's infant child which was with the party miraculously escaped with only a few bruises. Both horses were killed.

OUR WINTER WEATHER.

In other winters northwest cold waves and blizzards have reached Ontario with the regularity of the Canadian "Pacific Express." This year something seems to have interfered. (We read in our despatches of blizzards in the west, and shudder in anticipation; but this winter they come not. Is it possible that the storms in their eastward course take the line of the new Transcontinental, and sweep on their way — giving Southern Ontario the go-by, if not the cold shoulder? Canada is a land of weather varieties. With flowers blooming in the open air gardens in British Columbia, we have, across the mountains, Edmonton, smitten with 40 below zero weather and Winnipeg gets it to the tune of 50 below, while Fort William rejoices in a record—on Jan. 11th—of temperature, or rather intemperature, of 56 degrees under the cypher mark; and further east Montreal is floundering about in six or seven feet of snow, with the thermometer not in the peach belt mood either. This winter Peterborough and vicinity seem to be in the neutral weather zone. We have had a beautifully mild, if slightly capricious, weather so far this winter. For this we are grateful and can, therefore, bear with greater resignation some genuine boreal bluster, which February generally brings, as if in compensation of her short reign, by strenuous cyclonic activity. Old timers and weather prophets of the goose-bone school find themselves at sea now, their a priori weather prognostications generally missing connections with the a posteriori results. This is due to the decided change in climatic conditions which naturally induce changed weather conditions. With the extensive removal of our forest growth, we have the climate almost as extensively modified. We have less, and less regular, rainfall and winter weather conditions quite different from those that were familiar to the pioneers of this part of Canada—long, steady winters, winter while it was winter, and at the end, breaking at once into the genial glory of spring. Those who rail against our Canadian winter, rail in pitiable ignorance of its delights. It is a glorious season with its peculiar pleasures, heightened by the idea of contrast and the deeper sense that it is one of the most beneficent provisions of Divine Providence—the holiday of procreant nature, the season of rest, by change of occupation, for man and beast. While milder climates take it out of man the year round, while the monotonous iteration of changeless weather, with humid, enervating heat, induces perpetual lassitude and partial paralysis of ambition, the winter comes to the Canadian as a tonic, with its bracing airs, its keen but not unkindly frost, turning the current of thought and activity into new paths and recreating and revivifying all round. Nature, too, takes its rest; the rooted trees stand fixed in their bed of rigid soil, but with all, the processes of nature, arrested in some forms, break out in others. Thus early in January the stately elms and red maples feel the stirrings of vegetative life, and show their swelling buds clear against the wintry sky, thrilled with the mysterious impulse of growth which spring completes in the unfolded leaves. The Canadian winter is a blustery but beneficent season — making robust manhood, strong in physique and vigorous of spirit, freezing out the monotony, and by very contrast enhancing the appreciation of the pleasures of our brief but gladsome spring, our glorious summer and the lingering mellowness of our autumn.

We Canadians would not exchange, if we could, our winter weather, or any other weather, our continental sweep of rich resources, our civilization, our institutions, our hopes and our future for those of any other country under Heaven's sunshine.

PROVISION FOR OLD AGE.

Unemployment is a serious enough condition; but it is doubtful if it is prudentially any worse than employment without thrift. One is want of opportunity, the other is waste of opportunity. It will not be seriously doubted that a great deal of the destitution and suffering from lack of means for maintenance, is due to want of saving, one of the elemental constituents of thrift. With persons of moderate income, especially if it be precarious, and in view of uncertainty of health, what is saved is of as much importance as what is earned. We see two men with similar capacities and opportunities for earning. One saves, spends prudently, practises thrift, and accumulates money and to that extent is equipped for taking advantage of opportunities of advancement, and he does advance and thrives.

The other spends money foolishly, is always "hard up" and as a result stays poor. The first has provision against a rainy day, in the event of sickness or when old age impairs or destroys his earning powers. So far as worldly gear is concerned he spends the rest of his days in comfort. The other has three conditions confronting him; he must suffer or depend upon the uncertain and, often, humiliating bounty of his children, or he must take the place and fare of a pauper, when his earning powers are gone.

Thrift is largely a constitutional quality and those who do not naturally incline to it will be greatly helped by the Government Annuities Act of 1908, involving provision for old age, and against want and poverty. The essence of the Act of Parliament, as well as of the individual, is the deposit, from time to time in the Government Post Office Savings Bank of any amount that can be saved from necessary expenditure—and from foolish pleasures too. These amounts are placed to the credit of the depositor at compound interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum and will be repaid in quarterly instalments to the depositor from a date to be fixed. The Government acts as his banker, free of charge and the security is more absolutely certain than the Bank of England, for it has the three million and a half square miles of Canada and all its resources practically under mortgage to secure payment of the amount called for. By express provision of the law the depositor cannot be deprived of the amount of his deposit. It cannot be seized for debt, cannot be bargained away, cannot be forfeited. The annuity provided under the act may be spent foolishly by the recipient but it cannot be destroyed. It will come every three months while life lasts. According to deposits, provision can be made for from $50 to $600 per year. Payments may begin at age of five or any subsequent age, but except for invalidity or disablement, no annuity shall be paid before the age of 55 years. Twenty-five cents per week, if no larger sum can be afforded, may be paid or ten, fifteen or twenty dollars can be paid at a time. Provision can be made for joint annuity for husband and wife. There is no risk incurred no unreturnable payments made. In case of death before sixty all payments made, with 3 per cent. compound interest added, will be returned to the heirs of the depositor. Space will not here permit of detailing all the advantages of the Canadian Government Annuities system, but they are so great that every one who wishes to make a safe, certain, inalienable, non-forfeitable provision for old age, should know and take advantage of them.

In conformity with the benovolent spirit of the Act, the Government has issued a booklet describing the system in detail, which may be secured free on application to the Post master. Everybody is eligible to become an annuitant, for it is within reach of everybody receiving a fairly regular income. All who wish to become familiar with the details of the best and easiest system in existence of securing means of support in old age should have a copy of the booklet, entitled, "Canadian Government Annuities." The postmaster will supply it on application.

There are but two ways of paying debts; increase of industry in raising income; increase of thrift in laying it out.—Carlyle.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

An eighteen-years Detroit young man demands annulment of his marriage, on the ground that "he didn't know what he was doing." On that principle Mr. Cynicus Coelebs says there would be a fremendous crop of void marriages.

The rumour that Mackenzie and Mann were to acquire the Intercolonial Railway, which was made the subject of bitter denunciation of the Liberal Government by the Conservative press, has been officially denied. That does not prevent the Toronto News from reiterating the false story in the form of a cartoon.

At a meeting of the Engineers' Club, Toronto, on Thursday evening, Mr. J. A. Culverwell commended the government on the enlarged Trent Valley Canal. He says that for $15,000,000 the country was getting a canal of equal barge capacity with the Erie, which cost $150,000,000. The Trent Canal shortened the route by one day from the upper lakes to Montreal.

DISEASE COMES THROUGH THE BLOOD

To Cure Common Ailments the Blood Must be Made Rich and Red.

Nearly all the diseases that afflict mankind are caused by bad blood, weak, watery blood poisoned by impurities. Bad blood is the cause of headaches and backaches, lumbago and rheumatism, debility and indigestion, neuralgia and other nerve troubles, and the disfiguring skin diseases like eczema and salt rheum that show how impure the blood actually is. It is no use trying a different medicine for each disease because they all spring from one cause—bad blood. To cure any of these diseases you must get right down to the root of the trouble in the blood That is just what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do. They make new, rich blood. That is why they cure these diseases when common medicines fail. Mr. Henry Baker, Chipman, N. B., says:—"About a year ago I was so weak and miserable that I thought I would not live to see spring again. I could neither work, eat nor sleep. My blood was in a terrible condition. My entire body broke out with pimples and small boils that would itch and pain and caused me great trouble. I went to the doctor and tried several medicines but to no effect. I was almost in despair when one day a friend asked me why I did not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I decided to try them and took altogether eight boxes. By the time I had finished them I was like a different man. They not only purified and enriched my blood, but built up my whole system and I have not had a pimple on my flesh nor a sick day since."

To enrich the blood you must get the genuine Pills with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around the box. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Scores of Lives Lost

A philosopher has said that "All men think all men mortal but themselves," and it is quite true that there is a tendency to look upon our own individual case as being, somehow or other, different from others, and outside the influences which affect the health and lives of our fellow-men and women.

Perhaps someone who reads these lines is in the grip of Lung trouble. You have tried all sorts of remedies, and paid heavy doctors' bills, only to be told at the end that nothing can be done for you: that your case is hopeless, and that nothing remains but to face the inevitable as bravely as possible.

There is indisputable proof that PSYCHINE is a genuine and certain remedy for such cases as yours. Mr. I. Peer, of Belmont, Ont., says: "Some time ago I was in a very low condition physically owing to severe Lung trouble. THE DOCTORS GAVE ME UP with the assurance that I should not live until the spring. My attention was called to your remedies, and I ventured to send for a trial bottle of PSYCHINE, which did me so much good that I continued the treatment, and in two months I was completely cured. I have not needed to take any medicine since." In a recent letter his wife states: "Since last writing to you I am delighted to tell you that my husband has had splendid health, although there is no doubt at the time he began to take PSYCHINE he was in the last stages of Consumption. We are certain that it was nothing but PSYCHINE brought him back from the verge of the grave. My husband works hard, and never was stronger and better in his life than now."

What PSYCHINE has done for Mr. Peer it can do for you. The chance of complete recovery is in your own hands. Do not delay any longer, but try PSYCHINE and prove its marvellous power as a health restorer. Sold by all druggists and stores in bottles, 50c. and $1.

IMPERIAL STAFF IS PROPOSED

Sir Frederick Borden Discusses Unification Scheme.

SOME PROBLEMS TO SOLVE

Plan Has Not Crystallied Yet, But Has Made Good Progress—Sir Frederick Says United States Policy Regarding Trade Excludes Canada — Proposals Must Come From Other Side of Border.

London, Jan. 16.—In an interview regarding the relations existing between Canada and the United States Sir Fred. Borden said: "On political questions we want to be good neighbors and friends, but on trade questions the United States has taken a line of policy, presumably from national motives, which excludes us. We accept the situation, and will pursue our own line of policy. Any concession or reopening of the trade question must come from the United States."

Sir Frederick also stated: "I had serious conferences with Mr. Haldane and members of the Army Council and also Gen. Hood of Australia with reference to the proposed Imperial General Staff. An advance is being made and steps are being taken to make regulations and formulate plans for what was at first only a general idea. There are, however, certain difficulties as to questions of administration and the like to overcome. The scheme has hardly yet crystallized, but still there has been progress. The exchange of officers between the various parts of the Empire has been going on for some time, but this is only a part of the scheme. In the case of Canada, for instance, we may have four or five members of the General Staff, or, in other words, our own General Staff, which would form a part of the Imperial General Staff."

NEW HUDSON BAY LINE.

Company Proposing to Build From Prince Albert Seeks Incorporation.

Ottawa, Jan. 16.—The Prince Albert and Hudson Bay Railway Co. will apply to Parliament for an act of incorporation. A line is proposed to be built from a point near Prince Albert, Sask., to the mouth of the Nelson river on Hudson Bay or York Factory.

The Fort Erie and Buffalo Bridge Co. is seeking for incorporation with power to construct a bridge across the Niagara river.

The Windsor, Essex and Lake Shore Rapid Railway Co. will apply to Parliament for an extension of time of construction.

The St. Mary's and Western Ontario Railway wants power to build the following lines: From Woodstock to Brantford; from St. Mary's to Stratford; from St. Mary's to Exeter to Milverton and Goderich, and from Exeter to the Harbor of Grand Bend.

The Cabano Railway Co. will apply to Parliament for incorporation and for power to construct a railway from Long Lake Temiscounta, Que., on the line of the National Transcontinental Railway of Cabano.

Man Frozen to Death.

Winnipeg, Jan. 16.—Thomas Walker, a Scotchman, was frozen to death, and two Galicians were badly frozen, one of whom will lose a foot and part of his hands, and the other a part of one foot, as the result of leaving their lumber camps about 100 miles north of here to walk to Winnipegosis.

They were lost on the lake and in the bush for 15 days. The Galicians were found lying on ice by some fishermen. Walker left them while lost on the lake and no trace of him has been seen since. They were without food for ten days.

Wiarton Cement Company Failure.

Wiarton, Jan. 16.—The Colonial Portland Cement Co. has assigned to E. R. C. Clarkson of Toronto and a winding-up order has been granted. The step did not cause any great commotion here, as it had been anticipated for some time.

At present there are from 8,000 to 10,000 barrels of unfinished cement, known as clinkers, at the works, along with 800 barrels of the finished product. All of this, it is understood, is held by the Union Bank.

Brantford Citizens' League.

Brantford, Jan. 16.—The organization of a citizens' league, with the one object of carrying local option here, was effected Thursday night. Announcement was made that the fight would cover the entire County of Brant. Officers elected were: President, C. F. Verity; vice-president, Dr. Nichol; secretary, C. B. Hitchon; treasurer, A. Moyer; council, Henry Yeigh, Fred Mann and John T. Ham.

The proviso is that the Jewish Benevolent Institutions of the city be consolidated into one body.

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

VERDICT RETURNED FOR THE PRISONER

Jury Decides That Novelist Is Not Guilty of Murder.

IT IS HIS SECOND ESCAPE

Man Charged With Abetting Brother In Killing William Annis Was Once Before Tried For Murder—Crowd In the Courtroom Evinces Great Enthusiasm When Verdict Is Rendered—Sees His Brother.

Flushing, N.Y., Jan. 16.—After reviewing the evidence for twenty-two hours and taking fifteen ballots before all were agreed the jury in the trial of Thornton Jenkins Hains at three o'clock yesterday afternoon found the prisoner not guilty as a principal with his brother, Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., in the killing of William E. Annis.

For the second time in his life, Thornton Hains had been found not guilty of the charge of murder, the magazine writer being acquitted of shooting a companion named Edward A. Hannigan in an open boat in Hampton Roads, 17 years ago.

Thornton Hains had an affecting greeting with Capt. Hains in the Long Island Jail, where he hurried in a motor car after the verdict, to bring his brother the news. Old Gen. Hains and his wife, who had been anxiously awaiting in the Hotel Astor in Manhattan since the jury went out Thursday night, heard the news from their son Thornton who telephoned his parents as soon as he left the court room. Mrs. Hains nearly fainted with joy at the news. After spending an hour with Capt. Hains in the jail, Thornton Hains went to the Hotel Astor, where he remained through the evening and night with his father and mother.

Rarely in any court of law has such a demonstration been witnessed as that which occurred yesterday afternoon when the jury made known it's verdict, which came like a thunder bolt. The packed court room of spectators rose as one man and cheered and applauded with such mighty vigor that the gavel falls of Justice Crane on his desk could not be heard. Before proceeding further Justice Crane ordered the trial chamber cleared, and the spectators put out on the street.

Judge Crane had sent for the jury to learn if there were any prospects of agreement and word came back that the jurors desired a few more minutes. Thornton Hains was brought into court by Sheriff Harway and seated beside his counsel. His Saffron-hued face became pallorous and the lines in his face became drawn with anxiety. None of his family were in court. He spoke nervously to counsel and watched with inquiring glance the field of tired jurors as they entered the room and took their places. Justice Crane asked the jurors if they had reached a verdict and Foreman Hill, his voice trembling, though he could be heard all over the court room, said that they had.

"The jurors will rise and face the defendant," cried Clerk Peace, "Gentlemen, what is your verdict?"

"Not guilty," said the foreman, and with the words the uproar came that Justice Crane subsided. The court-room cheered, then came a rapping at the door and Major John Hains, who had heard the verdict outside, rushed into the room. An officer held him back from within the enclosure, where his brother and counsel sat, until after Justice Crane had thanked the jury. Then he hurried to his brother's and embraced him and kissed all of his counsel. Thornton Hains could scarcely realize the verdict for a moment and then he half rose in his chair and smiled and bowed to the jury. Tears filled his eyes and he brushed them away with his handkerchief. Justice Crane discharged the story-writer and Mr. McIntyre, his chief counsel, who had quite completely broken down at the verdict, briefly thanked the court and jury.

"Under this verdict it is perfectly safe for any person who is ingenious enough to frame up a defence to go out and kill. Private vengeance seems to have taken precedence over the people's law," was the only comment that Prosecutor Darrin has to make on the jury.

Wanted at the Falls.

Niagara Falls, Jan. 16.—A warrant is out for the arrest of James Sugden, who yesterday pleaded guilty in Montreal to several charges of bank fraud and will be executed as soon as the Montreal sentence expires. The charge here against him is that he defrauded one of the banks of the sum of $400 by means of forged checks. Sugden, whose right name is Harry O. West, opened a bank account and made several deposits. Then he deposited several forged checks, and the next day closed the account, defrauding the bank of about $400. United States detectives also want him for forgeries.

Big Plant For Medicine Hat.

Medicine Hat, Jan. 16.—With only 21 negative votes Medicine Hat property owners yesterday carried the by-law granting 35 acres of land and providing a gas well for a sewer pipe manufacturing company plant, to be installed by American capital. The company guarantees to expend $300,000 in buildings and plant and to employ a hundred men.

May Close Can Shops.

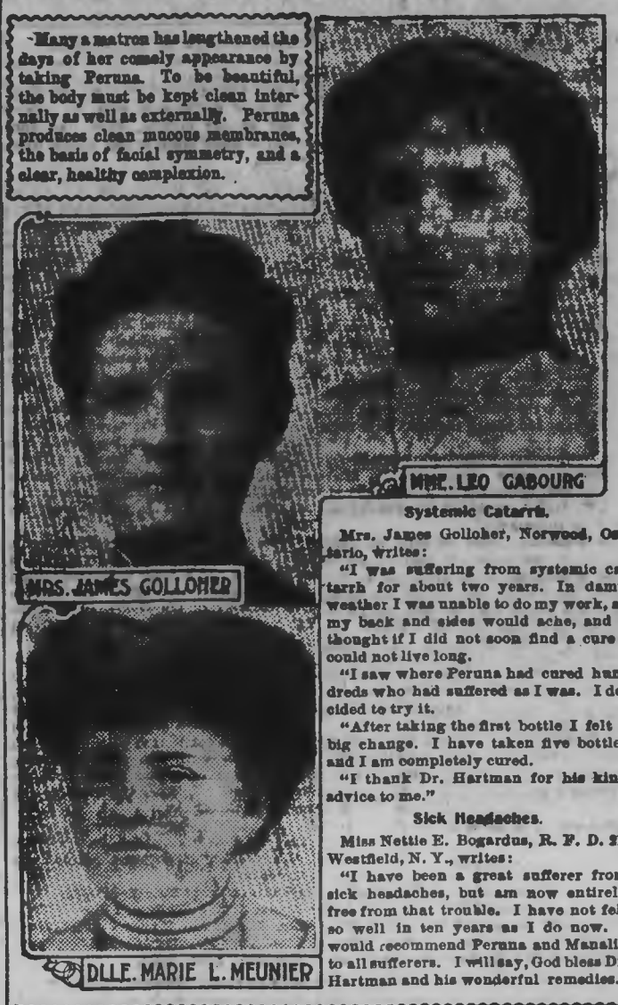
Picton, Jan. 16.—It is the determination of the Canadian Canners Co., Limited, it is said, to cut off work in the local shops in connection with the canning factories, and that in future all cans will be made at the chief shops in Hamilton.

Missing Witness Found.

North Bay, Jan. 16.—Nora McKeown, the missing witness in the Ryan murder case, who mysteriously disappeared Wednesday night, was discovered by Detective Greer last night. She is very ill, and it is doubtful if she will be able to attend court for some days, necessitating an adjournment.

To All The Women Who Suffer Pe-ru-na Is Earnestly Commended.

Many a matron has lengthened the days of her comely appearance by taking Peruna. To be beautiful, the body must be kept clean internally as well as externally. Peruna produces clean mucous membranes, the basis of facial symmetry, and a clear, healthy complexion.



Systemic Catarrh.

Mrs. James Golloher, Norwood, Ontario, writes:

"I was suffering from systemic catarrh for about two years. In damp weather I was unable to do my work, as my back and sides would ache, and I thought if I did not soon find a cure I could not live long.

"I saw where Peruna had cured hundreds who had suffered as I was. I decided to try it.

"After taking the first bottle I felt a big change. I have taken five bottles and I am completely cured.

"I thank Dr. Hartman for his kind advice to me."

Sick Headaches.

Miss Nettie E. Bogardus, R. F. D. 21, Westfield, N. Y., writes:

"I have been a great sufferer from sick headaches, but am now entirely free from that trouble. I have not felt so well in ten years as I do now. I would recommend Peruna and Manalin to all sufferers. I will say, God bless Dr. Hartman and his wonderful remedies."

Catarrh Made Life Miserable.

Dlle. Marie L. Meunier, 913 Ontario street, Montreal, Can., writes:

"I take pleasure in stating that I have been cured of catarrh by Peruna.

"This disease made my life miserable, especially in the morning, when I had to cough and spit and make every effort to clear my throat and air passages.

"This remedy cured me promptly and I recommend it most highly to persons afflicted with this terrible disease."

My Sister Advised Me to Try Peruna.
I Took Your Treatment and My Appetite Returned Speedily.
I Gained Strength and Flesh and am in Perfect Health.
I am so Thankful Your Medicine has Done Me so Much Good.
So says —Miss Julia Butler, of Appleton, Wis.

Grateful for Relief.

Mme. Leo Gabourg, 215 Rue Arago, St. Sauveur, Quebec, Canada, writes:

"I thank you very much for the advice you have given me. I am very well indeed. It seems to me that I am no longer the same person.

"Some of my friends have been troubled with colds and have used Peruna with very satisfactory results. As for myself, I am happy to be so successfully cured, and so promptly."

Catarrh of Bowels.

Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 1322 North St., Little Rock, Ark., writes:

"I was troubled for five years with a chronic disease. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing did me any good. Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, and some said consumption of the bowels. One doctor said he could cure me; I took his medicine two months, but it did me no good.

"A friend of mine advised me to try Peruna and I did so. After I had taken two bottles I found it was helping me, so I continued its use, and it has cured me sound and well.

"If any one wants to know what Peruna did for me if they will write to me I will answer promptly."

Pains in the Side.

Mrs. Julia Braxton, Apollo, Pa., writes:

"Peruna has cured me of heart trouble and pains in the side.

"A year ago I was expected to die at any time, and the doctor was sometimes called at two o'clock in the morning. But I am thankful to say that I do not have to send for a doctor now.

"Since I have used your Peruna as you advised me, I am well and able to do all my housework.

"I have all the faith in the world in Peruna, as it cured me, and I know that it will cure others."

Train Plunges Down the Bank of the Fraser River.

TWO ENGINEERS ARE KILLED

C.P.R. Train Is Derailed by Snowslide Near Yale, B.C., and Is Swept Down the Bank—Several of the Passengers Are Injured But None Seriously—Train Was Going at a Moderate Speed at the Time.

Kamloops, Jan. 16.—At one o'clock yesterday afternoon train No. 97 was derailed by a snowslide about 7 1-2 miles east of Yale. On account of the recent heavy snowfalls in this district the train was being handled by two engines, and these, together with the baggage, mail, express and colonist cars, went down the bank of the Fraser river. Three other cars were also derailed. Engineers Carscadden and Foster were killed, and three trainmen and a number of passengers slightly injured. None of the injuries are serious and the passengers are being made comfortable in the sleeping cars, which were not derailed. The names of the injured will be obtainable later. The train is reported to have been running cautiously, at a speed of only fifteen miles per hour at the time, and it is stated that only the caution with which trains are operated over this section of the road, particularly during the season when snowslides may be looked for, prevented the accident turning out more seriously. A relief train was at once despatched from North Bend, and another with doctors and nurses from Vancouver. It is expected the line will be clear in a few hours.

BETTER UNDERSTANDING.

Hon. Mr. Graham Says I.C.R. Has Benefitted by Discussion.

Ottawa, Jan. 16.—Hon. G. P. Graham Minister of Railways, referring to the discussion as to the Government's intention regarding the I.C.R., said:

"I do not regret this widespread discussion because it tends to a better understanding of a problem which is not as generally understood as is desirable.

"It is a mistake to think the idea of any change in the working of the I.C.R. was inspired on account of the falling off in the traffic this year. The truth is that the Government line in this respect is like all other roads, its condition is certainly no worse.

"But company roads are constantly making changes for the better in their methods of management, and why not the Government lines?

"I might say that if changes be decided on they will not include either the sale or the lease of the Government line."

St. Paul's Sunday School Has Report Of Year's Success

The Superintendent, Mr. W. Madill, Presents Details of the Work and Progress Made During 1908 —Every Department Has Gone Ahead.

OFFICERS WERE ELECTED.

The annual meeting of the Sunday School of St. Paul's Church was held last Monday evening and was probably the largest and most successful in the history of the church. The reports were of the most encouraging nature and show a splendid progress during the past year. Every department has prospered and the teachers and officers begin the new year with the aim to surpass the record that has just been made.

In connection with the meeting, refreshments were served first, after which the business was commenced. Mr. W. Madill presented the annual report as follows :—

In presenting this report on the Sunday School work for 1908, we do so with a deep sense of gratitude to the Great Head of the church for his great kindness during the year that has passed. The year 1908 has been one of the most successful in the history of St. Paul's congregation in Sunday School work. Our total enrolment is 479, with an average attendance of 333. The record of the various departments of the school are as follows :—

Class	On Roll	Aver.
Intermediate	132	103
Bible	190	106
Young Men	26	15
Kindergarten	49	35
Primary	47	43
Teachers	29	27
Officers	6	5

At our last annual meeting a number of changes were suggested and acted upon, which have added much to the interest and success of the school, The first of these was the Installation Service, when the Pastor gave a most helpful address to the teachers and officers of the school at the morning service. The second was the holding of the opening exercises in the auditorium of the church with the printed order of the service. This has done much to unite the interests of the whole school.

One thing more that has contributed largely to the success of the school has been the hearty cooperation of the pastor with the teachers and officers. He has ever been ready with valuable suggestions which, when acted upon, have contributed largely to our success. It is most gratifying to report that during the year 46 members of the school have united with the church. Master Hugh Carmichael repeated the whole of the school catechism at one sitting. Miss Nina Clark attended every Sunday during the year.

Our contributions to missions have shown a decided increase, notwithstanding the fact that we devote the collections on the last Sunday of each month to extra expense fund. Another feature of the Sunday School is the splendid work that is being done for the Chinese members.

Our annual picnic this year was the most successful in the history of the schoo' We had a most enjoyable outing to Stony Lake, and about 400 parents and members of the school enjoyed the day's trip, from which we secured a profit of some $50.00.

Our home department has a membership of 100, and our Cradle Roll department has a membership of 42. The success of the past year is but the beginning of a great and good work to be done in connection with the school. This greater work can only be accomplished by deeper and truer devotion on the part of every teacher to the Master's work.

WM. MADILL,
Superintendent.

The election of officers resulted as follows :—
Superintendent: Mr. W. Madill.
Assist Supt.: Mr. J. A. Lillie.
Sec. Treas.: Mr. Homer O. Fiske.
Librarian: Mr. Jas. Connal.
Pianists: Miss Scott.

ENGLAND

"Granny" Shepherd, an aged inmate of the Cuckfield (Sussex) Workhouse, has been the cause of a great innovation, almost a revolution, and the powers of the Local Government Board had to be invoked to deal with her case. She is a constant smoker—her pipe, she says, alone makes life worth living—and she felt the deprivation of tobacco very much when she entered the workhouse. Now, however, she will no longer be unhappy, for the board has issued a special dispensation, allowing her to have tobacco instead of the ordinary tea rations.

The Jersey Beach Hotel in Aberavon, Glamorganshire, was destroyed by fire the other morning. Most of the inmates escaped by jumping on to the sands, but a nurse, driven back from the staircase by the dense smoke, appeared at a top story window, bearing the proprietor's child in her arms. The father at once procured a sheet and, the child was thrown into it with perfect safety. When, however, the nurse attempted to follow she overshot the sheet and severely injured her spine. Her condition is critical.

A policeman noticing a fire at a house in Highgate, North London, one night recently, blew his whistle, and before entering the place asked a passer-by to run to give an alarm. He ran off, but was met by a man, who, having heard the whistle and concluding that the messenger had escaped from the police, knocked him down. Without waiting to explain matters, the messenger got up and continued on his way. He gave the alarm and engines and escapes were quickly on the spot.

Walter Weaver, recently known in the Willesden district as "Weary Weaver," was at the Middlesex Session recently sentenced to twelve months' hard labour as an incorrigible rogue. In the summer Weaver wears two complete suits, and over these two overcoats, a muffler and thick gloves. In the winter he wears very little clothing. He never works, and begs in all directions, even from the officers who arrest him.

An aged widow named Cocks has been found dead in bed at St. Agnes, Cornwall, in peculiar circumstances. At first it was thought to be a case of suicide by strangulation, as a cord had been fastened to the bedpost and looped around the woman's neck. There were, however, no signs of a struggle or marks of violence, and at the inquest the jury returned a verdict of death from syncope while attempting to commit suicide.

A traveller named Stowe hired a trap at Llanelly, Carmarthenshire, the other day and, with a driver named Arthur Davies, of Tenby, set out for a country round. While fording a flooded stream near Pontyberem, the horse was swept off its legs by the current and both men were carried down the river and drowned. The horse was also drowned and the vehicle smashed to pieces.

Miss Oliva B. Williams, of St. Mabyn, Cornwall, has achieved remarkable walking records, although she is more than seventy years of age. She covered 2,358 miles last year, or an average of forty-six miles a week, in visiting her employers, whom she helps with sewing.

IRELAND

William Hanna, a man about 80 years of age, of Scarva, Co. Down, was found dead in his house the other morning. The deceased, who lived alone, had to be helped home the previous evening, after taking a weakness on the roadside. The police searched the house afterwards, and found the sum of £73 in gold and a £1 note in a box, which had been hidden under the stairs. Promissory notes, bank receipts and securities valued at £600 were also found in the box. On the coldest day he kept neither light nor fire in the house, and hardly purchased the necessaries of life. He would not allow anyone to enter his house or to bring a doctor.

Owing to the disturbed state of the province, the Leinster Assizes were opened in Dublin the other day, the being the first time for fourteen years that the authorities have transferred the assize business to the Irish capital. Mr. Justice Gibson, in charging the grand jury, said that in some parts of the country shooting seemed to have become a matter of considerable frequency, and the miscreant was one which urgently demanded the attention of parliament.

An old woman named Mrs. Sarah Rogers, who lived alone in a little cabin at Ballaghanery, near Newcastle, was found dead outside her dwelling one morning recently. When discovered she had wrapped an old blanket around her, and this evidently got entangled about her legs, thus throwing her, and being unable to extricate herself she was either drowned by a passing stream, swollen by the rains or died of exposure.

Mary Braddell, an aged hawker, whose principal trade was selling oranges, was taken suddenly ill a few days since, and was admitted to the Limerick Workhouse Hospital. She made a will allocating some £30 for various objects. Subsequently a wretched single room in which she lived, was searched, and a sum of £200, all in silver, was found in two bags secreted in the apartment.

The "Dublin Gazette" recently announced that Letters Patent have passed the great seal of Ireland constituting and founding a university having its seat in Dublin under the name of the National University of Ireland, and also one having its seat in Belfast under the name of the Queen's University of Belfast.

A farmer named Kelleher, residing near Schull, County Cork, returned home after a day's shooting and laid his loaded gun on a table. His child, a boy of four or five, was playing with the gun when he touched the trigger, The gun went off, shooting the father through the heart. Death was practically instantaneous.

A widow of 70, Mrs. Rose O'Lane, has just married again, the groom being a widower of the same age, named John McNicholl, of Glenculleh, Co. Derry. Both expect to get old-age pensions as a dowry, and the bride has the distinction of being a great-grandmother.

SCOTLAND

Agnes Wightman, a pretty girl of 15, was charged at a Glasgow police court recently with having been found masquerading in boy's clothes, and with having stolen £6. In the absence of her mistress from the house where she was employed in Glasgow, she took all the spare money and the gold watch. She prevailed upon a hairdresser to crop her like a boy, and with the money she procured the suit. Making a quick change Agnes sallied forth to the world determined to throw over her feminine attire for ever. She visited Edinburg, Dundee and Stonehaven, and it was only when she had nowhere to sleep that she admitted to the police that she belonged to the fair sex. The magistrate took a lenient view of her offence, and Agnes was ordered to be deprived of her knicker suit and to go on probation for six months.

Since Monday, 7th December, much concern has been felt in Peterhead through the inexplicable disappearance of two townsmen — Alexander Milne, merchant, and Alexander Buchan, postboy. The mystery of Buchan's disappearance was solved after a fortnight by finding his body on the South Beach near the Kirkburn Mills. The discovery was made by two boys and the fact notified to the police. Round Buchan's ankles and waist was tied a rope with a noose, from which it appeared that a stone had been fastened. Buchan attended a dance on the evening on which he disappeared, and when last seen by some acquaintances early on the following morning was apparently in good spirits The mystery of Milne's disappearance is still unsolved.

COLD INTERFERED WITH THE MARKET

Beef Was a Prominent Feature To-day—Vegetables Were Scarce.

The market this morning was rather a no-perishable one, there being very few vegetables to be seen on account of the cold wather.

There was a great amount of beef, which is staying the same as it was before Christmas, being 5c and 6c per lb. Pork is also the same as it has always been since the cold weather set in, selling by the quarter at 10c and 11c a lb. In the fodder line baled hay sold at $15 a ton, and loose hay at $14 a ton.

Upstairs there were plenty of chickens, turkeys, geese, ducks, eggs and butter.

Chickens sold at 50c each; turkeys at $1.75; ducks at $1.40 a pair; geese, at $1.50 each. Butter is still the same price, selling at 28c a lb; eggs remain about the same, 35c a doz.

Dressed hogs sell at $8.50, while live hogs are two dollars less, being $6.50. Farmers and butchers hides sell from $8 to $8.50.

HERE'S A MESSAGE TO ALL WOMEN

Madame Letourneau Tells Them to Use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Read Why She Gives This Advice and How She Was Relieved of Her Sufferings.

St. Paul du Buton, Montmagny Co., Que., Jan. 15 (Special) — It is a message of hope that Madame F. X. Letourneau of this place sends to the suffering women of Canada.

"After my last child was born," she states, "I suffered with Kidney Disease which developed into Rheumatism, Sciatica and Backache. I was fearfully nervous. My limbs were heavy and I had a dragging sensation across the loins and pains in the back of my head and through the eyes. I was a perfect wreck.

"Chancing to read that my symptoms were those of Kidney Disease, I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills and began to improve almost at once. Six boxes worked a complete cure."

Diseased Kidneys are the cause of nine-tenths of the ills that make life a burden to so many women in Canada. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure diseased Kidneys.

THE WEATHER

The weather was bitterly cold this morning although the thermometer did not register a very low temperature, the lowest figure reached during the night being but four below zero. An east wind and a damp atmosphere made it feel much colder than it really was, or at least as recorded on the thermometer.

GOT HIS HAIR BACK.

Was Perfectly Bald When he Started to Use Newbro's Herpicide.

Frederick Manuell, Maryland Block Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 6 '99, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 20 days he had hair all over his head. On July 8 he writes, "and to-day my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroys the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two Sizes 50c and $1. McDermid & Jury, and Payne's Drug Store, Special Agents.

YOU MANUFACTURE FAT?

If it were not for the fact that you add to your fat every day, you would soon get back to a decent figure. Each day's activities consume some of your excess. But it is "off with the old fat on with the new" with you every twenty-four hours so that the fat balance remains unchanged.

Now, people who take Marmola Prescription Tablets really get thin, but harmlessly so, and a hint as to the reason is given above. They eat and drink with undisturbed delight as formerly and yet they lose, many of them, a pound a day. The reason is Marmola causes the body to stop manufacturing useless fat, hence the body it is introduced into gets thinner as a matter of course. Each day's activities alone would account for the delightful result.

Check up results from this point of view and you can readily understand why Marmola Prescription Tablets cause no ill effects or wrinkles but on the contrary, help the stomach and the appearance. They are nature's allies, not her competitors. This commends them to all, ever the timid, as safe, and since they reduce one as fast as is desirable, that is all that is required.

When you get tired trying other methods of getting thin test this one Marmola Prescription Tablets come in large, generously filled cases, and if your druggist cannot supply on which is unlikely, you can get one or more cases by mail by sending the price 75 cents, direct to Marmola Company, Detroit, Mich.

INDIGESTION IS VERY EASILY CURED

Five Minutes After Taking Some Diapepsin all Distress Will Go

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of indigestion or some form of stomach trouble, why don't you keep a case of Diapepsin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and regulate a sour Stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why they cure Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and prevent at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion with the common everyday cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which poisons the entire digestive tract and intestines, and, besides, poison the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapepsin.

One candy-like Triangule, taken after eating, will promptly digest all your food, the same as a strong, healthy stomach would do it.

SEE THAT YOUR CHEESE AND BUTTER GRADE FINEST

From Farm and Dairy.

Thousands of dollars have been lost to our dairymen in years past because their cheese and butter did not grade "finest." Much of this was due to the improper care of the milk upon the farm, chiefly to lack of cooling. A finest quality of product cannot be made in hot weather from milk that has not been properly cooled. The experiments that have been conducted in connection with cooling milk, and particularly those carried on last summer by Mr. George H. Barr, Assistant Dairy Commissioner, prove conclusively the great need of cooling milk as soon as drawn from the cow. When a plentiful supply of cold water is available, a supply of ice is not so necessary, though there are few cases where ice could not be used to advantage by most dairymen. Even should it not be needed regularly throughout the summer it will come in most acceptable in hot spells when the supply of water proves inadequate to bring the milk to a proper temperature.

Then, besides, ice is a luxury that can be made good use of in the house in the summer months. As Senator Derbyshire aptly put it recently, "one owes it as a duty to his wife to put in ice for her comfort alone, aside from the interests of his dairy."

The time for harvesting ice will soon be at hand again. If you have not been putting in ice in past years, store a supply this winter. A very simple, inexpensive building can be erected that will fill the bill for an ice house, and the ice to fill it can usually be obtained near by and at a very nominal cost. Put in ice this year; you will not regret it.

ABOUT SHIPPING MIXED VARIETIES OF POTATOES

From Farm and Dairy.

A remark made by a well-known potato shipper recently to the effect "that one could not buy a carload of Ontario potatoes without getting at least from five to twelve different varieties in the lot," brings up again the discussion which took place at the recent annual meeting of the Ontario Experimental Union. The estimated value of the potato crop for Ontario last year is $12,000,000, according to Prof. C. A. Zavitz, of the Ontario Agricultural College. This estimate came as a surprise to some who have heard so much of the good qualities of potatoes from the Maritime Provinces, and of the inferior quality of the crop as grown in Ontario.

"Do not grow over three varieties in a district," was the advice recently given by Mr. C. F. Alward, a New Brunswick farmer, who is touring Ontario in the interests of the Farmers' Institutes. He attributed the great popularity of the New Brunswick potatoes to the fact that they were uniform in quality, that a whole carload, and even train loads, of the same variety were available to fill any order.

On many Ontario farms potato growing is still a profitable branch. It could be made more profitable if we would adopt this principle which has done so much for the potato growers of New Brunswick, namely, growing but one or two varieties instead of a large number of the 90 different varieties, and more, which are largely grown over Ontario. We must adopt more of the spirit of co-operation in regard to the varieties of potatoes grown in any one section. Ontario potatoes can be made just as popular as potatoes grown in any other section of our Dominion but they must be of a uniform quality and in car loads of the same variety.

CHEESE YIELD SMALLER PAST TWO SEASONS

From Farm and Dairy.

As was shown in last week's issue of Farm and Dairy, the make of cheese for the past two seasons has been considerably below what it was previous to 1907. We pointed out how this shortage had affected the patron and the cheese manufacturer; now for for its relation to the maker. How has this shrinkage in make affected him? The great majority of makers make cheese for a certain rate per lb. If the make is large, the maker has a fairly good living. But, if it falls off to any large extent, as it has done the past few years, any profits there may be in the business for him are wiped out, and he may consider himself lucky if he comes out even at the end of the season.

The profit in cheese making, as in every other business, comes from the amount of business done over and above what is required to pay ex-

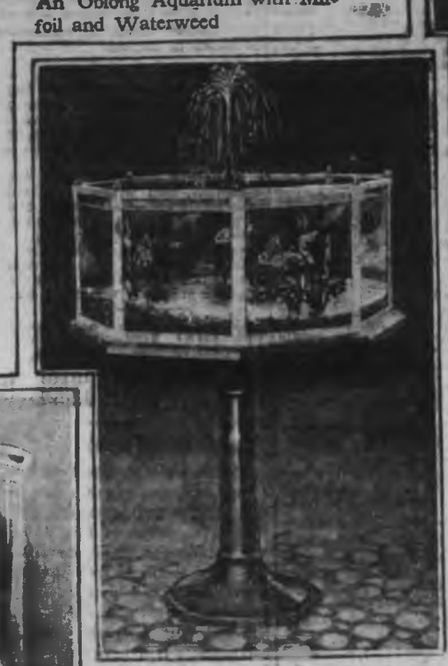
REVIVAL OF AN OLD TIME INTEREST

An aquarium a feature of the young girl's sitting room

A PAGE FOR MISSES

An Oblong Aquarium with Milfoil and Waterweed

Square Aquarium



Round Glass Aquarium on a Pedestal with a Terra Cotta Surrounded with Milfoil, Waterweed and Water Poppies

Octagonal Aquarium with Fountain

OF all household pets fish are the least trouble and expense, provided only that the care of them is once properly understood, and there is no girl or boy, or grown-up either, for that matter, who, having once owned an aquarium, with its pretty little inhabitants of goldfish darting constantly in and out among the grottoes and growing plants, but will quickly acknowledge the interest and the pleasure to be derived from these silent, exquisite playthings. Nor is there any foundation for the statement so often heard that fish are such unsatisfactory pets, as no matter how much personal care may be expended upon them they can never show any answering affection but live only to eat, drink, swim about aimlessly or sleep hidden away in the sand among the roots of the plants provided for their comfort. To look on at feeding time, when the girl who loves her goldfish bends over her aquarium to scatter the tiny morsels of food to her pets and to see the little bits of gold flash up toward her hand without a hint of fear, but with evident confidence and eagerness, would assure even the most cynical philosopher that there are affection and loyalty to be found in tiny fishes just as well as in many larger four footed animals.

The most important consideration in the care of the aquarium is personal interest. No aquarium that is not taken care of by its owner alone can ever thrive, for in the feeding of the fish and in the changing of the water regularity is all important, and there can be no system worked out by several individuals, each using a different method. Just as our health is dependent upon the sort of houses we live in, the amount of sunlight, fresh air, good food and attractive surroundings, so it is with our little aquatic friends. The aquarium must not be too small for the number of fish whose house it is, there must be light and fresh air to breathe, plants should be placed in the corners and on the bottom of the glass to break the monotony, and the right kind of food in correct quantity must be regularly administered.

As regards the size of the aquarium—a gallon of water is generally allowed for each fish of three to four inches in length, and although the smaller fish may be somewhat more crowded, more fish die from overcrowding in the aquarium than from any other cause.

The shape of the aquarium is also all important. It is almost an impossibility for fish to live any great length of time in one of the so familiar round fish globes. Apart from many other objections, the aperture is much too small to admit a sufficient amount of air to the surface. The most satisfactory aquarium of all—certainly the one that is the most ornamental in the room—is made of one piece of glass, is rectangular in shape and is an inch or two deeper than it is long—11½ inches in length, 13 inches high and 8½ inches in width being good proportions.

An aquarium once properly filled and stocked and placed where it shall receive both light and good ventilation does not require to be refilled perhaps oftener than once or twice a year. The common theory that the water must be changed every day or two is an erroneous one, and in cold weather the frequent changing of the water, causing sudden changes of temperature, is really dangerous. When three or four fish are kept in a gallon of water in a room without sufficient ventilation, then the water requires constant changing; but when the aquarium is placed where there is good sunlight and is provided with a proper portion of aquatic plants and sufficient sand for them to grow in, then the water need be changed only when the aquarium is to be cleaned.

In fitting up the aquarium the first point is to see that the glass itself is thoroughly cleaned—it may be polished with tissue paper or any soft paper that will not scratch the glass. Neither soap nor any kind of chemical should be used in cleaning the aquarium. Next a two inch layer of sand should be spread evenly over the bottom of the glass, and this serves to hold the roots of the living plants, by means of which the necessary oxygen for the fish is provided and the carbon which is thrown off by the fish absorbed. A few irregularly shaped stones should be formed in a pile or built up so as to form a ladder or series of arches for the fish to occasionally screen themselves from the light. A piece of tuffstone placed in one corner of the aquarium is also effective. Cabomba caroliniana, Myriophyllum spicatum, Pontinalis antipyretica, Sagittaria natans, Ludurgia—are all good plants for the aquarium and can be obtained at any time of year. In planting them it will often be necessary to place a few pebbles about the roots in order to hold the roots firm. The water is then added, and this water must, needless to state, be absolutely pure and clean.

AFTER filling the aquarium it should remain a day or two in order that it may acquire the temperature of the room inwhich it is to stand, and also accumulate oxygen from the plants to make it habitable. A few tadpoles and snails should be kept in an aquarium, as they consume a great deal of the decaying vegetable matter from the plants and also prevent to a large extent the formation of algae upon the glass.

Food should be administered at a regular time each day. A piece of flake food about the size of a ten cent piece is the correct quantity for each fish in the summer time, while in winter half the quantity is sufficient. Once a week a piece of earthworm or a bit of raw beef should be given each fish. Overfeeding is very nearly as dangerous to the fish as a starvation diet, and the food must never be allowed to remain floating on the top of the water if the fish does not desire to eat when it is given him.

The water in the aquarium will naturally evaporate somewhat. When it has gone down a half inch it should be filled to the old mark with water which has been kept standing over night so as to obtain the same temperature as the water in the aquarium.

UNQUESTIONABLY goldfish are the most popular for the aquarium. Certainly they are the most effective of all fish, but the really complete aquarium is not confined to the one kind of goldfish, but shows such varieties as the Japanese fantail, Japanese fringetail, Japanese comet, Japanese telescope goldfish, or the celestial telescope fish, all of which are wonderfully interesting and effective varieties of the familiar goldfish. These fish are all fairly hardy and with good care and proper precautions when they exhibit unusual symptoms they should live for a long time and afford great amusement and entertainment to all who see them.

Fish are as prone to sickness as any other animal, but they are also quite as able to respond to treatment. When the fish remain down in the water it is a sign that they are well and all is right in the tank, but when they come to the top apparently gasping for air it may be known that the water is impure or that the oxygen is exhausted and a change of water is necessary. This is also a frequent sign that there are too many fish in the tank.

As everything depends upon the condition of the water in which they live, breathe and have their being, this must be carefully watched to see that no undue signs appear. If the water is green, for example, there is too much strong light upon the aquarium. A piece of tissue paper should be fastened against the side of the glass that is exposed directly to the sun and a few extra snails and tadpoles added. A green, brown or reddish growth on the sides of the glass is also caused by the effect of too strong light, as are green, brown or white hairs appearing on the plants.

The aquarium should never have any odor. An offensive smell will be caused by dead animal matter only, which must be removed and the sand thoroughly washed and reset.

Save for the snails and tadpoles, which are necessary as scavengers, most fish lovers prefer to keep the goldfish to themselves, although occasionally silver fish are placed among the goldfish to further enhance by contrast the beauty of the others, with their brilliant, golden red scales.

Automobile Flower Vases.

A PRETTY motor novelty of the winter is the metal vase for flowers which is bracketed in to the limousine cars. The vase is small and slender in design, being intended to hold a few loose flowers, like a couple of orchids or short stemmed roses or chrysanthemums. It is fastened between the windows in the front of the car, where the flowers are on view to the passers-by and look very gay and festive. As the limousine cars are heated and now are adorned with flowers, they contain for those girls who, with or without their mothers, fly about in them these cold winter days a delightful atmosphere of warmth and fragrance.

SOCIAL AMENITIES FOR THE SCHOOL GIRL

VANITY, which is a most abhorrent quality in any one, is greatly to be deplored in young girls, a large part of whose charm lies in the fact that they are generally without self-consciousness. And Mrs. Grundy, the arbiter of the social world, is very severe on the girl whose conceit is strong and so obvious that it seems to be running away with her.

One of the most ill-mannered forms that girlish vanity takes in public is the propensity for gazing in mirrors. There is, alas! a type of girl who so resembles the peacock that she cannot seem to refrain from preening her feathers on every possible occasion. At home while making her toilet for the street she spends an inordinate amount of time before the glass, but this apparently does not satisfy her, for one sees her running up to the mirrors in the hotels, the shops and other such places to "prink," which she does with as much complacency as if she were in the privacy of her home.

The onlooker, observing girls behaving in this manner, puts them down at once as belonging to the class who are ignorant of the rules of polite society, one of the most stringent of which is that one must not make one's self conspicuous in any way in public places. And the onlooker is inclined to feel very sorry for these girls, as ignorance in any form is a state much to be pitied.

There is another type of peacock girl who gazes in public mirrors, not to see if anything about her is awry but solely for the purpose of admiring herself. Apparently she never tires of this occupation, and she may do it openly if she is a bold girl, or she will do it covertly if she has some delicacy, but the point is that she does it, and is everlastingly doing it. She studies her full face, she studies her profile, when a triple mirror gives her the opportunity, and when she passes a long mirror she admires herself prodigiously, full length.

This altogether view is a very popular one with this sort of girl, and she gets it with great frequency as she passes along the street by gazing in the huge mirrors so commonly found as a background of shop windows. They are perfect reflectors, these mirrors—in fact, that is their reason for being where they are, and the peacock girls have been quick to find out their advantages and apply them to themselves. When you see these girls going along the streets gazing into all the shop windows with an intent air, it is not the goods displayed there that they are looking at, but at themselves.

Young girls have not the excuse that their elders have for feeling that their hair may be blown and a bit disorderly, for girls wear their hair in a loose, fluffy way that admits of stray locks. It is not good form for young girls to wear veils, and neither is it permissible for them to indulge in nets for the hair until the year before they are to be introduced to society, when, as they are regarded by Mrs. Grundy as almost grown up, she countenances their taking on some young lady-ish ways.

Even at that important time, when they are emerging into young ladyhood, their social mentor does not allow them to take up the practice of powder or paint or the lip salve, which some of their elders indulge in. Even if such artificiality were not reprehensible from a moral standpoint, it would be condemned from the viewpoint of looks alone, for the average young girl has a glowing, fresh skin, too attractive in its natural state to be improved by artificial touches.

Some girls who have had the bad example of seeing their elders use powder have a wild desire to do likewise, and when they are coming on to the young lady age they possess themselves of a powder puff and apparently get somewhat the same excitement out of using it that boys do when they smoke their first cigarettes. But the polite world does not approve of powdered girls or of any sort of artificial girls, and if in defiance of good form you insist on being one you are regarded by society as beyond the pale.

PRACTICAL TALKS BY THE APRIL GRANDMOTHER

"WHENEVER you observe a girl wearing low cut shoes and openwork hosiery in zero weather you may safely assume that she is either singularly ignorant of the laws of hygiene and good taste or inordinately vain of her feet."

The April Grandmother turned from the window and sat down before the open fire as she continued:—"One of the first rules of health is to keep the lower extremities warm. Their state is an excellent barometer of the physical condition, for they rarely are cold save when the head aches, the stomach disordered or the body chilled, and the first remedy is to warm them. No amount of clothing elsewhere will avail in winter if the ankles are practically bare. Therefore thoroughly waterproof, high-topped boots are of the utmost importance, particularly to school girls and especially to those who are subject to sore throat. At least two pairs of such shoes are necessary, that they may be worn alternately, a single night's airing being usually insufficient to free their soles from moisture. Fresh stockings, put on daily and always changed when the shoes get damp, should have white feet, as aniline colorings are extremely irritating to a sensitive skin.

"The fatigue of which so many apparently healthy school girls complain may frequently be traced to the wearing of ill fitting corsets, which while loose in some places are too tight in one or more directions. Obviously such garments are apt to squeeze a vital organ out of its natural position as well as to produce weakness and a consequent loss of capacity to practice calisthenics, not to mention the extent to which they will detract from the suppleness and grace of motion of their wearer. Not only should the corsets worn by school girls be fitted individually to the figure in order to secure a minimum of pressure at the most vital points, but they should be made of the lightest possible materials, for too thick clothing is quite as much of a mistake as is too thin clothing. Nowhere is this fact more frequently evidenced than in the case of underwear, and the one test to apply to it is that it shall be of a texture which will permit the skin to breath.

"The most healthful underwear consists of a mixture of wool with silk or cotton, for while the all wool garments absorb a far larger amount of perspiration with less danger to the wearer's taking cold from its moisture contact with the cuticle, it is liable to become impervious after a course of launderings. Underwear made entirely of cotton and linen is almost absolutely worthless as a protection against cold, for layer upon layer of such materials does not really afford warmth, while the weight of it is not only exceedingly weakening, but prevents the fresh air from reaching the cuticle's pores. Therefore the present fashions in draperies have at least been beneficial to the extent of proving that a limited number of garments of heat giving texture afford quite as much warmth as do bundles of clothing, which merely serve to add to the weight.

"Hair pads should be avoided as much as possible, as they not only heat the head, but the combs and heavy pins necessary to keep them in place irritate the scalp. Hats should be of light weight and not fit the head so tightly as to interfere with the circulation of the blood through the scalp or give rise to headache by pressing upon the nerves near the crown, for the head—governed by a rule precisely opposite to that in regard to the feet—should be kept cool."

KEEP YOUR SHELVES ORDERLY.

A GIRL should be every bit as particular about her closet shelves as she is with her bureau drawers, and no closet can look attractive when piled up with row upon row of miscellaneous boxes of indiscriminate colors, shapes and sizes. The shapes and the sizes of the boxes cannot, perhaps, be regulated, for every pair of slippers, every hair ornament, as well as every hat which has its own place on one of the shelves, demands a box fitted especially to its own peculiar proportions; but there is no reason, certainly, why all these boxes should not be of a corresponding color, so as to be a pleasure to look upon rather than a veritable eyesore every time the closet door is opened. Nothing is simpler than to cover a cardboard box with wallpaper. Certainly the result gives no idea of how easy of accomplishment is the task, and in the large electric lighted hanging closets which are a part of every girl's suite of rooms to-day the bright covered boxes are real ornaments.

If possible the boxes should be of the same paper as adorns the walls, but if it is not possible to match the paper exactly any pretty flower design will be effective. If there is any definite figure or pattern in the design of the paper there will perhaps be a slight difficulty with the large box in fitting this design to the allotted space, but in the case of small boxes it is not worth while to attempt to fit the pattern to the sides or top. Any good white paste will do for this sort of work, but dextrine, if properly mixed, is probably the best for the purpose. Five cents' worth of dextrine placed in a pan and not quite covered over with water makes the correct quantity.

For sashes, veils, gloves, stockings, as well as for shirt waists, furs and a number of the larger articles in the outfit, these attractively covered boxes are now used.

• SOME PRACTICAL AND USEFUL HINTS.

THERE are tricks in all trades, and the trick of cutting bread perfectly for sandwiches does not lie merely, as some think, in having a sharp knife, but in knowing how to properly execute certain preliminaries to get the bread in shape for actual slicing. The inexperienced say that they cannot make sandwiches of fresh bread because it goes all to pieces in the cutting, but the skilful person knows that only fresh bread should be used and that it is a simple matter when once the way to handle it is understood. Take a fresh loaf, turn it on end and delicately pare off in sections the upper crust. Then remove the under crust by cutting it down firmly in one piece, but do not take off the side crusts, for they are needed to support the loaf. Now, as you begin to cut, hold on to the loaf by pinching it at the top as close as you can without breaking the texture of the bread and cut while you pinch, so that the knife goes through a narrowed slice that widens out to its proper proportions as it drops to the board. This method enables you to get beautiful thin slices, the sides of which you trim later after they have been buttered.

THE fluffy haired girls have had their innings, and the craze now is for shining tresses. The hair must have lustre, and if you have naturally oily hair, which, perhaps, you have always hated, you now have an enormous advantage over your fluffy-haired sister, for all you have to do is to brush, and brush, and brush to attain the lustre now required by Madame Modish. Persistent brushing is a tiresome process, but it produces most satisfactory results in giving polish and color to the hair. The fluffy-haired girl has to brush twice as long as the other, and she has to constantly have oil massaged into her scalp to get any lustre. Days when she is not massaged she puts a little oil on her brush and polishes her locks in that way. It is said that the girls in foreign countries who work at making olive oil have the most beautiful hair in the world, all because their oily fingers come more or less in touch with their heads, and in consequence the hair is so well nourished that it grows as fine as silk and takes on lovely sheen and color.

HOME remedies are laughed at, but they are not to be despised.

Often in an emergency they are most useful, especially in the country where the doctor lives at a distance.

The old adage says that a burnt child dreads the fire, yet, literally, one is always getting burnt. No matter how often it has happened before, some pot or kettle gets in the way, consequently a hurried call for burning ointment.

The best way to relieve the pain is to make a lotion out of linseed oil and lime-water—one-third limewater to two-thirds oil. If these ingredients are not handy put molasses on the sore spot. This is also a good remedy.

A very disagreeable trouble which can be doctored at home is asthma. Not only is it painful to those who suffer from it but it is very hard on other people to have to listen to the heavy breathing of the invalid, particularly at night, when the malady is at its worst.

To relieve this take a piece of blotting or tissue paper and place in a strong mixture of water and saltpetre. After it has absorbed the liquid dry it and burn it in the bedroom before the patient retires. This will prove a great help.

Often a deep knife cut is a very hard thing to administer to, because the sight of so much blood unnerves one.

To stop the flow of blood bind the cut with cobwebs and brown sugar.

A great many people will say this is an impossible receipt to follow, for no good housewife will allow cobwebs around.

In any case, the dust of tea does equally as well. When the blood ceases to flow wash the wound with laudanum.

ONE of this year's fashions which will appeal to all girls, but may be too extravagant for some of them, is the dainty embroidery on silk stockings. It would surely be delightful to have them to match one's different light evening gowns, and the girl who would hesitate to buy several pairs (as they are a most expensive luxury) can make them for herself if she has some skill in embroidery. She can buy the plain silk stockings in any color and have a design stamped on them and do the work herself.

Some of this embroidery is the plain solid work, but the designs are generally fine flowers and delicate tendrils. Some others of the most attractive stockings are done with ribbon embroidery. The tiny flowers are made of very narrow and soft ribbon, the ends of each little patch being gathered to a point. In some flowers there are several layers of petals, giving somewhat the effect of very heavily stuffed embroidery.

The leaves in these designs are also made of the ribbon, but it is put on flatter than in the flowers. The stems are worked with a fine embroidery silk in the outline stitch.

Others of the new stockings are embroidered with spangles, but these are really only suitable with a similarly spangled gown. On these stockings the design is often made entirely of spangles of different sizes, the stems and tendrils being lines of the tiniest spangles and the flowers of a much larger size.

INTERMEDIATES GET AWAY TO GOOD START BY DEFEATING BELLEVILLE TEAM HERE LAST NIGHT BY 5-0

Dead City Team Were Never in the Hunt and the Score Should Have Been Larger—Peterboro' Has a Very Promising Team.

GAME WAS ROUGH IN SPOTS

Peterborough's intermediate O.H.A. team got away to a good start in the race for the championship of the district last night, when they trimmed Doc. Gilbert's speedy bunch of hockeyists from Belleville by 5—0 before 600 fans at the Brock street rink, in the first intermediate game of the season. The result was never much in doubt. The homesters led at the half by 3—0 and the score on the play should have been considerably larger, as the Petes had it on the visitors from the drop of the hat. They scored the first goal in two minutes, and after that were never in trouble. Only erratic work around the nets kept the Petes' score from reaching double figures. They were a little off colour when in close, and that lost them many counters, but they won after all and won easily, and that satisfied the crowd. It must be taken into consideration that it was the first time that the seven men had ever played together and that they have had little or no practice together. They will be a greatly improved bunch the next time out, and will take a lot of beating before the district honours are given out. Their form last night delighted the fans and the interest in the game here has been greatly aroused by their clean cut victory over Belleville. A win by such a margin was not looked for by the most enthusiastic supporter of the club.

The game was not of the highest grade of hockey. Play lagged at times and both teams seemed short on condition, while the many delays from one cause or another tended to slow up the contest. However, it was interesting if not especially spectacular and the crowd enjoyed the battle. It was rough at times, both teams indulging in considerable slashing and tripping, while several fistic combats were thrown in by the way of variety, and the result was that Referee Dr. Gilfillan, of Uxbridge had the penalty timers working overtime, looking after players that had been temporarily banished from the scene of hostilities. Spangenberg of the Belleville team, had his nose accidentally broken by a blow from a stick, and Rose of the locals got a cut over the eye in the same way, these being the only serious mishaps. Both teams took and handed out bumps and came back for more.

The locals surprised the fans by their form, but at that they were not working as they will do before the season is long advanced. They uncorked considerable combination, and broke way nicely together, although they fell off a little when in the vicinity of the nets. However, the line had it all over Belleville in the matter of team work, and with a little more practice together, will make a most formidable advance guard. In checking back they were head and shoulders above their adversaries, boring back with the Belleville line so fast that the visitors had little chance to work down upon the defence and very rarely broke clear. This doubling back made the work of the defence easy and they were able to take care of the attacks in a business like manner that compelled the visitors to shoot from well out. In shooting the Petes were off, having hard luck in this particular. Many times they shot wide, when in so close that it looked like an easy score, but that fault will disappear with a little practice together. The forward line looks very promising, and should have no difficulty in developing a combination that will make them extremely difficult to handle. The defence is strong, being as good if not better than any in the district, and the teams that get enough goals to win from them will have to go some.

The Strathconas City League men Ray and Dusty, showed up remarkably well on the forward line last night. Ray who was taken off the senior team to play rover for the juniors, justified the wisdom of the step by putting up a splendid game in the position. He worked hard and with effect, handling the puck nicely and sweeping in on the nets with no regard for the rather rough usage that the big Belleville defence was handing out to him. In addition he checked back splendidly, being of material assistance to the defence in that particular. Dusty was at left wing and demonstrated that he can fill the position to a nicety. He was always in his place and made many effective rushes along the boards, while his shooting from the wing was all that could be asked for, and he promises to be a most useful member of the team. Wallie Parnell in centre was a little off colour in his shooting, but barring this, played a fine game, figuring in many combination plays and getting way with a lot of pretty individual work. Rose on the right was effective and useful and although handicapped by having his eye cut open early in the game, never let up for a minute.

Moore at cover and Glover at point made a strong defence that Belleville found very difficult to beat and they were never allowed to get clean through on Derocher. Both men checked well and were steady and reliable, while their occasional jaunts up the ice always helped. Derocher in the nets played a perfect game. He was called upon to take care of a number of shots, especially some long heaves from Pepper's stick and he handled them splendidly, relieving coolly after intercepting shot.

Belleville have a big and fairly fast team, but they have not the slightest sign of team work. Their forward line seemed to find it impossible to get away together and none of them could accomplish anything individually. Their defence was fairly strong, being considerably better than the forward line.

It would be a difficult matter to pick out the stars of the visitors' line, as the four played about the same brand of hockey. Reeves at right wing couldn't hold Dusty for a minute. Allen at centre was probably the best of the bunch. Dr. Gilbert, the old Varsity star, marred his playing at cover by considerable slashing, but outside of that he played good hockey. Pepper at point stopped scores of shots and added some excitement by some fine length wrist shots dead on the nets, which Derocher looked after without much trouble. Boland in the nets managed to get himself in front of a large number of shots.

Dr. Gilfillan, of Uxbridge, refereed the game and gave satisfaction. He had his hands full but gave good service, and there were few complaints in regard to his work, although he made several mistakes. The teams were as follows:

PETERBOROUGH.

Derocher
Glover
Moore
Ray
Rose — Parnell — Dusty

Spangenberg — Allen — Reeves

BELLEVILLE.

Goal umpires—Ernie Ford, Belleville; Jack Seymour, Peterborough.

Timers—"Sandy" Burrowes, Belleville; Len Dobson, Peterborough.

Penalty Timers—W E Wasson, Peterborough; Mr. Jones, Belleville.

Play started at 8.35, with the Petes pressing matters from the beginning Ray, Rose and Parnell got away together from the face but Parnell shot wide and a chance was gone. Belleville relieved for a minute, but Glover got away with a nice rush, passing to Ray at centre and the little rover swept down on the nets for a shot which was blocked. Parnell, however, scored on the rebound in 2 minutes.

Peterborough, 1; Belleville, 0.

Moore was given three minutes for slashing but the locals held Belleville out. Rose received a cut over the eye, and retired to recuperate, Spangenberg going with him. Burke served two sentences in the next few minutes for slashing, but there were no changes in the score, although Peterborough was pressing all the way, checking back so well with Belleville that the visitors never had a chance Spangenberg was hurt and retired with Rose. Moore got another sentence for slashing. Finally after twenty minutes hard playing Dusty got away down the boards and shot a goal neatly from the side.

Peterborough, 2; Belleville, 0.

A minute later the Strathcona player repeated the stunt to the delight of the crowd.

Peterborough, 3; Belleville, 0.

There was no further scoring until after half time. Pepper served a sentence for slashing and Allen followed him for tripping. Moore went back again for using his stick too vigorously, and Dr. Gilbert of the visitors was benched for tripping Just before half time Dusty and Burke got into a mix up and both were sent away immediately after half time Parnell and Pepper mixed it up, and were penalized but the score did not increase. Peterborroughs were having all the best of the play, but could not score until Dusty and Ray got away together, the latter doing the trick on a neat pass from the former.

Time, 6 minutes.

Peterborough, 4; Belleville, 0.

Pepper went off for cross checking and Dusty and Burke followed him. The, were not all back when Reeves was penalized. Finally after 14 minutes playing Moore checked Gilbert in centre ice and carried the puck through for a pretty score.

Peterborough, 5; Belleville, 0.

Peterborough nearly scored again in a scrimmage but although nearly the players of both teams were piled into the nets the puck somehow kept on the outside Moore was sent away again and Rose followed suit for interference. The local cover point had just climbed back on the ice when Referee Gilfillan again banished him. Ray was given a minute for loafing off side and just after he got back Allen and Parnell had a sparring match which was rudely interrupted by the referee. The capacity of the penalty box was taxed to the utmost a moment later when Gilbert and Moore went at each other and were ushered to the side lines. There was no scoring before time was called. In the last few minutes Glover was penalized for slashing so that every man on each side, except the goal keepers, was off during the game.

HANDICAPPED BY LOSS OF RAY LOCAL JUNIORS WERE BEATEN IN COBOURG

Playing without the services of Charlie Ray, their captain, and rover, the local O. H. A. Juniors were defeated in Cobourg last night by a score of 14-3, after a game that was much closer than the score would seem to indicate. The half time score was 5-2 in favour of the Cobourg team, but the Petes held them close for the first period. With a minute to play in the first half, Pentland, the Peterborough's cover point, had to leave the game with a cut over the eye, and during his absence the home team scored twice. The same thing happened towards the end of the second half. Wade received a hard bump with eight minutes to play, and went off for the rest of the game The Cobourg team took advantage of the opportunity to run in 5 goals in the last 8 minutes.

The game was hard fought all the way and the Petes made it closer than it looks, despite the fact that they were demoralized on the forward line by Ray's absence. Porter was injured shortly after play had started, and was off until after half time Despite the injuries received, the game was not rough although Cobourg got away with a considerable amount of slashing

Short played a fine game for Peterborough while Glidden shone for the homesters, the little left wing showing all kinds of speed and splendid shooting abilities. The injury to the Petes' defence demoralized the team, but Giroux in the nets played a fine game, those that beat him being from close in.

Following was the line up, the teams being six men a side:

REV. MR. CARMICHAEL BURIED.

Ministers Condemn Gossips Who Say Deceased Was Victim of Drugs.

Romulus, Mich., Jan. 16.—Rev. John H. Carmichael, murderer of Gideon Browning in the Methodist Church at Rattle Run, was buried here yesterday from the Methodist Church.

Rev. C. W. Baldwin of Detroit and president elder Rev. John Sweet of the Detroit district, both made brief addresses. A large floral tribute from the Detroit Methodist Episcopal Church district, with the words "Our Brother," lay on the coffin.

The local Methodist Church was crowded to the doors during the funeral services. Some of the crowd, it was said, had driven 20 miles to be present. Many of them stood throughout the services. Most of them braved the cold and attended the services at the grave.

Before the funeral services began, the casket was opened and the crowd permitted to view the face of the dead minister who, while located in Romulus, had built the church from which he was buried.

Rev. F. D. Leete of Detroit in a prayer severely criticized gossip mongers, who, he thought, might have spared the Carmichael family, some of their sufferings.

Rev. John Sweet in a brief address, scored the persons who were responsible for spreading false reports about the dead minister, such as the allegation that he was addicted to the use of drugs. He praised Carmichael, saying that he had always found his living up to the high ideals of his profession.

Carmichael's Malady.

Port Huron, Mich., Jan. 16.—That Rev. John Haviland Carmichael was suffering from an acute mania, was the verdict arrived at by several prominent Detroit physicians, following a post mortem examinations. They also decided that there was no evidence of Mr. Carmichael having used a hypodermic syringe.

BUILDING THE PALACE.

Montreal Carnival Promoters Set to Work on Construction.

Montreal, Jan. 16.—The first blocks of ice were frozen in yesterday for the foundations of the ice palace, which is to be the big feature of the winter carnival, and energetic preparations were made for rushing the work ahead.

The ice palace is to be built on a scale unprecedented in the history of previous carnivals. Its main feature will be the King Edward tower, which will be a glittering mass of ice 190 feet high and 40 feet square. This, built on a plateau 200 feet higher than the top of the famous Notre Dame towers, will give a magnificent prospect. The royal tower will be flanked by two lesser ones, named after the Prince of Wales and the Queen, the three connected by ice arches about 60 feet high.

Over a quarter of a million cubic feet of ice will be used in building the palaces, and stalls for exhibition purposes will be opened inside. The whole will be brilliantly illuminated with arc lights, and surrounded by an ice wall.

An elaborate program extending over ten days is being prepared, and, despite the opposition of the railway interests it is expected that the carnival will be a huge success.

Says Alderman Wanted Bribe.

Montreal, Jan. 16.—A sensation was sprung yesterday before the incineration committee when J. A. Jacob declared that Alderman Lesperance had asked $1,000 to secure the contract and later on he came down to $600.

The alderman denied the charge, and then Ald. Martin, M.P., said Lesperance had come to him and said here was $600 in it for both.

At this Ald. Lesperance declared he would take action both against Jacob and Ald. Martin immediately.

Cartwright and Hepworth repealed Local Option, but an explanation of the facts of the case are interesting. These villages have been incorporated recently, and hence manage their own municipal affairs. When the last campaign was an issue, Cartwright and Hepworth were parts of the Township, but each gave an adverse vote on by-law. In the recent vote these villages voted against Local Option, but this is exactly what they have always done.

In no place in the Province has a Local Option By-Law once passed, been repealed.

In 55 places Local Option was voted on for the first time, 22 places were carried; in 20 others a majority vote was polled; but only in 13 places did the liquor interests win.

In 84 contests the net result was:—

Total votes for Local Option.....26,905
Total votes against Local Option.....18,258
Majority for Local Option.....8,647

OWEN SOUND

The result of the campaign for the repeal of the Local Option By-Law in the Town of Owen Sound is one well calculated to make every opponent of the open bar-room take courage. This is the largest town in Ontario in which Local Option has been tried. It has been in operation there for three years. The Mayor, Council, Police and all the officials have been unfriendly. Every possible effort has been made to discredit the temperance law. The liquor interests have pointed to Owen Sound from all quarters of the Province as an example of the failure of Local Option. It was declared that when the time came for a repeal vote and the people had a chance to pronounce on the question they would settle for all time the question of temperance legislation for Owen Sound.

What is the result? Local Option is sustained by a vote several hundred in excess of that by which it came in three years ago. Not only that, but the anti-temperance Mayor and nearly all his colleagues on the Council failed to be re-elected. Owen Sound having been made a test case by the liquor interests, they having bent all their energies in the direction of securing a verdict there, as an example to the rest of the province, the temperance workers may well be encouraged by the result.

BRANTFORD

In this City a local option by-law should have been submitted but was thrown out by an unfriendly City Council. As a result the temperance question became an issue at the recent municipal election. Result: of a Council of fifteen members, the Mayor and ten other members are pledged temperance advocates.

LAKEFIELD

Locally the result of the vote in the Village of Lakefield is very gratifying. It is a well known fact that there the officials have been unfriendly. Determined efforts have been made for the past three years to so manage things as to lead the general public to believe that the local option by-law was a failure. The people here as in Owen Sound, have given a decisive answer. The temperance law has been sustained, by a good majority, and a Council thoroughly in sympathy has been elected. The bar-room is doomed.

NO BAR-ROOMS

In connection with the recent vote in the City of Toronto, as a result of which forty bars are cut off, it may be of interest to many to know that there are at present in the City just about that number of hotels in which there are no bars. Of these, ten are illustrated in a recent issue of a Toronto paper, and the statement is made that these ten furnish more accommodation than 50 licensed houses that could be named.

MARCH OF CANADIAN EMPIRE AS SHOWN BY GROWTH OF FORT WILLIAM GRAPHIC STORY OF ACHIEVEMENT UNSURPASSED IN ANNALS OF PROGRESS

HOW THE WESTERN CITY HAS GROWN AND PROSPERED—THE DEVELOPMENT ILLUSTRATED BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO THE EXAMINER.

FORT WILLIAM AS IT WAS IN 1898.

SEAPORT IN HEART OF THE CONTINENT

Fort William, Jan. 15. — Although Fort William, the Great Lakes terminus by choice of two great Canadian Transcontinental Railways, and by ultimate necessity of the third, was only incorporated as a town in 1892, its history reaches as far back as 1669, in which year the explorer DuBut, built a trading post on the banks of the Kaministiquia, here. In 1717 the French Government in sending an expedition to explore the continent to the Pacific, established a base of supplies here and a fort was erected by Lieutenant Robertal de Laforie. The fort became the base of operations of Verandrye and his sons, who in 1731 located Rainy River and discovered the "Great West." A mission of importance was established by the Catholic Church authorities in 1740. In 1792 the Northwest Trading Company made Kaministiquia its principal trading post, and in 1805 the fort was rebuilt and named Fort William in honour of Hon. Wm. McGillivray. According to LaHoutain, at some seasons of the year no less than 3,000 traders, trappers and their families, were assembled at Fort William. In 1821 the Northwest Company was amalgamated with the Hudson Bay Co. and the latter, who had been located at Pointe de Meuron, seven miles up the "Kam." made Fort William its chief point of operation. Fort William had its real beginning, however, when it was selected by the Government, as the lake terminus of the contemplated Transcontinental Railway, and its future became assured when in 1890 the Canadian Pacific Railway company commenced the consolidation of its work at this point.

When the good fathers who in 1740 established as an outpost of civilizing and Christianizing influence, the old mission at what is to-day the thriving and prosperous city of Fort William, they little imagined that in the coming time the spot which they had consecrated to the spread of the Gospel among the savages who outside their own slender numbers, constituted almost the only population of a vast expanse of virgin soil larger than France, would be given over to the uses of the greatest railway enterprise the world has known, and would mark the point of distribution to the peoples of two continents of the unlimited products of the granary of the world.

In order to appreciate the amazing achievements that have been accomplished in the development of the great western heritage of our Dominion, and which can only be adequately realized by comparing the ensuring conditions that are in evidence here to-day with those which confronted the pioneers of progress, one may recall that it was only so recently as 1878 that the first shipment of Western Canadian wheat to Eastern Canada took place, and that was a consignment of 800 bushels loaded by the Ogilvie Company on a Red River steamer and taken up the Red River to Fisher's Landing, then the terminus of north-western railway development in the United States. It was then transhipped and taken by car to Duluth and carried to the east in one of the small boats which were then sufficient for all the requirements of the lake shipping. Two seasons ago a single vessel the steamer "William P. Snyder, sailed out of this prosperous and important port with a cargo of 380,253 bushels of grain, and in the year just closed there were shipped from this port, as shown by the grain inspector's report, the enormous aggregate of 68,194,300 bushels of the produce of the soil, of which 59,391,620 bushels was wheat; 11,210,391 bushels, oats; 2,157,703, barley; 1,434,585 bushels, flax.

It it is conceded that the man who makes two blades of grass to grow where one grew before, is greater than the commanders of armies, surely the Canadian people owe a debt of gratitude to the statesmen of each party in turn to whose genius, patriotic energy and liberal and sagacious enterprise, we owe it that the marvellous resources with which a bountiful providence has endowed our country, have been made to render their unexampled wealth, under the hand of industry conducive to the prosperity and the progress of Canada.

We are all familiar with the story of progressive development throughout the vast region stretching away westward to the Pacific Coast, filling the prairies with thriving settlers, and dotting the country with prosperous towns and cities, but one has to come into contact with the vast machinery of enterprise that has the actual handling of the enormous volume of the product of this new land, and its despatch to the marts of the world to adequately realize what is going on in the creation of wealth, in the expansion of population, in the creation of markets for the industrial activities of the east, and in the rapid realization of that dream of Empire which is surely to mark this Twentieth century, the century of Canada, as the nineteenth saw the fulfilment of the destiny of the nation to the south of us. And when one reflects that this enormous achievement that has so far been effected has resulted from the operation of the Canadian Pacific, and its subsidiary lines alone, save for the recent co-operation of the Canadian Northern, that our vast resources of fertile lands offer us the means in the near future of multiplying many times what has so far been accomplished, and that the completion of the Canadian Northern system and the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific provide fully for the practical utilization of these means, we may look forward with certain confidence to a stage of development to be attained within the next decade that may well stagger the imagination, but is nevertheless most absolutely assured.

And it is only when we have reached fulness of our national stature, when we shall be able to fairly and fully appreciate the forces that have united to work out the high destiny toward which we are swiftly pressing, that our people will be enabled to grasp an adequate comprehension of the value of the patriotic work that has been conducted by our statesmen, and by those who administer the great national utilities, and in an especial manner, by the master mind of the Minister of the Interior, Hon. Mr. Sifton, to whose practical genius we mainly owe the splendid immigration system that is filling the fertile plains with a prosperous population.

City of Fort William

Nature, that has been so unstinting in the profusion of her bounty, in placing at the disposal of our people an almost unlimited expanse of arable lands of incomparable fertility, has also provided a natural means of carrying the products of the soil to the markets of the world. Here at the head of the Great Lakes is the finest natural harbour on their boundaries, a port of commanding importance, even in its operations in its comparative infancy of to-day, and destined, with the construction of the Georgian Bay Canal to become practically an ocean port in the heart of the continent. The record of the past year shows that the harbours of Fort William and its sister, though not sisterly, city of Port Arthur, were open for 242 days, and that during that period, including Sundays, there was an average shipment of grain of 281,784 bushels of grain per diem. In addition to this were the large shipments of grain by rail, and the handling of enormous quantities of mercantile and manufactured commodities which here break bulk for distribution throughout the western provinces. The increase of grain shipment of 1908 over 1907 was 8,383,477 bushels, and next year, with the extension of the Canadian Northern and the operation of the Grand Trunk Paifie to and beyond Edmonton, the rate of increase must infallibly receive a vigorous impulse. The amount paid out yearly by the chartered banks, of which there are eight, to the Canadian Pacific Railway for grain alone totals over $8,000,000 a year.

The city of Fort William is the mouth of a gigantic funnel, to which centres, and through which pours out into the eastern channels of distribution practically the entire products of Western Canada, to-day and for all the future, and the opinion of Sir William Van Horne, that this city is destined to be the Chicago of Canada, is shared by the most sagacious minds among those who are practically interested in the progress of western development.

It is therefore not surprising that men of shrewd enterprise should have taken account of the manifest opportunities that are here presented, and that already a city has been built up of very creditable proportions on strictly modern lines, and in all its departments wisely adapted to the requirements of future expansion, and confident faith in which is founded on a solid and substantial basis.

Building of a City

I visited Fort William twelve years ago, when it was a thriving little town, full of virile energy, and ambitious for the future. I find it today expanded almost beyond belief, with a magnificent city hall equal to any in Ontario, outside of Toronto, with three well-built business streets instead of one, handsome residences lining well-kept streets, where there was then but a marsh, and with every evidence of a vigorous prosperity. At the close of 1908 the population numbered 16,500 over the previous year. The customs receipts for 1908 reached $698,808, an increase of $159,516 over last year. The post office had a revenue of $25,626.19, and issued last year money orders to the amount of $571,950. I have mentioned the volume of grain shipments. The taxable assessment last year reached $13,350,167, an increase of $5,078,030 over 1907. Building permits during the year totalled $1,555,000. Seven elevators are in operation, having a storage capacity of 12,000,000 bushels. The monthly pay-roll of the Canadian Pacific Railway here is $100,000. The city operates its own street railway system, electric light plant, has a splendid sewer system, and is just completing a magnificent water supply system, whose source is Loch Lomond, at a cost of $305,000. There are five miles of natural harbour for vessels drawing twenty feet of water. At Kakabeka Falls, seventeen miles from the city, is a $2,000,000 electric power plant, and power for the city is supplied by the Kaministiquia Power Company at $25 per h.p. for twenty-four hours. The Ogilvie Flour Mills Company here in mill and elevators employ 125 men and turn out daily 300,000 barrels of flour. The handsome residences and mercantile buildings are built of brick, manufactured here, for which there are fine facilities. Four brick manufacturing companies make some 6,000,000 brick per year. A modern morning newspaper, under the editorial charge of Mr. Rawson, formerly of the Montreal Star, supplies the news of the world, having a full Associated Press service, and enterprising local departments. There is also an evening paper.

What the Future Holds Out

The Canadian Pacific reaches its terminals on Thunder Bay at Fort William by skirting along the north bank of the Kaministiquia River, and the city, which owes its origin to the railway naturally formed its nucleus in the neighbourhood of the station and elevators of the railway system. Originally the railway owned a large area within the town limits, but after providing as was estimated for its future requirements, sold what was considered unnecessary, for building sites. Now, however, after having expended some seventy millions of dollars in car shops, elevators, docks, coal slips and in yards and terminal facilities, so rapidly have the expanding requirements of the business of the road at this point overtaken the resources provided, that the company has been compelled to purchase a new site for the expansion of its terminal arrangements. The "Kam" as it is familiarly called, entering Thunder Bay forms a delta, beginning where the Mission River branches off, going directly to the bay Dividing the triangular space between the mouths of these two rivers, is McKellar River, which cuts the separated land into two islands known as Island No. 1 and Island No. 2. The eastern of these islands is nearest to the C.P.R. terminals, and here the railway has acquired a tract of land facing the harbour, and contemplates this year the expenditure of $2,000,000 in installing an extension of its terminal facilities to meet present and provide for future, requirements.

Arrangements have been made for construction, during the present year, of a union station on Yonge street, and joint terminals for the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Pacific, to cost millions of dollars, and when this is accomplished, a subway will effect a junction of the rail and steamer passenger traffic, which at present has to be transferred from the docks to the station by vehicle.

The Grand Trunk Pacific

At the west end of the city the Grand Trunk Pacific will reach tide water, following the contour of the Mission River, and has acquired an extensive water frontage for coal docks, wharves and elevators, the construction of which will be entered upon at once, some of the contracts having already been allotted. Two thousand men will be employed in building work during the approaching season, and an initial expenditure calculated at not less than two million dollars will at once be entered upon at this point; indeed, a contract for a million dollar elevator has already been let. The ultimate expenditure for terminal accommodation which will be pushed rapidly to completion, will be at least equal to that of the C.P.R., and will reach to upwards of six or seven millions. This outlay followed by the maintenance and indefinite expansion of an elevator system expected to be superior to anything in our experience, and the traffic to be transhipped here, will inevitably create a duplication of the present Fort William in an incredibly short time. Anticipating this, the city has purchased from the Indian Reserve, a highway extending to the harbour front. The street railway will be extended along this street during the coming season and thus a means afforded for the development of the city's business to the G.T.P.R. terminal. For the connecting bridge across the Mission River the city has secured highway rights by a grant of $300,000 towards construction. It is also understood that on the opening of navigation this year the Northern Navigation Company, will take advantage of the Grand Trunk Pacific business and make Fort William its headquarters at the head of the lakes and establish their offices at this point.

It may be readily apprehended that with the conjunction of all these immense and permanent advantages those who foresee in Fort William, Winnipeg and Edmonton the three great inland cities of the Dominion, have ample warranty for their belief, certainly so far as Fort William is concerned.

The development of Fort William may be mentioned that in the immediate neighbourhood is a vast store of hematite and magnetic iron ore of the highest quality and destined in time to come, to make another "Sooo" at this point, and to lead to the erection of important manufacturing industries.

I ought to have mentioned in the proper place the value to the business interests of the East of the shipping interest created by the operations of the grain movement of this point. Out of 53,391,620 bushels of wheat shipped last year from this port, 40,000,000 bushels were carried in Canadian bottoms, and the same proportion holds good both as to other products of the soil, and as to the volume of manufactured products brought in from the East, thus becoming an important factor in the trade and prosperity of the Ontario ports and is not without its direct interest to the people of your district, not only on account of its share in the enlargement of the market for manufactured goods, but also to the eastern agriculturist. When I mention that a friend engaged here in the grocery business showed where he had last year paid out over $20,000 for the purchase of butter and eggs bought in Toronto for the local trade here, it will be seen that the aggregate of this trade even at present is important, and must vastly enlarge in the future.

I have here dealt with existent conditions and future certainties, but it the general business of the province.

It may be gathered from all this that the golden opportunities that have been created by the development of Western Canada are not confined entirely to the golden harvest that springs up on the Western prairies when tickled by the plow, but that here on the very threshold of the world's granary are openings for most profitable employment of industry and investment, and that those who earliest interest themselves in sharing the progress of this inland city, will share most largely in the advantages that are opening up upon it.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

Suggestive questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Study Club for Jan. 17th, 1909.

The beginning of the Christian Church.—Acts ii:22-47.

Golden Text—They continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayer.—Acts ii: 42.

Verse 22—How is it that Jesus has impressed himself upon the world as no other man has ever done, and that he has swayed the hearts of the lowly and the mighty alike, and that his influence is increasing with the years?

Verse 23-36—God clearly sent Jesus with a love message which he meant them to accept, but which the Jews rejected: and more, for they "with wicked hands crucified and slew" him: now is it not true that God then adopted his secondary plan of bringing about by the death of Jesus, what he desired to do by his life?

If God did not want the Jews to reject and crucify Jesus, but to accept of him, what would have been the result if they had carried out God's first plan?

Is not the crucifixion of Jesus the colossal crime of history, and is it not the one great example of how God turns evil into good account?

Verse 37—What was it that had brought this sharp sense of guilt upon them?

What are the influences which put men under conviction; that is, reveal themselves to themselves?

If a person were to ask you, what he should do to be saved, what would you answer him?

Verse 38—What is it to repent, in the sense here meant?

Can a person be saved, if he intends to sin again?

If a person is sorry enough to forsake his sins and turns to God to serve him the best he knows, is that true repentance?

Can a Christian retain the favour of God, if he ever plans to sin again?

Do all who, by the grace of God, forsake their sins, have their past sins forgiven?

Verse 39—Is the gift of the Holy Spirit for all who are saved?

Have you received the gift of the Holy Spirit and if not, why not?

Are all the children of sinners as well as of saints, promised the salvation of Jesus?

Are there any so far off, or so low down, that God does not bid them to receive the Holy Spirit?

How many does God call to accept of his salvation?

Verse 40—Are there some people saved through persistent exhortation, who never would be saved otherwise?

Verse 41—Why are not similar revivals to this more often witnessed?

What can we do more than we are doing to save our neighbours, and to save the world? This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.

Verse 42,—Do Christians to-day fellowship one with another as much, or as often as they should?

Ought Christians to eat together more frequently?

Verse 43,—If the terrible consequences of sin were more frequently preached, would sinners still be filled with fear?

Verses 44-45,—Was this community of goods of the Lord?

Would having all things in common, be a good system to adopt to-day?

If our brothers have nothing, are we under obligation to divide with them?

Verses 46-47,—Would sinners still be saved daily in every church, if there were fellowship, joy, and gladness, among Christians?

Lesson for Sunday, Jan. 24th, 1909.—The Lame Man Healed, Acts iii:1-26.

It is only 18 miles from Charlton to Elk Lake where there are 22 mines, and from Elk Lake to Gowganda is 32 miles.

Leaving Toronto 10.15 p.m. daily, on the Grand Trunk "Cobalt Special", Elk Lake can be reached the next afternoon, via Cobalt, Haileybury, New Liskeard and Charlton, and this will continue to be the best way.

The Ontario Government are being strongly urged to push on the extension of their line from Charlton, which will open up this rich territory.

LONGBOAT CATCHES THIEF FOR THE POLICE

Sprinted After Man Who Had Robbed a Tailor Shop.

New York, Jan. 18.—The Tribune this morning says: Tom Longboat, the Indian Marathon runner, used his speed on Saturday to bring in to the hands of the police, James Smith, a negro, who it is charged tried to steal a coat from a Tenderloin tailor, Sixth avenue, in the neighbourhood of Thirtieth street, was treated to the sight of the famous long distance runner giving a public exhibition without charge.

Paul Pashkin, a tailor at No. 145 West 31st street, had vainly pursued the man with the coat to 31st street, where Longboat and his manager chanced to be. Smith was turning into 30th street going toward Broadway at top notch speed. Before the short block had been covered by Smith the Indian speeded up behind him and took him by the collar to Patrolman Haggerty, of the West 30th street station. The discomfort of being held on a charge of attempted larceny was lessened when Smith learned that he had a distinguisheed captor.

AROUSED BY SMOKE AUBURN FAMILY ESCAPED FROM BURNING BUILDING CLAD ONLY IN THEIR NIGHT ROBES

The Residence of Mr. S. S. Brown, River Road, Was Destroyed by Fire on Sunday Morning—Origin of Blaze a Mystery.

BRIGADE WERE POWERLESS.

Awakened suddenly at 12.30 o'clock on Sunday morning by dense clouds of smoke, the family of Mr. S. S. Brown, on the Douro side of the River road, Auburn, aroused themselves to find their home in flames just in time to make their escape into the snow, clad only in their night robes. The building and its contents were totally destroyed, the fire brigade being unable to render any assistance, owing to the fact that there is no water service in that part of the city.

Just how the fire started is unknown, but it commenced in the kitchen. The family retired to bed about eleven o'clock, Mr. Brown looking around the house first to see if everything was all right. The fire in the kichen was out, and the door of the room was locked, as were the other doors in the house, the only fire being in the dining room. When the smoke awoke Mr. Brown there was only time to get his family out alive. He aroused his wife and five children, the eldest of which is fifteen years, and rushing into the dining room they found that the kitchen was enveloped in flames. The children were hurriedly taken outside and Mr. Brown, entering the front door, braved the flames long enough to make his way to the bedroom and pick up an armful of clothes, when the suffocating clouds of smoke and the rapid spreading of the flames drove him back into the street again. The neighbours were aroused and took the family into shelter, while an alarm was sent in from Box 56.

The fire brigade made a quick response, but on reaching the scene found that it was impossible for them to do anything, as there is no water service there and the chemical extinguishers were powerless against such a blaze. All they could do was to save the building across the road, which was in great danger inasmuch as the strong east wind was blowing the flames directly towards it.

The chief and four men remained at the fire until two o'clock, while the remainder of the brigade went back to the fire hall.

The house, which was a storey and one-half frame building, owned by Mr. David Heaslip, was a total wreck while the contents, of course, were destroyed by fire, the damage being partly covered by insurance.

Mr. Brown, who is a teamster employed at the Auburn Woollen Mills, estimates his loss at $400.

Cattle Fell On Glare Ice And All Went Through Mud Lake

Ennismore Man Had Trying Time in Bringing Eight Cows Home From Sale—One Man Also Broke Through.

SAVED ALL OF THEM.

Quite a number from this township drove over to Mr. Bell's, in Smith, to attend the sale. The road across the lake being very good they reached there in good time. Mr. Corkery, ex-reeve, purchased six or eight good cows at the sale and attempted to drive them home with him across the lake, but as the ice was rather glare the cattle could not walk on it. In vain did they try to get them to drive, but all of no avail. At length Mr. Wm. B. Crough thought he could draw them to the shore on a stone boat, but on his return with the boat he found the cattle had all broken through the ice, and Mr. John Flood's horse down also. Richard Cosgrove came to the assistance, but he also broke through. The Hixon brothers happened to hear their cries for help and came to their assistance with team and ropes, and in a short time all were on dry land.

Reports say they are all getting along very well after their terrible experience, and we hope no others will meet with the same mishap.—Com.

PETERBORO' MAN BACK FROM FORT WILLIAM SAYS WEATHER WAS COLD

Mr. C. J. Taber, who has returned from Port William, and has read with interest the articles in the Examiner on Fort William, showed the Examiner to-day an interesting picture of the northern city, as it existed in 1856 when the only buildings of importance were the old Hudson Bay Company's fort, the general sales store, and office, and the different store houses in connection with the fort, with the employees' dwellings, and the residence of the farm overseer.

Mr. Taber says that the weather at Fort William has been the coldest on record since the white man established his residence at that point, the thermometers in various parts of the city registering from 50 to 56 degrees below zero.

One man who walked across from the hotel to a building a short distance away had both cheeks and his nose frozen before he reached shelter, and there were many other cases of the same kind last week.

COL. AND MRS. MAPP HAVE SEEN MANY PEOPLES AND COUNTRIES

Colonel Mapp and Mrs. Mapp, who preached at the Salvation Army Barracks yesterday, have been travelling a good deal around the world. Col. Mapp joined the Army twenty-three years ago in India, and worked in that country for thirteen years. Hee was transferred to the foreign office in London, England, and took the office of Assistant Foreign Secretary. While working in that capacity he saw a good deal of this world, travelling with the General a great part of the time.

A short time ago he was appointed Chief Secretary to Canada, with headquarters at Toronto. He has travelled all over Europe and visited in Russia, but this is the first time he has ever been in Canada, and he will have to go to all parts of the Dominion.

Mrs. Mapp joined the Army in England when a young girl, twenty-five years ago, and worked in the slums of London for a long time. She went to India from there and it was there that she met Colonel Mapp. They were married and when the colonel was transferred to London she travelled with him. Mrs. Mapp has seen all the hardships that are endured by the different people of the slums of London and India, and has felt what they have to bear, and she says that people to a great extent do not know what hardship is until they have seen what these people have to put up with.

Forty-eight Hours In Custody Without Even A "Bite" To Eat

Forty-eight hours without even as much as a handout, and yet Richard Price, as he was dismissed with a warning by Magistrate Dumble this morning, stated that he was not the "least" bit hungry. At this rate of going he gives good promise of being able to hold out in a forty day fast.

Price stated that "'E 'ad been workin' of late down near 'Astings." He was arrested on Saturday charged with having been found drunk in a public place. He had money in his pockets and wanted to buy clothes. Magistrate Dumble called his attention to the utter uselessness of spending his money on whiskey. Price had a "turkey" full of clothes, etc., which he left at the station while he went out to buy clothes. He was given his freedom and promised to leave the "jug" alone.

KNOX CHURCH HAS TWO MORE ELDERS

Were Ordained Yesterday Morning by the Pastor, Rev. H. J. Keith—Large Congregation Witnessed the Ceremony.

INCREASED CONGREGATION.

At Knox Church yesterday morning two additional elders were ordained, thus making the entire number eight now instead of six as formerly. The two members of the congregation who have thus been honoured are Mr. T. R. Kennedy and Mr. F. D. Armstrong. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. H. J. Keith, and was witnessed by a large congregation. The sermon was from St. Peter I, v. 1-4, and was a consideration of the nature of the office, the spirit of the worker and the nature of his work. The session was consituted at the beginning of the service, and at the close of the address the elders elected were asked to come forward to answer certain questions. The congregation was also asked to indicate its acceptance of these two elders. The charge was then delivered to the elders and people by the pastor and the elders were received by the session.

The addition of two elders is one of the signs of the progress made by Knox Church. The increased congregation required this addition to the number of elders.

ACCIDENTS TO WORKMEN.

The recent terrible mine accidents —so called—in the United States coal regions, call attention to the long list of injuries and deaths occurring in connection with the mines of that country from year to year. Accordig to a careful journalistic authority, the Washington Post, this list has attained alarming proportions. This journal says that more than 30,000 deaths occurred and more than two millions were injured last year, amongst manual labourers alone. This represents a terrible loss of life, as well as waste of industrial force and domestic deprivation. It is to be remarked that the statistics of similar casualties in the whole of Europe do not equal these appalling figures. This obtains, in face of the fact, that Europe possesses a far larger number of dangerous trades and professions, than the United States. Europeans are wont to attribute the difference in the frequency of occurrence of fatal and other accidents, to the political and economic system of the United States. Assuming that the political system determines the character of the economic conditions, there may be some truth in this "distinction." The political system, or, at least, practice of our neighbours is not quite free from the influence of the principle that the end justifies the means. Canada has experienced this to some extent in the diplomatic tilts between ourselves and our neighbours. The great end of life in the Republic is to make money, and the means employed is not always susceptible of the nicest scrutiny. Not what is right, not what is humane, is the question, but "will it pay?" If it pays better to equip mines cheaply and—dangerously—the cheaper and consequently more dangerous means is adopted. Of course, there is the ignorance and negligence on the part of workmen to be reckoned with; but a large part is played in accidents, by indifference to the value of human lives, compared to the amount of dividends. A share, of course, is contributed by the indifference of legislators to protect those who are unable, or indifferent to, protecting themselves. Absence of effective official inspection is, doubtless, another cause. At any rate the terrible death rate from accidents can be more largely avoided.

It is avoided in Great Britain, whose roll of accidents presents a great contrast to that of the United States. The report of the United States Geographical Survey for 1907, gives the information that in that country the deaths from accidents in coal mines amounted in the course of the year to 4.86 per thousand employees. The "Colliery Guardian," of England, says that in the same period the deaths from accidents in British coal mines was 1.46 per thousand employees. Another illustration of difference is in the fact that in the United States the number of tons mined for each life lost was 145,471, while in Great Britain it was 226,757 tons for each life lost. Another point worthy of notice is the fact the tons production in the United States was 707 per man, while in Great Britain it was only 332 tons per man—a contrast in conditions showing that in the first case, there was more taken out of the workman or that means were employed which, as statistics show, produced a larger yield of coal as well as of loss of life and limb.

There is no doubt that they do things more safely in Great Britain than in either the United States or Canada, when we have in proportion to mileage covered, and passengers carried, on railways, a vastly larger proportion of accidents than in the Mother Country. In this country as in the United States, we do not build so well. We do not exercise as much care in operation. We are more anxious for results and more indifferent as to the means employed to secure them.

The cis-Atlantic spirit of making haste to get rich involves natural and moral lesions as deplorable—if not more so, as mine accidents and railway accidents.

WESTERN RAILWAY PROGRESS.

Notwithstanding the financial depression during the past year, two thousand miles of railway were built in the Canadian West during 1908. This does not include a large amount of track approaching completion, but means simply the new lines on which passenger trains are being operated. Some idea of the extent of this expansion in railway construction may be arrived at by recalling the fact that the distance between Winnipeg and Vancouver is less than 1,500 miles, and that if a single line of that length had been opened it would have been considered a great work.

The new mileage which has been added to the various lines during the year is distributed among the Canadian Pacific, the Canadian Northern, and the Grand Trunk Pacific. Figures furnished by the various railway companies, quoted in Saturday night's "Last-West," show that the distribution was as follows:

The Canadian Pacific Railway, according to the reports of the engineering department, added 826 miles.

The Canadian Northern, according to the reports of its engineering department, added 245 miles.

The Grand Trunk Pacific completed and brought under operation, 854 miles.

The total mileage of the Canadian Pacific Railway west of Port Arthur at the close of the year is reported at 6,160 miles.

The total mileage of the Canadian Northern at the close of the year is reported at 3,119 miles.

The total mileage of the Grand Trunk Pacific under operation at the close of the year is reported at 854 miles.

The total mileagee of the Great Northern Railway in Western Canada at the close of the year is reported at 621 miles.

The total mileage of all the railway companies doing business in Western Canada at the close of 1908 is thus 10,757 miles.

The work of the Grand Trunk Pacific during the year has been confined in Western Canada to the construction of the main line and the Lake Superior branch.

CHANGE IN SPELLING AND SPIRIT.

Mack, in Saturday Night, with the direct common sense that marks his writings generally, draws an important moral lesson out of the frivolous controversy over what is dubbed "spelling reform." Speaking of the omission of the "u" from such words as honour, favour, etc., he says:—

"While not caring much how the general dispute may be settled, I would rather like to see the missing letter restored in one of the words. It does not seem to me that "honor" is what "honour" used to be. In other days it meant a great deal to a man, and whole families thought much upon it. In the days when men prided themselves on their business "honour" we did not have all this graft, these rake-offs, these embezzlements, these conspiracies on the part of secret combines to crush out individuals. But while a man's "honour" used to forbid him to accept dishonest profits, it seems that his "honor" only asks that he get his loot legally.

It was a point of "honour" with a man to pay his just dues. But a man's "honor" does not require him to pay income tax if he can avoid doing so.

"Honor" permits men to shift securities from one vault to another between the 31st of December and the 1st of January, so that they may seem to exist in neither place, or in both. "Honour" never countenanced anything of that kind.

"Honor" permits men at the head of a public service company to make a contract with a city, and then hire the smartest lawyers to get them out of having to do what they solemnly engaged to do. "Honour," in its palmy days, forbade that sort of moral hunkersliding.

"Honor" wants the written agreement placed on the table. "Honour" used to inquire if the men had pledged their words to each other."

The sense of "honor," since it came into general use, has permitted men to make fortunes, and win and hold political and other successes by ways and means that would have shocked the sense of "honour."

"Honor" is not what "honour" was, either in personal or business affairs, and while the argument concerning the other words in this group may end in a decision either way so far as this journal is concerned, I believe the experiment of restoring the "u" to the maimed, diminished and inconsequential word "honor" is well worth trying. It might recover its dignity and import. Perhaps if it were the only word in the group spelled in the old way, it would be worth while to so distinguish it.

Mack's indirect, but telling, arraignment, of the mania for change, judged by results or accompanying conditions, should give us pause and opportunity for reflection. The elimination of the "u" as Mack forcibly points out, seems to be only one of the points of the mania for change, for the Athenian desire now for new things which obsesses this generation; that seeks the "short cut" to success even if it is through and over the Decalogue; that seeks and chooses easy ways of doing things, of doing things rawly, in distinction from the steadier and solider way that served our forefathers; that makes haste to get rich without any too nice regard for the means; that holds little or nothing too venerable to be sacrificed to the Moloch of modernity.

It change in spelling works as much evil, as accompanies or springs from the influence behind the exclusion of "u" from "honour," let us stick to the good British spelling that was good enough for Macaulay and Tennyson.

SCOTCHMEN FIT IT.

The Victoria Colonist says: In an address before the Morayshire Farmers' Club a short time ago, George A Ferguson, farmer, Burradale, near Elgin, Scotland, who was a member of the recent agricultural commission to Canada, related some of his experiences in the Dominion. In his concluding remarks Mr. Ferguson said Canada was a great country, a country of untold possibilities with its rich soil and superb climate. It was the land for the worker and for the man of ambition—above all, it was the land for Scotchmen (who found their field too lean and too narrow.Scotchmen seemed to fit into the ways of Canada at once, and thought it a better home even than the one they had left. Canada could offer everything that the heart of many a hard-working father of a family desired. The strength of home ties compelled many a one to live miserably in the Old Country when by the same energy and application he could, with the better opportunities in Canada, live in comfort and security. With its great wealth of country and with its splendid organization, Canada, he thought, would soon play a brilliant part in the world's history.

The Land Where The King Is--Wheat

From London "Canada."

I'm back to the land, to the prairie land, where the league long furrows roll,
It's a dollar a bushel to-day on the street, and a dollar a bushel is hard to beat,
When the granary's filled to the roof
with wheat,
For the farmer has taken his golden toll,
In the land where the King is—Wheat.

And firm is the grip of the toil-worn hand, and it's ho for the folks at home,
For hearts are warm 'midst the snow and sleet, and it's "Hullo! Jack, and Tom, and Pete,"
As we walk down the crowded village street,
In the land where the King is—Wheat.

The telephone rings in the farmer's hall,
his auto stands at his gate,
Ho! "What's the price on track to-day?
A dollar! I guess I'll wait."
"How much?" "Ten thousand of No.
1, and half ten thousand more,
So I'll hold till spring, for I've nothing to meet,
And I've cattle and sheep and hogs to eat
In the land where the King is—Wheat.

You may search the world over, from clime to clime,
You may travel from shore to shore,
You may try as you like, but you ne'er will find
A land where Prosperity knocks at the door,
Like the land which we measure by miles, not feet,
The land where the King is—Wheat!

Where each field is a farm, and the line runs true past mile and succeeding mile,
Just ploughing and stubble, a house,
p'raps two, and straw in golden pile,
Rather dreary, you say; but think of the day when we'll feed the world
with wheat,
By heavens! It's a Kingdom and can't be beat,
The land where the King is—Wheat!

Then here's to the men of the prairie land, and their wives and their children too,
They've fought the fight with stubborn pride, and they've won as their sires were wont to do;
They've tasted the iron, they've gained
the sweet,
They're the breed that would never acknowledge defeat;
And they own the land where the King is—Wheat,

ELECTRIC TABLE CLOTHS.

Latest Device For Hostesses In Old Land Is Striking Affair.

If the early Victorian great-grandmother of the present fashionable hostess could assist at a modern dinner party, she would assuredly think she was aiding and abetting the practice of "black magic."

The "electric table-cloth" sounds like one of Maskelyne and Devant's mysteries, but it is no such thing. It is merely the latest addition to the "smart" dinner table.

It looks harmless enough—a simple table cover of grey felt covered with an ordinary damask table-cloth.

The "regulation" silver candlesticks are placed on the table—an unusual brilliance streaming from under their dainty shades, and the unitiated may wonder how candles can produce such a dazzling light.

But there is more in it than meets the eye, for running down the sides of each candlestick is an almost invisible wire with a tiny pronged end. This prong fastens itself into the table-cloth and as it touches the cloth the electric candles are lighted.

Whenever the candlesticks are placed, as soon as the prong touches the electric cloth a brilliant light streams forth.

This magical cloth can only be a luxury at present, but, judging from the progress of the times, it may be within the means of hostesses who do not possess princely incomes before very long.

A Substitute.

"I am sorry, my dear sir, but I neglected to bring my surgical instruments with me."

"That will be all right, doctor. The plumber who has been working in the cellar has left his tools here."—Exchange.

The Fatted Calf.

That mighty unfair trick of killing the fatted calf for the prodigal causes more family rows than anything else on earth except the division of father's money.—Atchison Globe.

Duncan's Guide.

By SIDNEY HEDGES COLE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

When Duncan accepted Mrs. Harvey's invitation to join her house party in the mountains that worthy lady was overjoyed.

Here, indeed, was the very man she had been seeking—a man whose name was on everybody's lips, a veritable lion, who would make her the envy of all her set.

He was the man who had spent a month in Lassa and who had talked with the grand lama himself, a drawing card of the highest magnitude. Mrs. Harvey spent a good half day in congratulating herself and wondering just how she had been able to manage it.

She pictured him as she had last seen him, a happy, exuberant, boyish young man who would entertain her other guests by the hour with most absorbing anecdotes of his work, his travel and the dangers he had undergone.

HE TURNED SUDDENLY AND CAUGHT HER HAND IN HIS OWN.

Duncan arrived duly. The guests, who were assembled on the wide veranda, saw Tim bring the big road car up to the steps, saw a bronzed, grave faced young man climb out and punctiliously greet Mrs. Harvey as "Cousin Mary."

If they had expected any signs of his far heralded exploits about him, any gray hairs on his head or any marks of suffering upon his face, they were doomed to disappointment. He was fair haired, sleek, well groomed.

Indeed, he looked much more like a prosperous business man on a week ned vacation than a celebrity with whose name two continents were ringing.

At dinner that night Mrs. Harvey made her first attempt to draw him out.

"Now, Ted," she suggested as the coffee was served, "we're all impatient to hear about it."

Duncan looked surprised. "About what, Cousin Mary?" he asked.

"What, indeed?" she returned. "Your recent triumph in Lassa, of course."

Duncan actually blushed under his coat of tan and squirmed uneasily in his chair as he realized all the eyes at the table were upon him.

"Oh, that!" he said. "It's nothing—really nothing. It's not worth the telling."

"But the papers said"—

"The papers," he interrupted; "the yellow sheets, you mean, Cousin Mary. They must have news. They'll make something out of the most hopeless material."

"You talked with the grand lama. Tell us about him. What did he say?"

Duncan laughed with some embarrassment. "Nice little chap, the lama. Youngish, he is, with a lean face and keen eyes. We had quite a gossiping bee through an interpreter. Seemed most interested in the color of my hair, the lama did. Wanted to know what made it yellow. I tried to tell him it was nature and not peroxide that did it, but the interpreter got all tangled up trying to put it right, and the lama's face was like a graven image. I guess the thing didn't go."

In self defense he turned to the girl at his left.

"What was your score on the links this afternoon?" he asked. "Forty-one? Fine! Wish I could do as good as that."

As an attraction, an entertainer of Mrs. Harvey's guests, Duncan proved a signal failure. He was taciturn, shy, ill at ease. The guests on their part stood rather in awe of the big, grave young man with the slow smile and the thoughtful eyes.

They imagined he found them trivial, not worth his efforts. When they were on the links or putting the horses to the hurdles behind the stables, he took long solitary rambles across the mountains.

When they played bridge or danced in the evening, he sat alone on the veranda, smoking innumerable cigarettes. Mrs. Harvey, in frank disappointment, told herself he was impossible.

The usual game of bridge was in full swing one evening and Duncan was sitting quite alone on one end of the veranda, looking at the great bulk of the mountains looming dimly in the moonlight.

He heard the door open softly, and, turning, he saw Eleanor Graydon coming toward him. Duncan's pulses quickened. There was something about this tall, beautiful girl, with her cool voice and her steady brown eyes, that he found most attractive—most disquietingly attractive, indeed.

She laughed softly as she saw him there.

"I—sorry," she faltered. "You and your pose of solitude are spoiling on Mrs. Harvey's nerves. I can see it. Really, I'm beginning to believe you conceited."

Duncan drew up a chair. "Won't you sit here for a minute and watch these mountains with me?" said he. "I'm—I'm"— He paused.

"You're what?" she prompted.

"Lonely," he finished, with such evident sincerity in his voice that the girl felt a little pang of remorse.

"I presume you find us stupid," said she, sitting down beside him. "After such a crowded life as yours has been all this must be very tame."

"Tame?" he said, with sudden earnestness. "Tame? Oh, heavens, no!"

"You give us that impression anyway."

"Do I?" said he. He leaned forward in his chair. "Do you know how I feel here? Will you respect my secret if I tell you?"

She nodded.

"Well, then, like a fish out of water. I'm afraid—honestly and actually afraid. You see, all my life I have traveled. I've been into the out of the way places of the earth. I haven't had time to cultivate any of the graces of civilization. All in all, I'm a barbarian, more or less.

"I've looked forward to this—to this coming here to Cousin Mary's and meeting all these people of your world. more than I can tell you. But it has taught me something about myself. Much as I wish I fitted in this niche, I'm impossible. As a participator in social functions in the accepted sense of the term I'm hopeless."

The girl looked at him with a quiet smile.

"I'll take back that remark about your conceit and ask your forgiveness for it, too," said she. "Oh, you boy! You great, big hearted, simple boy! You envy us in this silly, meaningless life of ours—you who have been doing something! I wish you might know how I envy that life of yours!"

"Do you mean that—really?" he cried.

"It is worth a thousand lives like ours."

"But I am isolated. I am alone. I have cut myself off from all that I really want. I want to be like these other men here. I want to talk to you as they do—to be as unafraid of you as they are."

"That? Oh, pooh!" she laughed. "Tell me, when you go into an unknown country what do you do before you try to travel it—take a guide, don't you?"

"Yes."

"Well, that's what you must do here. Take a guide. Then I'll warrant in a week—in a day—you'll know the ropes from beginning to end."

"A guide," he repeated musingly. "Yes, that's it. I must take a guide to show me into civilization. My work is done now. I want to live in my own country; therefore I must have that guide. I—I—there is only one I want, and I want her for life," he stammered, but he looked at her with no uncertain light in his eyes. "I am presumptuous, I know. I am nothing but a barbarian, as I told you, but perhaps with the guide it might be different."

He turned suddenly and caught her hand in his own. "Can I have that guide?" he asked unsteadily.

The girl arose. Her face was scarlet, but her eyes were looking into his.

"Your first lesson will be in bridge," he said. "Come in and I'll teach you."

But Duncan caught her in his arms and held her fast.

"Yes, dear," she murmured. "I loved you from the very first, you were so—so unspoiled by what I'm going to guide you into."

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

For proof of this statement read the following letter.

Mrs. Letitia Blair, Cannifton, Ont., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was sick for five years. One doctor told me it was ulceration, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor, and advised an operation. No one knows what I suffered, and the bearing down pains were terrible.

"I wrote to my sister about it, and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"It has cured me of all my troubles, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me to pass safely through Change of Life."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and backache.

Newfoundlander Is Beaten to Pieces Off Long Island.

PERHAPS SIX LIVES LOST

Flotsam Picked Up on Beach During Howling Gales Tells Last Story of the Swallow, Laden With Fish and Lumber, Out of St. John's For New York — The Crew Cannot Have Escaped.

New York, Jan. 18.—In a biting, driving snowstorm off the Long Island shore, the schooner Swallow of St. John's, Nfld., and her crew, was lost yesterday, according to evidence furnished by a turbulent sea which has strewn the beach east of Fire Island for several miles with bits of wreckage from the ship itself and from her cargo.

On some of this flotsam appeared the name "Swallow, St. John's, Nfld." and this told the beachman who found the wreckage what vessel it was that had pounded itself to pieces in a few short hours in the howling gale.

Of the crew, probably five or six, judging from the schooner's size with its attending bitter cold left no doubt in the minds of the beachmen as to the crew's fate. No human power could have aided them.

It was at two o'clock yesterday morning while a patrolman from the Blue Point life-saving station, a few miles east of Fire Island, was toiling through the storm, on the lookout for trouble at sea, that he saw some black objects tossing about close to shore. He hauled some of them in, and finding it was new wreckage hurried back to his station to report and secure aid. Other beachmen were soon on the scene, hauling in the flotsam and making a study of it. There were timbers, new lumber, frozen herring and fishing tackle and finally they came upon a sign board or two which told the vessel's name. The life-savers stood by and patrolled the beach all day in the hope that they might find some trace of the crew, but nightfall came, and their quest had been in vain.

It is supposed the Swallow, presumably a fishing boat, was bound from Newfoundland to New York with a cargo of frozen herring and that she carried a deckload of lumber to help make her trip pay. Caught in the storm, the crew probably lost their bearings and struck on one of the many sand bars a mile or so off shore, near the Blue Point station. There the wind and heavy seas pounded the vessel to pieces in a short time and the men aboard were speedily lost in the sea.

The Swallow, according to the marine register, was a small schooner of 73 tons. She was built 30 years ago at Moses River, and was owned by John Dawson of St. John's, Nfld.

Western M.P.'s at Capital.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—The western members are the first to arrive in numbers for the opening of Parliament on Wednesday. A coach load of members from the middle west, who left Winnipeg on Friday night, have arrived. They were preceded by McIntyre of Strathcona, McGrath of Lethbridge, Bradbury of Selkirk and Ralph Smith of Nanaimo, who have been here for some time.

All the British Columbia members have arrived. To-day the members from the Maritime Provinces and other eastern provinces will commence to put in their appearance. It is expected that by Wednesday morning, when the signing of the roll will commence, there will be but few members of the new Parliament missing.

Fire at Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 18.—The homes of Wm. Dobson and Richard Sheppard were destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. Loss about $4,000.

The fire was caused by Mr. Dobson applying a lighted torch to water pipes to thaw them out. There was no water in the pipes, as owing to the east winds which have prevailed the water in the river was low and the flumes of the waterworks were blocked with ice, and there has been no supply of water through the night.

Everything She Ate SEEMED A BURDEN TO CARRY.

HAD STOMACH TROUBLE FOUR YEARS.

When your food has not been properly digested, your body has not received the benefit it should. The exertions of the gastric juice have been confined entirely to removing the unmasticated undigested portions of food which they cannot properly digest as speedily as possible from the body, thereby only giving the blood a small percentage of nourishment with which to feed the tissues. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the bowels, promotes perfect digestion, makes pure blood, tones the stomach, and thus restores perfect health and strength to the debilitated system.

Mrs. D. A. Francisco, Rossland, B.C., writes: "I was suffering from stomach trouble of the worst kind for about four years. Everything I ate seemed a burden to carry. I always arose in the morning with a sickening and feverish taste in my mouth and was also troubled with swellings in my hands and feet, which my physician said was due to the disordered state of my stomach. I tried everything that was purchasable, and also consulted two or three physicians, but could find no relief until one of my neighbors told me of a wonderful cure by Burdock Blood Bitters I used altogether ten bottles and am now perfectly cured. I wish to recommend B.B.B. to anyone who may be so unfortunate as I was."

FRANCE WILLING TO SIGN TREATY

Hon. Raoul Dandurand Reports on French Treaty.

MR. FIELDING'S HARD WORK

After Three Weeks of Difficult Negotiations the Finance Minister Has Reached Point When He Can Announce That Commercial Compact Will Be Ratified by the Senate—Still In Committee.

Montreal, Jan. 18.—Hon. Raoul Dandurand, ex-Speaker of the Senate, who was giving the Canadian Finance Minister a helping hand with the Franco-Canadian treaty negotiations in Paris, returned home yesterday, and says that Mr. Fielding authorized him to say to the Canadian people that the treaty would be ratified by the French Senate.

So far the discussion has not proceeded further than the customs committee of the Senate and here is where the block took place. Senator Dandurand says that the Minister of Commerce, who signed the treaty with Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Brodeur, had left that Department and had taken the portfolio of public instruction, consequently his successor, M. Cruppi, while loyal to his colleagues, did not have that interest as his predecessor, and when it is considered that Ministerial responsibility is different in France, it is evident that Mr. Fielding has had a pretty difficult task to overcome.

The ex-Speaker of the Senate says, however, that after three weeks of hard work keeping in constant telegraphic touch with Ottawa and the Imperial Foreign Office. Mr. Fielding has been able to smooth over the difficulties and is confident that the Senate ratification will not be long delayed.

Ice Bridge Is Formed.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 18.—With the continuance of cold weather the ice bridge across the Niagara River, under the upper bridge, to within 100 feet of the horseshoe falls. The bridge is the largest in years.

In spite of zero weather a big crowd crossed yesterday. A path has been cut across and shacks have been erected for the sale of curios, refreshments and liquor. Photographers do a large business, being on neutral territory, and vendors of intoxicants do not have to obtain licenses to sell alcohol and license inspectors of Canada and the United States cannot interfere. The ice bridge is frequented by a large number who cannot obtain any intoxicants in either of the cities on the banks of Niagara River.

Newfoundland Not Satisfied.

St. John's, Nfld., Jan. 18—The United States and Newfoundland have not succeeded in deciding upon the terms of a new fishing agreement now being considered by Right Hon. Jas. Bryce, the British ambassador, and Secretary of State Elihu Root.

Early this week Sir Robert Bond, the Premier, will leave for Washington to confer with Ambassador Bryce and Secretary Root. It is understood that the Premier demands the inclusion among subjects to be submitted for arbitration a number of matters which the Americans maintain are absolutely guaranteed under the treaty of 1818.

Whipped Horse With Broken Leg.

Hamilton, Jan. 18.—For whipping a horse with a broken leg, and trying to goad it into dragging them along, Frank Carlberg, who boards at the Commercial Hotel, and Harmen Anderson were arrested on Saturday evening charged with cruelty to animals and with being drunk. They hired the horse from Carson's livery stable and were driving it about the city. It fell and broke its leg, and while they were whipping it to make it go, two passers-by interfered and held them until Constables Gibbs and Burtell were summoned.

Castro Will Return.

Berlin, Jan. 18.—Cipriano Castro, the former President of Venezuela, questioned concerning his plans for the future, said:

"My present intention is to return to Venezuela as soon as my health will permit me to make the voyage. I will travel aboard an ordinary liner.

"My plan is to live as a private citizen in my native land. If it is desired to take proceedings against me, it will be there. The idea of starting a revolution of any kind has not entered my head."

Work For Machinists.

Montreal, Jan. 18.—As an evidence of a revival on the railways the C.P.R. and the Grand Trunk Pacific have just given orders to the Montreal Locomotive Works for 55 locomotives, the whole to be delivered before the end of May, and over a thousand extra skilled mechanics will be at once taken on at the works.

Motor Lifeboat Wrecked.

Victoria, B.C., Jan. 18.—The Bamfield Creek motor lifeboat, built in New Jersey at a cost of $15,000 for the Dominion Government, was wrecked on Robbery Island in Barkley Sound, after breaking adrift from her moorings off the Bamfield Creek life-saving station during a gale.

BLACKBALLING OF BOURASSA.

Englishmen on Garrison Club Council Are Angry About It.

Montreal, Jan. 18.—Generally, newspapers refrain from announcing blackball incidents at social clubs, but in the case of Henri Bourassa, M.P.P., who was shut out of the Garrison Club at Quebec the other day, the contrary is the case. L'Evenement says in reference to the matter:

"The Garrison Club council is composed of eight English and eight French-Canadians and the result of the ballot showed that nine white and three black balls had been deposited, resulting in the rejection of Henri Bourassa's name.

"Who committed this piece of folly, we are unable to answer the question, as the ballot was a secret one. We know, however, that eight English-speaking gentlemen and one French-Canadian were expressing the greatest indignation over the result of the vote. The three French-Canadians who expressed no indignation are, it is stated, personal friends of Hon. Mr. Turgeon, and while we do not attribute to the Minister of Crown Lands the responsibility of the act, we are sure that his friends did not render him any great service in blackballing Mr. Bourassa.

"As a matter of fact, the members of the club are generally indignant at the council's action and there is a petition in circulation asking that the matter be considered by a general meeting of the club. Armand Lavergne, M.P.P., who proposed the name of his friend for membership, has resigned from the club."

LAW IS CONVICTED.

But Mining Broker Enters Appeal Against Verdict.

Toronto, Jan. 18.—Frank Law, the mining broker was found guilty by the jury at the sessions Saturday afternoon, after eight minutes' deliberation of the charge of conspiring with W. L. Russell to cheat and defraud the public, in connection with the flotation of the Highland Mary Mining Co.

T. H. Lennox, after the verdict was given, gave immediate notice of appeal on the ground of the arrangement made with Law by the crown to give evidence in the extradition proceedings against Russell at the Police Court about a year ago.

Mr. Lennox asked that Law be admitted to bail, but Judge Winchester said he could not grant that, otherwise the Court of Appeal would not hear Mr. Lennox when he made his application. Law consequently remains in custody pending the decision of the court.

Crew Rescued by Steamer.

Queenstown, Jan. 18.—The steamer Dominion, which arrived off here yesterday, reported having rescued Capt. Crossley and the crew of the British ship Savona, about four miles off Fastnet. The Savona, which was lumber laden, was abandoned in a waterlogged condition.

A tug has started out to try and tow the Savona to Crookhaven, but this may prove to be a difficult task, as the weather is very stormy.

The Savona was bound from Liscomb, N.S., for the United Kingdom.

Gas Men Submit.

New York, Jan. 18.—Another great victory in the fight for 80-cent gas was won on Saturday when announcement was made that the Northern Union Gas Co., the Central Union Gas Co., the Standard Gas Co. and the New Amsterdam Gas Co. had determined to accept the 80-cent rate pending decision by the courts of their individual suits, asserting that the law is confiscatory.

There still remains out in the cold the New York Mutual Gas Co.

Placing of Lord Nelson In Commission on North Sea Station Leaves That Fleet With Only One Old Vessel In the Nore Division — Three More of This Class Will Probably Be Added In the Spring.

London, Jan. 18.—Just as England was the first to have a Dreadnought, so she is before all other nations in having a fleet of these, the most modern of fighting ships.

With the commissioning of the new battleship Lord Nelson, and her assignment to the Nore division of the home fleet, the first line of defence against a possible attack from across the North Sea, that fleet, in the words of a British admiral, became "a combination of strength and homogeneity unequalled, ship for ship, in the world's fleets."

A year ago the Nore division, which is under the command of Vice-Admiral Sir Francis Bridgman, consisted of the Dreadnought, which had hardly completed her trials, the Bulwark, London, Magnificent, Majestic and Victorious. During the year the new battleship Agamemnon and the armored cruisers Indomitable and Inflexible, which are to all intents and purposes, battleships, replaced older vessels, and last week the Lord Nelson relieved the Magnificent, leaving the Victorious the only representative of the pre-Dreadnought era to Admiral Bridgman's command.

Before midsummer it is anticipated the fleet will be further strengthened by the Dreadnaught battleships Temeraire, Bellerophon and Superb.

PIRACY ON PACIFIC.

Sailors Slay Officers and Seize Peruvian Schooner.

Victoria, B.C., Jan. 18.—News of a plot to pirate the schooner Louise J. Kenny and murder Capt. Hendley was given by Thos. F. Dunn, a Sydney engineer, who was a passenger on the steamer Aorangi, wharved yesterday, to Suvai, to give evidence against the plotters, Mortimer and Taylor, two men who are on trial at the Fijian port for the piracy of the Peruvian schooner Neuever Tegre from Callao, and murder of her master and mate, who were thrown overboard by Mortimer.

The pirates were little acquainted with navigation. They used an eight-day clock for a chronometer and sailed into the South Seas, and their vessel was wrecked in a Panama lagoon on the Gilbert Island, where the suspicions of the traders who visited the wrecked schooner, which was without registered clearance or flag, with the name White Rose obviously painted over the former name, were aroused.

Taylor, breaking down under questioning, confessed the piracy and murder. Commissioner Murdoch at Tarawa arranged with Capt. Hendley of the Louise J. Kenny to carry the two men to Tarawa. Mortimer, who seemed to make Taylor his tool, informed him he had planned to seize the Louise J. Kenny to replace the wrecked "Neuever Tegre," stolen from Callao, and kill Capt. Hendley, retaining the white cook to force him to act as mate and keeping the native crew of sixteen until they could be landed and replaced by other unacquainted with the piracy. Taylor saw an opportunity to scribble a note which he tossed through the skylight into Capt Hendley's cabin where it was afterwards found by the captain, who mustered his crew and put the men in irons.

Schooner Founders.

Honolulu, Jan. 18.—The Commercial Pacific Cable Co.'s schooner F. Laurence Ward arrived here yesterday from the Midway Islands with the three plumage hunters found on the schooner Kicho, who were rescued by the F. Laurence Ward on Lee Hermes Island last month.

The schooner Kicho never has been heard from since she left the Japanese on Lee Hermes, and it is supposed she foundered in a storm.

Chance For Bryce.

London, Jan. 18.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Morning Post says with reference to the reported hitch over the fisheries treaty that Mr. Bryce now has the opportunity to justify his statement that he feels himself more the ambassador of Canada than of Great Britain. The Morning Post finds in the fact that Canada and Newfoundland were invited to participate in the negotiations hope of a new era inaugurated.

THE FRUITS OF THE EARTH

Seem To Be Nature's Provision For Keeping Man Healthy and Warding Off Disease.

Cereals, vegetables and meat supply the elements needed for man's nourishment. Yet fruit — though it has very little food value—has proved to be absolutely necessary for perfect health.

Careful investigation has shown that all the common fruits act on the Liver, Kidneys, Bowels and Skin. These are the organs that rid the body of dead tissue and waste products, and the fruit juices stir them up to more vigorous action, thus keeping the whole body clean and healthy.

But few people eat enough fruit. Realizing this, after several years of experimenting, a prominent Canadian physician succeeded in combining the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes in such a way that the medicinal action is many times multiplied. Then he added valuable tonics and made the combination into tablets called "Fruit-a-tives." They are really Nature's cure for Constipation, Indigestion, Biliousness and Stomach Troubles. Mild as Nature itself — but more prompt and effective. Sold by dealers at 50c. a box—6 boxes for $2.50—trial size box 25c. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

GRIPPE VICTIM

Restored to Health and Strength by Vinol After All Other Means Had Failed.

PROFESSOR HICKS' STORY.

"I suffered from a severe attack of the grippe, which left me in a weakened condition with bronchitis, a soreness in my chest and a hacking cough. I tried different physicians and took nearly every kind of cough syrup sold on the market without getting any permanent relief. I saw your cod liver and iron preparation—Vinol—advertised, and decided to try it, and it completely cured my bronchial trouble and restored my strength. I cannot say too much for Vinol, as I received inexpressible benefit from its use, and I consider it one of the greatest blessings ever offered to the public." R. E. R. Hicks, Maplesville, Ala.

The grippe invariably leaves in its wake a weakened, run-down condition of the system. Vinol is guaranteed to restore the sufferer to health and strength, and to build up and create strength for old people, delicate children and weak, debilitated people. So sure are we of this that we unhesitatingly say give Vinol a trial. If you think it does you no good we will refund your money, but it will. CHANGES IN THE SALVATION ARMY

Council to Govern Affairs in Canada—Will Likely be Incorporated.

The Salvation Army, Incorporated, is securing a charter at Ottawa, and a bill will be introduced at the next session of the Legislature of Ontario to make certain changes required by the new conditions. The incorporation of the Army will give it a standing as a business concern, and enable the better handling of its immigration and other branches of work.

While officials of the Army are reticent about the nature of the reorganization in Canada, it is known that the Dominion is to have a governing council, of which Commissioner Coombs will be the head.

An interesting feature of the new system will be that the Army's property, heretofore held by General Booth as trustee, will be transferred to the Salvation Army, Incorporated, and that hereafter no property will be held in the name of any individual. This will end the difficulty which might arise in case of the demise of the General.

There are other interesting features of the incorporation which will be announced from time to time.

Attention is called to the Auction Sale of a very pretty and comfortable home south of Aberdeen Avenue and east of Aylmer Street, at present occupied by Mr. R. F. Ivey. PRESENTATION TO MISS FLO LANCASTER

St. John's Choir Honoured One of the Members by a Pre-Nuptial Gift.

On Sunday morning Hymn 370 was sung in connection with the journey to England of a member of the choir, Mr. Wm. Coleman. After the evening service an interesting event took place in the vestry, when the rector on behalf of the choristers of St. John's, presented Miss Florence Lancaster with a handsome piece of plate on the occasion of her leaving the choir to be married very shortly, and to reside in Montreal. Best wishes were expressed for Miss Lancaster's future happiness, although many regrets were expressed at the loss of her assistance in the choir.

THE GOSPEL HALL MEETING YESTERDAY

Marriage and Divorce Were the Subjects Taken Up.

At the Gospel Hall last night Mr. G. W. Mulligan addressed the audience on Marriage and Divorce, dividing it into four parts. The Hall was filled to its capacity.

The text was taken from the 10th Chapter of St. Mark, the 1st to the 9th verses.

1. Marriage, or joining by God of a man and his wife.

Mr. Mulligan denounced divorce in the most forcible manner, also showing the alarming state of affairs in the United States, where last year 65,000 divorces were granted, 10 per cent. of the entire marriages solemnized, two-thirds of which were Protestants so-called. In the last 20 years there had been 1,000,000 divorces granted; this is the official record.

2. The marriage or joining by God at Bethlehem 1909 years ago was Deity and Perfect Humanity, and men ever since have been seeking to divorce the same, especially the sect known as the Unitarians, but "what God has joined together, let not man put asunder."

3. Sin and death are inseparably joined.

4. Faith in the atoning work on Calvary, and pardon, justification, eternal life and a part in the first resurrection. He stated that all men have not the saving faith in Christ, without which it is impossible to please God. God says: "He that believeth in Christ hath eternal life."

Annual Civic Sermon Was Preached To Council And City Officials At George St. Church

To be of good courage in their conduct of the city's affairs was the message given by Rev. E. A. Pearson to the Mayor, Alderman and City Officials, who attended George street Methodist church last night in a body to hear the annual civic sermon arranged by the Ministerial Association of the city. Nearly all the council and officials were present and occupied the seats reserved for them in the body of the church. In addition a very large congregation attended and the seating capacity of the commodious edifice was severely taxed.

Rev. Mr. Pearson delivered an eloquent and forcible address upon the subject of courage, taking as his text the first chapter of Joshua the sixth verse, "Be strong and of a good courage."

Before commencing his address he expressed his pleasure at being able to welcome the officials of the city to George street Methodist church. It was a most fitting thing that they should meet together at such a time and worship and acknowledge their indebtedness to the One upon whose shoulders rested all government.

Speaking of courage, Rev. Mr. Pearson stated that it had held a high place in the minds of the people of the early days. The greatest of all virtues to their mind was courage. In a well known book on ethics handed down by Aristotle the first place and the chief exposition was given to courage which was regarded as the sum of all the virtues. It was a significant fact that the word virtus from which comes our word virtue really meant valour.

There were people of the present day, however, who stated that courage was not the virtue, or cowardice the vice, but that they were among the best of the pagan people. He did not propose to argue that point, but simply wished to say that whatever might be true in regard to individual Christianity, there could be no doubt as to the place courage occupied in the Word of God. Rev. Mr. Pearson went on to illustrate his point by referring to the many passages in the New Testament which spoke of the courage of the Apostles and of Jesus Himself. He pointed out the courage that our Saviour had displayed during His life on earth, and stated that the story of the life of Jesus was the most heroic ever written.

It was not as difficult to stand against one's enemies as against one's friends. Many a man who had been in public life was living in oblivion because he had not had the courage to withstand the entreaties and the eloquence of his friends.

Rev. Mr. Pearson quoted from a letter from Randolph Churchill the great English statesman to his wife, in which he had stated that he was going to give up political life because he felt that he was running his head up against a stone wall and he was sick and tired of it all. Rev. Mr. Pearson considered that it was the coward who gave up public life because he was "sick and tired of it all."

There were two ideas in regard to courage which the speaker wished to correct. One was that courage and fearlessness were one and the same thing with which the speaker did not agree. Sometimes fear and courage were combined and often it was the cause that a man did things not understanding his danger in which case his act could not be called courageous.

Another mistaken idea was that the highest type of bravery was the bravery of the battle field. People were inclined to emphasize that idea unduly, but he thought that it was time that pagan conception should have been outgrown. The bravery of the humble poor man, lasted in the long drawn out drudgery of life was as creditable. Rev. Mr. Pearson spoke of the courage of adopting a certain attitude upon a question and remaining faithful to that conviction. He would prefer, he said, to have a man adopt a wrong view if he had the courage to come out openly and express it. A man should be on one side or other of the question.

During the offering Miss Reesor demonstrated the splendid qualities of her rich, pure soprano voice in a rendition of the sacred classic "The Holy City" and after the sermon a ladies' quartette sang most acceptably.

Treasurer—Mr. Allen Stabler.

The coming year should bring even greater prosperity and the school by its advancements is in a position to attain to higher things.

The report showed that the average attendance last year was greater than any in the past.

MR. CONROY AND ASSISTANTS HAVE REACHED CAMP AT GOWGANDA

The following despatch from Cobalt will be of interest here. The Mr. Conroy mentioned is Mr. David Conroy of East City.

COBALT, Jan. 17. — The conditions in Gowganda and the Elk Lake country, are becoming serious. Prospectors are going in less than half prepared. The snow is deep and the cold intense. It is reported to be 56 below zero. Six men had their feet frozen on Friday at Gowganda, and others had noses or ears frosen. The miners having cabins have been compelled to refuse lodgings and assistance, owing to their own personal needs. Twenty-six head of cattle, driven in by Mr. Conroy of Ashburnham, and four assistants, reached Gowganda on Thursday afternoon, and were killed and strung up on trees around Gowganda Lake, and sold at twelve cents a pound. The cattle were nearly frozen from exposure and lack of feed. The stopping houses, five in number, built for accommodation, are now filthy, according to reports from those returning, and typhoid is predicted unless conditions are improved. The conditions call for the attention of the Provincial Board of Health.

The snow at Gowganda is becoming very deep, even snowshoeing being difficult on that account.

LOCAL GENTLEMEN TO LEAVE FOR GOWGANDA ON WEDNESDAY

Messrs. Arthur Blade and Chas. Gladman will leave on Wednesday morning for Gowganda, the new Cobalt, where they will spend the winter and next spring prospecting. Gowganda is situated some 70 miles north of Cobalt and is said to be wonderfully rich in mineral wealth. The local men who are going will take with them a dog team from here, having picked up a number of dogs which are considered suitable for the services which they will be called upon to perform. It will be necessary to transport enough provisions over the snow trails to last until next spring.

Opinion That Engineer Was Formerly Known In This City

There is a strong probability that Engineer Carscadden, who was among the killed in the train wreck on the C. P. R., near Yale, B. C., is known in this city and has friends or relatives here. It is the opinion that he is Clifford Carscadden, son of Mr. Hugh Carscadden, of Lindsay. The Examiner was thus informed by Mr. J. J. Lang, Aylmer street, who is well acquainted with the family. The young man left for the west some years ago, and it is known that he was engaged as engineer on this line. If this supposition is correct, and sad to say it seems to be likely, this is the case, he is rather well known in Peterborough.

The train, which was being handled by two engines, was running along at a rather slow rate when it was struck by a snow slide and the engines and first four cars were carried with it into the Fraser River. It was an express train and both engineers were killed and fourteen passengers injured. This is reported a very conservative number and it is likely that many more were injured and some of these will likely die.

ADDRESS ON CANADA READ AT MEETING

Splendid Paper by Miss Nora Fitzgerald on Friday Night at Meeting of Ladies of St. Peter's T.A.S.

MUSICAL PROGRAMME.

On Friday evening an interesting essay was read by Miss Nora Fitzgerald, at the regular meeting of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T. A. S. She choose as her subject, "Canada, the Land of Promise," but confined her sketch to the very early history of Canada, when her promise of wealth and future greatness appealed to every civilized nation in Europe. The essayist dwelt at some length upon the conditions of the different French settlements some 250 years ago, when the malignity and treachery of the Indians made life in this country one of constant peril for the white man.

Considerable prominence was given to the spreading of Christianity during those early days, and the results to be seen at the present day of the efforts put forth by the different religious orders along these lines.

In 1640 Maisonneuve, one of the real creators of Canadian civilization, came to Canada with a few followers, and the address of Father Vimont to this little group of enthusiasts is a striking one.

"You are a grain of mustard seed," he said, "that shall arise and grow until its branches overshadow the earth. You are few, but your work is of God. His smile is upon you and your children shall fill the land." Our Canada of to-day is a living testimony of the truth of Father Vimont's words.

Miss Fitzgerald took up the explorations of Jean Nicolet, an interpreter at Three Rivers, who had spent much time with the Indian tribes in the west, and who had gone down the Wisconsin River in research of the "Great Water," of which the Indians had told him. The Jesuits were also gradually pushing their way westward into the wilderness, and in 1641 Joques and Raymbault preached the faith to a concourse of Indians at the outlet of Lake Superior. Then in 1666 came La Salle, who took up a grant of land near Montreal, improved the land, studied the Indian language, listened to their strange stories and those of the other explorers who had travelled westward, and his imagination took fire. He was sure he could find a western passage to China, and the Lachine of to-day is commemorative of a nation's dream, of a hero's disillusion and of the cheap diversion of his enemies. The essayist gave a minute description of the explorations of La Salle, and also of Joliet and Marquette, and her essay, as a whole, was a splendid review of the history of Canada in her infant days.

During the evening the following musical programme was presented:

Instrumental duet—Misses Doris.

Vocal solo—Miss M. Flood.

Recitation—Miss M. Sullivan.

Instrumental solo—Miss M. Grady.

God Save the King.

The next meeting will be held on the 29th inst., when a paper will be read by Miss Vivian Donohue.

ANOTHER FALSE ALARM RUNG THIS MORNING

Somebody seeing a few sparks issuing from a chimney at the back of Crossman's caused by the night watchman burning some rubbish in the furnace, took it into his head to find out if the firemen could be got out of their beds at an early hour this morning. But it be thought that they would not be there, he was greatly disappointed, because they were there within two minutes after the alarm was sent in, but they could see no one who had opened the box.

Chief Secretary For Canada Spoke At Special Services At The Salvation Army Barracks

Welcome Was Tendered the Visiting Salvationists by Mayor Rush and Hon. J. R. Stratton, M. P.

VERY IMPRESSIVE SERVICES.

The special services held in the Salvation Army barracks yesterday on the occasion of the visit to Peterborough of Col. Mapp, the Chief Secretary of the Army in Canada, accompanied by Mrs. Mapp were most interesting and there were large congregations present at all services during the day.

At the afternoon meeting Mayor Rush and Hon. J. R Stratton were present to extend a welcome to the visiting Salvationists.

The service was opened by devotional exercises and a well rendered selection by the excellent Army band.

Mayor Rush occupied the chair, and congratulated the Army on having a visit from the Chief Secretary in Canada. Col. Mapp, accompanied by Mrs Mapp and on behalf of City of Peterborough he cordially welcomed them and hoped their visit would result in benefot to important interests represented and to the citizens generally. When he accepted the position he occupied that day he had hoped that he would not be expected to make a speech because it was well known that he was not addicted to speech-making. He was pleased to see so large a gathering and congratulated the Army on its general prosperity.

Sergt. Major Braund being called upon said that he was more of a business man than a speech-maker, but when a demand was made upon him he felt that he should say something. The Army welcomed the Chief Secretaries very cordially; the officers in Peterborough were proud of their chief officers, who were working to their utmost to promote the glory of God. The speaker took an interest in the Army movement because it reached the homes that others did not and reached a class of citizens who would otherwise be neglected. He had seen the good results of the work of the Army here and hoped that its labours would continue to be honoured and blessed of the Great Captain of the Army of mankind.

Hon J. R. Stratton, being called upon said he was glad as a citizen of Peterborough to have the privilege and honour of being present to join in the welcome that was being extended to the Chief Secretary of the Army, Col. Mapp and his helpmate Mrs Mapp. The British Army had great generals and its strength and influence had been demonstrated throughout the world, and the Salvation Army had a great general whose army reached now to all parts of the earth. One looked after the material and national interests of the empire and one had its usefulness in watching over the spiritual and moral and social interests of mankind. He could speak with some authority on the value of the latter because he knew from observation of the good work it was doing in Peterborough. The growth of its forces had been marked, and the homes that had been benefitted and the lives regenerated and transformed had been many. There was plenty of work both for the churches and Army. There was no conflict between them. He was glad to see the Army enlisting some of our best minds and highest talents in its work. Some of the churches were following the example of the Salvation Army by establishing the Church Army, and they would all find abundance of work to do. The prison work, the rescue work and the charitable work were referred to in terms of commendation. After again extending a cordial welcome to Col. and Mrs. Mapp, the speaker said he was proud as a citizen to be able to recognize and bear testimony to the noble work being done by the Army.

The band gave another selection, and then the chairman called upon Mrs. Mapp to address the gathering.

She told of the time she had first joined the Army and of the many sufferings and hardships encountered in the work among the people who live in the slums of London, England, and throughout the Empire of India where she had been an officer of the Army for the last few years.

Mrs. Mapp stated that many a time she had had to go into what was called the thieves kitchens and told how these places were guarded by five policemen and how when they had been afraid to enter, she had been enabled to go through them unmolested. She has travelled through out England with plague and sickness to battle with and helpless old people to attend to. She related the hardships to be endured in India fulfilling Salvation Army woman's duty, visiting the sick and, while in India and London she was glad that she was able to help those in need of help or relief.

Col. Mapp was called upon next and he said that he was impressed by the kindly feelings extended to Mrs. Mapp and himself, and that he had been well received wherever he had visited in Canada. He said the first or among the first to introduce the Army into India were a party of Canadians. He also gave a few short sketches of his life in India and said that the officers of the Army in that country all wear the native garb, turban with the hair shaved off all but a tuft at the top and all went with bare feet. When he had finished speaking the band gave another selection and then a hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mayor Rush and Hon. Mr. Stratton for their kindness in being present.

Canal Contemplated From The St. Lawrence To New York

Ottawa, Jan. 18 — It is thought the improvements which an influential New York deputation has just asked the Dominion Government to make, to cooperate in building a deep waterway from the St. Lawrence at Sorel to New York City via the Chambly Canal, the Richelieu River, Lake Champlain, and the Hudson, could be made for between 1 1-2 and 2 million dollars. It is also said that members of the deputation before leaving here were assured that Sir Wilfred Laurier's cabinet would at least have estimates made, and that some have already been made.

Commander A. B. Fry, chief engineer of the United States Treasury Service, and also a member of the Board of Advisory Engineers for New York State, left for Montreal and New York Saturday afternoon.

He followed up the conference with Sir Wilfrid Laurier by a conference Saturday morning with the Hon. Mr. Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, Mr. Pugsley's Assistant, and several of the government engineers. The whole matter was gone into very thoroughly and facts and figures given.

Commander Fry, speaking to the Examiner, said the account of what was sought, as published a week ago, was correct. The scheme was part of one in which, under the New York State's Barge Canal Act, $101,000,000 was to be spent in extensive improvements to three waterways — the Erie, the Oswego, and the Champlain Canal.

The movement Canadians are asked to co-operate in is regarding the Champlain one. There are ten locks to be built in the American section of the proposed system, at a total length of 183 feet. Considerable dredging at the Hudson River would have to be done.

Many arguments were advanced in the statements submitted to Sir Wilfrid. Some of them were that the work suggested was along the same lines as, and likely to lead to the same substantial benefits to Canadians as the Manchester Ship Canal was to points in England; that the great Canadian commercial port, Montreal, is only 384 miles North of the district where the American improvement will soon be under way; that Canada does five times the trade with the United States that it does with Britain; that the rates would probably be much less than by rail; that Northern ores, Northern iron, cement, timber and manufactures could be brought from Perth or even Amboy to Rouse's Point without breaking bulk. It has also been shown that even the old Champlain canal as it is, is the medium for much traffic — 15,000 tons within the last two years. It is thought with the improvements contemplated ten times this much could be passed through.

Commander Fry, when asked, said: I cannot, of course, say anything as to the estimated cost of the share the Canadian Government is asked to assume. That would be out of place for me, and is a matter for the engineers of Sir Wilfrid's Government to discuss. I may say, however, that I have seen the Premier, Mr. Pugsley, and others, and that I have been given to understand the whole matter will be gone into very thoroughly."

WALTER MILLER IS NOT AS BADLY INJURED AS WAS AT FIRST STATED

Mrs. F. W. Miller received a letter this afternoon from her husband who went to Brantford on the receipt of the news of his son Walter's injury in the wreck near Guelph. The reports that were first received were somewhat exaggerated, and Walter is not nearly as seriously hurt as was reported. His hand is cut and required eight stitches, and one hip is hurt. He will not lose any of his fingers and will be around in about a week. After that he is expected home at any time. Mr. Miller, his father, will arrive home on Wednesday. It is pleasure to learn that Walter has not met with the injury which was stated would affect him for life.

Billy Naugon Walked Into The City And Thereby Merits 15 Days

William Naugon, of Hiawatha, on the Lake, meandered into the city same old happy-go-lucky Billy old. The last time he was here he was told by Magistrate Dumble that if he ever came back to the city again he would be sent up to the hill. The fact is that Billy was found drunk at that time, and he took the option of not returning to the city of his distress rather than go to jail. Today the spirit called too strongly and Billy held a reception to all his old friends. He went into a barber shop and proved too popular, so much so that P. C. Newhall had to remove him to the police station. He had a comfortable looking bottle in his pocket, which he was deprived of. Billy was soon in dreamland in the warm cell. He was wearing a pair of moccasins that should be patented. Billy will not wear them on the road to Hiawatha, for at least fifteen days, if the law pursues its course.

Mr. McMullen was engaged in loading cars with crates from the factory, and in some manner one of them fell on him, breaking his arm below the elbow. He was conveyed in a hack to Dr. Young's residence on Stewart street, where the arm was set, after which he was taken to his home on Pearl avenue.

MINISTER IS SOUGHT.

Detectives In Full Pursuit of Former Sarnia Pastor.

Windsor, Jan. 18.—Detectives from Canada, the United States and Scotland Yard are diligently searching for Rev. Evan T. Evans, up to a short time ago attached to St. John's Episcopal Church, Sarnia.

Rev. Mr. Evans came to Sarnia, presumably from a city in eastern Canada some eighteen months ago. Posing as a bachelor, he at once became extremely popular with the ladies of his congregation. To one of them, Miss Nellie St. Clair Davis, his attentions were most marked.

On Sept. 26th last Miss Davis quietly left home and Evans did likewise 24 hours later. The two met in a town in Niagara County, N.Y., and were married, afterwards proceeding to Cleveland, where the clergyman succeeded in inducing his bride to turn over to him a large sum in cash which she had. Then he sent the girl back to her home in Sarnia, after exacting a promise that she keep the wedding a secret until he could secure another parish.

This was the last anyone in Sarnia saw or heard of the clergyman. No word came from him, and under the stress of her secret and failure to receive the promised letters young Mrs. Evans sickened and died. This was only a few weeks ago.

With the lowering into the grave of the body the people of Sarnia generally hoped that the scandal would be hushed for all time, but it is again revived by the statement now made that the 16-year-old daughter of one of Evans' former parishioners charges her downfall to the missing clergyman. The latest developments have decided the church authorities to take action in the case, and the matter has been turned over to the police with a full description of Evans. The authorities of Niagara County, New York, where Evans' bigamous marriage occurred, are also to be urged to act.

Evans has a wife and four children in Landpeter, Wales, but this fact only became known after search of his effects, left behind at Sarnia, had disclosed letters from across the sea.

ARGENTINA IS IN ERROR.

Paper Publishes Libel on Canada's Climate—Montreal Indignant.

Montreal, Jan. 18.—The commercial community here think the Government should take steps to prevent in future the publication of the erroneous statements going the rounds of the Spanish newspapers, notably in the Argentine Republic. In a recent editorial one of these read:

"The observations relating to Canada, published by Dr. O'Farrell, are absolutely correct. Canada is a great agricultural country, but is completely dead during the six winter months. He was in Montreal last year at the beginning of September, and the River St. Lawrence was frozen over, while navigation was at a standstill. He left Montreal the following April and the St. Lawrence was still frozen."

The paper adds: "What a difference in our country, as here we do not know what snow is, and where the flocks and herds can remain out doors all the year round."

Bound and Gagged.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 18.—Three masked men entered the house of Mrs. John Morgan in Woodbright Saturday night, bound and gagged Mrs. Morgan and her daughter Florence, and while two of them kept watch over the women, the third man searched the house for money. He found none and all attempts to make Mrs. Morgan disclose the hiding place of her money were unavailing. She finally gave them a small sum of money and they left. Later a Woodbridge constable attempted to arrest three men on suspicion near his home, and with the aid of his father-in-law, captured one, after a desperate struggle.

Cocaine Fiend Sentenced.

London, Jan. 18.—Pat Hogan, the man who claimed to be a lumberman from Vancouver, and who last week was found guilty of stealing an overcoat valued at $75 from John Terry, a Boston traveler, while he was in the dining-car of the International Limited on the G.T.R., was sentenced to three years in Kingston Penitentiary by Magistrate Love Saturday.

Hogan, who is a cocaine fiend, wrote a letter to the magistrate asking that he be examined by the doctors, adding, "I know I will get lockjaw or locomotor ataxia or paralysis or all three."

Barge Is Burned.

Goderich, Jan. 18.—The steam barge Tecumseh was burned early Saturday with $15,000 loss. Three inmates narrowly escaped.

No Dispute Whatever.

A man and his wife were airing their troubles on a sidewalk one Saturday evening, when a good Samaritan intervened, according to Everybody's Magazine.

"See here, my man," he protested, "this sort of thing won't do."

"What business is it of yours, I'd like to know?" snarled the man, turning from his wife.

"It's only my business in so far as I can be of help in settling this dispute," answered the Samaritan ruddily.

"This ain't no dispute," growled the man.

"No dispute? But my dear friend"—

"I tell you it ain't no dispute," insisted the man. "She"—jerking his thumb toward the woman—"thinks she ain't goin' to get my week's wages, and I know darn well she ain't. Where's the dispute in that?"

THE ARAB'S HORSE.

How He Is Treated and Why He Excels at Long Journeys.

It is most interesting to note the way the Arab treats his faithful friend, the horse. So inured indeed is the Arab pony by long usage and descent to the manner of life in the desert that even my own pony positively improved on the treatment, and I never saw him so fit as when he came back from the trip.

If the Arab and his horse are by legend closely allied they are in point of fact even more intimately connected. His mount is his first thought and at all times by far the most interesting topic of conversation.

He is ungroomed, unclipped, unhaltered, for the Arab prefers to shackle him by means of two ropes, a short cord connecting the fore and hind fetlocks and a long line tethering him above the hind fetlock to a peg in the ground. Thus he can move about or roll at leisure and should there be any rough herbage at hand can forage for it.

Perhaps one of the principal reasons why the Arab so excels at long journeys is that he never worries himself, nor does he ever distress his mount unless there is real cause to do so. He simply continues a steady walk all day and hardly ever gallops in the wild way in which one so often sees him depicted by artists.—London Field.

Bill's Specialty.

They found the old man sitting on the fence smoking his corncob.

"Howdy, pap! What's your son Jim doing these days?"

"Jim? Oh, he's running a telegraph key at the depot. Jim's an operator."

"And how's Zeke?"

"Zeke? Waal, Zeke is captain of a lake steamer. He's a navigator."

"And Pete? Is he still living?"

"Oh, yes. Pete's working on an airship. He's what they call an aviator."

"Well, what has become of Bill. Is he doing anything?"

The old man blew a quid of tobacco at a wide eyed grasshopper.

"Yep, stranger, Bill's hanging around the house all day grumbling and complaining and saying the country's going to smash. Bill's just an aggravator—just a plain aggravator."—Judge.

The Tall Chimney.

It might puzzle the ordinary mortal to state in legal form just how much time and how much money he would require to take down a tall brick chimney. The contracting engineer would make it take itself down. After doing a small sum of arithmetic on his cuff he would direct certain portions of the base removed. In the spaces thus left he would fit a lot of very stout timbers, then remove the bricks which remained between them. Then he would set fire to the timbers and, watching from a safe distance with a camera, would take a snapshot of it as it fell.—Scribner's.

Distilled Water.

Distilled water after having been exposed to the air is one of the most salubrious of drinks. Its daily use in measured quantities is helpful in cases of dyspepsia and greatly assists the general functions of the body. Every large steamer carries a water distilling apparatus by which sea water is made fresh. In the days before steamers primitive distilling apparatus was used on warships and vessels carrying passengers.

A Postal Deficit.

"Pa, what is meant by the postal deficit?"

"The things your mother always forgets to put on a postal card."—Detroit Free Press.

Sleepless.

Blobbs—Why don't you consult a doctor about your insomnia? Slobbs—What! And run up more bills? Why, it's because of what I owe him now that I can't sleep.

Wanted Full Credit.

"Now, my little man, you are accused of striking another boy and knocking out one of his teeth."

"'Scuse me, judge, two of his teeth."—Life.

When He Enjoys Home.

"Does your husband enjoy his home?"

"Yes—whenever I want him to take me to the theater."—Cleveland Leader.

KIDNEY DISEASE COMES ON QUIETLY.
Perhaps no other organs work harder than the kidneys to keep the general health of the body and few people are troubled with some kidney Complaint, but do not suspect that may have been in the system for some time. There may have been backaches, swelling of the feet and ankles, disturbances of the urinary organs, such as brick dust deposit in the urine, highly colored scanty or cloudy urine, bladder pains, frequent or supressed urination, burning sensation when urinating, etc.
Do not neglect any of these symptoms, for, if neglected they will eventually lead to Bright's Disease, Dropsy and Diabetes.
On the first sign of anything wrong Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go to the seat of trouble, strengthen the kidneys and help them to filter the blood properly and flush off all the impurities which cause kidney trouble.
Miss Albertha B. Clarke, Stony Creek, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with kidney trouble for several years; my back was weak, I had such terrible headaches, and was so restless I could not sleep at night and tried everything without any benefit. Meantime a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got four boxes and they completely cured me. I now feel as well as I ever did and would advise everyone suffering from Kidney Disease to try them."

Won From Knox Church by 3-0 in a Fast Game on Saturday Night.

In an interesting exhibition game of hockey on Saturday night on Knox rink the C G E Mercantile League team downed Knox Church League outfit by 3 to 0. PLAY IN LINDSAY THURSDAY NIGHT

Date of This Week's Big Game Has Been Changed.

Peterborough will play in Lindsay on Thursday of this week instead of on Friday as scheduled. The Lindsay club telephoned the secretary of the local club this morning to the effect that there are several big events in Lindsay on Friday and they would prefer the Petes to visit Bowmanville on Thursday night. The change was agreeable to the Peterborough Club and Lindsay were informed accordingly. Arrangements have been made to run an excursion to Lindsay on Thursday night.

ARMATURE TEAM WON EASY VICTORY

Defeated the Meters on Saturday Afternoon by 11 Goals to 2.

One of the best games of hockey played this season was witnessed on Saturday by a large gathering of poor losers to be sure The scoring was not much only 11-2; at half time it stood 3-0 in favour of the arm. dept. of course. We had to let the boys have a 'look in,' as Campbell like the big kind hearted fellow he is moved out of the nets in order to allow a couple in, while he was out.

The game commenced at 1.20 and Referee Beckett had his hands full, trying to keep the boys from wooding up too much. He gave perfect satisfaction to both sides, the only thing it took him all his spare time putting downt he scotre. Very few accidents occurred during the play everything went off very nicely, except Mowry had a mix up with the fence on the commencement, but one bump did for him on the fence; he found out the fence was too much for him as he gave up trying. Rob Picard and Cassidy proved to be the stars for the meter and LaCombe, Flowers, Archibald, Mowry and Campbell were the stars for the arm. Capt. Campbell proved to be an artist on skates and stopped many a dangerous looking shot, and he was always Johnny on the spot.

The teams were as follows—

Arm dept	vs.	Meter dept.
	Goal
J H Campbell, capt.		Halpin

W. O'Neil		Coney

J. Archibald		Picard

WILL RUN EXCURSION TO LINDSAY THURSDAY

Hockey Club Will Give Fans a Chance to See Battle in Scugogville.

The Peterborough Intermediate O. H. A. team will play in Lindsay on Thursday and it is altogether likely that the club will run an excursion to Scugogville for the occasion, leaving by special train about seven o'clock. There is much interest in Peterborough over the approaching struggle and a big crowd of fans will want to see the battle in Lindsay. The rivalry between the two teams will stir the interest in the game up to fever heat and local fans feel that they have a team that will give Lindsay the hardest argument they have had in years on their own ice. A big crowd will accompany the team in the event of an excursion.

ARE PLAYING IN BELLEVILLE TO-NIGHT

Peterborough Team Left for Dead City on the 1.40 Train This Afternoon.

The Peterborough intermediate O. H. A. team left at 2 o'clock this afternoon for Belleville where they will clash with the Bay of Quinte bunch to night. The boys are in good shape and feel that barring accidents they should win, although they realize that Belleville might prove a different team on their own ice. However, Lindsay did the trick and the Petes cannot see any reason why they should not be able to accomplish the stunt themselves. The locals will line up as follows—

Goal—Derocher.
Point—Glover.
Cover point—Moore.
Rover—Ray.
Centre—Parnell.
Right wing—Rose.

This is the same team that defeated Belleville here 5-0 on Friday night and they should repeat it to-night.

EXPECT A FENCING TEAM FROM HERE

Big Competition to Take Place in Toronto in February.

Toronto, Jan. 18—The city Y.M.C.A. Fencing Championship for the H. H. Love Silver Trophy will be competed for on Friday, February 26th. The Central team won the trophy two years in succession, and if won this year will be their permanent property. Central have four teams of three in the field, and Brantford, Hamilton, Midland Peterborough, and West End, Toronto, are expected to send teams.

PACIFICS WON TWO GAMES FROM B.A.C.

McIlroy Had a 208 Game—Some Good Rolling Was Done.

In a league game at the Peterborough Bowling Club's alleys on Friday evening the Pacifics improved their standing in the league race by taking two out of three games from the B A C. There was some excellent rolling done, especially by the Pacifics in their last game, when they put on a score of 550, McIlroy being top man with 205, which was high score for the night MacRae was top scorer for the B A C.

Following were the scores—

THE CURLERS HAVE ARRIVED AT LIVERPOOL

Were Heartily Welcomed by Liverpool Curlers—On to Edinburgh.

London, Jan. 18.—C. A. P. — The heartiest welcome was accorded the Canadian curlers at Liverpool on Saturday. Ex-Provost Gordon, Rev. John Kerr, chaplain, and Mr. Davidson Smith, secretary, were deputies from the Royal Caledonian Club. Several of the Liverpool curlers went aboard the steamer, preceded by a piper. There compliments were exchanged, in the course of which Lieutenant-Governor Fraser declared that the curlers constituted a link between the Great Dominion and the Mother Country, which would never be broken. Then, to the tune of "The Campbells Are Coming," the Canadians, decked with heather and led by ex-Provost Gordon, who carried on high a curler's broom decorated with tartan and the Canadian colours, disembarked, and proceeded to the special train for Edinburgh.

CARNIVALS OF OLD.

People have not grown too old yet to recall to their memory the grandeur of the Carnival Celebrations in Montreal. The streets were alive with people who laughed and chattered in the frosty night but bracing air, until you'd have thought the whole town had gone mad, or that all the grown people had become children again. The great walls of the Ice Palace on Dominion Square loomed up in the darkness like walls of granite on a moonlight night, but all was quiet within. Twice around the silent castle marched the army of the Fire King, pausing at each gate and demanding in loud tones the surrender of King Borealis.

A refusal to surrender was in order and as soon as the word was out there arose from the ranks of the attacking multitude volleys of rocke s and fiery explosives that you would have thought at least a thousand men were killed, and the light of which turned the snow covered square into a field of silver, and made the beautiful Ice Palace stand out like a ghostly thing against the dark background of the winter sky. The next instant came the answering volley from the Ice King forces. From every window and port-hole streamed out the hissing rockets and popping balls of light from furiously shaken Roman candles, and up over the walls of the Palace went huge canisters which, exploding in the air, sent showers of blue and purple drops of fire falling upon the heedless heads of the combatants.

What will such an attack be these days with all the new elements that have been introduced into the art of fireworks, and with that radium magic like light, electricity, remains to be seen.

The Montreal Carnival of Winter Sports, with the grandest of all Ice Palaces, will last from February 10th to 20th, 1909. It will be a lifetime's opportunity to appreciate the charming elements of a true winter scene in a country where the Spring is delightful and where the prettiest roses are grown in summer.

HOCKEY

The Winnipeg Telegram speaking of the game between Edmonton and the Winnipeg Maple Leafs, says of Fred Whitcroft:—

Whitcroft, on top of having to manage the team, played up to the top of his form. He had not been seen in hockey here since he was with the Kenora team, and his reputation had suffered some. He made a new name for himself, proving that he can not only gather stars, but shine as well. He had a few hard bumps from his friend Hall in the legitimate way, and has a few marks from them, but he showed no sign of feeling them. His handling of the team on the ice and his own individual work as a member of the team places him in the front rank of hockey players anywhere. Personally under trying circumstances, he conducted himself in the most gentlemanly manner, and by his play and demeanor made a host of friends in Winnipeg. If the Edmonton team does not take the cup it will be a very big surprise to all who saw last night's game.

The Belleville Intelligencer has the following to say of Friday night's hockey match;

Belleville's intermediate hockey team were last night at Peterborough defeated by a score of 5 to 0. From reports received the game was exceptionally rough, and in the respect our boys suffered the most. Spangenberg, left wing player, had the misfortune to have his nose broken and the other members of the team to-day bear marks of the affray. An indication of the roughness of the game can be gathered from the fact that during the match no less than twenty-four penalties were inflicted. Our boys feel confident that they will reverse the score here on Monday night, when they meet the second team Dr. Gillfillen, of Newmarket, was the referee, and he was apparently favouring the home team, when it was at all possible. In the first half the score was 3 to 0 in favour of Peterborough. In the second half they scored 2 more goals.

All Saints defeated Murray street in a Junior Church League game Friday by 6-5, after a most exciting struggle. The winners were away out in front at half time, leading by 5-0, but Murray street came with a rush in the last half and came within an ace of winning out. The teams were as follows:—

To the Sporting Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir:—The question everybody was asking each other last night was Why don't the Intermediates get Quinn the Lakefield boy on their team? In my opinion and I've seen the best of them play, he will easily make good. True he lives nine miles from town, but has not the O.H.A. been giving permits right along in cases such as Quinn's?

Wake up, Intermediates, and get Quinn on your forward line, and then you will have a great chance with Lindsay & Company.

Sincerely yours,

The City League games this week will be between the Belmonts and the T.A.S. and the West Ends and Lakefield teams. There is great interest being shown in the Lakefield game as the visitors from the North are counted upon to give the Stratbconas a run for the championship. The West Ends will be strong and figure upon winning from Lakefield, but the visitors look very strong.

The Sleeping Sickness.

The terrible sleeping sickness of tropical Africa is discussed at length in an article in Popular Mechanics The disease, which long baffled scientists, is spread by the tsetse fly, a bloodsucking, day flying insect. On the approach of either man or animal at a river crossing in the densest forest the victim is soon scented out by the fly, if there is one in the vicinity, and then, either silently or with a peevish buzz, it makes straight for the most accessible spot and gives its stab. The usual course of the disease is from four to eight months. At the outset there are headache, a feverish conditon, lassitude and a corresponding disinclination to work. The facial aspect changes, and a previously happy and intelligent looking negro becomes instead dull, heavy and apathetic. Later, tremor in the tongue develops, speech is uncertain, and mumbling, walk shuffling and progressive weakness, drowsiness and oblivion to his surroundings afflict the sufferer. The last stage is marked by extreme emaciation and a coma deepening into death.

Cause of Fatty Heart.

The great danger from obesity lies in the liability of the fat to invade the cellular elements of the body, especially the muscles. This produces fatty degeneration of the muscular tissues, which greatly weakens and impairs their functional activity. When the fat invades the tissues of the heart muscles the disease known as "fatty degeneration of the heart" results, and the patient is in serious danger. Whenever a slight additional strain upon the circulation results from undue exercise, excitement or other cause the muscles interfere with the heart's action, and it is liable to cease beating. Anaemia and hysteria often are accompaniments of obesity. Because of the increased weight and difficulty of moving about such patients are prevented from taking an ordinary amount of exercise. Often, too, there are a lassitude and a positive dislike for muscular exertion of any kind.—What to Eat.

From Medicine to the Drama.

The earlier part of Victorien Sardou's career was beset with many trials and difficulties. His parents wished him to take up a medical career, and he began his studies with some zeal. The love of the drama, however, was far greater than the love of the pill box, and in the interval of the other work Sardou was busy upon a play. Life was a struggle for him, for he had little money, though he managed to get journalistic work to supplement his more slender income. His first play was a failure, and Sardou rushed from the theater vowing never to enter one again. He fell seriously ill, was nursed back to health by Mlle. de Brecourt, an actress who lived on a floor below, and from that time his fortune was made.

A Friend In Need.

About half an hour had been expended by the bashful young man in a series of advances and retreats, and little Johnny's cramped position behind the sofa was becoming somewhat painful.

"I wish I dared" the young man commenced on a new attack, when the couple were electrified by an impatient exclamation behind them: "Aw, make a break! She's dead easy!"—Brooklyn Life.

AN UP TO DATE AD.

Miss Margaret Brown, a Resourceful Stenographer of Chicago.

A Chicago stenographer, Miss Margaret Brown, needed a position. To live she had to work, and nowhere in the great city could she find employment. On the "liner" pages of the Chicago dailies she saw the advertisements of hundreds of girls who, like herself, could find no work to do. Their ads., as a rule, ran like this:

Situation Wanted.—Young woman, twenty-two, five years' experience, desires position as stenographer; trustworthy and efficient; references furnished. Box X. Y. Z.

Said Margaret Brown to herself, for she has learned the great life principle of reasoning: "How can I compete with all the other jobless girls in Chicago and make myself heard? If I advertise in the newspapers, who will single me out from all the rest? Doubtless scores of those girls are as good if not better stenographers than I am. I have no way except by advertising to call attention to my condition. I must invent a way."

She did, and here is the ad. she published in one newspaper:

Situation Wanted.—A brown haired girl by the name of Brown would like a position with a firm named Brown, although others would be considered. Address X 537.

Scores of letters addressed to "X 537" arrived at the newspaper office the following day, and Miss Margaret Brown had no difficulty in selecting the best offer, and it was a good one.

She has her job, and she is happy.

Hundreds of others are still advertising.

Miss Margaret Brown is a smart young woman and deserves success. She will surely have success. She knows that nothing is accomplished which is worth while doing that does not come from hard thinking.

Does this mean anything to you?

THE POPULAR GIRL.

She Never Challenges the Admiration of the Crowd.

There are two kinds of popular girls. One is admired by the crowd; the other is loved by the individual. One is sure to be spoken of as "fascinating;" the other is not spoken of very much at all. But every one who knows her says softly, with an air of having made a rare discovery: "Ah, I like that girl! I feel as if I had been looking for her always. She is the dearest girl in the world."

The popular girl of the first mentioned class is easy enough to appreciate and to understand. Every one finds her attractive. Her popularity is obvious. In fact, nearly everything about her, all her charm, seems to be rather obvious. All her easy magnetism shows off prettily at first glance. She makes no particular appeal to you as an individual, but she is a general favorite. You find her fascinating, and you know that every one else finds her fascinating too. She is the "popular" girl.

It does not occur to many people to describe the other girl as "popular." She never challenges the attention of the crowd. She is unassuming and unaffected, very much interested in other persons and wholly unconscious of herself. She is not strikingly beautiful. Even the keenness of her remarkably fine mind has in it no obtrusive surface brilliance. She has none of the airs and graces, the small coquetries, of the girl who is an acknowledged belle. She has none of the obvious charms of the "popular" girl. There is nothing obvious about her at all. Yet every one who talks with her ten minutes feels the personal compulsion of her quiet, unsought charm.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Bags made of cheesecloth eight inches square filled with oatmeal, some powdered borax, pulverized castile soap and a little powdered orris root and used in the bath are delightfully refreshing.

Cold water should not be taken during any meal. This sudden deluge on the food in the stomach chills it and prevents the digestive juices from acting freely, thus letting the food lie passive and causing acute indigestion.

Occasionally take the powder puff and clean it in gasoline, frequently changing the gasoline to get the puff perfectly clean. Bear in mind that the puff gets as badly soiled as a towel or face cloth and should not be used long without being cleaned.

The fashionable hairdressing of the season shows the hair parted in the front or a little at one side as considered becoming. It is puffed at the side and taken back to the crown of the head or the nape of the neck, depending upon the quantity of the hair.

Under no circumstances rub soap into white hair. Put it into a warm or hot suds and use fresh water freely for rinsing and be liberal with soft, warm towels when drying. Avoid a yellow or green soap that contains alkali and makes the hair yellow. Use pure castile soap that has previously been reduced to a jelly in warm rainwater to which a little bay rum has been added.

The eyebrows should receive as much attention as any other part of the body. With a little cold cream on the finger tips rub the eyebrows gently, so as to remove any possible dandruff, since they often have a little in them. Then wash them with a solution made of water and a little alcohol. First brush them straight up toward the hair and then straight down, and the line will be thin and well shaped. If constantly treated in this manner the eyebrows will soon be a beautiful shape. The brushing up of the outward tip gives a coquettish expression to some faces.

"One swallow does not make a summer," it is true, but a banana skin will often make one fall.—Pathfinder.

OBITUARY

MARGARET SULLIVAN

Death claimed Miss Margaret Sullivan, a native of Peterborough, but for many years a resident of Vallijo, Cal., on Saturday. Word was received here on Saturday night by the deceased's nephews, Ald. Harry Phelan, Rev. Father Phelan, and Walter Phelan, of Pittsburg, and other relatives here. The late Miss Sullivan will be remembered by the older residents of the city who will sympathize with the relatives. The funeral announcement will be made later.

Her sister, Mrs. P. J. McAuley, of Trenton, accompanied by her husband, left for California about five or six weeks ago, being called on account of Miss Sullivan's illness. She has two sisters, Mrs. Wm. Atchison, of Leroy, N.Y., and Mrs. J. Corkery, Harwood, and one brother, J. Sullivan, California.

MRS. JOHN GUTHRIE

The death occurred on Sunday morning at the home of Mr. John Wright, Fowler's Corners, of Catharine Jackson, widow of the late John Guthrie. The deceased was well known as Emily and was highly respected. There remain to mourn her loss, Mrs. Wright, Fowler's Corners; Mrs. Jos. Wilson, Cookston, Ont., and three sons, F. C. and R. J., of Emily, and W. J., of Midland. The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2.30, to Emily Cemetery.

REV. DR. O'BRIEN WAS INJURED TO-DAY

Rev. Dr. O'Brien met with a very painful accident this morning while on his way to St. Joseph's Hospital. As he was walking along he slipped and dislocated a knee cap. He was taken to the hospital where it is understood he will be confined for some time.

FAMILY BROKEN UP BY TYPHOID

It was learned this afternoon that there are now ten children at the Shelter, the largest number since last winter when the record for the new building was set. A little baby 13 months old was brought down from the House of Refuge on Saturday, where it has been kept for some time.

One particular sad case is that of a family from Lakefield, which has been completely disrupted by typhoid fever. The father and one child are in the hospital here and the rest of the children, four, it is stated, are in the Shelter where they have been brought to, owing to the illness of the mother at home. She is too poorly to care for the family and in the meantime they have been taken in charge by the Society. The case is a rather unusual one and has attracted some attention and many expressions of sympathy have been heard from those acquainted with the case.

WORK PLENTIFUL AT BRIDGENORTH

No Complaints Heard Regarding Scarcity of Labour—Ice on Lake is Thick—Harvest Will be Good.

THE LATEST HAPPENINGS.

Bridgenorth, Jan. 18 — Ten below zero this morning.

The Post office with letter boxes is quite a convenience for the public, as there is no waiting for the mail, only to be handed out.

There is no need of a stone pile in the village this winter, as there is work for every one and every one is at work.

The ice on the lake is first class and can be driven over any place without danger; the ice harvesters are getting ready to accommodate the public with ice for the summer months, so there will be no ice famine this summer.

Mr. Keys, the organizer for the C. O. F., has been here and has gathered in a few more candidates, which were initiated last Friday night; after the close of the meeting refreshments were served, and a social time was spent among the Foresters.

Mr. Ardrid, the contractor for Thorne & Henderson, of Bobcaygeon, has over 4,000 pieces on the lake now and is keeping quite a few men and teams at work.

Mr. George Bell has a contract for a firm in Toronto for a quantity of verandah posts, and has a turner engaged for that purpose.

We are having one of the finest winters for the farmers, who are getting along with their work, as the roads are good, and the snow in the woods is not deep. They are getting their hay and produce to the market, also their wood out. This time last winter it was nearly impossible to get along the roads, in fact the roads were in the fields.

Mr. J. Forsythe has returned home after a visit amongst friends in Pontypool and Manvers Township; this is the first holiday John has taken in years.

LYNX VERY PLENTIFUL IN VICINITY OF WARSAW

Lynx seems to be rather plentiful in the woods around Clear Lake and Warsaw. During the last two days there have been no less than four of these animals trapped and shot within a radius of six miles of Warsaw, all being taken very near the same place, in the wilderness around the shore of Clear Lake. Mr. J. Payne, of Lakefield, brought in a beautiful specimen on Saturday morning, also this morning, Mr. Paul Payne, of Warsaw, brought in the mate to it. Also on Saturday, Mr. F. Cowider, of Warsaw, brought in two lynx.

Hotel Grafters.

The proprietor of one of the largest hotels in New York, speaking of the uses made by nonpaying customers of his house, said to a rural guest a few days ago: "We have a large number of patrons from whom we never collect a cent, although we have no such thing as a free list. They come here in the morning, pick up a castoff paper, which they read, keeping an eye open for another, which they grab as soon as it is dropped. After reading awhile they stand at the ticker, often giving long lectures to their fellows on financial conditions and stock possibilities. The overcoat becomes burdensome, and it is taken to the check room, where its owner knows it will be perfectly safe. Then, if they can tear themselves from the ticker, letters are written on our stationery. They do not use our telephones because we charge an extra 5 cents for the call, but they carry home matches, toothpicks, blank cards and blotters and use up the soap in our lavatories. They also take generous nibbles of the cheese and crackers in the cafe. The strangest part of all is this—that the majority of this class are well to do and highly respectable, and on that account we do not shut them out."—New York Tribune.

Literary Irrigation.

"Your latest novel seems very dry," said the reader of the publishing house to the young but rising author.

"I was pretty sure you would say that," rejoined the author, "Consequently if you will count them you will find the heroine weeps real tears on just 263 pages of my story."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

EARL'S BOGUS MARRIAGE.

Ninth Earl of Strathmore Went Through False Ceremony.

The title held by Lord Glamis, heir of the Earl of Strathmore, who was married last month to Lady Edith Campbell, has been well-known in Scotland for over five centuries. The first holder was Master to the Household of James I., a staunch enemy to England. The secret that hangs like a cloud over Glamis Castle in Forfarshire, and is told to each heir as he comes of age, does not seem to lie heavily on the mind of the future Lord Strathmore. Although a thousand and one stories have been circulated about it, not a living soul save the earl, his first-born son, and the factor of the estate, know what the mystery is. In every generation the heir of the house has said he will tell about it, but when he has come of age, and has accompanied the head of the house and the factor into the secret chamber, and been initiated, he never has divulged. Lord Playfair was a connection of the family, and used to have the run of Glamis Castle, but he never could learn anything, try as he might. The ninth Earl of Strathmore went through a false marriage ceremony with a pretty daughter of a man not of his own rank. In her innocence she lived with him as his wife, which she believed herself to be. When the earl was dying, he confessed the fraud. "Very well," she said, "you shall marry me now, and that publicly." The earl was carried to the church, and in the presence of a large number of friends, the wronged lady was made in truth the Countess of Strathmore. But years earlier a son had been born, who had already been sent to Eton as Lord Glamis. But the poor fellow was really simply plain John Bowes. He inherited the property of his family on the maternal side, and Streatham Castle has come to the earls of Strathmore through him. The Countess of Strathmore would have been Duke of Portland had she been a boy. She is the daughter of the late Mr. Charles Cavendish-Bentinck, who, had he lived, would have succeeded to the title, to the exclusion of the present holder.

BIBLE INCIDENT AT ETON.

Lord Monkswell Tells a Story of a Hot-Headed Schoolmaster.

Lord Monkswell has presided at a function in London in celebration of the visit of the American Fleet to Australasia and the establishment of penny postage between the United Kingdom and the United States. His lordship is the second holder of the title, which was created in 1885. The late Lord Monkswell made a successful Attorney-General. At the time he was called to the Bar he expressed the opinion that it was inconceivable to suppose he would not rise to the position of judge. The present Lord Monkswell was first introduced to public life as a member of the Chelsea Board of Guardians. He has been a member of the London County Council since its establishment in 1889. Educated at Eton, his lordship relates some interesting stories about a master affectionately known as "Billy Johnson." He was a splendid scholar and charming poet, but was short-sighted, and in other respects deficient in the qualities to maintain order and discipline. His special enemy was the college dog, and one day when it entered his class-room he threw his keys at the animal and sent it away howling. When in the act of retrieving the keys, "Billy" caught sight of a boy "copying" the lesson. This flagrant breach of discipline incensed him so much that, picking up a portly volume lying on the desk in front of him, he hurled it at the offending boy with all his might. The volume upset a bottle of ink on the desk over the boy's trousers, and the book was greatly damaged. Gathering up the broken missile, the lad took it up to the desk, with the respectful reproach, "Oh, sir, it is the Bible!" When Lord Monkswell introduced a Burial Authorities (Cremation) Bill into the House of Lords, Lord Salisbury humorously inquired what Burial Authorities he proposed to cremate!

Economical.

She—I'm going to give you back our engagement ring. I love another. He—Give me his name and address. She—Do you want to kill him? He—No, I want to sell him the ring.—Pick-Me-Up.

Milk Toast and Cheese.

Make some rich milk toast and spread out on a flat dish. Cover with a thick layer of grated cheese and put in the oven till the cheese melts and browns. —Harper's Bazar.

A Sponger.

"The worse of Spongely is he never pays anything," said Grabbles.

"Oh, doesn't he, though? Ask him to pay you a visit and see," retorted Hicks.

ANNUAL MEETING OF LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY BOARD SHOWS VERY FLOURISHING CONDITIONS

Reports Presented Yesterday and Officers Elected for Coming Year—Increased Salary for the Superintendent.

GRATIFYING CONDITIONS.

The annual meeting of the Little Lake Cemetery Company was held yesterday afternoon in the Council Chambers. The annual reports were presented and discussed, following which the directors and officers were elected. From the reports presented it was shown that many improvements have been made, that the cemetery is in excellent condition in every department, and the general affairs are in a flourishing condition. The Board of Directors was elected as follows:

Messrs. Chas. Stapleton, James Stevenson, W. H. Moore, J. J. Lundy, Benj. Shortly, T. A. S. Hay, G. W. Morrow, E. H. D. Hall and Dr. Burnham.

Officers Elected

The officers elected were as follows;

President—Mr. W. H. Moore,

Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. E. A. Peck.

Advisory Committee—Messrs. W. H. Moore, Chas. Stapleton, James Stevenson, Benjamin Shortly and T. A. S. Hay.

Auditors—Messrs. Jas. A. Hall and T. Q. Quartermaine.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors it was decided to increase the auditors' salary to $15.00 each. It was also decided to increase the salary of the superintendent, Mr. F. Wise, to $750 per annum.

The latter's work was referred to in complimentary terms, and it was stated that the cemetery had never been in as good condition as that to which he had brought it.

Financial Statement

The statement of the finances, presented by the secretary-treasurer, and having passed the auditors' hands, was as follows:

Receipts

Balance from 1907	$ 582 31
Lots and graves	1,979 00
General receipts	2,950 35
Interest	472 59
Trust funds, etc	200 00
	$6,184 25

The expenses amounted to $5,432.11, leaving a balance in the bank of $752.14. Altogether the finances of that last year were better than those of 1907, and a larger balance is carried over.

Directors Report

The directors' report was presented by the president, Mr. W. H. Moore, as follows:

The directors of the company beg leave to report that during the year 1908 they have endeavoured, and they hope with some measure of success, to continue the work of beautifying the grounds and of making considerable improvements in them that were desirable and requisite.

Rooms in the superintendent's old residence have been fitted up for ladies, one as a sitting room and the other as a lavatory, and in the coming summer it is believed this will be appreciated.

The old tank house, which was an eyesore where it stood, has been removed and converted into a place for storing implements, vases and flower pots and for making repairs to lawn mowers, etc.

A handsome rockery has been built near the main entrance and a fountain placed in it.

A new conservatory for flowers, sixty by ninety feet, and somewhat larger than the first flower house, has been finished, ready for use in the spring. This was required in order to provide for the wants of lot owners, which have grown to unexpected dimensions. The stock now set out in the heated conservatory will be sufficient to fill both in the spring, and an excellent supply of choice flowers and plants will be available to meet the expected demand.

A good deal of grading has been done on the avenue on the east side near the river and at other points, and most of the driveways are in a very satisfactory state.

The attention of the new board is directed to the condition of the fence along the front of the cemetery, and also to the chapel, both of which require repairs.

In the early part of the year your directors purchased a city debenture for one thousand dollars, and it will be seen that another for like amount can be taken shortly out of surplus moneys. This will bring the permanent fund for future maintenance to $12,917.31. A part of this has been received from those who desire assurance that their plots will forever be kept in proper condition. The income of the sum received is used yearly where the principal belongs and the latter retained intact invested in city debentures. This is sanctioned by legislative enactment, and it is hoped lot owners will more generally avail themselves of so obviously wise a provision.

The reports of the treasurer, superintendent and auditors will be laid before you.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. H. MOORE,
President.

Dated Jan. 18, 1909.

Superintendent's Report

The superintendent, Mr. Frank Wise, read the following report of the past year's work.

The past year has been a very busy one in your cemetery, not alone in new work undertaken, but I find a feeling among the lot owners to improve the appearance of their lots by placing them under extra care, so much so, that I have found it necessary to place a man entirely in charge of that work. I regret to say, however, that there are a number of lot owners who entirely neglect their lots, so that they have become an eyesore to the part of the cemetery in which they are situated. I do not wish you to infer from this that the company has neglected their part of the work, as the grass has been regularly cut and trimmed upon these lots. A number of these lots contain valuable monuments which seem to mock at their surroundings. Probably an explanation of this neglect of family lots, as observed by me, will be beneficial. We will suppose that a man loses a member of his family, a beloved wife, mother, daughter or son, he purchases a family plot and makes an interment therein. As long as the father or mother are living the lot is well looked after. Eventually they are both laid away and the sons and daughters are left to look after the lot, which, in all probability, is too small for the entire family, who have become fathers and mothers themselves and prefer to purchase lots of their own. The old lot becomes neglected, and for which there is seldom any excuse, as there is an arrangement whereby for a small sum the lot can be placed in good repair for all time without any additional expense to the owner. I trust that the coming year will see a number of these lots placed in good repair and under future maintenance.

In my report last year I recommended an addition to my greenhouse, and your directors instructed me to build one. This I have done and now that we have more than double our old greenhouse capacity we shall be in a much better condition to cater to the wants of lot owners.

Last winter I removed the old tank house from its position near the chapel to the northwest side of the cemetery, on Lake avenue. A foundation was placed under it and it has been fitted up as a repair shop and tool house, to replace the old one which, in the near future, it will be necessary to pull down.

The fountain which formerly sat in a basin, is now placed upon a rockwork, much improving its appearance.

The old office building at the residence in the cemetery has been turned into a ladies' lavatory and waiting room. This will supply a long-felt want.

Considerable grading and seeding has been done on Section O, situated at the east side of the cemetery. This ground will soon be needed as burial plots, as Section D is nearly all taken up.

It will be found necessary during the next year to repair or place a new entrance gate to the cemetery. In a great many instances throughout the world this has been done by some public spirited citizen, who has erected a lasting memorial to his memory, and I am sure that the thanks of not only the shareholders of the cemetery, but the community at large will be extended to him should such an one be forthcoming.

Respectfully submitted,
F. WISE,
Superintendent.

$200,000 BLAZE IN LONDON THIS MORNING GUTTED CASKET WORKS; 250 HANDS OUT OF EMPLOYMENT

Examiner Special.

London, Ont., Jan. 19.—Fire which broke out at 12.30 this morning in the varnishing rooms of the Globe Casket Works, corner of Adelaide and Dundas streets, practically gutted the building before it was stopped, causing a loss of $200,000, of which $110,000 is on the building and the remainder on contents. The insurance carried is $89,000 on the building and $4,000 on the yards. A high wind was blowing and only the vigilance of the fire department prevented some of the neighbouring buildings from igniting. Two hundred and fifty hands are thrown out of work.

License Reduction May Be Put On Local Option Basis

Examiner Special.

Toronto, Jan. 19 — The Members' Legislature of both sides are discussing change in license law to make it impossible to cut off licenses unless three-fifths of voters consent, and to prevent municipalities from reducing number of licenses without a popular vote. In other words license reduction would be put under local option regulations. The News says that Hon. A. G. Mackay, leader of the opposition in Legislature, will retire, and Rev. Donald Hossack, formerly pastor of Deer Park Presbyterian Church, will be elevated to the leadership. This it is understood has been determined on by the men who usually control moves of the provincial Liberal party, and will take place shortly after Legislature opens. With his advent a prohibition plank may be adopted.

PRESENTATION MADE TO SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER BY HER CLASS

The members of Mr. Isaac Richardson's Bible Class of the Charlotte street Methodist Sunday School, gathered at his home on Homewood avenue last night, and agreeably surprised him with the presentation to him of a pair of gloves and a silk scarf as a mark of the esteem in which he is regarded by his class. The presentation was made by Mrs. Thistlewaithe, while the following address was read by Mr. S. D. Carver :—

"Dear Teacher :—We are gathered here this evening to give expression to a deep sense of our appreciation of you untiring efforts to instruct us in the Holy Scriptures.

For several years it has been our privilege to attend your Bible Class. We have noted your praiseworthy punctuality. We can always depend upon you being present.

We feel sure, judging from your able teaching of the lesson, that you devote a great deal of time and thought to their preparation.

We not only desire to express our gratitude for your past services, but at the same time to record our earnest wish and hope that you may long be spared to break to us the Bread of Life.

It is with pleasure that we ask your acceptance of this slight token of our appreciation of your valuable services, praying that you and yours may still be the subjects of the Heavenly Father's care and love.

Signed on behalf of the BIBLE CLASS."

Electric Railway May Run To The Kawartha Lake Resorts

An electric railway may be built connecting Cobourg with Peterborough and the Kawartha Lakes. An application has been made to the Legislature for a charter to the Cobourg, Peterborough and Kawartha Lakes Electric Railway Company. Two lines are proposed, one between Cobourg and Havelock, going through the villages of Warkworth, Burnley, Cantreton and Baltimore; and a second from Cobourg to the Kawartha Lakes, through Cold Springs, Plainville, Bewdley, Baillieboro', Centreville and Petersville. The lines are not to exceed thirty miles each.

The company ask leave to issue bonds to the extent of $25,000 a mile, which would amount to $1,500,000 for the two roads.

Peterborough Radial Railway Co. asks for an Act extending the time for completion of the road, and for authority to extend it from Clear Lake to a point in Stony Lake in Peterborough county.

THE FATAL LEVEL CROSSING.

There is not much hope that the fatal accident at th level railway crossing at Grimsby by which five persons were instantly killed, will prove a warning. While the level crossing, in itself, is an ever-present danger, there is no probability that, except under compulsion, the railways will take any measures to make them safe for the public. And there does not seem to be any probability that the public will cease to close their eyes to the awful danger they incur in taking level railway crossings without first assuring themselves that no train is approaching. If they did this, there would be no such accidents as we are called upon to chronicle with almost daily frequency. It goes without saying that the public are deplorably careless; they know the risk of injury they run in approaching a level railway crossing. It is but the work of a moment to assure themselves as to the proximity or otherwise of a train. If the public could be induced to take proper precaution, the long roll of level crossing fatalities would never be compiled. The conductors of our street railway cars are instructed to stop at every level crossing, to go forward and see that the track is clear before the motorman is signalled to proceed. This is done with almost absurd exactness. If one car is ten feet behind another, its conductor has to go through the same process, though the conductor of the first car, ten seconds previously, has waved the track clear. This seems unnecessary care, but so long as such care is exercised there will be no accidents. If the public who run such serious chances of being killed or injured, took similar care, the level crossing accidents would disappear. But there is small hope of this. We have gates at the George street and Aylmer street railway crossings; but foot passengers disregard the gates and pass into the danger zone dozens of times a day, thus knowingly incurring possibility of accident. In all our streets we see people rush in front of a car or team to cross the street when they have no cause to take the risk involved, for we often see them after thus risking their lives to save a moment of time, stop on the other side and chat several minutes with some acquaintance they have encountered. Still the carelessness of the public does not relieve the railway companies and the authorities of responsibility—if the public wont protect themselves they must be protected against themselves as well as against the danger of level crossings. If gates had been in use at Grimsby the five lives would not have been lost. Some of our journals and statesmen, or, rather, politicians, are demanding a two-cent railway passenger rate. Would it not be better instead of insisting on this, to enable the railways to justify a three-cent rate, on the score of the expense involved in providing gates at level crossings? Canada needs to take a leaf out of the British book in regard to the management of the crossings of railways and highways. There the level crossing is rare, or non-existent and the level crossing accident is also rare or non-existent.

In 1907 there was a total of 2,285 killed and injured in railway accidents, one for every 100,000, of the 275,999,404 passengers carried.

PROTECTION AND PREFERENCE.

Mr. O. T. Skelton, who writes "Current Events" in Queen's Quarterly, believes that the protectionist movement in Great Britain may not be as much of a prize for the Canadian farmer as has generally been supposed. Hitherto in the British market, he says, we have enjoyed equality of treatment with home producers, and absolute stability of tariff conditions. If protection triumphs both these advantages will vanish. The British market will cease to be free. Already the preferential sentiment has been almost swallowed up in protectionism. The British farmer will demand adequate protection against colonial wheat, cattle and cheese. There will be a still higher tariff against foreign wheat, cattle and cheese, but will that apparent preference be as good for us as a free market? Will not the British farmer be inclined to take the same position as our own protected manufacturers, who are willing to have discrimination against the foreigner, but not quite so willing to encourage imports from other parts of the Empire? Mr. Skelton answers the question in this way; "The general tariff rates will be increased by protectionist pressure from within. Our preferential discount will be whittled down by negotiation without. Before many years were over imperial 'preference' would prove the worst gold brick proposition ever offered the Canadian farmer. To do the Canadian farmer justice, the demand for preference on farm products comes in no slightest degree from the man behind the plough, but from solicitous and self-constituted champions in city clubs. Eventually, then, we should be facing the same situation in Great Britain and the United States; in both, hostile tariffs, in both, reductions purchasable by reciprocal flavours in both, no special assurance of permanence."

There is a good reason to believe that the tariff reform government in Great Britain will become more protectionist and less preferential. Whatever strength the movement has lies in domestic and not in imperial conditions. The unemployed British workman may be convinced that it is in his interest to discourage the importation of German or American manufactures. Protective duties on wheat and flour may be advocated in the interests of the British farmers and of those inhabitants of the cities who want to get "back to the land." It may also be advocated on military grounds, as a means of encouraging the United Kingdom to grow more food for itself, and be less dependent on foreign supplies. These are the arguments by which protection will succeed in Great Britain, if it succeeds at all. None of them except the military argument perhaps has anything to do with a system of colonial preferences. Even from the military point of view, the case for colonial preferences is not as strong as the case for domestic protection. From every point of view of the British farmer, colonial preferences are of no value whatever. The British manufacturer and workman might reap some advantage from preferences in the colonial markets, but here account would have to be taken of the hostility of colonial manufacturers. The more the subject is examined, the more likely it appears that if protection makes headway in the United Kingdom, it will be for domestic, not for imperial reasons. —Toronto Star.

THE FATE OF THF INTERCOLONIAL.

The future of the Intercolonial Railway continues to be a fruitful topic of press discussion, the consensus of opinion being that the road has been too long a public burden. In all it has cost the people of Canada eighty million dollars, and at the present time additional capital expenditure is essential in the interest of the growing towns and business centres through which it runs, but there is strong objection to adding to the capital account of a railway that is not paying operating expenses.

In the past ten years the physical standard of the Intercolonial has been raised immeasurably, and it now compares favourably with any railway in the country in everything except its finances. The Government is evidently determined to seek a remedy for this defect, which seems to be inherent in the system of management which has been followed since Confederation. The Minister of Railways has intimated that a change will be made, though he emphatically declares that the road will not be sold or leased. The only other alternative that suggests itself, in the absence of definite information, is the operation of the line by a commission or commissioner, absolutely free from political or party control. The difficulties of direct management by the Government are illustrated by the complaint in a Moncton newspaper, because a number of men employed on the Intercolonial had been temporarily laid off. Other railway systems also have their dull periods, during which the working staff is reduced, for the time being, but a government is forcibly reminded in similar circumstances that it is not only dealing with employees, but with voters. It is altogether likely, therefore, that the Minister of Railways will follow the example of Victoria, Australia, where the management of state railways was devolved by the Government upon a commission, headed by a Canadian, Mr. Tait, with the most satisfactory results. — London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A Toronto lady has made five wills, and the last one is disputed. The ladies we know in Peterborough make one will and we have to yield to it without successful dispute.

The Toronto Mail and Empire says that the settlement of the Ontario Government with the Sault industries is very satisfactory. It is, but, remarks the Ottawa Free Press, could it have been reached without the policy of the Laurier Government, which has broadened out Canada and has afforded room for the use of the products of these same Sault industries? The Free Press might truthfully have added, that without the public-spirited and patriotic action of the Ross Government in 1904, which the Mail and Empire's party bitterly opposed, there would have been no settlement to make, satisfactory or otherwise. Financial difficulties would have "settled" the 500 industries forever—they would have been swept into the limbo of gigantic failures.

WAR TALK KEEPS THE PRICES DOWN

Markets Inclined to be Unsettled—Bank of England Discount Raised to Protect Home Money Market.

THE PRESENT CONDITION

New York, Jan. 17 — This has been a week of feverish markets with sharp upward and downward movements. Prices have rallied from one to three points only, to break in the same manner. There were several happenings of unusual importance. The minimum rate of discount of the Bank of England was raised from 2 1-2 per cent. to 3 per cent., the first change in the rate since March 28th last. This would be a bullish factor if the increase in the rate was due to an increase in business, but as it does not mean this it is unsettling. The English Bank raised the rate to protect the home money market against the constant accumulation of gold by the Bank of France. The Bank of France has been preparing to float the $250,000,000 Russian Loan and certain rentes of the French Government. But, in addition, it has accumulated gold and cash far beyond the necessity for these two purposes and in this accumulation lies the matter for alarm. There is a feeling of anger between the Prussian and French Governments and while there is really little reason to expect a war, yet France has been preparing and is in excellent shape, while the Prussian Government is hard up and driven to desperation in its efforts to find money for carrying on the domestic demands upon it. The readiness on the part of France and unreadiness on the part of Germany makes for peace, but at the same time it is unsettling to the markets of the world.

During the week there has been a constant renewal of rumours affecting Erie, and once more it has been reported that receivership proceedings were near. This caused the stocks of the road to break sharply, but upon the announcement that the Public Service Commission would permit the issuance of $30,000,000 of bonds by the road the stock rallied—regaining a greater part of the earlier loss. The action of Erie shows how little Wall street thinks. E. H. Harriman and J. P. Morgan, during the panic when money was tight and rates were high saved the road from going into the hands of a receiver.

BRANDY IN THE CHOCOLATE DROPS

Thirty Prosecutions For Illegal Sale in Montreal.

BOY AND GIRL PURCHASERS

Extensive Sale of Candies Containing as Much as Half a Teaspoonful of Liquor Results In Prosecution of Manufacturer and Thirty Dealers —Many Sold In Vicinity of Theatres and Picture Shows.

Montreal, Jan. 19.—As the result of a boy getting intoxicated on chocolates filled with brandy the other day, several hundred dollars' worth of chocolates have been seized in the Lowney factory, and some 30 confectionery storekeepers have been summoned for selling brandy illegally.

Chief Archambault of the provincial revenue police has found that brandy chocolates, with more than half a teaspoonful of brandy in each, and 25 to 30 of the chocolates in each half-pound box, have been sold extensively in the city at 60 cents a pound.

One of the largest chocolate manufacturing establishments in the city is concerned in the action. On Friday afternoon 100 cases, with four or five pounds of these chocolates in each, according to the statement of Mr. Archambault, were seized by the revenue police on the premises of the Walter M. Lowney Co. of Canada, and from 25 to 30 gallons of brandy in a cask was confiscated in the same establishment.

Following this, a tour of the city confectionery stores was made by the revenue officers, with the result that yesterday thirty candy-store proprietors were summoned to the Police Court. The charge in each case is "selling liquor without a license," this being the only accusation on which actions of the kind can be entered.

A similar charge has been entered against the Lowney company. Numerous cases of boys and young women having bought half-pound boxes of the chocolates and afterwards being noticed in a state of intoxication have been reported. The largest sale was in the neighborhood of the east end theatres and picture shows, matinee girls being the most noticeable purchasers.

Fully half a teaspoonful of brandy is said to have been found in some of the chocolates. An examination of the confectionery shows that there is only a small coating of chocolate, and inside a thin shell of white sugar, the interior being composed of pure liquor.

The Lowney company claim they had the brandy for flavoring purposes, and not for filling the chocolates.

Root Senator For New York.

Albany, N.Y., Jan. 19.—Elihu Root, secretary of State in President Roosevelt's Cabinet, was the unanimous choice of the Republican legislative caucus, which met last night to name a candidate to succeed United States Senator Thomas C. Platt, whose terms of office expires on March 4.

The Democratic caucus named former Lieut-Governor L. Stuyvesant Chanler of Dutchess, who was the Democratic candidate for governor at the November election.

Mr. Root's nomination is equivalent to an election as the Legislature is overwhelmingly Republican.

"Don't Neglect a Cough or Cold."

It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It is without an equal as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Pain in the Chest, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Quinsy and all affections of the Throat and Lungs.

A single dose of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will stop a cough, soothe the throat, and if the cough or cold has become settled on the lungs, the healing properties of the Norway Pine Tree will proclaim its great virtue by promptly eradicating the bad effects, and a persistent use of the remedy cannot fail to bring about a complete cure.

Do not be humbugged into buying so-called Norway Pine Syrups, but be sure and insist on having Dr. Wood's. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cents.

Mrs. A. Elles, Innisfail, Alta., writes: "Last spring I had Typhoid fever and Bronchitis, which left me with a terrible cough. I tried doctor's medicine but got no relief until my [illegible] me a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Syrup, and before I had finished it my cough was cured. My husband also uses it whenever he has a cough. I would not be without it."

POLITICS FIGURE IN THE PULPIT

Pittsburg Baptist Ministers Hired to Boost Candidate.

WERE TO GET $100 EACH

Baptist Pastor Reveals Deal by Which Republican Nominee For Mayor Wanted to Pay Five Reverend Gentlemen to Canvass For Him In Their Sermons and Use Their Influence With Flocks.

Pittsburg, Jan. 19.—Rev. Dr. A. W. Puller, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, a wealthy and prominent congregation, avers that the managers of W. A. Magee, candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor of Pittsburg, dickered for the services of five Baptist clergymen as press agents, the work to be done from the pulpit.

Those in charge of the Baptist congregations here, in addition to the Rev. Dr. Puller, are the Revs. Sims, Webb, Henderson and Scott. The five of them, according to Rev. Dr. Puller, were summoned last Wednesday to the office of William A. Roberts, a rich business man and friend of Magee. Puller says he will produce witnesses who he stationed outside of the door to hear what took place. The five pastors were invited, he says, to "boost" Magee in talks or sermons from their pulpits, and also to surrender personal letters which each had received from John Steele, another candidate for mayor. Each of the ministers was to receive $100 in payment for services rendered.

Rev. Dr. Puller alleges that Rev. Mr. Scott made the arrangements with him, and apparently was conducting the affair. Puller revealed the proposed transaction to friends previous to the meeting in Robert's office and was advised to see it through.

Roberts says Rev. Dr. Puller is angry with him because he refused to extend a mortgage on his home and that Puller more than any of the others arranged the meeting in the office.

SAMPSON'S STRENGTH

Will Not Resist the Pulling Down Influence of a Kidney Aching Back

The strongest man or woman with a back constantly aching finds daily existence a struggle. Its the same way with urinary troubles. Booth's Kidney Pills cure these ailments. Peterborough people prove this statement.

W. Wormington, No. 121 Brock street, Peterborough, Ont., says: "I had suffered with rheumatism for over three years. I had found little or no relief in any of the remedies I had tried. I became so stiff and sore that I could scarcely turn in my bed and had to lay off from my work. The urine was highly coloured and filled with a heavy sand-like sediment which plainly told the disordered state of the kidneys. I tried Booth's Kidney Pills through an advertisement at McDermid & Jury's Pharmacy. I was surprised to see how quickly the urine cleared. The kidneys were soon active, and the uric acid went from my system. The rheumatism gradually became less severe and finally left me. I am better than in years previous, and could not hesitate to recommend Booth's Kidney Pills." Sold by dealers. Price 50 cents. The R. T. Booth Co., Limited, Fort Erie, Ont., Sole Canadian Agents.

SLEW BECAUSE HE LOVED.

Niagara Falls Italian Murderer Confesses to Crime.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Jan. 19.—"He killed my mother!" shrieked Mary Candiano when she was yesterday brought face to face at police headquarters with James Noc, the young Italian who stabbed Mrs. Tonnette Candiano to death at her home.

After his identification by the murdered woman's daughter, Noc made a complete confession of the crime to District Attorney Ackerson.

"I killed her because I loved her," declared the murderer. He told the district attorney that the woman had been wooed by him long before her husband died and that she had repulsed his advances.

He was greatly agitated when told that his victim was dead and wept like a child when the information was imparted to him.

It was only after a long and tedious chase that he was caught. He slung his left arm in a sling thinking the police would not seek a foreigner with an injured arm, but Detective-Sergt. Callinan recognised him from the description given by the dead woman's children. He will appear in the Police Court to-day to answer to the charge of murder in the first degree.

Kept Open on Sunday.

St. Thomas, Jan. 19.—The Lord's Day Alliance communicated yesterday with Toronto headquarters in regard to the prosecution of the proprietor of the Empire Moving Picture Theatre.

He refused to listen to persuasion and opened his theatre Sunday night with the Passion Play and sacred songs. Though not advertised he had two good audiences. The crown attorney when appealed to delegated the police chief as censor, but the chief saw nothing objectionable.

GIRL WILL RECOVER.

Miss Lottie Tester Not Seriously Hurt In Grimsby Accident.

Grimsby, Jan. 19.—Miss Lottie Tester, seriously injured in Saturday morning's railway crossing accident when five were killed, is improving in the hospital at Hamilton, and her recovery is assured. Baby Tester, the 11-months-old survivor, shows no ill effects. The funeral of Mr. and Mrs. George Tester yesterday was largely attended.

Miss Tester has given the following account of the accident:

"We were all in the best of spirits and never gave the danger of the track a thought. I was sitting at the back of the rig, near Gordon Nelson, and the first intimation I had that the express was approaching was when Mr. Wilson, who was driving, stood up and attempted to rein in the horses. I knew a train was due at three o'clock, but did not think it was that late when we approached the crossing. The horses stopped suddenly and wheeled around, and then the engine crushed full tilt into them."

She felt herself flying in the air with great force. Twice the sleigh had stopped to unload a portion of the passengers. At the corner of the main street Arthur Wentworth and Mr. Burt got out and said goodbye cheerily to their friends. The sleigh drove on and again it stopped when Orian Colwell dropped off.

Roblin Signs Answer.

Winnipeg, Jan. 19.—Premier Roblin on Saturday signed a reply of Premiers of the three Prairie Provinces to the Grain Growers' Association, on the latter's proposal for Government ownership of internal elevators.

The report was then sent west for signatures of Premiers Scott and Rutherford.

It is expected it will be in the Grain Growers' secretary's hands in about ten days.

In this connection it will be remembered that without committing himself to any action, Premier Scott recently announced that if the Government assumed ownership it would be only on condition that the handling of the grain became a Government monopoly.

New Dean Chosen.

Kingston, Jan. 19.—The committee appointed by St. George's Cathedral congregation to select a rector in succession to Bishop Farthing of Montreal, has unanimously chosen Rev. Dr. E. J. Dr. Bidwell has accepted. He will be made Dean of Ontario by the bishop. It is likely he will take up his duties at an early date, but will not move his family until about May 1. He is the son of an English clergyman, is 43 years of age, was ordained in 1892, and has been in Canada since 1903.

Kills Family and Himself.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 19.—With their heads submerged in water in a bathroom at their home, W. L. Seeley, an attorney, aged 56, his wife, aged 50, and daughter, Rose, aged 22, were found by F. W. Zibbell and Guy M. Smelser, yesterday. Smelser was engaged to marry Miss Seeley, and Zibbell was a friend of the family.

Mrs. Seeley and her daughter had been murdered with blows inflicted with some blunt instrument, believed to have been a hammer. Seeley had been drowned, according to Coroner Snyder.

Over the corpses of Seeley and his wife was a steamer trunk. An empty chloroform bottle was on the stand in the bathroom. Clutched in one hand of Seeley, which was beneath the water, was a pocket handkerchief which, although soaked in water, still carried a faint trace of the odor of chloroform.

Lakes to Gulf Canal.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 19.—In his inaugural address to the Legislature yesterday, Governor Deneen said:

"It seems to be now an established fact that the Canadian Government is seriously considering the construction of the Georgian Bay Canal, which will give to Canada a deep waterway from the lakes to the Atlantic seaboard, and there should be a speedy beginning on the part of the United States and the states interested in the construction of the lake-to-the-gulf waterway, in order that this country may stand upon an equality in all commercial advantages with Canada and Great Britain."

Charged With Blackmail.

Toronto, Jan. 19.—Mrs. Jos. Hubbard, who was arrested Sunday at Uno Park, north of Cobalt, by Provincial Detective Greer, charged with writing letters to John Waklin, Cannington, was taken through Toronto yesterday to the county jail at Whitby, where she is detained. It is alleged that she wrote a letter saying that if Waklin did not send $500 to her husband, she would blow up his house with dynamite. She is said to have written other letters to Port Perry, Ont., containing similar threats.

Canadian Club Begins The Year With Splendid Meeting

Rev. Dr. Gould Gave Entertaining and Educative Address on "Recent Crisis in Turkey" at Banquet in National Hotel---Affair Was a Complete Success and Delighted the Members of the Club.

The first meeting of the Canadian Club of this city for the new year was held last night in the National Hotel, when a representative assembly of the members of the Club enjoyed a most instructive and entertaining address delivered by Dr. S. H. Gould on "The Recent Crisis in Turkey." The speaker is a medical missionary of the Church of England, and has spent the last eleven years in Palestine where the broad experience he gained by personal contact with the people of the east fully qualified him to speak intellectually and comprehensively on this, one of the most important of current issues.

The affair last night was of a most pleasant nature from more standpoints than one. The attendance was fairly large. It might have been better, but the fifty or sixty who were fortunate in hearing Dr. Gould will remember the delightfulness of the meeting the success of which should bring out larger numbers at the next. The supper which was served by Mine Host Dennison amply justified all the compliments which were paid the cuisiniere of the National Hotel. The entire courses were daintily prepared and most acceptably served. The dining room was thrown open shortly before eight o'clock and everything was carried out in a manner which reflected no small degree of credit upon those who were in charge of the arrangements.

MR. DANIEL O'CONNELL,
The new President of the Canadian Club who occupied the chair last night at the first meeting under his regime.

The Speaker Introduced

When full justice had been done the appetizing dinner, the President of the Club, Mr. Daniel O'Connell, introduced Dr. Gould in a few well chosen words. The latter expressed his appreciation of the privilege of speaking before the Canadian Club of Peterborough, and immediately took up the subject of his discourse. He stated, that he would try to unravel the operative causes that had brought about the so-called bloodless revolution which had led to the establishment of a form of constitutional government in Turkey. The term bloodless was misapplied, he stated, and in considering the causes which had brought about the change there must be summed up all the bloodshed during the 26 years of the reign of the present Sultan. There must be considered, Dr. Gould continued, the Armenian massacre, the secret slaughter of thousands of the best men of Turkey, the exiling of as many others and the sudden disappearances of influential men who never returned.

His subject was divided into two parts. First, the constructive forces which helped build up the reform and second, the destructive forces which collected back on the old regime disrupting it and bringing about its overthrow. Under the first class here was the work of the British Ambassador at the time of the Crimean trouble. This was really the date of the rise of the young Turkish party. Then there was England's work in Egypt which spread into all the surrounding countries and inspired in the young men dreams of times when they too would enjoy the liberties which they saw around them. Under British rule Egypt was raised from bankruptcy to the position of being one of the most prosperous countries on the shores of the Mediterranean and its prosperous condition when contrasted with the maladministration of Turkey, had produced a marked effect on the public mind.

Other Influences

Another influence was the educative work of the Christian bodies throughout the Turkish empire. During the last fifty years the primary and secondary education has been carried on mostly under the guidance and care of missionaries from the various religious bodies that were sent from the west. Then there was the building of railways which created a force which was not for seen by those who were responsible for their construction. The Bagdad Railway carried on under German auspices was the visible sign of the preeminence of German influence in Turkey. It was looked upon in Constantinople as being of selfish interests and not for the best interests of the Turkish empire.

Another reason was the existence of foreign post offices in Turkey. In the capital every nation of the west has a post office as this was found necessary owing to the utter unreliability of the Turkish office. The officials open any letter they please and keep it. The administration of the telegraph system was another of the forces which combined together in the reform work.

Destructive Forces

The true of these forces which acted as it were as a boomerang on the old regime was the condition of the Christians under the Mohammedan law. Mohammedanism divided the world into two parts or houses, the one being the house of the believer and the other the house of the unbeliever. The believer or the Mohammedan is supreme before the law if the other party is a Christian, one of the other house. "No Christian could go to law with a Mohammedan," the speaker said. Dr. Gould gave several illustrations which vividly portrayed this fact. They were amusing in the absurdity of their utter injustice.

Another of these forces was the maladministration of justice or the administration of injustice. Again there was the ever continuing state of rebellion that existed among the Turks themselves. This was the result of the most negligent and cruel treatment of the soldiers who went out to fight. Dr. Gould told of one case where an army of 85,000 troops were sent out to suppress the Yemen uprising and of that number about 65,000 lost their lives through starvation. On another occasion an army of 1,000 men left Jerusalem for a march of 500 miles and the entire commisariat was composed of a few bags of unground grain.

Secret Police

The Turkish empire was swarming from end to end with paid spies and secret police. The police could secretly arrest any man at any time and any place and spirit him away out of existence.

Another cause was the insatiable appetite of local and provincial governors for more funds. One evil from this was the forced subscriptions. A wealthy Turk would be obtained to put his name to the head of a list, and the Christians who had any money had to subscribe to the same amount. Finally the first Turk would not have to pay anything.

Another reason was the fact that boundless tracts of fine land was the private property of the Sultan. Lands in the Euphrates Valley which required irrigation were rendered useless by the stemming back of the water after which the Sultan purchased it for a mere pittance. The degradation of the central power was another of the disruptive forces.

This Dr. Gould said worked most for the overthrow of the old regime. The natural pride of the Turks suffered at the continued humiliation the Empire by western powers. The soldiers were in arrears and the navy was worm-eaten and neglected. Rottenness was rampant in every department.

The forced conscriptions of soldiers had a bad influence and they had to take as much as the greedy officials were willing to give them. This unrest and feeling of dissatisfaction helped the reform movement for the soldiers were secretly banded together and at a given signal rose to overthrow the old customs.

Obstacles to Success

Dr. Gould concluded his address by summing up the obstacles which he thought would prove stumbling blocks to the new reform. There was the inbred adverseness to liberalism, the result of centuries of the old regime, the incompatibility of religious sects and the degenerating system of polygamy.

Dr. Gould's excellent and well planned address was concluded by saying that it would be next to wonderful if the reform movement survives, but that there were forces to offset its obstacles.

A vote of thanks was moved by Mr. F. D. Kerr, seconded by Mr. D. H. Gushes-Charles to Dr. Gould, both of whom expressed their appreciation of and pleasure in listening to such an able treatise on a subject which was almost incomprehensible to Canadian people.

Mr. O'Connell in an appropriate speech, conveyed the hearty thanks of the club to Dr. Gould who said that it was a pleasure to him to impart some of the facts which he had learned by travel to those who had not the privilege of living with these people.

Fire Chief Howard's Report; List Of Requirements For Fire Department For Present Year

At the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night Chief Howard submitted a list of the requirements of the Fire Department for next year. The Committee spent considerable time in going over the list, cutting off several items which it was thought could be done without. The Chief also presented his report for the half year.

The chief of the Fire Department submitted a long list of requirements for the department for the ensuing year. Many of the articles asked for were in connection with the new men suggested but which the committee decided not to have, and these consequently were struck off. The committee also struck off the list all other items which were not absolutely necessary. Another list was made out of articles which might have to be purchased, but which could be got along without. The committee spent a lot of time on the matter and pared the list down as fine as possible. The list is as follows;—

To this list may be added several other items and one or two may be taken off. A supplimentary list was made out and will be looked into by the committee.

It was moved by Ald. Morgan and Ald. Turner that this committee purchase all supplies as near as possible in the city. Prices will be considered.—Carried.

On motion of Ald. Hicks and Ald. Turner, the clerk was instructed to write to the secretary of the Underwriters' Association, and acknowledge the receipt of their inspector's report and ask him if any action has yet been taken as to the improvements already made here.—Carried.

Moved by Aldermen Hicks and Turner, that the chairman be authorized to purchase fifteen tons coal for the fire hall.—Carried.

The Chief's Report

Chief Howard of the Fire Department made the following report:—

The damage by fire as near as can be ascertained amounts to $3,077.00. The greater portion of the Fire Loss occurred in the outlaying districts, where water was not available, and demonstrates the urgent need of a Chemical Fire Engine for this city.

The number of feet of hose used at fires was 24,300 feet.

Chemicals used 324 gallons.

Ladders used 1,016 feet.

Apparatus travel, 109 1-2 miles.

I regret very much having to report that the fire of August the 29th at the rear of 204 Charlotte street, was attended with fatal results. The late John Grelr was so badly burned by the explosion of gasoline that he died the following day.

The Municipal Council of 1908 undertook the re-organization of the Fire Department, which took effect July the 1st, last, with the appointment of a permanent Chief, and staff of firemen, such as is generally termed a fully paid Department.

From the time of my appointment I have conducted regular fire drill. This drill has proved a material advantage and an additional protection to the citizens.

Attached to this report you will please find da stock sheet, containing every dollar's worth of material on hand at the time of taking stock; December 31st, 1908. I also attach an estimate of the expenditure required for the Department for the year 1909.

It affords me much pleasure to report upon the good conduct of my men; they have at all times conducted themselves in a gentlemanny manner, and have been courteous and polite to persons visiting the Fire Station, and diligent in the performance of their duties.

Two members of the staff met with slight accidents which rendered them incapable for a few days. The general health of the Department has been excellent.

I desire to tender my sincere thanks to the public press for the many kind references to the Fire Department, and myself, during the half past year; and also to the officials and heads of the respective Departments, who have always shown a disposition to assist me in the performance of my duties. The Chief of Police and his staff of constables have rendered valuable assistance to the Fire Department, on several occasions; a kindness we highly appreciate.

In conclusion I desire to express my sincere thanks to His Worship the Mayor, and the Aldermen of last year's Council for their uniform courtesy and kindness to me personally, and for their generous help and co-operation, and also for the prompt manner in which they acted upon my recommendations and suggestions. I sincerely hope the friendly relations that characterized the affairs of the last six months will be continued.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

I have the honor to be, Sirs,

Your obedient servant,
W. A. HOWARD,
Chief Fire Dept.

That Dodd's Kidney Pills Will Cure Bright's Disease.

Postmaster Cote Tells How the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy Cured Him After Doctors Had Given Him Up.

Le Petit Bois Franc, Temiscouata Co., Que., Jan. 18. — Special. — Mr. Chas. Cote, postmaster here, is firmly convinced that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Bright's Disease or any other disease of the Kidneys. He knows it from his own experience. Hear what he says:

"For over four years I was troubled with Backache, Rheumatism and lack of ambition, and my urine was of a dark unnatural colour. I was attended by three doctors who did me no good. The last one told me it was only a waste of money to try anything else as I could not live more than a year at the outside.

"At the verge of death I decided to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. I used eighteen boxes and to-day my Rheumatism, Backache and Headache are gone. My urine is like that of a child. I feel I owe my life to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Postmaster Cote had all the symptoms of Bright's Disease. The doctors evidently knew he had Bright's Disease—the most deadly form of Kidney Disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him. They will cure any form of Kidney disease.

BETTER DISTRIBUTION OF LIGHT

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir:—Now that the Mayor and Council of the City have donned their civic garb of office and are getting to work, I ask permission to call their attention to the street lighting plant of the city. The carbon lamps in use do not appear to be best adapted for the purpose of street lighting, as they cast a shadow in many places where light is required. If the lamps were properly adjusted a good deal of improvement would result; the lamps should be placed to cast their shadow across the street, in place of along the street as at present. Again some of the street lights are placed ten or twelve feet, and others at forty to fifty feet above the street. Now surely they cannot be all well placed as to height; the light rays radiate in all directions, perpendicular as well as horizontal, it would appear where the street is moderately level, that the lights should be as low as not to interfere with traffic on the street, as more rays of light would then fall in the zone requiring light, than when lamps are high up the reason for this will be obvious.

Permit me again to urge that all lights for street lighting purposes should be placed in the middle of the street, where they will as much as possible be removed from shadow obstruction. Last year an attempt was made and a few lights were placed on arms a few feet out on the street is very much of a failure, although costing a considerable sum of money each.

A good light should be placed at each Church for the accommodation of night worshippers.

If lights were placed to best advantage over the whole of the city limits, I am of the opinion that the number might be materially reduced and still have as efficient light service as we now have. A maximum of light for a minimum of expenditure.

MORE LIGHT.

MISSION ADDRESS AT KNOX CHURCH

Rev. H. J. Keith Spoke at Meeting of the Young People's Society Last Night.

It was Missionary Night with the Knox Church Young People's Society last evening, and an address was given by Rev. H. J. Keith. The subject was "The Missionary Problems in China." It was pointed out that there was only a handful of white people to 400,000,0000 Chinese in China. The western race must give their sympathy and help to the eastern; their customs and manners were different, one to the other. The Gospel of Jesus Christ was the only solution of the question.

Education in China was another problem to be solved by the leaders in the missionary cause. The Canadian Missions want to send out three young men able to teach the Chinese the way to teach the Gospel to others, not to preach, as most missionaries are doing.

In literature there were 11,000 different publications, only 40 Christian, 100 non-Christian, yet 50 novels can be published in a year. That is also a problem that is before us to-day. To the great population of 400,000,000 in China only 4,000 missionaries are preaching the Gospel. The numbers should be multiplied, for the need is great, the land is unoccupied by those who can be missionaries if they would.

The address was much appreciated by all. A trio by Messrs. McCannon, Galley and Davenport brought the meeting to a close.

MR. RICH. HALL'S ADDRESS.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Nicholls Hospital was held yesterday afternoon in the chambers of the Dominion Bank There were present Messrs Richard Hall, chairman; W. H. Hill, J. McClelland, W. Kemp, W. Aldridge, W. Madill and Rev. J. G. Potter. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and confirmed. Before the secretary's report was presented Mr. Rich Hall in the following remarks reviewed briefly the work

MR. JOHN CRANE,
Re-elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Nicholls Hospital Board, that had been done during the past year.

The Members of the Nicholls Hospital Board, Peterborough, Ont.

Gentlemen—It is with much personal gratification that I am able to testify at this time to the continued and well deserved popularity of the Nicholls Hospital In all the departments pertaining to the treatment and comfort of the sick there is every evidence of effectual administration. The superintendent, Miss Adele Matter has been faithful and unremitting in her duties and has done her part in giving the Hospital the high standing it now enjoys.

For some months attention has been given to the painting and improvement of the wards, the result of which has been to impart to them a bright and cheery appearance.

Considerable outlay has been incurred in providing a full complement of furnishings, linen, etc.

During the year Miss McGregor was appointed assistant superintendent and she has admirably fulfilled the expectation of the Board and has justified the high recommendation submitted to the Board at her appointment.

A large ice house has been built which will provide for ice supply he year round.

The medical staff continue to perform their duties with the utmost fidelity and are most attentive to the free patients, who are placed under their charge.

I wish to congratulate the Board on the excellent code of by-laws, rules and regulations recently adopted for the government of the various departments of the Hospital.

The secretary will now present his financial report and I am glad to note that we were able to end the year with a substantial balance on hand.

REMAINS OF FATHER O'CONNELL LAID TO REST THIS MORNING

The funeral of the late Father O'Connell was very largely attended, people coming from a very long distance to pay their last respects to their respected Father. The funeral took place from St. Joseph's Hospital, and proceeded to the Cathedral where high mass was celebrated by Father Hogan of Kingston, the sermon being preached by Father Dancer, of Toronto. The pall bearers were Father O'Connell, of Warkworth; Father O'Sullivan, Victoria Road; Father P. McGuire, Father M. McGuire, Father O'Leary, Father Phelan, of Young's Point. Most of the priests of the Diocese were present, among them were Father Conway, of Norwood; Father Kirby, of Douro; Father Murray, of Cobourg; Father Scanlen, of Grafton. Father Fitzpatrick was here yesterday but was unable to be present on account of a wedding that he had to perform. Father O'Connell's sister, Mrs. Donoghue, with her children, was present also.

The Master of Ceremonies was Chief O'Reilly, who is private secretary to Archbishop Gauthier, of Kingston.

Lost His Purse Near Church Gate Taking Out Silver Piece

On Sunday of a week ago a young man from Campbellford was going into the George Street Methodist Church and at the gate took out his purse to obtain a piece of silver for the collection. After church he was practically broke. His purse was gone and he had only a little change left. The man had lost his pocketbook at the gate. He returned to Campbellford, and on Monday left with a consignment of cattle for the west. Chief Constable Linn has written Chief Ruzel, asking him to forward the purse to Campbellford if it is found. It contained $30 or more in five dollar bills.

CHARGES AGAINST FIRE CHIEF READ AT COMMITTEE MEETING

Somewhat of a sensation was caused at the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council last night when a letter was read from ex-alderman Johnston, making charges of a very serious nature against Fire Chief Howard. The letter which was read to the committee by Chairman Fuller was a lengthy one and went into the charges against the head of the fire department at some length. The latter officials are stated to have occurred during last year. After the letter had been heard by the committee the chairman explained that Mr. Johnston wished an opportunity to appear before the committee to substantiate his charges. It was decided to hold a special meeting of the committee on Thursday evening of this week when the matter will be gone thoroughly into. Both ex-Ald. Johnston and Chief Howard will be present before the committee and the charge will be pushed to the bottom.

PRIVATE MEASURES ARE TO COME UP

Many Small Bills Await Attention of Legislature.

TORONTO NEEDS MUCH LAW

That City Has Big List of Civic Enactments Which It Wants Put on the Statutes — Railways Figure on Lists of Requested Bills—Salvationists to Incorporate—Would Bonus Railroad.

Toronto, Jan. 19.—Applications for legislation are increasing as the opening of the session of the Legislature draws near and private bills threaten to be numerous if not important.

Toronto wants $136,000 debentures or power to use street railway revenue for bridges, paving, eastern entrance to the Exhibition ground and other improvements.

The same city also wants to contribute $10,000 a year to the police fund; to create an audit department; to erect a memorial tablet to Toronto volunteers killed in 1885; to annex East Toronto; to enlarge the borrowing powers of the city; to provide that the electric distribution plant debt shall not count as part of the general debt to permit the issue of debentures for the cost of track elevation and other works.

James G. G. Badgeley has resolved to tempt fate by asking to be allowed to practice law without the usual qualifications. Even veterinary surgeons were denied this privilege last session.

The Salvation Army wants to vest all its property held by trustees or agents in itself and seeks incorporation for this purpose.

Chatham wants to bonus the Chatham, Wallaceburg & Lake Erie Railway Co., and pay 5 per cent. on $50,000 debentures for the purpose.

Cobourg, Peterboro & Kawartha Lakes Electric Railway Co. wants to issue bonds at the rate of $25,000 a mile.

Canadian Casualty & Boiler Insurance Co. would reduce its capital stock.

Cornwall wants to bonus the Modern Bedstead Co. with $20,000.

Peterboro Radial Railway wants an extension of time to build, and to extend to Stoney Lake.

Dunnville, Wellandport & Beamsville Electric Railway Co. wants extensions.

Fort William desires to fix the term of office for its fifth municipal street railway commissioner.

Will Be Tried For Usury.

Ottawa, Jan. 19.—Chas. W. Mitchell, former newspaper publisher at Ottawa, will appear in court on Thursday on a charge of usury. He is alleged to have charged more than 12 per cent. on a loan of $150 to K. Hillman, a Government draftsman, who suicided recently. The Attorney-General's Department have investigated the case.

It is said that many civil servants are in the grasp of men who extort high interest for "accommodation."

Liquor Restrictions In New Zealand.

Wellington, N.Z., Jan. 19.—At a meeting of the Auckland Brewers' and Licensed Victuallers' Association, representing all the wholesale and nearly every member of the retail trade, it was unanimously resolved to abolish barmaids in private bars and to raise the age limit at which youths may be supplied with liquor from 18 to 21. No woman is to be supplied with liquor for consumption on the premises unless she is boarding in the house.

A Royal Wager.

Liverpool, Jan. 19.—The London social letter of The Liverpool Post, which is written by a well-known clubman, says:

"The King on Sunday night declared that the Queen of Spain had made a bet with the Princess of Wales, the stake being a fan, that she (the Queen) would have a larger family than the princess, who now has six children."

Commandant R. M. C.

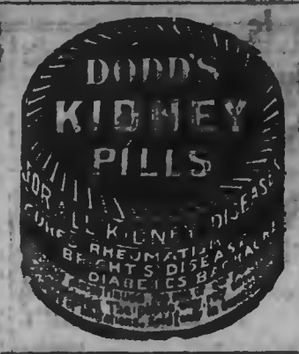
Kingston, Jan. 19.—It is rumored that Lieut.-Col. Burstall, commanding the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, will succeed Lieut.-Col. Taylor as commandant of the Royal Military College. He is an old R. M. C. man and graduate of the Staff College, England.

Palpitation of the Heart.

One of the first danger signals that announce something wrong with the heart is the irregular beat or violent throb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all gone" sinking feeling; or again, there may be a most violent beating, with flushings of the skin and visable pulsations of the arteries. The person may experience a smothering sensation, gasp for breath and feel as though about to die. In such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart, restoring its normal beat and imparting tone to the nerve centres, is, beyond all question, marvellous. They give such prompt relief that no one need sufer.

Mr. Sylvester Smith, Hampton, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with palpitation of the heart and tried doctor's medicines, but they only gave me temporary relief. I heard of your Heart and Nerve Pills and bought two boxes and before I had used them I was completely cured and would recommend them to all similarly affected."

Price, 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.



Increase For Civil Servants.

Ottawa, Jan. 19.—It is expected that the Parliamentary estimates at the approaching session will contain provision for a substantial increase in the scale of civil service salaries, based on the large increase which has occurred within recent years in the cost of living.

This increase, if granted, will not be on any percentage basis, but will be in the nature of a flat bonus addition to the salaries of public servants of all classes.

Engine Off Track.

Stratford, Jan. 19.—The engine, baggage car and smoker on the passenger train which leaves Toronto at 8.30 a.m., arriving in Stratford at 12.13, was derailed at Mosboro. Conductor Iles and Engineer Jones of Toronto were in charge of the train. No person was injured. The accident was due to a broken truck on the tender.

Over $5,000 Increase.

Toronto, Jan. 19.—The announcement was made at the offices of the Anglican Missionary Society yesterday that the full returns of the collections for the past year had just been completed.

The reports show a total of $111,637, against $96,817, making a net increase of $5,820.

Telegraphers at Ottawa.

Toronto, Jan. 19.—Representatives of the Order of Railway Telegraphers from all the Canadian railroads will assemble this week in Ottawa. They will petition asking the Dominion Government to enact an eight-hour work day for all telegraphers employed on railroads.

Elopers Overtaken.

Chatham, Jan. 19.—Jules Labute, aged 20, and Georgina Tetreault, aged 17, eloped from Tilbury yesterday and vainly tried to secure a marriage license in Chatham. They were overtaken by the girl's mother, who marched her back to Tilbury.

Bishop of Rochester Dead.

Rochester, N.Y., Jan. 19.—Surrounded by many priests in his parish and without pain, Right Rev. Bernard J. McQuaid, Bishop of Rochester, died yesterday morning after an eight months' illness. Sunday was the 61st anniversary of the bishop's priesthood.

Must Learn Value of Money.

Montreal, Jan. 19.—So that her son, Andrew Erie Copland, would "work for himself and pay his board as his brothers did, independently of any property which he may inherit, and so learn the true value of money," his mother, the widow of Edward H. Copland of Montreal, in her will, directs that he shall not share in her estate of $60,000 until he is 25 years of age.

Hope, Ark., Jan. 19.—After forcing the engineer of the light plant to cut off the current, leaving the town in darkness, a party of young men early yesterday took an 18-year-old negro named Hilliard from the County Jail and hanged him to a telegraph pole.

The negro had spoken insultingly to a woman clerk in Haynes Bros.' store on Friday.

Mrs. Maybrick's Life Work.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Jan. 18.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Markets, the receipts of stock for the week ending Jan. 16, were 2453 cattle, 1118 sheep and lambs, 3401 hogs and 157 calves. The supply for local consumption this morning consisted of 1300 cattle, 650 sheep and lambs, 1890 hogs and 75 calves.

A much stronger feeling has developed in the market for cattle since this day week and prices have scored an advance of ¼c to ½c per pound. This is attributed to the continued small supplies coming forward and the recent strength in the west, coupled with the good demand from local and outside buyers, owing to the very favorable weather prevailing for keeping stock. Another feature of the market this morning was the increased percentage of good to choice stock offered, which also tended to strengthen the situation to some extent as there was some demand from exporters for such and several loads are bought, notwithstanding the fact that cables from Liverpool on Saturday reported trade slow and noted a decline in prices of ¼c to ½c per pound, as compared with last Monday's. The demand from Quebec buyers was also good and they purchased a few loads, consequently an active trade was done. Choice beeves sold at 5¼c to 5½c, good at 4½c to 5c, fair at 4c to 4½c, common at 3c to 3½c, and inferior at 2c to 2½c per pound.

There was no further change in the condition of the market for sheep and lambs, prices being well maintained under a good demand from local and Quebec buyers and as the supplies were rather limited, there was a keener competition and a brisk trade was done. Choice lots of sheep sold at 5½c to 6c, and culls at 3½c to 3½c, while choice lots of lambs brought 5½c to 6c, and good 5¼c to 5½c per lb. The offerings of calves were small, for which the demand was good and prices ruled firm at from $3 to $10 each, as to size and quality.

The market for hogs is unchanged from last Wednesday, but it is much stronger than it was a week ago and prices are 15c to 20c per cwt. higher. Supplies coming forward are small, for which the demand is good, and an active trade was done at $7.15 to $7.25 per cwt., weighed off the cars, for selected lots. Cables from all the leading foreign markets on Canadian bacon last week were stronger and noted an advance in prices of 1s to 2s per cwt., but packers here state that they will have to go much higher than they are before they will be able to export at a profit with hogs at their present level.

LOVE YOUR WORK.

A Kind of Affection That Carries No Danger of Idolatry.

Try to find work that you like. If you are not indolent there is some useful employment that will give you pleasure. Seek your work and find it. That way lies abiding happiness. A man who had tried every other road concluded at sixty, "Happiness is complete absorption in some effective form of work."

Our closest friends are liable to disappoint us. Those whom we love best may grieve us most. But work never disappoints us. Its reward may be inadequate, but the work itself, if it be the work for us, never disappoints.

You can readily recognise the girl who loves her work by the way she lifts the lid of her desk or takes her sewing chair or opens her ledger. If she does these with a drawn face or a sigh there is one of two reasons—either she hasn't found her work or she has chosen to be a drudge.

If in her face, no matter how physically weary, there is the glow of satisfaction, the pleasure of the congenial task, she is indeed a happy girl.

Happy is the man who has found his work, and thrice happy the girl.

There is no trouble too great for the work you like. Artistry is doing a thing as well as you can and afterward trying to do it still better.

Work is the grave in which you can bury your griefs. It is the mantle that covers the ugliness of life. It is the great absorber of the humors and moods of the moment. No matter how hard the work—all work worthy of the name is hard—it is a bright jewel, whether in the dull setting of dismal or the bright frame of splendid surroundings.

Find your work! Be sure whether you have not already found it, for what you think is dislike for your work may be the consciousness of having slighted it.

Having found it, perfect yourself in it. Never fear that you love it too much, for love of work is the only kind of love that carries with it none of the dangers or penalties of idolatry.

PETERBORO' TOOK BELLEVILLE INTO CAMP ON THEIR OWN ICE IN FAST GAME LAST NIGHT BY SCORE OF 4-2

Blue and White Team Were Ahead All the Way and Won Without Much Trouble by Splendid Playing---Combination Was a Feature

EVERY MAN WAS A STAR.

Peterborough's intermediate O.H.A. team showed their class last night by trimming Sandy Burrows' Belleville team on their own ice to the King's taste by four goals to two. The Petes led at the breathing spell by 4—1, and held the homest Reside during the second period, thus winning a creditable victory. They went out in front at the start and remained there, the Dead City septette never having a chance to bring back the bacon, so closely were they looked after by the flying Peterborough team. The winners dished out the choicest kind of hockey all the way, their work showing a 100 per cent. improvement over that displayed on Friday night. They skated Belleville off their feet, checking back like fiends, and they broke away in fine like champions, holding the puck cleverly and accurately and boring right in on the big Belleville defence. The forward line played combination from the drop of the that. Breaking outside their checks they would come sweeping down the ice three and four abreast, and when they got into stride the Belleville advance guard was left in their wake. With better shooting they would have doubled their score as they were working in on top of the nets in great style.

The defence put up hockey of a sterling nature, beating off the Belleville attacks in a manner that promises to make things lively for Lindsay when they clash with the locals on Thursday night. From cover back to the nets they were very strong and the Belleville line, tied up as they were with the Petes coming back and sandwiching in between them to break up their combination, were forced, for the most part, to shoot from well out, and as a result, Glover and Derocher had not much difficulty in brushing the shots to one side.

Belleville on the other hand had little or no combination. True they tried to pass at times but, either transferred widely, or the Peterborough forwards intercepted the pass giving them little opportunity to break away. Their individual efforts were futile Gilbert was the only man who got away very much, and he was brought up with a bang whenever he got down as far as the Peterborough defence, which wasn't often.

The ice was lightning fast and some of the Petes, notably Ray, who had neglected to sharpen their skates, found themselves in difficulty on the glassy surface. The game was fast all the way, being a far better exhibition than the contest here last week. Both teams showed marked improvement and there was no lagging in the play, the puck travelling from one end to the other with lightning rapidity. The contest was not rough, although a few of the Belleville seven handed out some raps that were not called, and got away with the most of it.

Every man on the Peterborough team played grand hockey. They seemed to be as fit as nails and with the whole distance at top speed they checked back hard and never let up from start to finish, and it looks as if there were squalls ahead for Lindsay, all right, all right.

It would be a difficult matter to pick out the star of the forward line where all did so well. Wallie Parnell played a magnificent game at centre, carrying and handling the puck nicely and checking back with very rush, being of most valuable assistance to the defence. Charlie Ray at rover was handicapped by dull skates, but at that he dished out grand hockey, his stick handling and checking leaving nothing to be desired, while he slammed in half of the Peterborough goals. Bill Rose played the game of his career at right wing, especially in the first half. He swept along the boards a la Tom Phillips, taking passes neatly and shooting well. He was on nearly every combination rush and played a most useful game. Ben Dusty at left wing was always in his place, and put up a splendid game, holding his man to perfection and incidentally getting away with a lot of pretty work himself.

Moore at cover was there forty ways and the Belleville line found him an almost insurmountable obstacle. He checked splendidly and made many effective dashes down the ice, helping out his forward line greatly. Glover was as cool and reliable as ever, doing a whole lot of useful defence work and at the same time steadying down the younger members of his team. Derocher repeated his splendid performance of Friday night by putting up a stellar game in the nets. He had considerable to do and handled well several times going out and blocking the shot when the defence had been beaten.

Gilbert who alternated at cover and centre was about the pick of the Belleville team, although he was unnecessarily rough at times. He did some good stick handling and rushing. The Spangenberg brothers were always prominent, and Pepper, at point, put up a fine game, finding in front of a large number of Peterborough shots which looked good enough for goals.

J. H. Noxon, of Toronto, who refereed the Port Hope-Peterborough game here two weeks ago, handled the bell last night and gave satisfaction, although some of his decisions were weird. However, both teams were affected equally, and there can be no kick coming in regard to the work of the arbitrator.

The teams lined up as follows:

PETERBOROUGH
Derocher
Glover
Moore
Ray
Rose — Parnell — Dusty
K. Spangenburg — Reeves

BELLEVILLE
L. Spangenburg
Burke
Gilbert
Pepper
Boland

The play started off at an awful clip, with both sides rushing alternately, and the first few minutes saw some of the liveliest hockey of the night. Belleville were first to get clean away and Reeves got through for a shot which Derocher blocked neatly and relieved into the corner. A moment after Gilbert got away with a nice rush and got through, only to have his shot stopped by Derocher. Then Peterborough broke loose. Glover started a pretty rush, passed to Parnell, who transferred to Rose, and the latter shot straight at Borland, who made a neat stop. A moment later Peterborough tore away again, but Rose's shot was once more stopped. Dusty and Moore rushed together, but Gilbert was in the way and broke up the combination. A few seconds after Ray had a good chance, but Borland made a clever save. Rose was sent away for two minutes for tripping, although it looked like an accident. Gilbert made another nice rush for Belleville, but Derocher was master of the situation and turned the shot aside. Dusty was penalized for tripping, but playing six men to seven Peterborough still pressed. Finally Rose scored the first goal of the game in 12 minutes on a shot from the corner by Parnell, the puck going into the nets off his stick.

Peterborough 1, Belleville 0.

Ray was hurt, but resumed play after a moment's delay. Gilbert shot at Derocher and Belleville claimed a goal. Umpire Holgate, however, declared that it was not a counter and after a long dispute the game was recommenced with the claim not allowed. Burke got a sentence on the fence for slashing. In eleven minutes Ray shoved one past Borland from a scrimmage, after a pretty combination rush.

Peterborough 2, Belleville 0.

Belleville were not long in getting one back. Burke and Gilbert rushed together, but their shot was wide. Dusty secured the puck in the corner and passed across in front of the goal to K. Spangenberg, who had nothing to do but slam the rubber past Derocher in one and one-half minutes.

Peterborough 2, Belleville 1.

Peterborough went right back at the homesters, their clever combination bringing them in close on the nets, and in four minutes Ray took a pass from the corner and beat Borland with a shot from close in.

Peterborough 3, Belleville 1.

A moment after Dusty scored, after a combination rush, but Referee Noxon called the play back. Just why was hard to see from the side. However, a few moments after Parnell broke away neatly, and with Ray and Rose at his side, swept down upon the Belleville nets. He transferred the rubber neatly to Ray, who passed to Rose and the latter scored in four minutes on a neat shot.

Peterborough 4, Belleville 1.

Half time was called a few minutes afterwards with no features marking the closing moments of the period.

Peterborough slowed up in the second period, content to hold their lead and the hockey was not as fast, although just as hard. Dusty and Burke, who had a mixup in Peterborough, hooked up again in a fistic combat, and both were sent to the timekeepers' box for ten minutes. The Belleville forward line got away nicely, but Derocher handled the shot cleverly. Karl Spangenberg was benched for slashing, serving two minutes for the offence. Peterborough had several openings but Borland and Pepper were always in the way and they could not net the puck, although they forced the play. It was Belleville who finally scored, after seventeen minutes' hard playing, Reeves getting away for a rush along the boards and beating Derocher with a waist high shot from the side, which the Peterborough goal keeper partially stopped.

Peterborough 4, Belleville 2.

Moore was penalized two minutes for slashing, but the rest of the term held Belleville out. Gilbert took a long shot from centre, which landed in the nets, but the referee's bell had sounded first and the score did not count. Belleville were working like beavers to win out, but the blue and white team had no trouble in beating them off until the timer's whistle put an end to the fray.

The summary follows:

1—Peterborough; Rose, 12 mins.
2—Peterborough; Ray 11 mins.
3—Belleville; K. Spangenberg, 1.30.
4—Peterborough; Ray, 3 mins.
5—Peterborough; Rose, 4 mins.
Half time—
6—Belleville; Reeves, 17 mins.

Penalties—Rose, 2 min.; Burke, 12 mins.; Dusty, 12 mins.; K. Spangenberg, 2 mins.; Moore, 2 mins.

The team was accompanied to Belleville by Messrs. W. J. Metherall, W. Milburn, Geo Edmondson, W. Edmondson, Penrose, Seward, Melville Jamieson, D. B. MacRae and F. D. Craig.

M. MOORE,

Cover Point of the Peterborough Intermediate O. H. A. Team, who played a great game in Belleville last night.

BIG CROWD WILL GO TO LINDSAY FOR THURSDAY NIGHT'S O.H.A. GAME

The brilliant victory scored over Belleville last night has aroused the enthusiasm of the fans and a big crowd will travel to Lindsay on Thursday night to see them hook up with the Midgets, as Scugogville people persist in calling their team. There is a nice little surprise coming for that Lindsay team when the Petes get into action there on Thursday, and it looks as if Stoddard, Koyl, et al are going to have one of the busiest sessions they have been ever called upon to go through on their own ice. The handful of fans who accompanied the team to Belleville last night were delighted with the form shown, and have returned bubbling over with enthusiasm. The team worked together splendidly, the forward line breaking away in a line and swinging back with their checks in a manner that had smiles all over the faces of the Peterborough fans. Lindsay will have to uncork more speed than they have hitherto shown if they hope to pull out a victory over the Peterborough bunch on Thursday night.

Arrangements have been made for a special train to Lindsay for the game leaving the G.T.R. Station at 7 o'clock on Thursday night and returning immediately after the game. The fare will be $1.05 for the return trip and the cheap rate combined with the certainty that the game will be about the fastest that has been seen in this district in many moons, will result in a big crowd going up for the contest. Peterborough has the fastest team that has represented this city for some years, and it is up to the fans to turn out and support the team in the race for the championship.

EXAMINER "B" IMPROVED THEIR STANDING IN BOWLING LEAGUE

The Examiner B team improved their standing in the ten pin league last evening by taking three straight games from the Greys, and the winners are now up with the first division teams. In another league fixture the Frontenacs took two from the Hams. To-night the Belmonts will meet both Examiner teams, while the B's will also meet the Frontenacs.

The B's were lucky to get away with the series from the Greys, who gave their conquerers a hard fight all the way, the second game being decided by the small margin of three pins. McFadden was again high man for the losers, while Clarke surprised the enthusiasts by putting on top score for the winners.

Frontenacs had all the better of the argument with the Hams, and but for a little stroke of ill-luck would have captured all three games. Jim Hoolahan was bowling in form and easily carried off high honours.

The scores follow:

KNOX CHURCH BEAT ST. JOHN'S BY 3-2

A splendid game was played in the Junior Church League at Park Street Rink last night, when Knox Church Juniors beat St. John's by 3 goals to 2, after a hard fought and interesting struggle that was fast from start to finish. Both teams worked harda throughout and there was little to choose between them. St. John's were out in front by 2—0, but the winners came with a rush in the second period and slammed three goals past Halpany, while the Anglicans failed to score. As a result of the game all four teams, Murray Street, All Saints', Knox Church and St. John's are all tied, with one win and one lose each.

J. Squires made a satisfactory referee, and the teams were as follows:

LADIES' WALKING RACE WILL BE A FEATURE

This is a new feature in athletics in Peterborough, and is arousing a great deal of interest. The ladies' walking race has proven a great success in other places and will no doubt attract large crowds here.

The race will be a half mile and will be held under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. Boys' Department in connection with their Boys' Gymnasium Exhibition on Thursday evening. Several entries have been received to date, and the race promises to be very interesting. Besides the walking race there will be drill, marches, games, races, blind man pillow fight and sack basketball.

The boys are training hard for their exhibition. The proceeds will be used to secure several new magazines for the Boys' Reading Room.

Tickets can be had from any of the boys or at the Y.M.C.A. office.

PRIZES WON AT GUESSING CONTEST

Social Evening Under Auspices of St. John's A. Y. P. A. Was a Success.

The A. Y. P. A. of St. John's Church held a most successful social evening last night, which took the part of a word building and guessing contest. The first prize was allotted to Miss Olga Cavanaugh, and the consolation prize taken by Mr. A. Appleton. An observation table was another pleasing feature of the evening, at which Miss Lily Wesley won first prize and Miss Annie Roberts the consolation. A large attendance was present. The next social will take the form of a pancake social, and will be looked forward to with much pleasure by all the young people of St. John's.

THE MAN FROM BUFFALO TAKES HALF

The big store of Messrs. Merrell & Meredith, clothiers, will be out in two to make room for S. H. Knox, of Buffalo. It means a big undertaking for the firm to condense their immense stock of Clothing and Men's Furnishings into half their present space.

But this live firm realize the fact that what a "man dares he may do." A clothing man was once asked how he could make room for all the stock he had on hand. He replied, "I don't keep it, I sell it." This Messrs. Merrell & Meredith intend to do by giving the public of Peterborough clothing and men's wear at prices so low that it will pay every man in the city to take advantage of their Big Alteration Sale now going on. The time is limited to ten days and the man who would save money by buying clothing at the wholesale cost price, should make it his business to buy now.

The firm, we understand, are reserving nothing; their fine high grade suits and overcoats—20th Century Brand—for which they are sole agents, are all included in this big Alteration Sale. You will find their advertisement on page 5, or better still, give them a call.

WEDDING BELLS

McMANN—RUTHERFORD

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. A. Rutherford, Mount Pleasant, on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 6th, when her daughter Mabel was united in marriage to Mr. David H. McMann, of Reaboro. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Johnston, Millbrook. Little Miss Ethel Howard, Toronto, cousin of the bride, acted as maid of honour. The Wedding March (Grieg) was played by Miss Nettie Rutherford, sister of the bride. After the ceremony and the receiving of congratulations, the party repaired to the dining-room where a sumptuous repast was served. The happy couple took the evening train for points west. On their return they will reside in Reaboro.

FITZGERALD CAHILL

This morning at St. Peter's Cathedral the marriage took place of W. J. Fitzgerald, O.L.S., C.E., son of the late J. W. Fitzgerald, and Agnes, third daughter of the late Thomas Cahill, collector of Inland Revenue. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. Father McColl, rector of the Cathedral, in the presence of a large congregation. The bride was escorted by her brother-in-law, Mr. J. J. English, of Hastings. The bridesmaid was Miss Amelia Cahill, sister of the bride, and Mr. William Grady performed the duties of best man. At the conclusion of the ceremony the wedding breakfast was served at the residence of the bride's mother, 481 Gilmour street.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald took the mid-day Canadian Pacific express for Montreal, en route to Boston, New York and the south. On their return they will take residence in the city. The bride is one of the most popular and amiable ladies in Peterborough, and the husband stands high in the esteem of a large circle of friends, who will unite in wishing them both a long and happy wedded life.

OBITUARY

FREDERICK FITZSIMMONS

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fitzsimmons will be sorry to hear of the death of their infant son, Fred, who died last night. He had only been ill a few days with pneumonia.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock from the home of the parents, 556 Aylmer street, and proceed to St. Peter's Cemetery for interment.

WILLIAM BELL

At his home in Smith, the death took place of Mr. William Bell, at the age of 80 years. Mr. Bell was the only surviving son of one of the oldest settlers in the township of Smith, Mr. Matthew Bell, who settled there in 1820. He had been ill for the last few months when death carried him away on Thursday. He is survived by one son, Matthew, who is residing on the old homestead, and one daughter, Miss Ellen D. Bell, who kept house for her father.

The funeral was held on Sunday and proceeded to the Selwyn Cemetery for interment.

MINISTERS CONTEST IN THE ROARIN' GAME

Rev. E. A. Pearson's Rink Defeated That Skipped by Rev. G. W. Henderson.

An interesting game of curling was played at the Charlotte Street Rink yesterday afternoon, when a battle royal was fought out between two church teams, led by their respective ministers. Rev. Pearson, of George Street Methodist Church, skipping three of his parishioners, "put it over" Rev. Henderson, skipping a Charlotte Street Rink, to the tune of 11 to 9. It was as close and interesting game all the way and attracted considerable interest. The rinks opposed each other as follows:

George Street	Charlotte Street
Felix Brownscombe	W. G. Adamson
S. A. Oke	W. G. Morrow
H. F. Foote	R. Neill
Rev. E. Pearson	Rev. G. Henderson

OUR READERS ARE APPRECIATIVE

The "Vegetable Prescription" for Kidney Trouble Filled Many Times.

DID YOU MIX SOME OF IT?

That the readers of this paper appreciate advice when given in good faith is plainly demonstrated by the fact that one well-known local pharmacy supplied the ingredients for the "vegetable prescription" many times within the past two weeks. The announcement of this simple, harmless mixture has certainly accomplished much in reducing the great many cases of kidney complaint and rheumatism here, relieving pain and misery, especially among the older population, who are always suffering more or less with bladder and urinary troubles, headache and particularly rheumatism.

Another well-known druggist asks us to continue the announcement of the prescription. It is doing so much real good here, he continues, that it would be a crime not to do so. It can not be repeated too often, and further states many cases of remarkable cures wrought.

The following is the prescription, of simple ingredients, making a harmless, inexpensive compound, which any person can prepare by shaking well in a bottle: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Any first-class drugstore will sell this small amount of each ingredient, and the dose for adults is one teaspoonful to be taken after each meal and again at bedtime. There is enough here to last for one week, if taken according to directions. Good results will be apparent from the first few doses.

BUDGET OF MOUNT JULIAN PARAGRAPHS

Mt. Julian, Jan. 18—The Mount Julian Women's Institute meetings were as a rule well attended throughout the past year, and eleven new members were added to the list now numbering thirty-three. The officers for the year were the same as in 1907, having all been re-elected by acclamation.

We had a visit from Miss Shuttleworth in June, who gave an interesting talk on preserving and canning fruits.

Throughout the year papers were read on:

Home and Mother—Mrs. Charles Lauder.

How To Make the Institute Meetings Interesting—by Mrs. Albert Reid.

Gossip—by Mrs. Israel Church.

Friendship—by Miss Laura Windover.

Autumn—by Mrs. W. M. Church.

Thanksgiving—by Miss Emma Reid.

Discussions were held on the use of raw fruits, preserving and pickling and fruits; summer drinks and salads; Thanksgiving dinners.

A bazaar was held with a very good result for the funds in the summer, and part of the money was spent in subscribing for a copy of the Toronto Home Journal for each family represented in the institute.

The treasurer's report for the year shows the finances in a good condition, there being a balance of nearly seventeen dollars on hand.

In the report of Eden Church Christmas tree programme of last week two numbers by a quartette were left out of the music by mistake. The performers were: Mrs. Tom Reid, on the organ; Mr. Joe Northey on the violin; Gordon Northey and Oliver Church on the mouth organ.

JAIL TAKES FORM OF A GOLD CURE

Drunks Arrested Generally Get a Week's Remand to Sober Up.

It has been often noticed that when a drunk is arrested, he is remanded for hearing for a week and spends that time on the hill. The result has been wonderful. The treatment is as salutary as is Mother Seigle's Soothing Syrup to babies. It is invariably noticed that the signs of dissipation have diminished and there is an appearance of brightness in the eyes which were previously blurred by the effects of a saturation in strong drink. This morning a man named Gregg after such a week was given his freedom, and promised to leave the city on the earliest train.

ACQUITTED OF CHARGE OF THEFT

Young Man Who Had Been Arrested on Suspicion is Discharged.

Gilbert Connors, a young man who was charged with stealing a gold watch belonging to Mrs. Albert Bishop, of Harvey, was acquitted this morning on appearing for trial before Magistrate Edmison in the County Police Court. Mr. Bishop testified that he had taken the watch from a trunk, looked at the hour and then handed it to his wife. The latter stated that her husband put it back in the trunk.

Young Connors is spoken highly of by his employer and has a good reputation. The case was dismissed by the magistrate. It may be that the watch was lost by the husband, who may have thoughtlessly put it in a pocket.

MICHIGAN LUMBERMEN ARE BURNED AND DROWNED BY BLAZE ON BIG TIMBER RAFT

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 20—Seventy-five men employed on a crib several miles out in Lake Michigan, jumped in to the lake this morning when the crib was destroyed by fire. Telephone reports say several men were drowned. When the fire broke out the men found themselves trapped and had the alternative of burning to death or risking their lives in the water. The crib burned to the water's edge. A lookout on another crib several miles away, phoned just before 9 o'clock that they could see fifteen or twenty men clinging to the edge of the wreck which was still aglow, with a heavy sea running.

The Historical Society Has Arranged Series Of Lectures To Be Given During Winter

The Peterborough Historical Society, of which little has been heard for some two or three years, has taken on new life and now presents to the public a varied and interesting programme for four meetings to be held during the winter season.

This society was organized on December 7th, 1896, and since that time has done some very effective, though quiet, work. Being in affiliation with the Ontario Historical Society, its aim has been to collect materials which would some day be of service as details in the history of the county, the province or the Dominion. Much of this kind of work has been done and the stories of the lives and struggles of the pioneers of Peterborough county have been collected and preserved.

However, almost a greater work has been done by the society in the collection of relics of historical events, natural history and geological specimens. These and many collections loaned by the citizens, have been placed on exhibition in the museum in Inverlea Park. This museum is one of the points of interest visited every year by large numbers of tourists and it amply repays a visit. In the library there are many books and manuscripts of antiquarian interest, photographs of the city of Peterborough when it was far from being a city, and collection of weapons, showing the gradual development of the modern rifle. The room is set apart for the display of geological specimens and fossils discovered in the building of the Trent Valley Canal; another room is filled with natural history specimens and another is the Florida room, which is filled with representatives of the fauna and flora of that southern state. Historical relics, such as a Boer flag, weapons picked up on the field of Waterloo, the headlight of the first locomotive used in Ontario, and many other objects of interest are to be found in the halls. Some of our leading citizens, who have lately visited the museums of other cities of about the size of Peterborough, state that one room in the museum in Inverlea Park contains more than most of the museums they visited. The Victoria Museum is open every afternoon during the summer months until October 15th, and in winter the caretaker will open the doors for any who wish to visit it.

Though in maintaining the Victoria Museum the society has been doing a good work, its members consider that there is other work which it should do. Therefore, a series of meetings has been arranged at which addresses will be given by prominent men and discussion will be invited. These meetings are not held for revenue, as they are free to the members of the society and to the public. On February 11th it is expected that Mr. Barlow Cumberland, of Toronto, president of the Ontario Horticultural Society, who has been so active in the agitation for the restoration of the Old Fort, will deliver an address on "The Attack on Fort York, April 27th, 1813."

The meetings are to be held in the Collegiate Institute, and are arranged as follows:

January 28th—"Volcanoes," Mr. G. A. Cornish, B.A.

February 11th—"Attack on Fort York, 1813," Mr. Barlow Cumberland.

February 22rd — "Beginnings in Medicine," Dr. Malcolm McCulloch.

March 23rd—"The British House of Commons," Mr. J. H. Burnham.

CAME OUT HERE VIGOROUS--YOUNG MAN RETURNS HOME IN ILL HEALTH

Alfred King is a young Englishman who came to Canada several years ago healthy and fairly strong, now he is being deported weakened by asthma and bronchitis which have secured a hold on him through improper protection against the Canadian weather.

He stated to Magistrate Dumble this morning that he had been a hotel porter for nearly five years before coming to Canada. On arriving here he was not used to local conditions and nearly every morning going to work his feet were wet and would remain that way practically all day. The bad effect slowly made itself apparent. King went on a farm to work but was so badly troubled that he could but do trivial chores. He was finally sent to jail where at indoor work he proved himself industrious. The deportation papers have arrived and King will likely be taken away in a day or so. Magistrate Dumble told him that he should have gone to Alberta where the climate would cure him.

MR. MATTHEWS FOR SEVENTH TIME CHAIRMAN OF WATER COMMISSION

At the first regular meeting of the Water Commissioners held yesterday afternoon, Mr. T. F. Matthews was elected chairman of the Board for the seventh consecutive time. He was first appointed chairman in February, 1902, when the commission was first organized, and has been re-elected to the position each year ever since.

T. F. MATTHEWS,
Re-elected Chairman of the Water Commission for the seventh time.

The Water Commissioners will have a meeting with the Committee of the Whole Council in the course of a few days for the purpose of laying before them their scheme of a new dam and water pumping plant.

A part of the business of the meeting was the reception of the report of the work done during 1908, and presented by the superintendent, Mr. W. Henderson. It was as follows:—

The total length of pipes laid was 9,368 feet, or 1 77-100 miles, in the following sizes and lengths:— of 4 inch, 1,602 feet; of 6 inch, 5,731 feet; of 8 inch, 1,506 feet; and of 3 inch, 527 feet. This is an increase over previous years of 1,205 feet. Stop valves set on pipe were laid to the number of 18 of the following sizes:— five 4 inch, seven 5 inch, three 6 inch, and eight 1 inch. There were 27 new services laid, constituting 6,880 feet or 1 32-100 miles.

The total pipe distribution on December 31, was 162,171 lineal feet, or 30 71-100 miles, on which are set 713 hydrants and 361 stop valves. Total services on distribution are 2,468 in sizes from 1-2 inch to 8 inches inclusive.

At the dam the following work was performed: At East end crib work was raised 18 inches, filled with stone and gravel as protection against extremely high water. Repairs were made to apron and dam on upstream face of over floor and around were regravelled. Restricted forebay opening to wheel pits and constructed new set of stop log checks in forebay to East wheel pit. Renewed head timbers at rack and placed new rack (tamarac) in position. Removed decayed tops of lower boom piers and renewed same and repaired boom timbers (where required.

W. HENDERSON,
Superintendent.

FANCY POULTRY FROM THE OLD COUNTRY

Two fancy birds arrived to-day from Europe for Mr. Jas. Baptie, of Springville. One was a silver laced wyandotte and the other a golden laced wyandotte. A handsome sum was paid for these birds, which in the eyes of the poultry fancier, are fine specimens of their class.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1909

MR. CHAIRMAN MATTHEWS.

It is proposed, in some quarters to enact legislation, making the Speaker of the House of Commons a permanent official. It does not seem to require any law except, perhaps, the unwritten law founded upon effective service, to make Mr. T. F. Matthews something like permanent chairman of the Board of Water Commissioners, to which honour he was elected the seventh consecutive term at the annual meeting yesterday. He has been chairman of the Board since its establishment and has been elected a member every year by acclamation except two. Such practical marks of approval must be founded on good and faithful service.

A GREAT NOVA SCOTIAN.

The proprietors of the Morning Chronicle, of Halifax, N. S., of which paper he was for many years the editor, have in course of publication and will shortly issue a new and complete edition of the speeches and publi letters of the noted Nova Scotian publicist, Joseph Howe. In this edition will be included the material contained in the edition published by Hon. Mr. Annand, in 1858, and also all the important speeches and letters delivered and written by Joseph Howe between 1858 and the time of his death in 1873. The editor of the new edition, Joseph A. Chisholm, K.C., has for many years been diligently collecting all the writings of the famous Nova Scotian, and he has carefully compiled the same for publication in the forthcoming work.

WATER AND ITS CONSERVATION

The example of the Peterborough district is exerting its influence. Yesterday a deputation from Lanark County waited upon the Ontario Government. This deputation was composed principally of power owners, who are interested in having a sufficient and regular flow of water of the Mississippi. The burden of their request was that the Government should undertake conservation work. The latter went no further than to promise consideration. It should go further—it should take action. As custodian of the public interests the Government is bound to serve those interests to the best of its ability. The Government is also under another form of obligation to take measures to conserve the waters feeding power streams. The removal of the forest has, by destroying the natural reservoirs, permitted the waters of spring to rush off in torrents, leaving no store to last through the dry months. This removal of forest has yielded a large revenue to the Government, and the duty of the latter to make compensation is undoubted. In the Peterborough district the success attending the construction of retaining dams justifies their extension to other districts. Again the present Government has taken the matter of power exploitation under its control and the conservation of waters naturally fits in with its power policy. It may be many years before we shall have so exceedingly dry a season as last, but we may have a repetition at any time, and it is well to be prepared. The experience of Ottawa will give an impetus to conservation measures. We, in Peterborough, have not so far suffered serious inconvenience; but to avoid the possibility of such a misfortune the extension or improvement of our conserving dams should not be neglected. A short period of severe frost the past few days scaled the small streams and created a temporary shortage of water, which stopped the wheels of our industries yesterday for six hours. Had it not been for the waters having been conserved to the extent that has been done, and the flow judiciously regulated, we should have had a water famine long ago like that of Ottawa where all industries and utilities depended upon water power have to be operated by auxiliary steam plants. Peterborough has excellent reason to be grateful for the influence that secured the transfer of the watershed of the Trent Canal to the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government, which has taken and will continue to take an interest in the question of water conservation, of which this whole district will continue as it has done, to reap the benefit.

Another feature complicating the water supply trouble is one that no human foresight can overcome. Owing to the long lack of rainfall the water in our northern reservoirs is exceedingly low. It is to be remembered that there has only been one inch of rainfall since last June, an unprecedented meterological condition. In consequence the inland lakes, as well as the water of the great lakes, is extremely low—that is Lake Ontario being four feet below the normal level.

The average amount of rainfall for the Peterborough district for the year 1907 was 32.5 inches. The figures for 1908 are not available, but there is no doubt that last year's rainfall was less than half that of the preceding year.

TRUANCY LEGISLATION.

Intimation is given that legislation will be introduced during the approaching session of the Legislative Assembly to improve the laws respecting truancy. There is sad need of it. Save in very few places—and Brantford, we believe is one of them,—the truancy laws are at present a mere make-believe, and command nothing better than contempt.

To begin with, the system is cumbersome. In cities, the administration of the law is a matter of police regulation, and here it is best enforced, despite the fact that police officers, as a rule, are not supposed to be enthusiasts in matters affecting education. Elsewhere the school boards have charge of it, and the fact that the average rural school trustee thinks little more regarding schooling than to get it on the bargain counter plan is shown by the fact that in very few rural sections is any attempt made to enforce the law.

Now we are told that the truancy business is to be left entirely with the school authorities. This theoretically is the right thing, but we are afraid there will still be indifferent enforcement of the law unless the Education Department appoints the truant officers, and assumes directly the responsibility of the whole business. Expanding revenues make it possible for the government to take this course, and assuredly public funds could be put to no better use than in providing the necessary machinery to enforce compulsory education.

Other changes necessary to lessen truancy is to take away from justices of the peace the power which they at present possess of excusing children from school attendance for certain periods of the year, and to provide that no child under 14 years of age shall be employed in any factory, store or place without a certificate of age signed by the public school Inspector, or some other school authority of like standing, not only as to his age, but also as to his being in possession of at least an elementary education. It is one of the blots upon our statute books at present that a child may enter industrial life when he has reached a certain age regardless of whether or not he has the ability even to read and write. In the above and other respects, the laws of the province need improvement.

In connection with contemplated changes it is said the Government may take steps to compel the attendance at school of children who have passed 14 years of age and are under 16, where the children have not entered upon industrial pursuits. This is done in many states of the union, and it is certainly desirable that the child should be at school rather than on the streets, or even at home, during one of the most valuable periods of life from an educational point of view, and also during a period when the temptations to enter upon a criminal career are the greatest. It is said very well to provide humanitarian methods of treating our youth, after, through our neglect perchance, they have offended against the laws of the land, but it is still more important to see that they are fairly started on the path of rectitude and good citizenship.

Let the Truancy laws be made effective, but let us also have an advancement in child training in its every phase.—Brantford Expositor.

PRIVATE SLANDER.

A correspondent writes strongly on the evils of private gossip. It is not perhaps generally recognized that the libel which appears in a newspaper is the least dangerous of all attacks upon private character. The blow is delivered in the open; the person struck may strike back, may vindicate himself in the courts. But a story circulated through private gossip may travel and gather strength and venom for months or years without the victim being made aware of the mischief. He may find friends growing cold without suspecting the cause.

With the person who circulates these slanders with malicious intent it is useless to remonstrate. But there is a temptation to listen to them, and to pass them on, not from the desire to inflict injury, but because there is a certain zest and flavour in sarcastic or censorious remarks and a melancholy satisfaction in the contemplation of the faults and calamities of others. Our correspondent says with much force: "The person who brings you gossip reflecting on the character of a man or woman or the safety of a business firm pays you no compliment. Retailers of scandal do not present their wares to people who hate cowardly insinuations, and who would be likely to reprove them for being uncharitable."—Toronto Star.

LITERARY SOCIETY MEETING A SUCCESS

New Galway Organization Has an Enjoyable Session.

Examiner Special.

Galway, Jan. 20.—The first regular meeting of the Galway Literary Society was held the other evening and was a decided success. The popular young president, Mr. Ed. Allen, occupied the chair and filled his position in a very able and capable manner. After the reading of the minutes of the last meeting by Rev. P J O'Leary, the main part of the programme was carried out. The subject under debate was "Resolved that married life is happier than single life." Good arguments were advanced on both sides, but the affirmative, upheld by Ed. Cain, John MacGuire and Mrs. John MacGuire, proved the winners. Special note should be made of Miss Etta Cain and Mr. Herbert Clawson who did so well for the single side of the question. If they progress in the splendid manner in which they began we will hear of them as orators soon. A very amusing number was the criticisms by Mr. Patrick Collins. His criticisms were humorous and yet beneficial and it is to be hoped all concerned will benefit by them. During the evening Miss Veronica Allen favoured the audience with a solo in her usual fine style. Mr. Patrick Collins also gave a solo in splendid style. Great praise is due Miss Mary Collins for the able way in which she gave her recitation.

TRAIN FOR BUSINESS

Most men train their brains and almost entirely neglect their bodies. They do not seem to realize that keenness of judgment and clearness of thought depend as much on the body as on the brain itself. Any man can prove this to his own satisfaction by attempting to decide a weighty business problem while suffering with an acute attack of indigestion or a violent spell of biliousness.

The amount of work that the brain can do depends much on the healthfulness of liver, bowels, kidneys and skin.

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in tablet form. They act directly on liver, bowels, kidneys and skin—and enable these vital organs to rid the system of all impurities. Thus the blood will be kept pure and rich, the brain active, digestion sound, and life made pleasant.

"Fruit-a-tives" are now put up in two sizes—the new 25c box as well as the regular 50c size. If your dealer does not carry them, write Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

WOMAN'S BACKACHE

The back is the mainspring of woman's organism. It quickly calls attention to trouble by aching. It tells, with other symptoms, such as nervousness, headache, pains in the loins, weight in the lower part of the body, that a woman's feminine organism needs immediate attention.

In such cases the one sure remedy which speedily removes the cause, and restores the feminine organism to a healthy, normal condition is

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. J. A. Laliberte, of 84 Artillerie Street, Quebec, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"For six years I have been doctoring for female weakness, heart and nerves, liver and kidney trouble, but in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I can safely say I have found a cure.

"I was continually bothered with the most distressing backaches, headaches, and bearing down pains, and I kept growing more and more nervous.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of all these distressing symptoms and made me a well woman. I would advise all suffering women, young or old, to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

BRANCH LINE INTO EAST KOOTENAY

G. T. P. Plans Invasion of the Crow's Nest District.

TO PUSH WORK IN SPRING

Scheme of Building In West Is on Huge Scale and Extension of Alberta Lines Will Tap Southern British Columbia Coal Areas—Prince Rupert Lots Expected to Be Ready by Next May.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 20.—Apart from rushing the main line construction in the north this year, the Grand Trunk Pacific is about to formulate plans for building branch lines in British Columbia on a scale of magnitude never dreamed of by the public.

Nothing less than an invasion of the Crow's Nest Pass coal district in East Kootenay is contemplated.

This project constitutes one of the principal objects of the mission of D'Arcy Tate, assistant auditor of the G.T.P. Railway, who arrived from the east yesterday. Necessary authority to build into East Kootenay will be sought at the forthcoming session of the British Columbia Legislature. Formal application has not been made and it is certain that the rules of the Legislature will have to be suspended in order to grant the required authority.

The East Kootenay branch line will be an extension of the proposed G.T.P. branch lines in Alberta, construction of which, in accordance with arrangements, is to be rushed in the spring.

Mr. Tate wil endeavor to have a final settlement of the Prince Rupert town site with the Provincial Government and has an impression that lots will be on the market in May.

Guilty of Forgery.

Montreal, Jan. 20.—"Oh, I may as well plead guilty to the whole lot; you have me anyway," was the statement made yesterday by James Sugden, alias Wallace, alias Williams, held on a charge of forgery and obtaining money under false pretences, and pleaded guilty to the charges of swindling branches of the Dominion Bank, Bank of Commerce, Molson's, and Merchants' Bank.

W. F. Osler, manager of the Imperial Bank of Ottawa, then laid another charge. He stated that on Oct. 21 last Sugden opened an account at his bank with $10 and that two days afterwards he presented a check for $486 on the American National Bank of Los Angeles, which was a forgery.

Held Up by Expressmen.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 20.—Horace Lassard of Charlottetown, P.E.I., was the chief witness at yesterday's sitting here of the Dominion Railway Commission. He complained of numerous charges on shipments made from the Island to the United States. Brokrage and custom charges at the border had to be paid at both shipping and receiving ends, and Americans shipping officials took a half pound sample of tea of every package sent. He also complained of winter charges made by the express company of 50 cents of every additional 100 pounds, he said the only additional further expense they were under amounts to 50 cents on each 50 pounds.

Changes In Targets.

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—The Dominion Rifle Association at its meeting in February will discuss a change in the targets. It is felt that the 20-yard range and target is too easy, and probably the same target will hereafter be used at 300 yards. Thus the actual ranges will be 300, 500 and 600 yards. A new steel target is proposed the size of a man's head and shoulders that lie flat on the ground in places unknown to the shooter at varying distances. By a button an operator brings one up which, on being hit, falls.

Perfume Factory Bonused.

Windsor, Jan. 20.—The Seely Manufacturing Co. will erect a $15,000 perfume factory and will have a fixed assessment of $1,000. Objection was made to the concession by a rival concern, but later withdrawn.

Fire In Chesley Church.

Chesley, Jan. 20.—Fire from an overheated furnace broke out yesterday in the basement of the English Church and destroyed the woodwork of the chancel and the organ.

WHY AM I ILL?

HOW TO TELL.

Does every cold affect your back, and cause a feeling of chilliness, followed by disturbance of the kidney action.

Does the use of spirits, tea or beer excite the kidneys? Are you easily worried and annoyed over trifles? Are the feet and hands cold? Circulation bad? Do the feet and legs swell? Is there puffiness under the eyes? Do you have rheumatism, poor eyesight, headaches and backaches? Is there gravel or any unnatural action of the kidneys?

If you have any of the above symptoms your kidneys are either weak or diseased, and these symptoms are warnings of more serious troubles to follow; Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Dropsy.

Whatever you do, whatever you think your disease is, look well to your kidneys at the first sign of anything wrong. Give them just the aid they require in Doan's Kidney Pills, the Great Quaker Kidney Medicine, and see how well and fit you feel after even a few doses.

Mrs. O. Warren, Radisson, Sask., writes: "I was troubled with very severe pains in my back for years. I tried everything I could think of but they did me no good. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking two boxes, I have not been troubled since."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co. Limited, Toronto.

Farmer Sues Railway.

Windsor, Jan. 20.—A unique case was tried yesterday in the Division Court in Essex. A farmer named Beattie sued the Michigan Central Railway for $50 damages. The farmer's own hogs destroyed some of his corn, but he blamed the railroad on the grounds that the railroad company must keep up the fences along its line. Owing to negligence on the part of the railway, his hogs he says, escaped from one of his fields, wandered across the tracks and got into his corn field on the opposite side.

MARCIL'S ELECTION TO BE UNOPPOSED

Conservatives Will Not Contest Election as Speaker.

SWEARING IN THE MEMBERS

Preparatory Ceremonies of Inaugurating Sitting of Parliament Are Begun at Ottawa — Mr. Borden Is Against Any Demonstration Against Mr. Marcil — Speech From Throne To-morrow.

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—The election of the Speaker of the Commons will be the feature of to-day's opening of Parliament, and it is now likely that the Conservatives will abandon their intention of calling for a vote on the Premier's proposition to elect Charles Marcil. R. L. Borden has put his foot down on the suggestion, and it is likely that the caucus will support him.

The report from Toronto that Hon. A. B. Aylesworth contemplated early resignation to accept an important position in the gift of the Government is denied by the Minister of Justice, who states that it must have arisen through a statement to his constituents that is was not his intention to again be a candidate for Parliament.

There was a large influx of members of Parliament-elect yesterday, and it is expected that there will be but few

When the Commoners return to their own chamber Sir Wilfrid Laurier will move that Charles Marcil be elected Speaker of the eleventh Parliament.

The Speaker having been elected the House will adjourn till Thursday, when the formal opening will take place, and the speech from the throne will be read by His Excellency.

R. L. Borden has addressed a letter to the Conservatives of Carleton County formally announcing to them his intention to sit for Halifax in the House of Commons. Mr. Borden thanks the electors of Carleton County for having accepted him as their representative on two occasions, and referred to many warm friendships made by him through his connection with the county.

He will place his resignation as member for Carleton in the hands of the Speaker at an early date.

PE-RU-NA CHEERFULLY RECOMMENDED FOR COLDS AND CATARRH.

A Prominent Canadian Gives His Experience With the World-Famous Remedy For Catarrh.

Chronic Catarrh Always Begins With An Ordinary Cold.

So Says Dr. Hartman, the Greatest Living Authority On Catarrhal Diseases.

THE first effect of a cold is a thickening of the mucous membranes of the nose and throat.

This gives rise to a discharge, or at least a stuffiness of the nasal passages.

Sometimes fever accompanies the first attack, also a feeling of languor, dullness and aching of the bones.

If no attention is paid to it, the mucous congestion is liable to spread down into the larynx, producing hoarseness and into the bronchial tubes, producing a cough.

Even when this occurs, many people pay no attention to it.

Under such circumstances, the congestion is liable to become chronic, producing a condition of the mucous membranes known as catarrh. Catarrh lasts an indefinite time. Catarrh is essentially a chronic condition and does not leave except something is done to relieve it.

CURE COLDS—PREVENT CATARRH.

What should be done when a person catches cold is to take a few doses of Peruna.

Taken at the onset, Peruna would break up the cold and prevent all the train of symptoms which usually follow.

But, even in cases where the cold has been neglected and hoarseness or a cough has developed, Peruna can be relied upon to give prompt and permanent relief.

The frequency of coughs and colds in the winter makes Peruna a popular remedy for these ailments.

A number of the best people of various countries have given testimonials as to the value of Peruna in such cases.

Followed Dr. Hartman's Advice—'Restored to Health.

Mrs. Samuelle Vigneau, Avre au Berd, Isle de La Magdaline, Canada, writes:

"I write to tell you that I am perfectly well. I took only three bottles of your Peruna according to your advice and the directions in your book and it restored my health."

C. H. Parker, Ex-Warden of Compton Co., Quebec, has been mayor of Scottstown for a number of years. He is an influential resident in Scottstown and widely known.

He writes concerning Peruna. Read his letter below:

C. H. PARKER.

"I had several attacks of colds from time to time and finally a severe attack developed into catarrh.

"I was advised to use your celebrated catarrh remedy, and after taking three bottles I find myself completely cured, and I no longer suffer from catarrh or colds.

"I can cheerfully recommend Peruna for colds and catarrh."

If Peruna had no other medicinal value than the promptness with which it relieves common colds, it would be well worth while for any family to keep it in the house constantly.

GOOD CONCERT AT ALL SAINTS'

Many People Present to Hear Programme.

A concert was held in All Saints' church last night under the auspices of the All Saints' Men's Association, for the purpose of raising funds for drawing stone for the foundation of the new church, which is going to be built in the course of the present year. That the project was approved of by the public, was evidenced not only by the large audience that was present but also by the number of artists who gave their services for the occasion.

The programme was a very excellent one in every respect. It was held in the basement of the church.

The chairman of the evening was the Rev. H R Trumpour, rector of All Saints'. Mr. Runnett, president of the association, said a few words in praise of the workers and also to the audience and moved that a vote of thanks be passed to all present and to those who took part in the programme. About $40 was netted in aid of the fund.

The following is the programme:

FIGHT AGAINST THE WHITE PLAGUE

The Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives is Increasing Accommodation.

Since the opening of the New Year accommodation has been provided for twenty-five additional patients at the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives. A new administration building has been opened and as a result the original main building is given up entirely to patients. There are now 95 beds available.

Applicants are admitted as quickly as their medical examinations are passed upon by the Medical Superintendent. In Muskoka only those in the incipient stages of the disease are admitted. This is the outcome of the Christmas Stamp Campaign and other special efforts that were put forth during the holiday season on behalf of this deserving institution.

In the two Muskoka Homes for Consumptives, namely the Muskoka Cottage Sanitorium, and a mile distant the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, 175 patients can now be accommodated.

Application for admission and all particulars may be obtained by writing Mr. J S Robertson, Sec.-Treas., National Sanitarium Association, 347 King street, west, Toronto.

RUSH OF PROSPECTORS INTO NORTH COUNTRY

Four Stage Lines are Kept Busy From T. & N. O. Points to Gowganda.

North Bay, Jan. 20.—There is steady travel into the Larder Lake gold district from Dane Station, 160 miles from North Bay, and three stages meet the train each afternoon at 2.10, landing passengers at Larder Lake at five o'clock, the stages returning the next day, connecting with the southbound train.

There is a great rush on to Elk Lake and Gowganda, four stage routes being in operation and kept busy every day from Charlton, Englehart, Earlton, Latchford, the bulk of the freight business going via Charlton. From Englehart to Elk City by stage takes five hours. Judging by the present influx, when spring opens there will be a tremendous rush to the northern Eldorados.

The Silver Bell Telephone Company have installed a line from Gowganda and Elk Lake to the T & N O Railway at Charlton.

Presentation And Address To Mr. W. C. Switzer By Class

Remembered at the Annual Election of Officers by His Class at George Street Methodist Sunday School—Recognition of Service.

MOST ENJOYABLE EVENT.

The members of the Ladies' Adult Bible Class of George street Methodist Church, to the number of sixty, met at the home of their teacher, Mr. W. C. Switzer, Weller street, on Friday night, and spent a most enjoyable evening.

The first thing on the programme was the reports from the different committees, which showed a marked increase in every department, following which the election of officers took place which resulted as follows:—

Teacher: W. C. Switzer.
Assist. Teacher: Mrs. S. R. Armstrong.
Hon. President: Mrs. W. C. Switzer.
President: Mrs. Fife.
Vice-Pres.: Mrs. N. J. Devins.
Rec. Secretary: Mrs. W. H. Cunningham (re-elected by acclamation).
Treasurer: Mrs. Fisher (re-elected by acclamation).
Convener, Membership Committee: Miss K. Thornton.
Convener, Social Committee: Mrs. S. A. Oke.
Convener, Devotional Committee: Mrs. F. Moore.
Convener, Flower Committee: Miss Middleton.

There was a short programme of music, readings, solos, and speeches, in the midst of which Mr. and Mrs. Switzer were asked to come forward while Mrs. Devins read the following address: Mr. W. C. Switzer.

Dear Teacher:—The members of the Welcome Bible Class of the George street Methodist Sunday School desire to give united expression of their appreciation of your work as their teacher, and their gratitude for the time and effort you give to the work of the class. We recognise that to have charge of a class as large as this one makes large demands upon your time, especially when the work is conducted with the success that has attended this class for so many years, as shown by its growth in membership and the large attendance every Sunday. Your instruction has been appreciated by and has been very helpful to us. The knowledge that we have gained by your teaching, and by the inspiration to study that is imparted by your guidance in learning the Scripture lessons has been of great value and will benefit us always.

The friendly and social spirit that pervades the class is also largely owing to yourself and Mrs. Switzer, as is also the benevolent work that is carried on under the auspices of the class, and which has been so helpful to a large number of people.

We earnestly hope that you will for many years remain in charge of this class, and continue the good work for our Lord and Master which you have conducted with such marked success, and as a tangible evidence of our esteem for you and Mrs. Switzer, and our appreciation of your work for us we ask you to accept the accompanying gifts.

Signed on behalf of the class,
MRS. N. J. DEVINS,
President.

Mrs. Hartley presented Mr. Switzer with a handsome electric reading lamp, and Mrs. Zepp presented Mrs. Switzer with a beautiful jardiniere and palm, and a handsome hand painted plate from Mrs. Hounsell. Mr. Switzer replied in a few well chosen words for Mrs. Switzer and himself, thanking the class for their expression of appreciation, the more so because it was strictly unexpected.

The class sang altogether "He's a Jolly Good Fellow." There were a few short speeches from Mr. J. Thornton, Mr. T. W. Robinson, Mr. S. P Armstrong and Rev. E. A. Pearson.

The evening was brought to a close with singing "God be with you till we meet again," Mr. Pearson closing with the benediction.

Collie Dogs Are Needed By Those The Gowganda Bug Has Recently Stung

Persons having collie dogs which they want to dispose of can easily do so these days, to men who are preparing to go back to Elk Lake and Gowganda, the new land of wealth, where a fortune may be acquired by merely staking out a claim of the mineral veined rock. It is a fact that these dogs are being sought after, to be taken back to the new country to draw the toboggans laden with the few necessaries for the temporary settling in the new country. Hence, if collies have had any value in the past, their stock has gone up rapidly of late. Peterborough men who are already in the Eldorado of the north have sent home word to get a number of these dogs, as they are almost invaluable at present. There are also several parties of local men who have got the fever to share in the rush, and it is known that one of the local harness makers has nearly finished a special harness for five dogs to pull a toboggan. They will be hitched together in file, and it is expected will be able to draw the outfit the men will need.

Miss Davies Wins Bouquets From Toronto Musical Critics

Miss Helen Davies, of Peterborough, has been the soprano soloist at the National Choir concert in Toronto on Monday and Tuesday nights, and her splendid singing has won her many bouquets from the Toronto critics. The Star says:

Miss Helen Davies, the soprano, attacked her solo parts bravely, the clearness and certainty of her high notes being especially commendable. On the highest authority vibrato is not good form; we should like to hear so pretty a voice free from this fault. It would lose none of its natural sympathetic quality.

Miss Davies had a very warm and encouraging reception from her Toronto audience.

The Mail—

"Miss Helen Davies, of Peterborough, whose powerful soprano voice with its sweet and silvery timbre, is ever a delight, surpassed herself if the difficult declamatory passages of this ungrateful work. The fine quality of the organization in unaccompanied works was demonstrated in a delightful rendering of Leo Williams' setting of "The Peddler's song," from "A Winter's Tale," and Leslie's "Lullaby" of Life. As an added feature, the chorus "Thanks be to God" from Mendelssohn's "Elijah" was given a most spirited rendering with a fine body of tone."

The Globe—

The soprano soloist in "The Flag of England" was Miss Helen Davies of Peterborough, whose bright, clear voice won her a gratifying demonstration.

FIRM BELIEVER IN FUTURE OF COBALT AND GOWGANDA DISTRICT

Mr. J. C. Ritchie, of Toronto, representing the Maple Leaf Mining Company, was in the city yesterday in the interests of his company, and incidentally renewed old acquaintances formed here during his residence in Peterborough some years ago. Mr. Ritchie is a firm believer in the future of Cobalt and the new Gowganda district. The Temiskaming Mine, he states, has demonstrated conclusively that Cobalt is a deep mining mine, and that the ore is not all near the surface, as had been reported. Ore is being taken from the Temiskaming at a depth of 400 feet.

The Maple Leaf Company, which Mr. Ritchie represents, consists of 48 acres in the Coleman district, Cobalt, and 63 acres in Gowganda. He is also a shareholder in the Temiskaming and Hudson Bay Company, the shares of which once sold at $1 and are now worth $300.

Speaking of the difficulty of getting freight into the Gowganda district Mr. Ritchie states that the situation has been considerably improved. Five weeks ago $35 was asked for transporting seventy pounds of freight from Elk City to Gowganda, a distance of twenty-eight miles. Now the Canadian Northern will carry freight from Toronto to Gowganda at the rate of $2 per hundred pounds.

THE NEW CITY ORCHESTRA.

—Through the efforts of Mr. W A Elliott, of the City Photo Studio, a new City Orchestra has been formed for furnishing music for private and public occasions. The members of the orchestra are as follows: W. A Elliott, leader, first violin; Mr. Gowe flute; Mr. Manicolo, cornet; Mr. Westbrooke, clarionette; Mr. G Elliott, cello; Miss Alice Elliott, piano. See card in music column.

"THE GROCER" REFERS TO ALD. GILLESPIE

Recent Issue Contains Sketch of Success He Has Achieved in Recent Years.

HIS PUBLIC SERVICE.

The Canadian Grocer has the following reference to Ald. Gillespie, in a recent issue:

After one of the closest races for aldermanic honours in the municipal history of Peterborough, Geo. A. Gillespie carried offf first honours with a majority of ten over his next contestant. Last year he was a close second and by his work during the past year he has gained the confidence of the public in his ability to deal wisely with public matters, influenced only by the best interests of the people.

Ald. Gillespie is one of Peterborough's leading grocers, being in partnership in the firm of White and Gillespie. He was formerly a cheese maker at Central Smith factory, to the north of the city, and after a number of years' experience came to Peterborough, and has been particularly interested in dairying, their store carrying a special line of supplies for the manufacture of butter and cheese. He has been the largest cheese buyer on the local market during the past year and has been recently chosen as the representative from Peterborough district on the Board of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, having been re-elected to that honour. Ald. Gillespie is also vice-president of the Board of Trade of that city and altogether occupies a prominent place in the business and public life of Peterborough. He recently attended the convention of the Eastern Dairymen, Prescott. Ald. Gillespie will hold office for two years, being among the six securing the highest votes.

COAL BUCKET FELL ON HIM

Couldn't Walk For Two Months—Worker Owes His Restoration to Zam-Buk.

Mr. Daniel Goddard, of Bay street, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., says: "While employed superintending the unloading on a coal vessel at Cohen's Coal Dock, a heavy coal bucket in descending into the vessel to be refilled suddenly overturned, grazing my left leg and scraping the flesh off to the bone. I was compelled to discontinue work and go home for treatment, where I was confined for about two months.

"When able to get out again I got cold in the wound, inflammation started, the wound opened again, and for another month I was unable to move about. I tried all manner of things to get ease and get the wound to heal up, but nothing seemed able to do it. Not only did everything I tried seem useless so far as healing went, but I could get no ease from the aching and the burning pains. At times I was just about crazy with the intense throbbing pains, and night after night got no sleep whatever.

"Not until my wife began applying Zam-Buk did I feel relief. When applied to the injured member this balm quickly soothed the pain, and as we continued using it each day brought an improvement. The throbbing pains were soon banished, the inflammation and soreness relieved, and the wound thoroughly cleansed of all poisonous and unhealthy matter.

"Healing then began, and in a wonderfully short time—considering the seriousness of the wound—Zam-Buk effected a complete and lasting cure. I have since had no trouble with the limb at all, and it is as sound and strong as before the injury."

Zam-Buk is a sure cure for cuts, lacerations, burns, eczema, ringworm, cold-sores, chapped hands, poisoned wounds, festering sores, bad leg, and all skin injuries and diseases. It is also a cure for piles. Druggists and stores everywhere sell at 50c. a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price. You are warned against harmful imitations sometimes represented as "just as good and cheaper."

GOWGANDA

The quickest and best route will continue to be via the Grand Trunk and T. & N. O. Railway to Charlton, thence 18 miles by stage to Elk Lake and 32 Miles Elk Lake to Gowganda. This route will enable stops to be made at Temagami, Cobalt, Haileybury, New Liskeard and Englehart. Cobalt special leaving Toronto 10.15 p. m., daily, makes direct connection with stages reaching Elk Lake next afternoon. Full information from W. Bunton, C. P. & T. A. 8d14

SICK ONE YEAR

London, Ontario, Man Says, "For Chronic Coughs, Colds or Bronchial Troubles Vinol is Without An Equal."

I was ill for over a year before taking Vinol. I had tried cod liver oil, also other remedies. I was influenced to try Vinol by seeing it advertised, and I can safely recommend it to anyone requiring a first class tonic. It is quite palatable and pleasant to take, with all the nourishing qualities of the best cod liver oil. For chronic coughs and colds, or bronchial troubles, it is without an equal, at the same time building up the run-down system, strengthening the appetite and producing sound sleep." A. J. Gilmour, 510 Acklaick street, London, Ontario.

This is because Vinol is a genuine tonic and body-builder which contains peptonate of iron together with every one of the body-building medicinal elements of cod liver oil, but without one drop of oil to upset the stomach and retard its work. Vinol acts directly on the stomach, creates a healthy appetite, and enables the digestive organs to obtain the necessary elements from the food eaten to make rich, red blood, healthy flesh and muscle tissue and create strength.

Your money back if Vinol fails to benefit. McDermid & Jury, druggists, corner of George and Charlotte streets; also the Payne Drug Store, corner George and Simcoe streets.

COLLEGE INJURY BEGINNING TO TELL

Young Man Was Hazed Twice and Backbone is Now Diseased.

Stamford, Conn., Jan. 20 — Bartow Ayres, assistant cashier for Trowbridge & Co., bankers and brokers, of No. 111 Broadway, New York, was hazed while attending a military school at Peekskill five years ago. In the horseplay his back bone was injured.

Three years ago when he first went on the curb as a broker he got the usual "initation", an overhearty slap on the back, which affected the old injury and caused an abscess. Ayres had it lanced, but it had bothered him from time to time ever since.

A week or two ago the pain became unbearable. A surgical examination showed that the lower end of the back bone was diseased. Dr. William Barrows, a New York surgeon, removed two sections of the back bone in the Stamford Hospital yesterday. The operation was a serious one, but young Mr. Ayres will pull through.

Ladies! If you would be strong and healthy and have good complexions take Miller's Compound Iron Pills. Sold by J. D. Tully, druggist, Peterborough.

Notices of Births, Marriages and Deaths, 25 cents each insertion in either the Daily or Weekly Examiner.

DIED.

SCOTT—At 797 Hunter street, January 20th, Miss Christina Scott, at the age of 84 years. The funeral (private) will be held on Friday from the residence at 2.30 p.m., and proceed to Little Lake Cemetery.

THE COUNCIL TO MAKE CAMPAIGN FOR MORE INDUSTRIES FOR CITY

Commissioner of Industries May be Appointed---Matter Was Thoroughly Discussed at Joint Meeting Held Last Night.

A determined campaign will be made by the City Council this year to secure more industries for the city and it is likely that the work of advertising the city and of getting industries will be given to a commissioner of industries. The council has been assured that there will be no difficulty in securing power.

Last night there was a joint meeting of the Manufacturers' Committee, the Power Committee and a committee of the Board of Trade to discuss the matter.

Those present were, Mayor Ruah, Ald. McIntyre, chairman of the Special Power Committee, Ald. Gillespie, chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee, Ald. Bradburn, Dullus, Metheral and Morrow.

Messrs. J H Larmonth, W B Moore and Dr. M A Morrison, president of the Board of Trade.

Ald. McIntyre was elected to the chair, but as there was no quorum present no business could be done, but it was decided to discuss the business anyway so that the evening would not be wasted.

The chairman stated that the object of the meeting was to consider the two resolutions passed by the Board of Trade and forwarded to the City Council. He read the resolutions bearing on the power question and also the question of securing new industries and the appointment of a commissioner of industry.

Dr. Morrison, president of the Board of Trade, stated that the idea of the body was that the city should inaugurate a more progressive policy to induce manufacturers to locate here. It would be possible here to accommodate a much larger population and the best way to increase the population was to get more manufacturers here. Other cities were moving and it was time Peterborough was taking some action. The Board had also discussed the advisability of securing more electric power. This would be left with the Power Committee. The Board also recommended the necessity of establishing a publicity department for the purpose of advertising the city. That department could also take up the matter of securing options on all property available for manufacturing sites, so that they would be on file when required. The publicity agent could also go into the imports and find out what articles are not manufactured and then go after those people and endeavour to get them here.

Mr. W H Moore stated that he had never yet seriously considered the question of securing manufacturers here. It struck him, however, that the city would do well to get more power, municipal power and cheap power. He mentioned several powers which might be secured. Peterborough was a great natural centre for manufacturing, one great feature being the wood supply which can be secured very easily.

Mr. Larmonth stated that he had intended to get evidence to show the council that there was lots of power here and that it was reasonable in price. The power companies now in existence would look after the manufacturers and would gladly increase their plant as rapidly as there was any sign of a market. Last year they spent $20,000 on their plant with the result that they have now 1,000 horse power more. As far as the city going into municipal power was concerned he did not think that the city could afford to develop power as it meant an expenditure of several thousand dollars. He further stated that in very few places in Canada could power be had at less than was asked, viz., $20 per horse power. He stated that while Toronto was getting 10,000 horse power from the power commission at $18 per h.p., before the people were through with it it would cost at least $35 per horse power. Mr. Larmonth stated that if Toronto could get factories with $30 to $35 per horse power this city should also get factories at $20 if the city put its energies in the right direction. Mr. Larmonth said he could supply 1,000 horse power by the first of May, and 2,000 horse power a short time after.

Ald Morrow arrived at this time and made the necessary quorum.

Mr. J H Larmonth stated that at the present time the city could with every confidence go to six or eight ordinary manufacturers, and assure them that there will be plenty of power at $20 per horse power.

Ald. Bradburn asked Mr. Larmonth if he would place on record in the hands of the committee that he would supply 1,000 horse power. He stated that he would take it up with the head office in Chicago at once.

Chairman McIntyre then read the next resolution, viz., the tabulation of factory sites and the publicity department and asked if there was any discussion.

Dr. Morrison reiterated that Peterborough should have a publicity department so that they could get after these new factories at once.

Ald. Bradburn stated that he had taken this matter up last year and was convinced that it would pay the city to have a commissioner of industries, who would keep in touch with the manufacturers in the United States and Europe, and when he got hold of a concern looking for a Canadian site, he could go directly after them and endeavour to bring them here. This commissioner could also advertise the city within a radius of 100 miles, and induce many more excursionists into the city. Those outsiders left money here and all benefit thereby. He was strongly in favour of trying this for two or three years anyway, and was confident that it would pay. The matter would be taken up at an early date.

Ald Morrow stated that the Power Committee had been doing everything possible during the past year in connection with the power problem. He agreed with Ald. Bradburn in his ideas of securing a commissioner of industries, believing that it would be in the best interests of the city.

Ald. Gillespie, chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee, stated that he had been taking note of the discussion and approved of the ideas advanced. His Committee would take up the matter and endeavour to carry out the suggestion.

NOTES OF INTEREST FROM DOWNEYVILLE

Personal and News Paragraphs From That Village.

Examiner Special.

Downeyville, Jan. 9th (Special) —Owing to the recent rains and soft weather, the snow has disappeared, leaving the road practically bare, and buggies and waggons again take the place of sleighs. This is a great drawback to the farmers as they cannot draw their produce to town.

Miss Lena Carroll has returned to Downeyville when she will resume her duties as teacher in the school No. 4 for 1909. Miss Carroll spent a very pleasant holiday at her home in Trenton, Ont.

Miss Julia Murphy, of Ops, again takes charge of No. 12, and Mr. John Denan holds No. 15. Miss Mila Callaghan, who has been teaching in Fort William, has returned to her home and will teach in St. Joseph's Convent in Lindsay for 1909.

Mrs. Martin Carroll of Lindsay, spent the holidays with her daughter, Mrs. Herliheif.

Miss Olive Herliheif spent a few days with friends in Ennismore.

Miss Mary Ann O'Neill, who was home for her sister's funeral, returned to Rochester a few days ago.

Messrs. Reid and Cecil, who have been spending the festive season in Havelock and Trent Bridge, returned this week to see after the business of the Maple Leaf Cheese Factory for next season.

Mr. Patrick Tracy, of Ops, who for some time suffered from cancer, passed away at his home Christmas week. We sympathise with his bereaved wife and family in their trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Duffy, who have been spending a few weeks with friends in and around Downeyville, leave on Monday, January 11th, for their home in Minnesota.

London's Immensity.

London! The heart not only of England, nor indeed only of the great British Empire, but of all Anglo-Saxondom—in sooth a very marvelous city, old as the once virile race which created it, and beyond comparison larger, wealthier, more influential, richer in every sort of human interest, than any other city in the round world.

No other city links the past with the present as London does. We gaze upon its historic Tower, in turn fortress, palace, prison and museum—venerated as an ancient pile in the dark days called the Middle Ages, and averting our gaze for a moment see the Tower Bridge, a grand example of modern engineering skill, which almost touches it. London has numerous and splendid parks, hundreds of stately mansions (some of them, such as Stafford House and Grosvenor House, of unsurpassed magnificent), thousands of well-appointed houses, and hundreds of thousands of mean houses. Irregular in shape and continually expanding, no one can say precisely where the London of to-day begins or ends.

A Fastidious Deadhead.

Mr. Albert Chevalier, the London comedian, used to tell the following story against himself. It happened when he was touring in the provinces. The stage-door keeper of one of the theatres in the town went to Mr. Chevalier's brother, Mr. Ingle, with a request for a couple of seats for that evening's performance. "With pleasure," was the reply. "But I don't want 'em for myself," the man explained. "I've seed 'im. It's the missus that wants 'em. Like all the women, she just wants to say she's seed 'im." "That will be all right," replied Mr. Ingle. "You send her along, and I'll see that she has good seats." "Thank you, sir," replied the man. He drew a step nearer, put his hand up to his mouth, and whispered confidentially. "Don't worry about the places. Put 'er anywhere, but put 'er near the door, so that she can get out easy in case she don't like 'im."

First Glimpse of the World.

William Edward Clay, a Nottingham (Eng.) organist, who has been totally blind since he was 18 months old, has had his sight restored after twenty-six years. He can now distinguish his parents, and is looking forward to the time when he will be able to learn to read and write.

"Chance."

When you talk of chance you are only confessing ignorance. The very spin of the coin is governed by the nerve, muscle or manipulation of the thumb and brain that spin it. The only chance about it is your ignorance of the forces that lift, twist and catch the coin. If you could calculate the physical and mental forces between the halfpenny's leap and return you might buy the world. But you can't. And it's just that bit of blindness that we have to call chance.—London Chronicle.

WEALTH OF GAS FOR QUEEN CITY

Fields Around Cooksville Said to Be Phenomenal.

MAY BE RICHEST IN CANADA

Oil Expert Cox Who Has Been Investigating Newest Find, Declares That It Is the Best In the Dominion and Will Produce Enough Light and Fuel to Supply Toronto—Company Organized.

Toronto, Jan. 20.—Gas enough to supply the whole city of Toronto with light and fuel, is promised within a very few months by the Toronto Oil and Gas Syndicate, who have leased up many acres of land in West Toronto, Cooksville and Port Credit, and will start drilling in Cooksville today.

A "rig," or drill, has already been set up on A. Roumegous' farm, about 800 yards west of the village, just north of the Dundas road.

To-day Thomas Cox, oil expert and "diviner" of Brantford, with Thomas Bull of Cooksville, will go to Port Credit to lease up more property, with the understanding that drilling will be commenced in that district within 30 days.

After a careful geological survey of the Cooksville district, Mr. Cox, whose original intention was to have confined his operations to West Toronto, is convinced that there is a wonderful field for gas and oil production there.

He received an intimation of this nature during a brief visit to the locality six years ago. While working quietly in West Toronto he bethought himself to re-visit the place Dec. 27, and was as strongly impressed with the indications, that he has since that time organized a strong company, secured enough property rights and raised sufficient capital to see the project to a decisive issue.

Mr. Cox characterizes the deposit as identical with that of Pennsylvania and Ohio. A continuation, deepening and widening of the Trenton strata, as found in shallow layers at Collingwood, Owen Sound, Thornhill and Orillia.

"I am convinced this is the very richest oil and gas field in Canada," declare Mr. Cox yesterday. "Trenton lime is the great gas, and oil rock of American, and we have it here, from 650 to 750 feet in thickness and extra good. Don't be surprised to see enough gas found here to supply the whole city of Toronto with cheap light and fuel."

Stabbed In Barroom Brawl.

Brockville, Jan. 20.—Wm. Scott has been sent up for trial here by the police magistrate of Prescott on a charge of occasioning grievous bodily harm to Clifford Hollingsworth, a Prescott hockeyist. Scott and a companion named Fish were drinking in a hotel when a dispute arose over a glass of whisky. Hollingsworth clinched Fish, and while on the floor, Scott is alleged to have stabbed Hollingsworth across the neck and three times in the face. On slash came within an ace of severing the jugular vein. Scott and Fish belong to Ottawa.

Young Australian Party.

London, Jan. 20.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—According to Australian newspapers, the national committee made the following additions to the party manifesto of the Young Australian National Party:

"Australian citizens to own control and rule the Commonwealth National Government and to acquire the following additional powers: The right to make treaties with any power or nation; right to appoint consuls to any country; an Australian navy, built and manned by Australians and under absolute Australian control; commonwealth legislation, defining citizenship; only Australian citizens to own lands and mines; the abolition of naval subsidy to Britain; the abolition of titular distinctions."

Yellow Immigration.

London, Jan. 20.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Royal Colonial Institute welcomed Lord Northcote, late Governor-General of Australia, at a banquet, Lord Crewe presiding. Lord Northcote remarked on the necessity of viewing the yellow immigration question from an Australian viewpoint, and declared Australia was increasingly protectionist. He urged the necessity of British emigration.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Jan. 19.—Receipts of live stock at the City Market, as reported by the railways, were 120 carloads, consisting of 2087 cattle, 1350 hogs, 1299 sheep and lambs and 88 calves.

Exporters.

Not many export cattle were offered—not more than six loads all told. Choice shipping steers were scarce, and prices for them were firm, ranging from $5 to $5.60, the latter price being obtained by Dunn & Levack for the best load on the market, weighing 1250 lbs. Bulls sold at from $3.75 to $4.75.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots of butchers were very scarce—so scarce that Alexander Levack, who always buys the best, had to buy some of export weights to get the quality he required. For this class of cattle the prices were nearly as high as exporters, ranging from $5 to $5.25, and $5.45 was obtained by Maybee & Wilson for eight cattle, 1230 lbs. each, and Dunn & Levack sold the best heifer on the market, brought in by F. T. Strangway of Tottenham, at $5.50; but there were not more than a load of this class out of the 2087 cattle on sale. Loads of good, $4.50 to $4.80, and this class was not large in number; medium cattle, of which there were many, sold at from $3.65 to $4.10; cows, $3 to $4.25; common cows and canners, $1.50 to $2.60 per cwt.

Feeders and Stockers.

H. & W. Murby report a limited number on sale, with a demand for all on sale, as several farmers were on the market to purchase both feeders and stockers. The Messrs. Murby bought several lots at the following quotations: Feeders, 950 to 1100 lbs., $3.90 to $4.30; feeders, 800 to 950 lbs., $3.50 to $3.90; stockers, 600 to 800 lbs., $3.25 to $3.50 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

The number of milkers and springers on sale was fairly large, well up to the hundred mark. Trade was moderately good, considering that the Montreal buyers were not on the market. In their place were many farmers from the surrounding townships, especially York and Scarboro. Prices ranged at from $30 to $50, with a very few at $60 each.

Veal Calves.

About 100 calves were on sale. Prices for them were firm at $3 to $7 per cwt., with an odd new milk-fed calf now and again going at $7.50.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts were moderate—about 1300—but prices were easier, especially for lambs. Ewes, $4 to $4.50; rams, $3.50 to $4; lambs, $5.50 to $6.35 per cwt.

Hogs.

Mr. Harris reported the market steady, as follows: Selects, $6.50, fed and watered, and $6.25 to drovers f.o.b. cars at country points.

Calves—Receipts, 504; veals quiet, but steady; western calves dull and easier feeling; veals, $5 to $10; Indiana calves, $4 to $6; barnyard calves, $3.75; dressed calves slow; city dressed veals, 8½c to 15c; country dressed, 8c to 14c.

Salt Lake City, Jan. 20.—U. S. Senator Reed Smoot was re-elected yesterday by both Houses voting in separate session.

EVANS IN ENGLAND.

Alleged Sarnia Bigamist Bought Ticket For Liverpool.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 20.—It is reported that Toledo detectives have succeeded in locating Rev. Evan T. Evans, the clergyman who, with a wife and four children living, married Miss Nellie St. Clair Davis, Sarnia, Ont., and disappeared. Evans and Miss Davis lived for several weeks on East 66th street, in Cleveland, in a room rented from O. K. Black, a real estate dealer. Evans engaged the room about Sept. 7, and introduced the woman as his wife. He said that he was taking a vacation and had planned to spend most of it in Cleveland. Evans did not say what his business was, and it was not until the second Sunday that the couple were in the city that he announced himself to be a clergyman. After about two weeks Miss Davis left, Evans explaining that her mother was ill. Ten days later Evans left, saying he was going to London, but would be back again.

From the first Black and his wife feared that there might be something wrong about the couple. Evans went out a great deal and rarely took the girl with him. He was drinking heavily and she scarcely left the room, and when she did her eyes were red as though she had been crying. She was often heard sobbing after Evans had gone out.

The police have found that Evans bought a ticket for Liverpool and have given up their search.

YOU CAN CURE CATARRH
J. H. Taylor, 54 Bond Street, Toronto, Breathed Hyomei and Cured a Long-Standing Case of Chronic Catarrh That Defied All Other Remedies, Also Toronto and New York Specialists.
Without taking a drop of medicine into the stomach, J. H. Taylor, 54 Bond street, Toronto, tells how the distressing troubles of Catarrh were overcome by simply inhaling Hyomei air. It's the history of tens of thousands similar cases on record, proving that Hyomei can be depended upon to cure Catarrh, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Croup. It has no equal for any distress of the breathing organs.
Mr. Taylor says: "Some years ago while on a hunting trip in Northern Canada, I contracted a severe cold that settled in my head and finally affected my throat. It rapidly developed into catarrh and caused a miserable throat weakness. My head would become clogged during the night and there was a catarrhal dropping from the nose into the throat. Many days I had been unable to breathe other than through my mouth, and the constant hawking and spitting was almost unbearable. I had been treated by the best throat specialists here and in New York, but else failed."

Woman May Be Executed.

Albany, N.Y., Jan. 20.—Whether or not Mary Farmer, indicted jointly with her husband, James D. Farmer, and convicted of the murder of Mrs. Sarah Brennan in the town of Mounsfield, near Watertown, on April 23, 1908, will be electrocuted in expiation of the crime, will be decided by the Court of Appeals which yesterday heard argument.

The Farmer and Brennan families were neighbors. One day in April Mrs. Brennan was seen to enter the Farmer home and was never seen alive again. Four days later her mutilated body was found in a big black trunk in the Brennan house, into which the Farmers had moved a day or two after Mrs. Brennan disappeared.

Prejudices Are Withering.

London, Jan. 20.—In an editorial yesterday morning, commenting on President Roosevelt's address at Washington on Monday night, in which he referred to the successful administration of India by the British Government, The Times acknowledges that it is deeply touched by the tribute.

"None of his predecessors," says The Times, "would have ventured such a tribute, and high as President Roosevelt's courage is, he could not have ventured it himself had he not known that the old prejudices cherished among his countrymen were fast withering away."

The majority of the men are desperate characters.

Inexpensive Portfolio.

A portfolio for sketches is made of stout brown wrapping paper, stitched together at one side with close, regularly crossed stitches, and has a flap which fastens over the top. Red water color paint decorates a portfolio on this order used by one artist, the sides and flap being outlined in an Indian border design. The monogram of the owner appears on the front of the portfolio, which costs next to nothing to make.

When Tired Out.

In case of exhaustion alcohol added to the bath is a great invigorator. The most economical way of using it is to have a basin of clear water, and into this put a tablespoonful of the spirits to a quart of cool water. The body is well sponged in this, using the water freely. There will be little danger of taking cold, and the bath will prove to be refreshing and restful.

Wife of a Novelist.

Mrs. Hall Caine is a pretty, soft voiced, frail little woman and is considered a wonderful wife. Not only is she a good housekeeper in her beautiful home, Greeba castle, on the Isle of Man, but when the author of "The Eternal City" travels Mrs. Caine always accompanies him, acting in the capacity of secretary, which role she fills equally well.

His Glasses.

He came home in the small hours of the morning, and his loving spouse confronted him with wrath in her eye and a telegram in her hand, saying, "Here is news that has been waiting for you since supper time."

He blinked, looked wise and, braced up against the hatrack, felt through his pockets, murmuring, "I left my glasses down town."

"Yes," she replied, with scathing irony, "but you brought the contents with you."

Skin Diseases.
A diseased or disfigured skin will always leave its stamp on the mind of the individual. Many people suffering from disfiguring skin diseases avoid society and lose all pride in their personal appearance. When the skin breaks out in eruptions and sores it is due entirely to an impure condition of the blood.
In all such cases Burdock Blood Bitters will quickly purify the blood and drive all the impurities out of the system.
ITCHING RASH CURED.
Mrs. J. J. Magee, Jr., Kinmount, Ont., writes: "In the spring of 1906 I was troubled with a Rash that broke out all over me. It was the worst on my face and head, had a dry, scaly top, and when I would get warm it would become very itchy. I tried the doctor's medicine but it did me no good, so I then got one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and before it was all used the Rash was entirely gone."
SORES ON FACE.
Mrs. Harvey Barkhouse, Gold River, N.S., writes: "I was greatly troubled with Sores on my face and finally became so bad I had to go to the doctor about it, but he could do nothing to help me.
"I thought about Burdock Blood Bitters and decided to try a bottle. I cannot recommend B.B.B. enough, as I had not taken all the bottle before my face was cured."

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.
Peter F. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:
"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

COMBINATION WON FOR PETES IS THE OPINION OF BELLEVILLE PRESS

The Intelligencer says of the game in Belleville—

The Belleville Intermediates went down another peg last night, when they fell before Peterboro 4-2 So far as the championship of a group is concerned, the locals are now out of it, but there is still the cellar championship to be settled Who will get it? Cobourg or Belleville? We'll be able to make a better guess after next Friday night, but one thing is sure; if the same rotten luck the Red and White boys have had all along sticks to them to the finish they will certainly sport the leather medals

There was a good crowd present last night when Referee H F Moxom, of Toronto, started the chopping bee

The shake-up in the Belleville line did not seem to improve matters much Some of the boys showed up well, but most of them seemed to have forgotten nearly all the combination work they ever learned whereas the Peterboros, when they broke away were nearly always three abreast. Belleville was trying all the time, but the Peterboro defence was strong and the best the locals could do was to get one past Derocher, whereas, when half time came the boys from Strattonville had four to their credit

In the second half Belleville took the aggressive at the start and maintained it to the finish They had the best of the play all the way, but the best they could do was to score one, whereas Peterboro scored not at all, the final score being 4-2 in the visitor's favour It was hard luck for the home team With average good fortune they should have tied the score and won out, but Derocher had horseshoes all over him Individually the locals showed up well, but need more combination work

The Ontario says of the game:—

Despite the strong determination of the Belleville Intermediate hockey team to reverse the verdict which the Peterborough team obtained against them in last Friday night's match at the Electric City, the swing of victory was still against the locals, and the spell of ill-luck which has rested on Belleville's hockey players remained unbroken. The record so far is that no Belleville team has won an O.H.A. match, even on their own ice, this season.

There was a good attendance at the game, despite the extreme cold, and there was no lack of enthusiasm, particularly among the ladies.

Very soon after the game commenced it was apparent that Peterborough was playing the better combination, although the locals were playing a strong game individually and the work of both teams and the checking were of a strenuous character. First to go off was a Peterborough man, and that the play was clean was evidenced by the fact that but two of the visitors and one local man were sent outside the fence.

ST. ANDREW'S BEAT KNOX IN EXCITING CITY CHURCH LEAGUE GAME

Between 300 and 400 people attended the Senior Church League game at the Park street rink last night when St. Andrew's strengthened their hold on the top rung of the league race by defeating Knox church in a hang up battle by 2 to 1. It was about the best game yet seen in the League and the fans were aroused to fever heat as the puck travelled from one end of the rink to the other in quick succession. A feature of the game was the fact that Rev. H J Keith donned skates and played point for his team, doing excellent work upon the defence. At half time St. Andrew's were ahead 1—0 and they succeeded in scoring again in the second half. The last goal of the game went to Knox church. Bartley of Knox who had his eye cut open and who was wearing a bandage over the injured optic, secured the rubber at his own goal and carried it through the whole St. Andrew's team for the most brilliant counter of the night. The stars for the winners were Flannagan at cover and Rae on the forward line. The teams lined up as follows:

WARAM HAD GREAT SCORE; EXAMINER "B'S" DOUBLE-HEADER

Some of the best bowling of the season was witnessed at the P. B. C. last night, the feature being the record breaking work of Billy Waram, of the Belmonts, and the appearance on the alleys of Alex. Johnston, a member of the champion Royal Canadian team of Toronto, and one of the oldest bowlers in the province. Johnston has never before rolled on regulation alleys in Peterborough, but despite his strange surroundings he put up a series of 200 scores in practice games against Geo. Cairns, Fred Fryer, another Toronto bowler, Billy Waram, Martin and others.

The best work of the night was done in the game between the Examiner B and Belmonts, when Waram ran up a score of 254, which breaks Herb Martin's league record, which has stood since early in the season, by 18 pins. Waram started out with six straight strikes, made a split spare on his seventh, two more strikes, then a spare on his tenth, followed by a strike. For his three games he had a total of 596, which is only four pins below the league record for three consecutive strings.

The Examiner B's played a double header during the evening, losing two to the Belmonts and winning the same number from the Frontenacs, Dela Fosse being high man in both contests.

RETURNS OF LINDSAY MATCH TO BE GIVEN AT CITY LEAGUE GAMES

The City League games to-morrow night will no doubt be appreciated by the fans who will not be able to go to Lindsay with the Intermediate team. There is a splendid bill ready for the patrons and an interesting night's support is assured. A feature will be a bulletin service giving the details of the game in Lindsay as the goals are scored. This will be appreciated by those who can not get away to see the game themselves and the rink will no doubt be a popular place to-morrow night as an excellent service will be given.

The Belmonts and T A S will clash in the first game of the double header and the former announce that they are through losing and intend to take a fall out of Manager Deannard's aggregation to morrow night. The Abstainers however cannot see it that way. In any event there will be a lively battle.

Lakefield and the West Ends play the second game and an interesting struggle should be the result. The boys from the shadow of Jackson Park count upon putting the Indian sign on Lakefield and if the youngsters show the form they have displayed in practice, Leo Quinn's bunch will have troubles of their own. The West Ends have three of the junior O H A team on their line up and for fixture which precedes the double header will be run and walk which will take a lot of beating. The junior will be between George st and the T. A. S. Juniors.

HOCKEY

Belleville intermediates have notified the O. H. A. secretary that they intend to default their remaining games.

They are out of the running, but if Lindsay want them to play they are willing to go there for a return game.

• • • •

With Belleville dropping out of the district the race has narrowed down practically to a battle between Lindsay and Peterborough, and tomorrow's big game in Scugogville will have a great effect upon the standing. Giving the Belleville games not played as victories the standing of the district is as follows:

	Won.	Lost	To Play
Lindsay	4	0	2
Peterborough	2	0	4
Osbourne	2	2	2
Belleville	0	6	0

Chinese and Europeans.

Europe knew next to nothing of China or its people prior to the conquests of the famous Genghis Khan The commotion raised by that monster made Europeans somewhat acquainted with "Far Cathay," as China was then called. It was about the year 1300, or possibly a trifle earlier, that the first Chinese made their appearance in Europe. The first commercial intercourse between Europe and China dates from about the year 1330.

Politically Speaking.

"Shall I see your father?"

"Oh, no," said the politician's daughter. "Necessary to a choice, one."

"Then I am the groom elect?"

"You are. And, Harold"—

"Yes, dear."

"I shall expect you to keep some of these pre-election promises you've been making."

In Doubt.

Waiter—Tea or coffee, sir? Guest—Well, if that was tea you gave me yesterday, bring coffee; if it was coffee, bring me tea, and if it was a mixture of tea and coffee I think I'll try chocolate.

HIS LIFE FOR A HAND.

An English Legend of the Time of the Crusaders.

In a little town or village in Gloucestershire there is a church which contains the mortal remains of one of the old crusaders. In moldering effigy he is depicted on the tomb, while by his side in cold eloquence is imaged the form of his wife. It will be noticed by even the casual observer that the female image is bereft of one of the hands, and the story runs that the crusader while fighting in the east was made a prisoner of war and brought before Saladin, who, before executing judgment upon him, asked him if there was any reason why he should not be put to death. To this the knight replied that he was but young and would leave a newly wedded wife, who would bitterly mourn his loss.

"The love of woman is as a fleeting breath," retorted the sultan. "Your wife will forget that you have ever lived; she will love again and marry another." To this the sad knight could only reply that on her fidelity he could rest his soul. "Well, then," replied Saladin, "I will promise on my oath as a soldier that if this man's wife will cut off one of her hands and send it to me I will set him free to go to her." By tedious and slow journeyings the message came, and she, in all piteousness for him who was her lover and her lord, caused her hand to be cut off and sent it to the sultan who kept his word and set the crusader free.—London Notes and Queries.

RISE OF DIALECT.

Source of the Expressions "Stig 'im!" and "Sick 'Em!"

When a boy in some parts of New England has occasion to set his dog upon any one or anything he exclaims as a rule: "Stig 'im! Stig 'im!" The New York boy or the boy of the west generally says: "Sick 'em! Sick 'em!" To the western boy the command "Stig 'im!" sounds absurd; it provokes his laughter. But his own command is equally amusing to the New England boy.

This little difference illustrates the beginning of local dialect. Probably neither boy thinks of the exact meaning of what he says. He is merely repeating words he has heard otherwise, which he is sure, from their frequent repetition, that the dog will understand.

The boy who says "Sick 'em!" is repeating a corruption only one degree removed of the words "Seek him!" which are a very old command.

"Stig 'im!" is a corruption one degree further removed from its original than "Sick 'em!" It began with "Take him!" which was varied by the use of "so" before it—"So take him!" From this to "S' take him!" was an easy step, and the more easily pronounced "Stig 'im!" was the next corruption.

A Perfect Chicken Pie.

Cut into pieces one chicken. Boil in enough water until tender, adding, when half done, one teaspoonful salt. Take out the chicken, keep warm and thicken the liquid with one tablespoonful each of flour and butter rubbed together, add salt and pepper to taste and boil five minutes. Take one quart of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a little salt and one cup of butter and mix as for biscuit. Take half, roll a fourth of an inch and line a dish, leaving an inch over the sides to turn over the upper crust. Put in the chicken, pour over gravy, cover with the upper crust, with a large hole in the center for steam to escape, wet the edge and fold over the upper crust and press firmly together. Spread soft butter over the top and bake about two hours in a moderate oven.

SHOES AND STOCKINGS.

A Way by Which Their Lasting Qualities May Be Increased.

While your shoes are new or before the soles are much worn apply with a small brush several coats of linseed oil, letting it dry in well each time before reapplying. The oil acts much the same on the leather as it does on wood, and if the applications of oil are repeated frequently the sole may be preserved intact indefinitely.

It sounds unreasonable to talk of preserving hosiery to any appreciable extent, but it may be done. The oftener hosiery is washed the longer it will last. By washing I do not necessarily mean the ordinary laundry method, which is calculated to fade and rot the fiber. Really, to preserve hosiery it must have personal supervision. Stockings should never be worn longer than one day. They should then be rinsed in lukewarm water with a few drops of ammonia in it, dried and worn without ironing. This repeated wetting of the fiber keeps it so firm and strong that it will not break at the points of greatest distension. This treatment applies to cotton, lisle thread and silk hosiery. If you will treat your new hose this way from the beginning, you need darn but very little. Of course in time all hosiery, however expensive or strong, will succumb to wear, but the above method of treatment will double the lasting qualities.

THE LETTER THAT KILLETH.

Trifling Errors That Have Had Big Results in Court.

It is on record that Lord Denman established great reputation at the bar by securing an acquittal in a famous case on the ground that a certain firm described in the indictment as "proprietors of a silk and cotton lace manufactory" should have been described as "proprietors of a silk and of a cotton lace manufactory," it having been ascertained that they made both silk and cotton lace.

In 1827 a judge quashed an inquisition for murder because it was referred to the jurors as "on their oaths" instead of "on their oath."

In yet another case the judge held that the omission of the word "ewe" was sufficient to invalidate a conviction because the word "ewe" as well as "sheep" was used in the statute.

In 1841 Lord Cardigan was indicted for firing on Captain Tucket in a duel. He was acquitted because the captain's Christian names were wrongly entered in the indictment.

In another case about the same period a legal document was invalidated because the letters A. D. were used instead of the words "In the year of our Lord."—Westminster Review.

Bats in a Bedroom.

An army of bats invaded the bedroom of a rectory in Dorsetshire, and from every part of the room they could be heard plunging against mirrors and glasses, knocking against the ceiling, while too often to be pleasant one would hit against the head of the bed. The rector struck a match and lit a candle. This served to attract the creatures nearer to that particular part of the room in which the bed was placed. Then the reverend gentleman placed the candle near an open window, only to find that other bats began to come in, so that it was impossible to count how many there were in the room. Another plan was tried. All the curtains were drawn aside and the east window opened wide. The light was put out, and the visitors gradually dispersed.—London Standard.

Yawning Fish.

The mouth of the turbot is twisted to one side, rather as if it had belonged to a round fish which some one had accidentally trod on and squashed half flat. The yawn begins at the lips, which open as if to suck in water. Then the jaws become distended, and it is seen that this is going to be a real, genuine fish's yawn. But the yawn goes on, works through the back of its head, distending the plates of the skull, and comes out at the gills, which, open, show the red inside and are inflated for a moment, and then, with a kind of stretching shiver of its back, the fish flattens out again. — London Mail.

Originality Needed.

To revive an old style of building, no matter how well it may be done, does nothing to advance the art of building. It would at the best be but a copy of an old work. Painters copy old masters for the purpose of study, but copying pictures will never make a painter's reputation. Something new must be achieved, some original work executed, before any advance in art is possible. So it is with architecture.—Country Home.

OUR HERITAGE.

Some of our days to come may show of strife,
Others perchance would be suffused
with light,
If panoramic view of future life
Would but unfold itself to mortal sight.

Coming catastrophies and burdens great,
Mountains of pain and hardship,
that we'd see,
Would tend to darken all our present state
If such prophetic thing should ever be.

Over the one who gives up in despair,
Unknown or known, these hardships ever lay.
Like lowering clouds over a landscape
fair,
That hide the beauty of the present day.

Mountains seem mole-hills to our strengthened feet,
And pitfalls but a shortened step if we
To our guide and amulet will truly keep,
Shedding sunshine through Faith,
Hope and Charity.

THE PRAIRIE CHICKEN.

Something About the Game Bird of the Western Plains.

One of the most familiar denizens of the vast prairies of Northwest Canada is the prairie chicken, which provides at the same time sport and food for the settler and his family. Though their numbers must have been very appreciably thinned of late years, prairie chicken are still to be found in their thousands all over the park-like lands of the Territories. This sporting bird, when fully matured, is of about the same size as our domestic hen, but his contour is somewhat different. His legs are shorter, and he has a more squat appearance. The plumage is quite thick, of a greyish brown hue on the back, and approaching white on the breast. Male and female are very similar in appearance, but the former has a small tuft on his head. Legally, one is not allowed to shoot chicken save between Sept. 15 and Dec. 15, and, in addition, the law says that not more than twenty may be killed in one day by the individual, nor above a hundred during the whole season. These birds have considerable powers of flight, and the "gunner" must discharge at once, for in a few seconds the chicken will have whirred speedily a quarter of a mile away into the next section, and may never be seen again. The old birds rear half a dozen or so of downy chicks, which later on prove dainty eating when properly cooked. May the day be far distant when we have to count the prairie chicken as one of the things that have been!

One Pioneer Left.

Ninety-six years ago last August there landed on the banks of the Red river a little band of Scotch Highlanders, the vanguard of the Selkirk settlers. Other shiploads followed during the next few years. Many explorers, missionaries, hunters and adventurers had entered the country before them, but these were the earliest settlers, the very first white men that came to what is now Western Canada to establish homes, to possess the land and till the soil. The death in Toronto a few days ago of John Mackay, at the age of ninety-four, leaves one survivor of the original Selkirk settlers now living, Miss Matheson, the aunt of the Archbishop. This venerable lady, who resides near St. Andrews, was born on the Atlantic, during the four months' voyage of the Haddow, the ship which in 1815 brought out one of the parties of the Selkirk settlers. How important an event the founding of the Selkirk settlement was, the world is only now beginning to realise; and as years go on, the memory of those heroic pioneers will be held in ever greater honor.—Manitoba Free Press.

Haunts of Bruin.

As a big game district the Squamish Valley in British Columbia is getting a reputation this fall and winter that bids fair to outclass even that of the Kootenay and Atlin districts—at least for bear and deer-shooting. To many people the fact that there are grizzly bears in the Squamish Valley will come as a surprise. But it is true, nevertheless, and the hides of two grizzlies are in Vancouver right now as proof. One is of a she bear that weighed over 500 pounds, the other one of her cubs, and tipped the scales at 220 pounds. The cub's coat is in fine condition, but there was a lot of long, unshed, last season's hair on the older bear. The nimrods who got these two intend organizing a party soon and going back to the same locality, where it is believed several other grizzly cubs and the mate of the she bear may be secured.

Since last fall considerably over one hundred black bear have been killed in the comparatively limited area of the lower Squamish Valley. This is no "bear story," but a statement that well-known Squamish residents say can be proved by actual figures.

The Northern Mail.

The other day a trusted agent of the Hudson Bay Co. left Edmonton with the winter's mail for points in the Far North. This mail is destined for Fort McPherson, on Peel River, and intermediate points. An Edmonton man will drive north to Lac La Biche with the mail.

It will then be placed in the hands of an experienced northern traveler, who will take it north to Fort Resolution by dog train. From there another man will proceed with the balance of the mail to Fort McPherson. The whole 2,000 mile trip to Fort McPherson will occupy three months. When the mail was weighed at the Edmonton postoffice, it was found that there were thirty pounds of registered mail, thirty-seven pounds of ordinary letters, and 886 pounds of newspapers and magazines, making a total of 953 pounds. This was the largest mail ever prepared for the north at one time.

An Eye Closer.

Griggs—I say, old man, what's good for insomnia? I haven't closed my eyes for five nights. Colonel—You want to have a boxing match. The first time I tried it, I remember, my eyes were closed for a fortnight.

COSTUME SUPPER.

Guests Come in Character and Act It During the Evening.

An old fashioned supper, served at 8 o'clock by candlelight, makes an interesting change from conventional dinners.

Ask your guests to come informally and in old fashioned attire. The women will don their grandmothers' clothes for such an occasion and look lovely.

A man, alas, usually hates "dressing up," but suggest that he wear a jabot of lace over his immaculate white, stiff bosomed shirt and sew lace ruffles in his sleeves, and he will be pleased with his appearance at once. But, mind, this is only in confidence in case one or two truly object. Otherwise beg them to come in the picturesque, romantic dress of long ago.

It adds greatly if the guests come in character and act it throughout the evening. But it must be borne in mind that the guests must not number more than twelve or fourteen if a single table is to be used. The chance for real fun and informality lies in a small party. If a large costume supper be given the small tables should be used.

Have no light but candlelight, always the most becoming, and a bare table. A large bowl of old fashioned flowers may adorn the middle of the table on a plain linen centerpiece, showing as little as possible.

Large wooden plates of bread cut thickly, butter made into small flat pats, dishes of apples and nuts and homemade candies complete the table furnishing. Coffee and tea should be served by the hostess, the guests helping to pass the cups.

For the supper:

Broiled Oysters on Toast.
Broiled Chicken and Sausage.
Baked Potatoes. Apple Sauce.
Cold Slaw. Corn Bread.
Vegetable Salad.
Hot Waffles, with Sirup.

After supper the guests may enjoy old fashioned games, either quiet or romping, and in the middle of the evening, if an open fire is available, popping corn is a simple pleasure, and while eating it hot lemonade may be served.

TAX RATE THIS YEAR MAY BE 20 MILLS

Ald. Bradburn Was Heard to Say That He Believed It Would be That High.

While it is early yet to think of taxes still it may be stated that at the meeting of the Board of Works last night more than once was it stated that the rate this year would probably be in the neighbourhood of 20 mills. Ald. Bradburn was one of those who was figuring it out at this rate and great emphasis is being placed upon economising in order to keep the rate as low as possible this year above all others. The school rate it was said, would probably take up practically half of the 20 mills, and at this going, other things will likely be scrimped. Of course the Finance Committee has not prepared the estimates and the matter is really in a very embryo form, but the general feeling is that the rate will be 20 mills and it was even stated that it was possible that this might be exceeded.

BOARD OF WORKS DECIDES TO HAVE PLANS PREPARED FOR CHEAPER BRIDGE AT SMITH ST.

Considerable Business Transacted at First Meeting of the Year—Romaine Street Sewer Will be Touched, Not Yet, But Soon.

BY-LAW OUT AGAIN.

The first meeting of the Board of Works was held last night with a full attendance. The following were present—Ald. Phelan, chairman; Ald. Bradburn, Buller, Gillespie, McIntyre Turner and Duncan.

As a curtain-raiser Ald. Phelan took the opportunity of expressing the hope that the meetings would be characterized by the same spirit of harmony as was evidenced last year and that a successful business term would be the result.

The Board endorsed the movement made at the last meeting in 1908 to give Rev. Father Kielty of Douro, $20 in consideration of an injury his horse had sustained on Dufferin st.

Also that Mr. Wm. Logan be given $30 instead of $50 which he had demanded on account of loss of business occasioned by the building of the bridge over the creek at Brock street. He averaged his loss at $15 a week and it had continued through six weeks.

The offer from Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald to sell to the city 19 feet of his property fronting on Benson st and which had been accepted, was ratified. This will enable the city to widen Benson street to 66 feet and the chairman stated that by the sale of gravel taken out in the work they could pay for the purchase of this strip of property.

That Brigade

The Smith street bridge question was taken down from the shelf upon which it had been placed by the vote of the ratepayers at the municipal elections. It was stated that this by-law had been defeated for the reason that the people were not acquainted with it. It had not been placed before the electors in a comprehensive manner and hence they had turned it down, thinking that the Street Railway Company were to derive some great benefit from it.

The Aldermen talked over the style of bridge that they would build. First and above all from present appearances it must be cheap. At any rate the $49,000 kind is not to be thought of, so the general opinion showed itself. "They want shoddy" one of the aldermen said, "we had better give them what they want." Engineer Hay was present and was asked to prepare a design for a cheap bridge. The idea is that this bridge will be built at as low a sum as possible. The modern structure that had been designed apparently has to go. One of the aldermen advised that to save expense a foot walk on the north side be dispensed with and other scrimpings will bring down the cost. No step has been decided yet but when the new plans are ready a move will then be made at least it will likely be made.

By-law No. 2

Another ghost was marched out from the cupboard in the earthly remains of what might have been a by-law to provide for the raising of money to pay for street extensions and filling in the water front. This went down in the same holocaust as the bridge proposition. This work has already been done and unless it is paid for by debenture it will be put on the general rate to be paid by tax, after considerable discussion it was moved by Ald. Bradburn and Duncan that the by-law be again submitted to the people and that steps be taken to explain it to every ratepayer.

Romaine Street Sewer

Nothing will eventuate in the near future regarding the Romaine street sewer. That is the present outlook. Caution is the byword at present as far as that undertaking is concerned. It was decided to take no steps in regard to it until a report was received from Mr. W. Chapman, who has appointed Mr. Bartlett to survey a part of the city for the purpose of ascertaining the feasibility of a trunk outfall sewer on Park street. If it should be that this is possible it was stated that it might be better to make the Romaine street sewer connect with that. Hence until such a report has been made there will be nothing done with the Romaine st. sewer.

Ald. Phelan and the City Clerk will go over last year's file cutting out the dead wood as it were, in order that the slate will be clean at the beginning of the year. There are a few things on it that have to receive attention, for instance the cement sidewalk on Wolfe street, which Ald. Buller is again going to take care of. It is for the benefit of the congregation of Knox Church and was to have been built last summer but came in late and was therefore not built.

AN EMPLOYEE OF GAS WORKS WAS OVERCOME WHILE AT WORK TO-DAY

Robert Weatherhead, an employee of the gas company, was overcome by the fumes this morning when working at a pipe on Charlotte street, near the White House, which had been bared in order to find a leak. The odour of gas had been noticeable for several days and the work of searching for the leak was begun yesterday afternoon. After receiving assistance from those who were with him and others who were near, he was able to stand on his feet with the aid of one of the other men. He was assisted around the corner to the City Hotel, where, after resting an hour or so, he was able to leave the place practically recovered from the poisonous fumes.

NOT MUCH EXCITEMENT OVER THE FIRST SESSION OF PARLIAMENT

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 21—The first session of the eleventh parliament of Canada was opened to-day with the usual ceremony. The day was none too bright, and there was not a great deal of excitement save among those immediately concerned. A detachment of dragoons escorted the Governor General from Government House to Parliament House, where His Excellency was received by a guard from the Governor General's Foot Guards. Meanwhile a salute of nineteen guns boomed out from Point Nepean. Earl Grey read the speech from the Throne in the Senate chamber. Fair ladies and officials of Church and State in their robes of office, making a brilliant tableau.

Will Oppose The Extension Of The Street Railway's Time

Peterborough street railway interests was one of the items that concerned the Board of Works last night. In the first place their patience with the P. R. R. Co. has become exhausted and they have decided to oppoose the application that will be made to the Legislature in May. They are asking that the time allowed for running their line to Lakefield and Young's Point be extended. They have already received one extension, which will be terminated in May, and they will then go back and ask that it be again extended.

The members of the Board of Works feel that the time is ripe for action and the railway company should show their hand. The city will therefore take steps to have the company begin work this year. The aldermen simply want the work commenced during the coming year. The delay has been long enough, they state, and the new lines should be gone under way.
